In Search Of The Right Financial Planner

(Prepared by the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants).

Susan and Brett both work full-time, are avid travelers and have three active children. It's been a year since they received a sizable inheritance from Susan's father but, because of their busy schedules and distaste for financial matters, the entire sum has been left sitting in their checking account.

Dawn, a talented sculptor with an income approaching six figures, doesn't know the difference between a growth stock and a convertible bond and has no idea why everyone's been talking about tax reform.

What do these people have in common? It is very likely that each could benefit from the services of an experienced financial planner, advises the Michigan Association of CPAs.

But Susan, Brett, and Dawn, like many other people are not sure what financial planning is all about and just how a financial planner can help them.

Put very simply, personal financial planning is a process in which a person takes financial control of his or her life. Instead of drifting along, making a financial decision here and there along the way, a person with a financial plan becomes educated about finances and able to focus and take control of the financial aspects of his life.

Although the financial planning process has many components and involves many steps, it may be thought of in terms of three simple questions.

Where do I (or we) stand now? Where do I want to go? How am I going to get there? If you think of the first question as being a Point A and the second question as being Point B, the financial planning process is the way you get from Point A to Point B. In effect it provides the answer to question three - a road map of sorts.

While the actual planning process is unique for each individual, the elements are standard. The first step involves the gathering of all relevant financial data which provides the background for the process.

Next, the financial planner will work with you to identify your financial goals and objectives.

This decision must be well thought out because it provides the foundation upon which your plan is formulated. Do you need to plan for your children's college education? Are you concerned about your retirement income?

After an analysis of your financial data, your attitudes toward money, and your goals and objectives, the financial planner is in a position to develop recommendations on how you can accomplish your financial goals.

Once the financial plan is complete and agreed to by all parties involved, it is time to coordinate the implementation of the plan. Together, you and your financial planner can determine who should execute the various recommendations in your plan. If your plan calls for more life insurance, an agent can be contacted, while a securities broker may be called upon to help select recommended investments. If you will need to be updated, an attorney may be required.

Lastly, it is important to think of the personal financial plan as a process and not a product. The financial plan is an ongoing commitment -- it doesn't have an end. And it should be reviewed on a regular basis. Any number of changes in your life (births, marriage, illness) and in the economy (inflation rate, major tax code changes, etc.) could necessitate a change in your financial plan.

If putting a financial plan together sounds like quite an undertaking to you, you're right. It is a complex matter but one that is sure to benefit you and your financial situation. And by turning to the right financial planner to guide you through the planning process, you can make the experience a financially rewarding one.

There are a number of factors you'll want to consider in selecting a financial planner. First and foremost, you'll want to carefully check the financial planner's competence and experience. A financial planner should have a working knowledge of all areas of financial planning -- from taxes to cash flow, from investments to retirement planning.

Next, you'll want to give serious thought to the payment arrangement you will feel most comfortable with. There are basically three ways financial planners charge: fee-only, commission-only and fee-plus-commission.

Commission-only financial planners produce a plan free of charge but collect a sales commission on many of the products they recommend you but, with this method you may never feel quite certain whether the suggested recommendations are in the best interests of you or the planner.

On the other hand, fee-only planners, such as CPAs, charge only for the service itself. They may be the most objective since they charge a flat fee usually based on an hourly rate and receive no commissions.

A hybrid, the fee-plus-commission planner charges a set amount for the plan and also sells on commission some or all of the products the plan recommends.

It is essential to discuss, in detail, the entire process (including costs) of how the plan will be developed and implemented with any planners you are considering.

Review the planner's track record, the number of years he/she has been in business as a financial planner, and how well you trust the judgement of the person who recommended him/her. Your selection of a financial planner should be based on the planner's objectivity, competence and experience in personal financial planning.

Your financial success in the future may very well depend on the actions you take today. So give careful thought to preparing a financial plan with the right financial planner.

Emanuel United Church of Christ Listed In Register of Historical Places

The Michigan Historical Commission is pleased to announce that the Emanuel German Evangelical Church, Manchester, Michigan, Washtenaw County, has been listed in the State Register of Historic Places.

Emanuel Evangelical United Church of Christ in a rectangular, gable-roofed, wood-trimmed and limestone Late Victorian Gothic brick building, which is topped by a square, centrally-positioned, louvered belfry, and is crowned by a soaring 156 foot high pyramidal roofed steeple. The front facade has a gabled ornament and flanking side posts, above which is a stone marker recessed in brick. Pointed arch windows flank front and side facades, capped by brick trim hood moulds.

Emanuel Evangelical Church was founded in 1862 jointly with Bethel Evangelical. The first supply pastor was Reverend T. G. Hildner. For the next two decades members met for prayer and worship services at each other's homes. On February 4, 1882, at a special meeting, the congregation voted to erect a new church building of brick construction. Frederick and Michael Schaible, owners of a nearby brickyard, donated the clay brick to build the church. Architect Arthur Carl Schmidt of Detroit drafted the plans. A cornerstone was laid on July 9, 1882, and the sanctuary was dedicated for religious worship on December 10, 1882. Emanuel United Church of Christ, has historical note as

Birds A Benefit To Farmers

There Are One Hundred Species Of Birds In The State Of Michigan

Manchester Enterprise July 27, 1922

Michigan has always been a favorite resort for birds, or was up to about 40 years ago, when not only our people but poachers from other states came here and made havoc in the roosting and nesting places of pigeons, prairie chickens and other game birds, completely annihilating the pigeons and perhaps would have wiped out other birds had not our legislature seen the wisdom of enacting protective laws before it was too late.

Those who have made a study of migratory birds declare that there is a gradual increase in the number of birds in the state during the past 10 years or more.

Approximately 100 varieties of birds are common in Michigan, the greater number of them being of the migratory variety, according to James Smith of Detroit. Of this number nearly half are some species of warblers. The list does not include countless other varieties that come here but numbers of which are so small as to be uncommon to Michigan residents.

Mr. Smith announces himself as a friend of all birds because of their economic value to the farmer directly and to the city dweller indirectly. He estimates that each bird of certain varieties, chiefly the martins and swallows, destroy as many as 2,000 insects daily as they are almost constantly on the wing. Other birds eat hundreds of insects and harmful worms and bugs daily, he has learned through personal observation.

"When one considers the rapidity with which insects multiply the value of the birds in killing the adult pests and thus keeping down the numbers becomes apparent," the ornithologist said. "The world would become untenable for humans because of the insects if it were not for the work of the birds." Mr. Smith is a friend of the English sparrow and declares that he does much good in destroying weed seeds and insects. We are glad to see the great increase in bob-whites, or quail, in Michigan. They are particularly plentiful in this section. An attempt has been made to increase the number of pheasants. They are a beautiful bird but hunters can't seem to resist the temptation to shoot them when an opportunity presents itself.

Among the birds living in Michigan throughout the year are: Quail, ruffed grouse, blue-jays, meadow larks, flickers, downy and hairy woodpeckers, song sparrows, goldfinches, chickadees. Some of them remain hidden during the winter.

Some hardy birds that spend the summer far north and come here during the winter are tree and white-throated sparrows, pine grosbeak, crossbills, creepers; but some of these do not visit the lower peninsula of Michigan. Many birds that migrate as far as South America to spend the winter are lost when crossing the Gulf of Mexico on their return in the spring. The winds carry them far out of their course and sweep them into the sea. But scores of birds go no farther than the southern states and some change their plumage so that they are scarcely recognized by northern people wintering there. We have heard several mention this fact.

Everybody should be a friend of the birds, but the farmers should protect them as much as possible, as they surely are a great benefit to them.

No 4th Of July Fireworks

The Manchester Mens Club is still planning to celebrate July 4th just as big as ever at Carr Park. We simply cannot afford to pay for the cost of the required 5 million dollars liability insurance coverage and the cost of the fireworks. We expect to have activities (dancing, beer tent, etc.) throughout the day and into the evening.

Brad Frey and "Hindsight" Band has been hired for the evening. This being the Michigan Sesquicentennial year, we are asking any individuals or organizations for ideas and help to make this 150th year something to remember. Please contact any of the Mens Club Board members listed below to share your ideas. We will be happy to pursue any suggestions that we receive.

We would like to sincerely thank everyone that tried so hard this year to help us put on the fireworks.

The last thing you need when you're over 55, is a problem paying for your car insurance.

Age has its rewards. Sometimes. It does with Auto-Owners. They give good drivers age 55 or older a discount. So instead of raising your premiums or reducing your coverage you may pay a little less for your auto insurance. Auto-Owners respects maturity and a good driving record. Just ask your "no problem" Auto-Owners agent how he can save you money on your car insurance. When you hear the news, you'll be glad you've got a few years behind you.

Soil Conservationist Visits 7th Grade Science Classes

Students in Mr. Boyce's Science classes recently had a chance to learn about no-till farming when Dennis Rice of the Washtenaw Soil Conservation District visited the classes to explain the no-till farming method and identify some of the benefits and problems that are associated with this method of growing crops. Mr. Rice brought slides of the Washtenaw County area which showed cropland being prepared for planting, cropland being planted and crops growing in fields where both conventional tillage and no-till methods were used.

The students learned that some of the benefits of no-till include reduced erosion, lower fuel cost, and less labor to prepare the seedbed. Some students expressed concern about chemicals from farmland contaminating groundwater supplies. Mr. Rice agreed that it was a serious concern but also pointed out that many farm chemicals break down quickly which reduces their potential harm to the environment.

No-till acres have increased over the last several years but the vast majority of our food is grown on conventionally tilled fields. The students are looking forward to a presentation on organic farming which will give a different view on methods for producing food.

Common School Calendar For County Schools

A committee composed of representatives from all Washtenaw County school districts has developed a common school calendar for 1987-88 and is recommending its adoption by all districts.

The recommended calendar calls for a uniform starting time, Tuesday, September 1, 1987, and schedules a winter break from December 21, 1987 through January 2, 1988, with a spring break scheduled for March 28 through April 1, 1988.

The calendar calls for the last day of school for students on Thursday, June 9, 1988 with the understanding that some districts might need to schedule Friday, June 10th or additional time the following week to make up for emergency closings which may occur.

The major reason for developing a common calendar recommendation is the increasing amount of cooperation among the ten local districts in Washtenaw County and the intermediate school district.

Significant numbers of students are attending cooperative programs in vocational education and special education which cross district lines. When the various school calendars don't coincide, those students either miss instruction or are required to attend school when other family members and friends are on vacation. Local districts also sometimes find themselves closed for a vacation period but operating a transportation program for certain students who are receiving instruction outside the school district boundaries.

The recommended calendar has been submitted to all districts in Washtenaw County as they develop their calendars for 1987-88.

For further information, contact the Washtenaw Intermediate School District, 313-994-8181.

Hit or Miss

by farley

We are spending sixty billion dollars a year on fast food the government says and so they appointed a committee to investigate at a cost of some twenty or twenty five thousand dollars to find out just what we are getting for your money and in just what form we are getting it. Now I just don't know that if I hanker for a hamburger with all the trimmings or a fish sandwich or a baked potato, I would whip out my book and check each item's calories before I ate but it is a good idea to know so here goes.

Michael Jacobson, executive director of the Center For Science In The Public Interest and Sarah Fritschneider decided to compile the Fast Food Guide (Workman-$4.95).

As a part of their analysis of the quick service cuisine, the authors came up with a "gloom index", this grades food on the basis of fat, sugar and sodium they contain so the lower the score the better the authors say. Applying their standards the surveyors have named the best and the worst fast foods in certain categories. Wendy's offers the best salad bar. It scores a scant four glooms if you use the low calorie dressing. D'Lite has the best hamburger-they are an eastern chain-and their Junior D'Delite has but nine glooms. Wendy's chicken sandwich on a multi colored bread contains fifteen glooms while Arthur Treacher's broiled fish has fifteen. Roy Roger's roast beef sandwich had seventeen.

Now for the hall of shame. The offering highest in fat comes from Wendy's where the triple cheeseburger checks in at a whopping eighty five glooms. "The most compromised food" Arby's de luxe potato scored forty four glooms.

The highest number of glooms 1040, are packed into a Dairy Queen's 40 gloom large chocolate malt. The most sodium loaded entry is Roy Roger's large roast beef with cheese as a gloomer. In the category "most in appropriately processed are chicken nuggets from McDonald's, these entries are injected with ground up chicken skin the authors say, making them to be crowned with a total of 28 glooms. There are many other local chains with similar ratings such as Burger King, White Tower, and even Boomer's but their gloom total is similar to the others.

This is truly the electronic age. We have electronic preachers, electronic musical instruments, and many other electronic gadgets many of which add greatly to our way of life and some of which are at times confusing. For instance: Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Mathias, friends of ours, who live in Toledo area came home one night not long ago and found the television set in the bedroom turned on. They were certain that it wasn't on when they left the house.

While they investigated their pup Jock raced into the room and jumped onto the bed to greet them. As he barked his greeting the television set went off. They solved the mystery, the TV set is connected with a device that turns off the set with a clap of the hands. While the pup's bark normally doesn't affect the device when he's on the bed it will turn it off and on.

Then too, down the road a piece a family recently installed an automatic garage door opener with the remote control button in the car which works very nicely with only one exception. While it's nice during stormy weather it is rather disconcerting in another way.

Traffic on the road in front of their house is heavy, especially with trucks during the night and there is evidently one truck which passes there once a week or so which has air horns which are tuned to the same frequency as the door opener for every now and then this truck passes near this home and honks its horns, the garage on this particular house pops open necessitating the man of the house getting up and closing the door.

Manchester Area Historical Society

The Manchester Area Historical Society held its regular monthly meeting on Monday, May 18, at the Blacksmith Shop.

The plans for Heritage Day to be held on Thursday, July 16, were reviewed. The gazebo will be dedicated, Attorney General Frank Kelley will make some appropriate remarks, a pipe and drum band will play, and early crafts such as wool carding and spinning, candlemaking, and pottery making will be demonstrated. Everyone is encouraged to wear clothing of the type worn in the 1830s.

The program consisted of a preview of the videotape of the Manchester area during 1986. It includes Roger Morrison's last concert with the Varsity Choir, the ice cream social at Zion Lutheran Church at Rogers Corners, the buffalo operation on the Charlie Sullivan Farm on Lehman Road, Whipoorwill Farm's dairy farm and milking parlor, and the retirement party for Dr. Henry P. and Jean Eames. The videotape is available for other community groups to see by contacting the Historical Society. Linda Ebersole and Gail Kellum Curtis served refreshments.

ATV'S Unsafe For Children

Prohibiting the use of all terrain vehicles (ATVs) by the children under age 16 is a major goal of a new policy adopted by the Michigan State Medical Society (MSMS).

Acting during its 122nd annual meeting, the MSMS House of Delegates accepted a position statement calling for a ban on ATV operation by children under 16 and seeking mandatory safety courses for ATV drivers between 16 and 18.

Of the 600 persons killed in the last five years in ATV accidents, 240 of them were under age 16. In 1985 alone, 85,900 ATV-related injuries to children were reported.

Demonstrating governmental concern for escalating numbers of deaths and injuries, the Consumer Product Safety Commission already has asked for a ban on the production and sale of smaller ATVs marketed for use by children.

In addition to restricting ATV use by children, the MSMS policy calls for stronger regulation of ATV operation by adults. The medical society is promoting legislation to require mandatory helmet use by ATV drivers. The legislation also would penalize individuals driving ATVs under the influence of alcohol or drugs in the same manner as are automobile drivers.

Soil & Water Stewardship Week May 24-31

The Washtenaw County Soil Conservation District is encouraging local churches, organizations and individuals to join the nationwide observance of Soil and Water Stewardship Week, May 24-31. The theme, "Help, Hope, and Healing" was devised to draw attention to the need for help, hope and healing to bind the economic and resource wounds on America's farms and ranches.

William Fishbeck, chairman of the Washtenaw County SCD, said the survival and welfare of farmers and the land they till must be a matter of deep concern to all people. "While the grain bins are now full and there is no shortage of fiber and building materials, we all need to be reminded of the serious loss that could result from damage to our basic natural resources - soil, water and air, said Fishbeck.

Since 1955, the National Association of Conservation Districts has sponsored Soil and Water Stewardship Week.

A limited supply of materials especially designed to carry the 1987 theme of "Help, Hope and Healing" are being distributed by the Washtenaw County SCD and may be obtained by contacting the district office at 6101 Jackson Road, Ann Arbor. Telephone 313-761-6721.

Guest Conductor At Spring Concert

Manchester School's Band Director Margaret Hurbis has announced that Eric Becher, Director of the University of Michigan's Marching Band, will guest conduct the M.H.S. Band at their annual Spring Concert. The Band will perform the Block M March under Director Becher's supervision. This is a piece written by Jerry Bilik.

The Spring Concert is being held in conjunction with the Spring Arts Festival on May 27th. The Bands will begin their performances at 7:30 in the High School Study Auditorium. There is no charge and all are welcome to come and enjoy the excellent capabilities of our students, and meet the esteemed Mr. Becher.

Record Travel Forecast For Memorial Day Weekend

Holiday driving in Michigan over the Memorial Day weekend will be the heaviest ever, the Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) predicts.

Department traffic technicians estimate motorists will log 820 million miles over the four-day holiday weekend, from noon Friday, May 22, to noon Tuesday, May 26. That's 5.1 percent more than the previous record of 780 million miles driven in Michigan over the 1986 Memorial Day weekend.

Forecasts are made using travel trends established from traffic count data and general economic conditions.

To better prepare the state highways system for holiday travel, State Transportation Director James P. Pitz has ordered a suspension of all highway construction activity beginning at 3 p.m. on Friday (May 22) until normal work starting hours on Tuesday (May 26).

Only emergency work will be permitted on state highways and freeways over the holiday weekend. Pitz has also ordered all state traffic and safety engineers to conduct special inspections to assure that detour and slowdown lighting and signing are in place and operating. All earthmoving equipment and other heavy construction vehicles are banned from state highways for the weekend.

"Every precaution will be taken to eliminate hazards and minimize inconvenience to motorists due to road and bridge construction activities," Pitz said.

As an added safety measure, Pitz urged all motorists to buckle their seat belts and observe the 45 mile per hour speed limit through construction zones.

Local Ford Dealer Receives Award

Lyle Widmayer of Widmayer Ford Company in Manchester has received the Ford Motor Company 1986 Quality Care Dealer Award which recognizes excellence in customer satisfaction. This award is presented each year to the top 15 percent of Ford and Lincoln-Mercury dealers with the highest customer satisfaction ratings.

The award is based on responses to surveys sent to the dealership customers rating their satisfaction with the dealership in both sales and service. In speaking of the award, Harold A. "Red" Poling, President of Ford Motor Company, has said, "Keeping the customer satisfied is the reason we're in business. As far as I'm concerned, there is no higher achievement."

The Quality Care Dealer Award is particularly significant in that judging of the winners is made by the dealerships' customers themselves. Included on the surveys are questions concerning treatment in the sales department, courtesy, the quality of work performed in the service department, and overall satisfaction with the dealership.

Senator To Address Ceremony

Senator Lana Pollack (D-Ann Arbor) will give the keynote address at the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council's Gold Award Ceremony on May 28, 1987, at 7:00 p.m. at the Ann Arbor Women's City Club.

Twelve young women have earned the Gold Award, the highest award in Girl Scouting, and will be honored for their achievements at this event. In earning the Gold Award, these young women have demonstrated excellence in leadership, service, and self development, translating into everyday life the ideas of the Girl Scout movement.

"I am pleased to have been invited to be a part of this special evening," Senator Pollack said.

"These young women are making an important investment in their future by striving to be all that they can be through their Girl Scout activities. The volunteers that make Girl Scouting possible are also making an important investment, an investment in the future of our country; their generous donations of time and self are helping to develop our greatest resource, our children."

Senator Pollack will present each Gold Award recipient with a framed Special Tribute in recognition of their achievement.

MAMMOGRAPHY SPOTS WHAT THE EYE CAN'T SEE.
This year, breast cancer will be a leading killer of women. It will claim more than 41,000.* The problem is, it starts as a tiny spot. Too small to see. Too small to feel. So small, it can take years before discovered by physical examination. By then the spot will be a lump, with a cure rate of only 60%.*
Very simply, the most effective way to identify breast cancer early — and save lives — is mammography. With a mammogram, you can detect breast cancer while it's still a small spot, and nearly 100% curable.*
If you're 35 or older, you should ask your doctor about scheduling a mammogram. If you don't have a doctor, we'll be glad to refer one. Just call us (313) 429-1555. At your request, we'll also send you our free brochure on mammography.
Remember, the sooner you make an appointment for a mammogram, the better. Because what you can't see, might hurt you.

Spring Sports Update

by jon

On Monday, our girls faced the Grass Lake Warriors in a double header. Both games were real nail-biters, but the outcome was in our favor. Nikole Reinhart was the winning pitcher in the first game, which saw two or more hits by Heidi Minick. We won 9-8. In the second game, we won again, behind pitcher Jennifer Barnard. Offense was supplied by Heidi, Rockie Weber, Tracy Day, Dawn Brady and Kim Lockridge. Our girls now stand 11 and 6 overall, with a 6 and 2 league record. The season ends this week unless we win the playoff Friday, which we host.

Brownie Troop 650

Brownie Troop 650 earned their community service beautification badge by planting shrubs and flowering plants at Klager School. The girls will be able to enjoy their work everyday they go to school. Our troop has had a very good year earning nine try-it badges and some very special celebration patches. We participated in the 75th celebration at Crisler Arena on Saturday, May 16. May 29th will be our year end camping trip at Camp Miller-Muck. There are many activities planned for mothers and daughters to participate in. Members of our troop are: Kim Luckhardt, Tonya Ward, Melissa Scott, Jessica Porter, Emily Miller, Michelle Schaible, Stacey Burmeister, Suzanne Lowery, Joelle Armentrout, Sarah Waters.

Our Varsity Boys also squared off against the Warriors on Monday. We could never get on track, and dropped both contests, 8-5 and 8-2. Two or more hits were provided by John Kempfer, Tom Golding, Scott Gross, Bart Rickelmann and Jason Van Deven.

On Tuesday, our girl tracksters' opponent was Ida. Unfortunately, we lost 73-54, but it seems we have been improving weekly. Jennifer Faulhaber captured a first in the discus with a 74'2" toss. Kristen Houck won the 100 and the 400 yard dash, as Amy Major won the 200. We crossed the tape in front in both the 800 and the 400 relays. The 800 was won by Kristen, Vickie Warner, Jennifer and Amy, with a winning time of 2 min. 4 seconds. The 400 foursome was Laura Meister, Vickie, Jennifer, and Amy, who broke the tape at 55.74 seconds.

To close out the week, our boys' baseball squad met Vandercook Lake. In the first contest, we took it right to the Jayhawks, scoring 6 first-inning runs. John Kempfer was the winning pitcher with a 7-4 score. We dropped the second game in a close contest, 5-4. Dutchmen having two or more hits for the evening were Rob White and John Kempfer.

Making Sense Of Annual Reports

(Prepared by the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants.)

A spice manufacturer laces its version with a new scent each year. (Last year's was Chinese Five Spices.) A financial data supplier put its on video cassette. And a major food products company included 'cents off' coupons in its. But once you get beyond these frills, all annual reports follow basically the same pattern for providing information.

The annual report is, without question, a valuable source of information whether you're a shareholder or potential investor or someone considering a job offer with the company in question. But according to the Michigan Association of CPAs, you sometimes have to read between the lines to get the full benefit of the contents of an annual report.

Begin your analysis with the first section which generally contains the chief executive's letter to shareholders and management's discussion of the company's condition. The letter generally highlights the company's financial data, summarizes the year's events and details the company's goals for the future. In addition, many chief executives use the letter as a forum to express management's position on relevant social or public policy issues. While the letter to shareholders makes every attempt to put the company's best foot forward, a good letter will point out the firm's weakness as well as its strengths.

Be suspicious of reviews that stress the future - this may be a sign the company doesn't want to talk about the present. Also be wary of special themes. Sometimes when a company wishes to divert attention from financial trouble, it gives the annual report a special focus. An annual report that highlights the accomplishments of its employees just might be coming from a company that had a bad year. It's a good idea to go back and read the annual reports of the past few years to test a chief executive's credibility and determine how good management's predictions have been. Look to see how projections made in the past compare with the corporation's subsequent results. How did the CEO's promise to increase the earnings of the company fare? Were research and development projects completed on schedule and within the budget outlined by the chief executive?

If read carefully, the section called "Management's Discussion and Analysis of the Financial Condition and Results of Operations" can provide gainful insight. The Securities and Exchange Commission requires this section to include information about liquidity, capital resources and results of operations.

The balance sheet and the income statement form and core of the annual report. The balance sheet shows where the company stood on a particular date and as such should be viewed as a snapshot rather than a moving picture. The balance sheet is divided into two parts. One part shows what the company owns - its assets. The other part shows what the company owes - its liabilities - and its net worth or shareholder's equity. In short, the balance sheet reveals the book value of the company; its economic value may be significantly different. The company's net worth for financial statement purposes is nothing more than total assets minus total liabilities.

While the balance sheet can be said to reveal the financial condition of the company, the income statement is the measurement of the firm's earnings and profitability. It is sometimes called the profit and loss statement and shows how much the company made or lost during the period reported. The income statement matches the amount received from selling its goods and other items of income against all the costs of operating the company. The difference between the two figures is the net income or net profit - the proverbial bottom line. This is the amount that is available to pay shareholder dividends or to be reinvested in the company.

The financial statements of most companies include this line, "the accompanying footnotes are an integral part of the financial statements." Pay careful attention to these footnotes. The more there are, the more carefully you should read them. Footnotes normally fall into two basic categories: those that explain the business's accounting policies and those that provide additional disclosures. The footnotes may reveal whether the company has made heavy use of tax benefits and may even report on the condition of the company's pension plan. The information contained in the footnotes may have a profound bearing on the financial statement as a whole.

Some experts suggest that the first thing you should look for in an annual report is the Auditor's Report which expresses the opinion of the independent auditor(s) the company has hired. The independent audit brings a trained, experienced professional in to examine the company's financial statements. The primary responsibility of the independent auditor is to provide the public with reasonable assurance that the representations of management reflected in the company's financial statements and the related disclosures are presented fairly in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles.

According to the Michigan Association of CPAs, about 90 percent of publicly-traded companies receive a 'standard report' or a 'clean opinion' which is two paragraphs long. A 'clean opinion' means that the independent auditors attest to the reliability of a company's financial statements at a particular point in time. And although an audit is directed toward the discovery of material misstatements in the financial statements, it is not concerned with the financial quality of an entity, the wisdom of its management's decisions or the risk of doing business with the entity.

An annual report can provide you with a wealth of information, but CPAs maintain that you should consult with a financial expert before making an investment decision.

Bus Malfunction Cause Of Blaze

By Becky Doyle

The May 11 fire that destroyed the Senior Citizen bus and van and a Village-owned jeep was caused by the bus itself, according to Fire Chief Mike Scully.

"The cause was due to a malfunction in the bus. It started in the engine of the bus, in the carburetor. It (the carburetor) was completely gone," said Scully. But Howard Parr, who is tracking the insurance coverages and replacement of the vehicles, said, "We know of no mechanical difficulty with either vehicle that could have caused the fire."

The State Fire Marshall, who was scheduled to visit the scene of the fire on the 13th, never came but the scene has been visited by an insurance adjuster and possibly an investigator from the insurance carrier.

Insurance coverage of the large bus is still in question. The Senior Citizen Council reports that their coverage of the bus was liability only, since the vehicle was still owned by the State. But State officials say that it should have been covered fully for loss as well by the group. A new policy on the bus which was recently received states that coverage is the responsibility of the local group. The smaller van was covered for loss.

The value of the bus is estimated at approximately $30,000. The State has provided a temporary replacement of the bus from the Pittsfield surplus supply until a decision is reached about replacement. Parr said that the van will be replaced, but not until the State has determined a replacement for the large bus, so that they can determine what size will best suit the needs of the Seniors.

Hit or Miss

by farley

Every now and then someone has an idea that seems to be an effective means of promotion but which turns out to have some side effects that prevent it from achieving its purpose. For example a chap of North Miami, Florida had an inspiration to hold a contest to determine which cockroach in these United States is the biggest and he managed to get the local newspaper to write a feature story about it. The story caught the fancy of the media and soon the story of the contest was publicized in newspapers across the country. The affair was to be sponsored by a pest control company which offered some worthwhile prizes.

Soon the North Miami office was flooded by a wave of cockroaches - big ones and

Two MHS Students Involved In Rescue

Jean Kuhl and Darryl Kuebler

There are two students at Manchester High School who deserve recognition for their quick thinking and prompt action. Darryl Kuebler and Jean Kuhl were first on the scene of Lewis Major's auto accident on Saturday, May 9, 1987, at Hieber and Snyder Roads. After finding Lewis unconscious at the steering wheel, Darryl and Jean made certain that he was breathing and had a pulse. Darryl then left to seek aid at a neighbor's home. After one unsuccessful attempt, Darryl was able to contact another neighbor and asked them to call for an ambulance after describing the situation.

Jean remained with Lewis, trying to awaken him by calling his name. She did not move him for fear a neck injury. When Lewis regained consciousness, she remained with him, questioning and talking to him to keep him awake. Jean also would not let Lewis get out of the car. After Darryl summoned additional help at the Carter's, he returned to Lewis and assisted Jean in keeping Lewis quiet and awake. Darryl and Jean stayed with Lewis until the police arrived and then assisted the officials with information identification etc. Through the entire emergency, Darryl and Jean demonstrated (independently and jointly) level-headedness, made quick and intelligent decisions and displayed a maturity (and concern) that exceeds their age. These students are not trained individuals who responded to an emergency call, but responsible friends who used their maturity and intelligence to aid a friend. Darryl Kuebler and Jean Kuhl are to be recognized for their quick thinking and prompt action.
