Making Sense Of Annual Reports

(Prepared by the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants.)

A spice manufacturer laces its version with a new scent each year. (Last year's was Chinese Five Spices.) A financial data supplier put its on video cassette. And a major food products company included 'cents off' coupons in its. But once you get beyond these frills, all annual reports follow basically the same pattern for providing information.

The annual report is, without question, a valuable source of information whether you're a shareholder or potential investor or someone considering a job offer with the company in question. But according to the Michigan Association of CPAs, you sometimes have to read between the lines to get the full benefit of the contents of an annual report.

Begin your analysis with the first section which generally contains the chief executive's letter to shareholders and management's discussion of the company's condition. The letter generally highlights the company's financial data, summarizes the year's events and details the company's goals for the future. In addition, many chief executives use the letter as a forum to express management's position on relevant social or public policy issues. While the letter to shareholders makes every attempt to put the company's best foot forward, a good letter will point out the firm's weakness as well as its strengths.

Be suspicious of reviews that stress the future - this may be a sign the company doesn't want to talk about the present. Also be wary of special themes. Sometimes when a company wishes to divert attention from financial trouble, it gives the annual report a special focus. An annual report that highlights the accomplishments of its employees just might be coming from a company that had a bad year.

It's a good idea to go back and read the annual reports of the past few years to test a chief executive's credibility and determine how good management's predictions have been. Look to see how projections made in the past compare with the corporation's subsequent results. How did the CEO's promise to increase the earnings of the company fare? Were research and development projects completed on schedule and within the budget outlined by the chief executive?

If read carefully, the section called "Management's Discussion and Analysis of the Financial Condition and Results of Operations" can provide gainful insight. The Securities and Exchange Commission requires this section to include information about liquidity, capital resources and results of operations.

The balance sheet and the income statement form and core of the annual report. The balance sheet shows where the company stood on a particular date and as such should be viewed as a snapshot rather than a moving picture. The balance sheet is divided into two parts. One part shows what the company owns - its assets. The other part shows what the company owes - its liabilities - and its net worth or shareholder's equity. In short, the balance sheet reveals the book value of the company; its economic value may be significantly different. The company's net worth for financial statement purposes is nothing more than total assets minus total liabilities.

While the balance sheet can be said to reveal the financial condition of the company, the income statement is the measurement of the firm's earnings and profitability. It is sometimes called the profit and loss statement and shows how much the company made or lost during the period reported. The income statement matches the amount received from selling its goods and other items of income against all the costs of operating the company. The difference between the two figures is the net income or net profit - the proverbial bottom line. This is the amount that is available to pay shareholder dividends or to be reinvested in the company.

The financial statements of most companies include this line, "the accompanying footnotes are an integral part of the financial statements." Pay careful attention to these footnotes. The more there are, the more carefully you should read them. Footnotes normally fall into two basic categories: those that explain the business's accounting policies and those that provide additional disclosures. The footnotes may reveal whether the company has made heavy use of tax benefits and may even report on the condition of the company's pension plan. The information contained in the footnotes may have a profound bearing on the financial statement as a whole.

Some experts suggest that the first thing you should look for in an annual report is the Auditor's Report which expresses the opinion of the independent auditor(s) the company has hired. The independent audit brings a trained, experienced professional in to examine the company's financial statements. The primary responsibility of the independent auditor is to provide the public with reasonable assurance that the representations of management reflected in the company's financial statements and the related disclosures are presented fairly in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles.

According to the Michigan Association of CPAs, about 90 percent of publicly-traded companies receive a 'standard report' or a 'clean opinion' which is two paragraphs long. A 'clean opinion' means that the independent auditors attest to the reliability of a company's financial statements at a particular point in time. And although an audit is directed toward the discovery of material misstatements in the financial statements, it is not concerned with the financial quality of an entity, the wisdom of its management's decisions or the risk of doing business with the entity.

An annual report can provide you with a wealth of information, but CPAs maintain that you should consult with a financial expert before making an investment decision.

Top Students Named For Class Of 1987

Brendan Lenski

Heidi Huber

Manchester High School is proud to announce their Valedictorian and Salutatorian for the 1986-87 school year. These two awards, given for four years of academic excellence, honor the number one and number two students in the class rankings. The honor of Valedictorian has been earned by Brendan Lenski with a grade point average of 3.976 and the honor of Salutatorian by Heidi Huber with a 3.925 grade point average. Brendan Lenski is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lenski of Manchester. In his four years at Manchester High School Brendan has been involved in Computer Club and the Vocational Industrial Club (VICA) as part of the South and West Washtenaw Consortium. He is a member of the National Honor Society and has been very active in the Manchester Police Explorers, serving as captain of the squad the past two years. Brendan will be attending the University of Michigan this fall where he will study Business Administration. He has been awarded the prestigious Regents-Alumni Scholarship and was also a recipient of the State of Michigan Competitive Scholarship. Heidi Huber is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lauren Huber of Manchester. During her four years at Manchester High School Heidi exhibited both academic and leadership qualities. She has been recognized as a "Optimist Student of the Month", served as Treasurer of the class in tenth and eleventh grade, and was a delegate to Girls State last summer. Heidi has been a participant in the Cascades Academic Games for three years and was co-editor of the yearbook this year. She has been active in National Honor Society and the American Legion Junior Auxiliary. Heidi will be attending Eastern Michigan University in the fall where she plans to major in Language and Literature. She has been awarded a Regents Scholarship as well as the State of Michigan Competitive Scholarship. Manchester High School salutes both of these outstanding individuals.

Bus Malfunction Cause Of Blaze

The May 11 fire that destroyed the Senior Citizen bus and van and a Village-owned jeep was caused by the bus itself, according to Fire Chief Mike Scully. "The cause was due to a malfunction in the bus. It started in the engine of the bus, in the carburetor. It (the carburetor) was completely gone," said Scully. But Howard Parr, who is tracking the insurance coverages and replacement of the vehicles, said, "We know of no mechanical difficulty with either vehicle that could have caused the fire." The State Fire Marshall, who was scheduled to visit the scene of the fire on the 13th, never came but the scene has been visited by an insurance adjuster and possibly an investigator from the insurance carrier. Insurance coverage of the large bus is still in question. The Senior Citizen Council reports that their coverage of the bus was liability only, since the vehicle was still owned by the State. But State officials say that it should have been covered fully for loss as well by the group. A new policy on the bus which was recently received states that coverage is the responsibility of the local group. The smaller van was covered for loss. The value of the bus is estimated at approximately $30,000. The State has provided a temporary replacement of the bus from the Pittsfield surplus supply until a decision is reached about replacement. Parr said that the van will be replaced, but not until the State has determined a replacement for the large bus, so that they can determine what size will best suit the needs of the Seniors.

Hit or Miss

Every now and then someone has an idea that seems to be an effective means of promotion but which turns out to have some side effects that prevent it from achieving its purpose. For example a chap of North Miami, Florida had an inspiration to hold a contest to determine which cockroach in these United States is the biggest and he managed to get the local newspaper to write a feature story about it. The story caught the fancy of the media and soon the story of the contest was publicized in newspapers across the country. The affair was to be sponsored by a pest control company which offered some worthwhile prizes. One chap from North Miami sent in his entry in alive, with a letter asking that he be sent his cockroaches - big ones and squashed ones and live ones and all sorts of hungry cockroaches who gayly took over the office. "This one is squished" said the president of the Alert-Lear pest control company the other week as he displayed a folded waxed paper with a half dollar size stain in the middle. It's the biggest of the species said he "But we just can't use it". Florida folks still have until June 9, to enter the contest in the biggest cockroach contest. The Sunshine State winner will compete with entries from the rest of the nation in July. This competition in Washington will offer a $1,000 prize and be enshrined in the Smithsonian Museum. Soon the North Miami post office was flooded by a wave of cockroaches - big ones and

Two MHS Students Involved In Rescue

Jean Kuhl and Darryl Kuebler

There are two students at Manchester High School who deserve recognition for their quick thinking and prompt action. Darryl Kuebler and Jean Kuhl were first on the scene of Lewis Major's auto accident on Saturday, May 9, 1987, at Hieber and Snyder Roads. After finding Lewis unconscious at the steering wheel, Darryl and Jean made certain that he was breathing and had a pulse. Darryl then left to seek aid at a neighbor's home. After one unsuccessful attempt, Darryl was able to contact another neighbor and asked them to call for an ambulance after describing the situation. Jean remained with Lewis, trying to awaken him by calling his name. She did not move him for fear a neck injury. When Lewis re-need consciousness, she remained with him, questioning and talking to him to keep him awake. Jean also would not let Lewis get out of the car. After Darryl summoned additional help at the Carter's, he returned to Lewis and assisted Jean in keeping Lewis quiet and awake. Darryl and Jean stayed with Lewis until the police arrived and then assisted the officials with information identification etc. Through the entire emergency, Darryl and Jean demonstrated (independently and jointly) level-headedness, made quick and intelligent decisions and displayed a maturity (and concern) that exceeds their age. These students are not trained individuals who responded to an emergency call, but responsible friends who used their maturity and intelligence to aid a friend. Darryl Kuebler and Jean Kuhl are to be recognized for their quick thinking and prompt action.

MHS Teachers Complete Training

New Books At The Library

Six Manchester faculty members have successfully completed the Teacher Expectation and Student Achievement (TESA) training module over the last eight months. This inservice training involved several evenings during which the teachers volunteered time to become trained by Washtenaw Intermediate and Eastern Michigan University personnel.

Astrida Panches, Melinda Trout, Vicki Ruiz, Susan Davis, Bill Symons and Principal Rod Morrison participated in this program. TESA identifies extensive research showing that teacher interactions with students they perceive as "low achievers" are less supportive and less motivating than interactions normally practiced with students they perceive as "high achievers". Teachers are trained to use an interaction model involving specific supportive and motivating techniques with all students in a nondiscriminatory manner. The results are the accelerated academic growth of the "low achievers". The TESA Interaction Model includes fifteen techniques, presented in a series of workshops held approximately one month apart.

Participants formed teams and following each workshop, they developed their skills by directing techniques toward target students in their classes. Teachers also coded behaviors and noted the distribution of these teacher behaviors across "high" and "low" achieving students.

The program originated in 1971. Since that time, over 1190 educational agencies throughout the United States and abroad have requested and received TESA training for members of their staffs.

Former Resident Honored

Leslie A. Rogers, age 18, a former Manchester resident, currently a senior at Tecumseh High, was honored, on May 19th, during the Awards Assembly at the Civic Auditorium in Tecumseh.

Leslie is in the top thirty of the 1987 graduating class of 231 students and was honored for academic excellence and progress.

Leslie is the daughter of Carolyn M. Isom of Manchester and Jim Rogers of Tecumseh. She is the granddaughter of Dorothy M. Rogers and Laurence and Verna Bowers, all of Manchester.

Jon Arney Qualifies For State Meet

Jon Arney got confirmation that his 15.5 clocking in the 110 high hurdles at the regional meet will qualify him for this event in the Class C State Championships, held in Bangor, Michigan. This is a tremendous accomplishment, considering last year he didn't even run the highs during league, and regional competition. The best of luck to Jon.

Boys Track

IDA

Once again Jon Arney led the boys in scoring. Jon finished the dual meet season undefeated in the 300 lows, winning in 40.4. He also won the highs in 15.7, here he has only been beaten once. Darryl Kuebler scored well as he won the shot put with a personal best of 37'2". He then tossed the discus 78'7" for a 3rd place finish. Denny Steele placed 3rd in the shot at 33'10", and ties for 1st in the discus at 102'7". Brad Uphouse jumped 5'8" in the high jump for 2nd place. Dan Platt had good times in winning the 200m in 24.5, and took 2nd in the 100m in 11.8. Mike Brokaw and Allen Carson went 2 and 3 in the 400m. Nick Miller ran 2:16.7 in the 800m for 3rd place. Brian Weidmayer finished 3rd in the 3200m in 11:45.2.

REGIONALS

We had some tuff breaks here at Quincy, but we also had some good results. We brought home 6 medals, and scored 12 points. Jon Arney finished 4th in the 110 highs in 15.5, for our first medal. Our 1600 relay of Brad Uphouse, Jon Arney, Dan Platt and Brad Wilson took home 5th place medals. Jon Arney had a hurdle kicked down into his lane, thus distracting him long enough and preventing him from finishing better than 3rd place. He still received a medal, but his changes of running this event (300 lows) at the state meet look dim. The race is under appeal, so maybe he still will get his chance.

Lee's surrender to Grant at Appomatox marked the close of the Civil War which had cost this country millions of treasure and many many thousands of precious lives. Three years later Memorial Day was instituted to honor the memory of the brave men who had given their lives in the Union cause.

A generation passed and America again found herself in arms, not to put down rebellion, but to establish the liberties and maintain the rights of a young sister republic.

Less than a score of years saw the outbreak of the great world conflict and, while at first it seemed that we might be able to keep out of it, as the war progressed it became more and more evident that the fruits of liberty so dear to the heart of every American, were seriously menaced and that to insure our national independence we must take our place by the side of those who were battling for the freedom of the world. We all know the story. We know how splendidly on land and sea our gallant soldiers, sailors and marines upheld the honor of the American name.

Memorial Day is for the men who took part in these wars, but our first thought will be for the grey-haired veterans, that fast thinning blue line whose step is growing feebler year by year; and in this thoughtfulness for the old soldier none will join more heartily than the younger veterans of more recent wars.

Therefore, in order that we may pay a tribute of respect and affection to the surviving veterans of the Civil War, the Spanish-American War, and the Great World War, and do honor to the memory of their fallen comrades, I hereby sincerely urge that Wednesday, May 30th, 1923, be fittingly observed as Memorial Day; and I earnestly appeal to the people of Michigan for hearty cooperation in part for the observance of the day in their respective communities.

On Memorial Day flags should be displayed at half-staff until noon and then hoisted to the top of the staff.

Given under my hand and the Great Seal of the State this 14th day of May, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and twenty-three, and of the Commonwealth the eighty-seventh.

ALEX J. GROESBECK
Governor.

4-H Offers Livestock Clinic

Area 4-H members are invited to attend a livestock fitting and showing clinic at the Washtenaw County Farm Council Grounds.

The purpose of the clinic is to teach basic management practices and help beginners learn to fit their animals for the show ring. It's also a good way for experienced members to brush up on their fitting and showing skills before the fair season begins.

Individual sessions will be held for beef cattle, swine, sheep, dairy cattle, goats, horses, poultry, and rabbits and calves. Instruction will be given by Cooperative Extension Service specialists and resource persons.

All sessions will run concurrently, so participants may attend only one species presentation.

The clinic runs from 9:30 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. The cost is $1 per person, and registration will take place the morning of the program.

For more information, contact the Washtenaw County 4-H Office at 973-9510.

Tickets To Be Issued For Papal Mass

Three thousand tickets to the Mass to be celebrated by Pope John Paul II at Pontiac's Silverdome will be available to the people of the ninety-two parish Catholic Diocese of Lansing.

The Mass will be celebrated at 5:30 p.m. on Saturday, September 19, 1987.

The number of tickets was made public in a letter from Fr.

James Murray, Chancellor of the ten county diocese to priests.

According to the letter the three thousand tickets will be distributed a few days before the event through the offices of the five regional vicars of the diocese.

The Diocese of Lansing has been divided into five regions presided over by a regional vicar who is elected by the priests and parish councils of the region. The five regions and their vicars are: Lansing Region, Rev. Michael D. Murphy; Genesee-Owosso Region, Rev. John Klein; Washtenaw-Brighton Region, Rev. Robert D. Lunsford; Jackson-Hillsdale Region, Rev. Darius W. Wyszynski; Lenawee Region, Rev. Louis Komorowski, OSFS.

Tickets are being made available in this manner because of the danger of theft and counterfeiting of the tickets.

Security precautions will be extremely strict for the Mass and those attending can expect to pass through metal detectors. Ninety thousand people will be able to attend the Mass which will be the final event in the Pope's ten day tour of the United States.

It is expected that each parish will receive a number of tickets depending upon the size of the parish. Pastors will determine the method of distribution in their own parishes. They will follow guidelines which will insure as far as possible a fair distribution of the available tickets.

Free Garden Seeds

Free garden seeds are being distributed to low income, elderly, and anyone who can use them. The seed distribution is being aided by the Washtenaw County Cooperative Extension Service.

Seminar Slated

Too many aquatic weeds is the most common problem facing lake property owners in Washtenaw County. The problem seems even worse this year because of the mild winter and warm, dry spring.

To help lake and pond residents, the Cooperative Extension Service is sponsoring a Lake Weed Management Seminar on Wednesday, June 3, from 7:00 to 10:00 p.m. at Post 47 Hunt and Fish Club across the Silver Lake, on Dexter-Townhall Road, 1 1/2 miles north of N. Territorial Road. The program is designed for people who live on lakes that are larger than 10 acres and who are actively involved in making weed management decisions for their lake.

The cost of the program is $5.00 per family. For more information or to register, contact the Washtenaw County Cooperative Extension Service office at 973-9510. Registrations must be received by May 29. Enrollment is limited, so register early.

Airline Passengers Pet Peeves Heard

Airline passengers who have had their wings clipped by perturbing airline practices may not have to keep their feathers ruffled for long.

A bill (HR 1866) has been introduced in Congress which seeks to address the growing number of passenger complaints.

The Airline Passenger Equity Act is designed to determine whether consumers have paid too high a price for the deregulation of the airline industry.

"As one of the few members of Congress who flies back to the district every weekend, I've heard plenty of the horror stories," said Congressman Carl Pursell, a co-sponsor of the bill.

"The Transportation Department recently said the number of complaints against airlines increased 43 percent during the first quarter of 1987, compared to the same period a year ago," Pursell said.

"Deregulation was intended to benefit consumers by providing additional choices but this hasn't been the long-term result.

"Since 1978, some 235 airlines have been certified - and only 75 remain certified today. Of those 75, nine airlines control 94 percent of the revenue-passenger miles," he said.

The Airlines Passenger Equity Act would require commercial air carriers to report to the Transportation Department on a monthly basis - the number of late take-offs and arrivals, flight cancellations, lost and damaged luggage, rerouted or downgraded flights, and passengers involuntarily bumped.

The Secretary of Transportation also would be directed to create a 24-hour free hotline for information and complaints.

"This bill also would not allow air carriers to advertise discount fares unless one-third of the seats are offered at the discount price, or a disclaimer is made that fewer seats are available," Pursell said.

"The airline industry claims to have good performance statistics - and it very well may. If that's the case, it would be in the best interest of the industry and consumers to have this type of information readily available to the public," he said.

In 1862, to cure the problem of babies crying during performances, a Salt Lake City theater charged 35 cents admission for adults and $10 for infants.

His sponsor reported that Fred should not be to blame for the postal employees overzealous who had a vendetta against hand stamping and was asked not to use such force that it smashed the critter on it's way to becoming a legend.

There is nothing to bring out the humor in us as a people. The spotlight this year has been on the farmer, his problems and his humor. He has long been the butt of jokes but there are really few dumb farmers and with all the problems confronting the farmers - a bunch of college degrees is not enough. They include courses in agronomy, economics, computer science, and marketing.

As a sample of this humor may we quote a story that was quite widely circulated a short time ago.

A farmer who went broke growing wheat was advised by his banker to raise peanuts and was successful paying back all of his loans. Seeing his banker on the street one day, the farmer said that he had made enough money so that soon he could afford to go back to growing wheat.

And then there is the tale about the farmer who was a winner in the state lottery. When asked what he would do with the money he had won, he said that he would stick with farming until he had lost it all.

Wagon Train To Follow Historical Trail

The Sesquicentennial Wagon Train will follow several historic trails once travelled by Indians, wagons and stage coaches, June 14 - June 27, said Merri Jo Bales, executive director of the Office of the Michigan Sesquicentennial.

"With more than 100 wagons and more than 500 people in SesquiTrain '87, the event is twice as big as we expected," said Bales.

The wagon train which will visit 11 Mid-Michigan cities starts and ends in Lansing. Special birthday cards will be collected along the 13 day 150 mile route and carried by the wagons.

The special birthday card can be obtained from any Secretary of State Office (such as the License Plate Office). Michiganians interested in sending the birthday greetings should have friends, family, relatives, group members, or students sign the cards and send them to:

SesquiTrain '87
P.O. Box 30017
Lansing, MI 48909

As of April 29, 95 wagons were signed up to participate in SesquiTrain '87 including 18 wagons from other states and Canada. Wagons are coming in from as far as New Hampshire, Georgia, and Louisiana.

The overnight encampments on the SesquiTrain '87 route are: Lansing (Francis Park), June 14, Charlotte (15th), Olivet (16th), Marshall (17th), Albion (18th), Jackson (19 - 21st), Munnith (22nd), Pinckney (23rd), Brighton (24th), Fowlerville (25th), and Williamston (26th). After leaving Williamston, the wagon train will follow Grand River and Michigan Avenues to end in downtown Lansing on June 27.

State Representative Margaret O'Connor (R-Lodi Township) has introduced legislation in the Michigan House of Representatives which would allow local citizens a chance to vote on the placement of a state prison in their community.

The O'Connor bill would give citizens 30 days after the final site selection to collect signatures calling for a public vote. If signatures of 15 percent of those who voted for all candidates for governor in the previous election are collected, the prison proposal would be suspended until an election could be held.

"I believe that with the rapid increase in the state prison building program, local citizens need an opportunity to decide if they want a prison in their backyard," O'Connor said. "Local citizens know what is best for their communities, and I don't want them dictated to by a faceless, nameless bureaucracy in Lansing."

"There are a number of communities that want prisons and the employment they would bring," O'Connor said. "The Department of Corrections must be more responsive to local community desires."

Planning Commission
Regular Meeting
April 14, 1987

CALL TO ORDER

The Regular Meeting of the Manchester Village Planning Commission for April was called to order at 7:40 p.m. by Chairman Kwolek in the Council Room of the Village Hall. Commissioners present: Kwolek, Lowery, Daverman, Walton, and Kallewaard.

APPROVAL OF AGENDA

The agenda was approved as presented, on a motion by Daverman supported by Lowery, carried unanimously on a voice vote.

REQUESTS FROM PUBLIC TO ADDRESS THE MEETING

Minutes of the March, 1987 Regular Meeting were read aloud by the Secretary, and were approved with two corrections on a motion by Daverman, supported by Lowery, carried unanimously on a voice vote.

OLD BUSINESS - SENIOR CITIZEN HOUSING

Jim Hovey of Rural Housing Corporation was present to report on his company's site search, for proposed senior citizen housing which he discussed before the Planning Commission at an earlier meeting.

He presented a drawing of a building exterior and interior floor plan for a one-story building of 24 units including a resident manager's apartment and laundry facilities. All apartments open to the interior corridor, have 3-ft. wide doors and have an emergency call system incorporating pull chains in each bedroom and bathroom plus a flashing light above the door to the interior hall and an automatic door unlocking system.

Funding for the project would be through the Farmers' Home Administration system. Hovey presented a list of 87 of the company's apartment projects; 85 of these were financed by the FmHA; 20 of these are senior apartments similar to what is proposed for Manchester.

Hovey also presented information on four sites he had investigated in Manchester. He stated that his company had obtained an option on one of these sites, a parcel of 3.5 acres on the north side of East Main Street. He discussed ways in which the building would be situated on the lot in order to preserve trees.

The Chairman noted that there had been past discussion in Planning Commission sessions of the possibility of this area being rezoned for higher-density residential use.

Hovey requested that the Commission furnish a letter stating what the current zoning on the East Main Street site is, what the new zoning would have to be if the apartments were to be built, what tap-in fees are for sewer and water, and a general statement of whether or not there is a desire to see senior citizen housing provided in the Village. He stressed that he was not requesting an endorsement of the particular project proposed by Rural Housing Corporation.

The Chairman advised Mr. Hovey that the Commission could not make any guarantees or commitments concerning any proposed project or rezoning, since no application for action had been submitted.

Daverman asked how many parking spaces would be provided for each apartment. Hovey noted that the Village code required two spaces per apartment, but added that in some municipalities in which the company had built senior housing, they had requested a variance to allow only one space per apartment, since their experience had been that two per unit was more than necessary.

Walton expressed concern that traffic to and from the high school might be a problem for a senior apartment complex on that site.

Hovey closed by saying that, if funding were approved by the FmHA, the earliest that construction could begin would be in the spring of 1988.

PUBLIC HEARING

The meeting was recessed at 8:12 p.m. for a Public Hearing, and reconvened at 8:22 p.m.

NEW BUSINESS - WURSTER PARK GAZEBO

Daverman and Walton reported on plans for location of the gazebo which the Historical Society plans to construct.

NEW BUSINESS - AMENDMENT TO PRIMROSE SITE PLAN, 102 WEST MAIN

Glen Primrose presented a revised site plan, resulting primarily from a decision to build a single-story instead of a two-story building. Commissioner Daverman assisted in describing some of the details of the plan. There was discussion of several items, including utility lines and contours of the parking area. After further discussion, the amended site plan was approved on a roll-call vote, with Daverman not voting.

OLD BUSINESS - CONSULTANT HOTALING'S PROPOSAL CONCERNING CODE AND LAND USE PLAN REVISION

The Village Manager was requested to propose firm dates for the working meetings of the Planning Commission with Mr. Hotaling.

OLD BUSINESS - HISTORIC DISTRICT STUDY COMMITTEE

Daverman reported on the work of the Committee, including plans for public hearings and reports to Council.

NEW BUSINESS

The Chairman reported that he had been asked for information by Gerry Mann, who was appealing to the ZBA for a dimensional variance (requested because of difficulties in putting a garage and driveway on a 66-ft. wide lot); in this way he had learned of the ZBA appeal, and this promoted him to direct a question to Council: do they intend to process and act upon all Zoning Board appeals without informing or requesting any input from the Planning Commission? There was discussion of past practice and ordinance provisions for handling of ZBA appeals.

The Chairman reported that a Councilman had advised him that developer Garnett Johnson had asked to negotiate with the Village about possible purchase of the Public Works Department property on North Macomb Street, moving the DPW to some other site in the Village, and building senior citizen apartments on the site, to be funded through the Farmers' Home Administration. There was general discussion of land-use trends and items for discussion with Mr. Hotaling concerning revision of the land-use plan.

NEW BUSINESS - SIGN PERMIT APPLICATION, MANCHESTER ANTIQUE MALL

Commissioners reviewed and discussed the information submitted in the application form. A motion was made, seconded and passed unanimously approving the permit, carried unanimously.

Mary Kallewaard, Secretary

Carr's Proposal Gets Farm Bureau's 'Vigorous Support'

Michigan Congressman Bob Carr has introduced a bill to allow farmers and other self-employed people to deduct 100% of the cost of their health insurance premiums as a business expense on their federal tax returns. According to Michigan Farm Bureau's director of public affairs, Al Almy, the proposal has the "vigorous support" of the organization's members.

"The legislation would be a major step forward in bringing tax equity to the self-employed," Almy said. "Currently, self-employed individuals can only claim a 25% deduction on the cost of their health insurance premiums and then only if they provide health insurance to all of their employees. Congressman Carr's proposal would bring the tax equity which the self-employed, including farmers, so rightfully deserve."

Gaining that tax equity was one of the priority issues of the 130 Michigan Farm Bureau members who flew to Washington, D.C., last week for their annual grassroots lobbying mission. The group met with their U.S. Representatives on April 1, and shared their concerns regarding the restriction that only those who provide insurance coverage to their employees would be eligible for the 25% deduction. Most self-employed people, especially farmers, could not afford that expense, the farmers told their congressman. Carr introduced his proposal following that meeting.

"Most employers furnish health insurance for their employees," Carr said. "The company writes off the coverage as a business expense and the employee receives the fringe benefit tax-free. Farmers and other self-employed people must use their after-tax dollars to purchase health insurance. With the rising cost of such insurance, I believe this situation is unfair."

Almy believes that Carr's proposed legislation has a good chance of receiving serious consideration by Congress. The, H.R. 1892, has been referred to the House Ways and Means Committee.

Check Pesticide Quality First

The Michigan Department of Agriculture (MDA) urges farmers to use caution when purchasing "discount-priced" pesticides, herbicides, or fertilizers offered over the telephone.

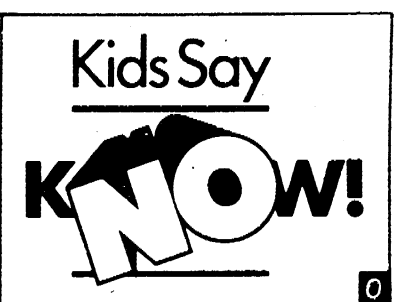

MDA has received several complaints from farmers who have purchased poor quality pesticides from telephone solicitors. According to the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), farmers in several states have complained about being bilked through telephone pesticide sales schemes.

Reports indicate problems range from pesticides being shipped to farmers who did not agree to purchase the product, the sale of heavily diluted pesticides, and salespersons making false claims about performance of the products.

Before agreeing to purchase the pesticides or other chemicals, John Dreves, director of MDA's Pesticide and Plant Pest Management Division, recommends farmers check the percentage of active ingredient in the mixture. Before accepting delivery, Dreves also advised customers to make sure the product is designed for the purpose for which the customer intends to use it.

MDA reminds farmers that they are not obligated to accept delivery of products they did not agree to purchase. If farmers suspect they have been cheated by a telephone pesticide salesperson, they should contact their local consumer protection agency, the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, or the Michigan Department of Agriculture.

"KIDS SAY KNOW" Helps Kids Fight Drug and Alcohol Use

In shopping centers across the country, kids are signing pledges to stay away from drugs and alcohol in the national "KIDS SAY KNOW" anti-drug campaign. First Lady Nancy Reagan is the Honorary Chairman of the campaign, assisted by Alyssa Milano, the youthful star of television's "Who's The Boss?" show.

Providing information on how to detect drug and alcohol abuse is part of the program. To see how much you know, take the true and false quiz below.

True or False

1. Drug users can be happy one minute and sad the next.
2. Drug users look good because they're "turned on."
3. Drug users get closer to their friends.
4. There are "clues" around when someone is using drugs.
5. Cocaine isn't very harmful.
6. Marijuana is not harmless, as a lot of people believe.
7. Kids really don't think they drink too much.
8. It's more dangerous to drink whiskey than beer.
9. False. Cocaine destroys the mucous linings in the nose, causes headaches and nosebleeds and may result in permanent physical damage to the nose and other parts of the body. Even one-time use of cocaine or crack can cause death through heart attack.
10. True. One marijuana cigarette contains more cancer-causing agents than a tobacco cigarette. Using pot can raise your heart rate as much as 50 percent and regular use of the drug may cut down your sex drive, make your gums bleed and weaken your muscles.
11. False. Between 17 and 20 percent of ninth-grade students describe themselves as problem drinkers.
12. False. There's no difference between a 12-ounce beer, a four-ounce glass of wine and a one-ounce shot of whiskey. They are equally intoxicating—and dangerous.
13. Participate in KIDS SAY KNOW from May 15-23, at shopping centers and retail stores in your area. Take a friend and visit your local shopping center, learn the facts, and take a pledge together to stay drug-free. KIDS SAY KNOW is a public service sponsored by the International Council of Shopping Centers and your local merchants.

EPA Accepting Claims

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) is accepting claims for indemnification and requests for disposal of suspended and cancelled dinoseb-containing pesticides. All claims must be filed with the agency by July 14, 1987.

In addition to seeking information on suspended and cancelled dinoseb stocks, EPA is also requesting all current holders of dinoseb stocks not eligible for indemnification to voluntarily provide the Agency with the quantity and location of these stocks.

In the Federal Register notice issued April 15, 1987, EPA lists the registration numbers and product names of the dinoseb products that are eligible for indemnification and disposal. Also listed are those products that have been suspended but not cancelled and are not eligible for indemnification and disposal at this time.

On October 7, 1986, EPA suspended the sale, distribution, and use of dinoseb products and issued a notice of intent to cancel all dinoseb pesticide product registrations. These actions were based upon laboratory animal studies which showed that exposure to dinoseb products from field application posed unreasonable risks of birth defects to unborn children of pregnant women and significant risk of sterility to male workers.

Under the Federal Insecticide, Fungicide and Rodenticide Act, persons who suffer economic loss by reason of suspension and cancellation of a pesticide product are entitled to Federal indemnification (compensation for loss) and disposal for stocks in their possession. Loss is limited to the direct cost of the product at the time of the suspension and cancellation action and does not include such items as transport or storage costs.

"EPA needs to know how much stock of dinoseb-containing pesticides there is to secure appropriate funding to make indemnification payments and provide Federal disposal of dinoseb products," said William Sanders, director of EPA's Regional Environmental Services Division. "While we believe that considerable dinoseb stocks were being held by such users as farmers or commercial applicators at the time of our suspension and cancellation, we have learned that many registrants, manufacturers, and dealers have recalled existing stocks.

Because of the corrosive nature of this chemical and because we believe that registrants and manufacturers generally have more appropriate storage facilities and more knowledge about safe storage, we strongly encourage the continuation of this practice."

EPA recommends that dinoseb materials be stored on pallets or similar raised platforms in a dry, well-ventilated separate room, building, or covered area with a concrete floor where fire prevention is provided. Movement or handling should be kept to an absolute minimum.

Until EPA accepts the suspended and cancelled products for disposal, proper storage of these products is the responsibility of the party holding them. More details on appropriate storage will be provided with the claim forms.

EPA is currently in the process of obtaining a contractor to dispose of dinoseb.

"The proposed cancellation of some dinoseb products is being contested in a hearing and therefore these products are not eligible for indemnification or disposal at this time. Nevertheless, the Agency is planning for the ultimate indemnification and disposal of these products should the hearing result in a decision to cancel them," Sanders said.

In order to be considered, all claims for indemnification and requests for disposal should be mailed to:

Special Review Branch (TS-767C), Office of Pesticide

Programs, U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, 401 M. St., SW, Washington, DC 20460.

Claim forms can be obtained from the above address or from the Regional pesticide office in Chicago. Write to Richard Wunrow, EPA, 230 S. Dearborn St., Chicago, IL 60604, or call 312-353-2191.

Exciting Moments In Michigan's History

Abraham Lincoln was heard to say, "Thank God for Michigan" as the 1st Michigan infantry arrived in Washington on May 16, 1861, providing the first western support for the Civil War. Lincoln's comments are part of the wealth of history found in Michigan during the Month of May.

Julius Ropes, a Marquette chemist and geologist, struck gold on May 17, 1881, near Ishpeming. Still in operation, the Ropes Gold Mine is the largest gold producing mine east of the Mississippi River. Ropes gold is used in the Sesquicentennial bear charm and will be introduced this summer in a gold coin commemorating the Sesquicentennial.

In search of copper, Douglas Houghton reached the Upper Peninsula on May 23, 1840. Hundreds of miners from all over the world flocked to what is known as Copper Harbor today, in search of wealth. Incidentally, the largest known natural copper deposit was discovered in the U.P. and is on display at the Smithsonian in Washington, D.C.

From cable anchor to cable anchor, the Mackinac Bridge, which began construction on May 8, 1954, is the longest suspension bridge of its type in the world. Completed three years later, the American Institute of Architects designated it as one of the seven man-made wonders of the world.

Michigan's gateway to commerce and tourism was opened during the month of May at Sault Ste. Marie. This system of canal and locks opened on May 31, 1855. It was one of the most spectacular engineering feats of the era.

One of the first steamboats on the Great Lakes arrived in Detroit on May 25, 1822. Hailing from Buffalo, the "Superior" brought aboard 94 passengers.

Michigan Agricultural College (MAC) opened its doors on May 13, 1857, later becoming Michigan State University (MSU) and currently enrolling more than 40,000 students. Beaumont Tower is the site of the first historical marker (1955) issued by the Michigan Historical Commission to commemorate the founding of MAC.

Congress Curtails Business Expense Loopholes

People who work out of their homes, take heed! Dentists, insurance agents and others who work out of their home should know that the Tax Reform Act created by Congress last fall curtails the abuses of homeowners who used their homes as a tax deduction.

Since January 1, 1987, a home office deduction is limited to net income from the trade or business. Congress took this action to prevent taxpayers from deducting expenses that would reduce their taxable income to less than zero.

Taxpayers, however, will be allowed to carry disallowed home office deductions forward to later years. As an example, if a taxpayer had a deduction that could not be fully claimed in 1987, but the taxpayer's 1988 net income exceeded that deduction, then the full amount could be deducted in 1988.

Congress also ended the practice that permitted taxpayers to deduct that portion of their home that is rented to their employer. Formerly, an employee could take this deduction regardless if the home office was the principal place of business.

The Tax Reform Act eliminates this practice because employees were able to get around the restrictions on home-office deductions. It also encouraged employees to declare part of their salary as rent received, which they then claimed as a deduction. The new law clearly states: You may not write off expenses for a home office if you, an employee, lease a portion of your house to an employer.

Congress did not change the basic rules that the portion of your home you claim as your office must be used regularly and exclusively for business. The office in your home must meet one of two tests: It must be your principal place of business, or it must be used to meet with clients, patients, or customers in the normal course of business.

Money Management

Give Credit Where Credit Is...

(Prepared by the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants.)

Need Cash? Want to borrow some money? If you're a regular borrower with a few paid-up loans under your belt and a wallet full of credit cards, chances are you'll have no trouble borrowing money. But, if you've never had the need to borrow money or buy on credit, you could be considered a poor credit risk. Why? Because the Philosophy of many lenders can be characterized by a slight modification of a familiar saying, "Give credit where credit is..." It seems that those with credit can get more and those without must first prove themselves. A prudent policy, no doubt, but one that can make life difficult for the first time borrower.

To avoid being faced with a problem when the need for credit arises, the Michigan Association of CPAs suggests that you establish a credit rating in advance of your need. Whether you're newly-married or newly-single, if you've never had credit in your name, you should start working on establishing a credit rating.

When you apply for a loan or credit card, lenders turn to credit bureaus to check on your status as a borrower. Contrary to what many people think, it is not the credit bureau who decides how good or bad a credit risk you are. It simply collects information about you and sells it to lenders who then determine whether they think you are credit worthy based on their standards or credit scoring system. Your credit file generally contains basic identifying information like your name, address, Social Security number, date of birth, employment history, etc. The credit bureau knows where you have loans and how timely you are about repaying them. They keep track of any judgments filed against you and whether any of your bills have been turned over to a collection agency.

Obviously, if you've never used credit, a credit bureau cannot report on what kind of payer you are and therein lies the problem. With no credit history to rely on, a lender may be reluctant to provide you with a loan.

To establish a credit rating, you should start small. Begin by opening a savings and checking account at the same financial institution. While this does not actually establish credit, it does develop a banking relationship. And later you may apply to this institution for a credit card.

Normally, the easiest credit cards to get are those with a single purpose - perhaps a department store or a gasoline company. Apply to stores of companies where you tend to shop most often. If your application is approved, your credit limit will, as a rule, start off low - maybe just $500. But as you demonstrate your credit worthiness, it's likely the store will increase your credit line.

Once you receive your credit cards, be sure to use them. Just having been granted a credit card does nothing to establish a credit rating. You must use your credit and demonstrate a pattern of timely repayment. If you're using a credit card strictly to establish a credit rating and don't want to be faced with interest charges, be sure to pay your bill in full each month within the grace period allowed. And, be careful not to exceed your credit limit.

After a period of using and repaying on your cards, you are ready to apply for a national bank credit card such as MasterCard or Visa. Your chances of approval may be best at the financial institution where you opened your savings and checking account. Again, you'll probably be given a low credit limit to start, with increases as your reward for prompt payment. Bank credit cards may carry more weight on your credit rating than store charges because they are more difficult to obtain.

There are those who advocate that you should apply for a personal loan as another step toward establishing a credit rating. But, if you don't really need the money, this may be costly, since there is no grace period for interest charges. If you do decide to take out a loan for the sole purpose of establishing a credit rating, deposit the loan proceeds in an interest-bearing account. This way the interest you earn can help offset the interest you will pay. Keep in mind you will probably have to pay income tax on the interest income and the tax reform act phases out the deduction for interest paid.

After you've gone through all the trouble of establishing credit, you'll want to continue to use your credit in a sensible manner. Don't have any more cards than you need and don't get into any more debt than you can handle. Most experts agree that your credit debts (excluding mortgage and car payments) should not exceed 10% of your take-home pay.

Be selective in choosing the right form of credit to meet your borrowing needs. The right choice can save you a significant amount of money. Shop around for the best deal in credit cards. If you use your credit card mainly for convenience and pay your bill in full each month, you need not be very concerned about the annual percentage rate on your card because you will not be charged interest. You should look for a card with no fee and a long grace period. But if you tend to stretch your payments out, it's to your advantage to find a card with a low interest rate.

You should keep receipts for all charge purchases until your bills come in and then check your receipts against the bills. Many billing errors have been discovered this way.

It's a good idea to prepare a list of all your credit cards, with account numbers and the address and phone numbers of the banks or stores that issued them. Keep this list at home in a safe place. If your cards are lost or stolen, immediately notify everyone on your list. When you call, note the date and time and get the name of the person you spoke to. Then follow up your call with a letter.

CPAs urge you to establish a credit rating in advance of your need and once you have, make every effort to keep your rating unblemished.

The Michigan Association of CPAs (MACPA) has a brochure available to individuals interested in learning more about credit cards. To obtain a complimentary copy of "Choosing a Credit Card - These 25 Tips May Save You Money," write the MACPA at P.O. Box 9054, Farmington Hills, MI 48333.

Seegert Ends Career As Two-Time All-American

For the second time in her four-year career, senior Alicia Seegert of Manchester, Mi, has been named to the NCAA softball All-American team. Seegert and teammate Vicki Morrow were both selected to the second team All-American squad. Last season, Seegert became the first Michigan player to be chosen an All-American as a first team selection.

Seegert added first team All-Big Ten and All-Mideast Regional honors to her growing list of accomplishments. In each of the past three seasons, Seegert has been named to an All-Big Ten team (1984, '86 first team, 1985 second team). Seegert was also recognized by the University of Michigan as the recipient of the 1987 Marie Hartwig Award signifying Michigan's Female Athlete of the Year.

In her four years at Michigan, Seegert established herself as one of the most prolific offensive players in the school's history. To say Seegert rewrote Michigan's recordbooks would be an understatement. She holds both the single season and career marks for at bats (194/665), hits (72/240), doubles (10/28), home runs (5/11), RBIs (36/96), and career average (.360).

1987 marked the final season for Seegert in a Michigan uniform. As was the case in her freshman and junior seasons, Seegert led the Wolverines in batting (.351). She also was the team leader in triples (4), and was second in runs scored (30), doubles (4), and stolen bases (8). Seegert connected for two or more hits in 20 of Michigan's 56 games. Big Ten opponents were the first to wish Seegert a fond farewell. Spending much of her career feasting on Big Ten pitching, she finished in the Big Ten's top five, offensively, in each of her four seasons, including winning the Big Ten batting crown as a freshman. This season she finished third (.354).

"It goes without saying that Alicia is one of the best players in the country," said head coach Carol Hutchins. "She's so dangerous both at the plate and behind. Sometimes her offensive abilities overshadow her catching abilities which are outstanding."

Seegert, along with teammate Vicki Morrow, has been invited to try-out for the Pan American team.

A native of Manchester, Mi, Seegert will graduate from Michigan with a degree in education.

Summer Reading

The following libraries are participating in the statewide coordinated Sesquicentennial Summer Reading Program for Children. The programming will begin in June 1987 and will end in August 1987 with each library setting its own schedule. This program is funded by the Michigan Council for the Humanities, public library cooperatives and your local public library. The Library of Michigan and the Children's Services Division of the Michigan Library Association are co-sponsoring this statewide activity.

The library participating in this area is the Manchester Township Library, 202 W. Main St., Manchester. Contact Ms. Margaret Goodrich.

Annual School Election Monday, June 8

The Annual Election of the Manchester Community Schools will be held on Monday, June 8, at the high school. The polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Voters will be asked to determine a millage increase for the Washtenaw Intermediate School District. The proposition is:

Washtenaw Intermediate School District, Michigan Special Education Millage Proposition

Shall the 2 mills limitation ($2.00 on each $1,000.00) on state equalized valuation on the annual property tax previously approved by the electors of Washtenaw Intermediate School District, Michigan, for the education of handicapped persons be increased by 1.5 mills ($1.50 on each $1,000.00) on state equalized valuation?

This millage would run INDEFINITELY.

There are 2 four year seats on the Board of Education to be filled. John T. Gaughan and Paul Kluge are running unopposed for the vacancies.

Vote Monday, June 8.

Hotel Men Do Lack Loyalty

Claim Made By Agricultural Commissioner L. W. Watkins At Lansing.

Manchester Enterprise August 16, 1923

Lansing, Aug. 14. - Restaurant and hotel keepers of Michigan display a deplorable lack of loyalty to the agricultural products of the state, according to L. Whitney Watkins, state commissioner of agriculture, who is advocating a comprehensive campaign to advertise Michigan's agricultural products to tourists who come to Michigan.

"Michigan produces more than a million bushels of cherries annually and I believe our sweet cherries are the best grown in the country, yet in the hotels throughout the Grand Traverse region, the heart of the cherry belt, we find it impossible to procure a dish of sweet cherries and fresh cherry pie seems to be unknown," said Mr. Watkins.

"The same thing holds true in the grape belt. During the height of the apple, peach and plum season last year it was impossible to buy these fruits in our hotels because inferior imported fruits were being served. One of the members of the agricultural

by Farley

It is said that scientific research has proven the theory that some people are grudgingly grouchy and others are bubbling with enthusiasm and looking on the bright side of life.

One prominent psychologist said that those who had the gloomier outlook on life blamed only themselves for their miserable performances.

However those who meander happily through life with smiles on their faces usually found some other reason for their failings.

They blamed their teachers for not doing a good job or for being unfair or that some distraction had prevented them from doing their best work. It just wasn't their fault. After analyzing the excuses of both groups it was found that those who were gloomy and depressed were right - that they were at fault but they couldn't accept it and they had to find someone else to blame it on.

So their study came to the conclusion that those who were gloomy and depressed had a far more realistic view of themselves and their life in general.

But the happiness mongers had a tendency to be unrealistic. The chronic grouch is said to be depressed because he is aware that there is a lot to be depressed about. He knows that "Every dark cloud doesn't have a silver

Groundbreaking Ceremony Held For New Gazebo

Groundbreaking ceremonies were held at 2:30 Sunday afternoon for the new gazebo planned for the community and to be located on the Commons near Main and S. Macomb Streets. The old one was portable and could be moved from location to location as needed. No doubt many readers can remember Frank Lowery doing this for the Village when he was their maintenance man. It is hoped the new gazebo will serve the same community functions from its permanent location on the Commons.

The gazebo has been designed by Hobbs and Black, Ann Arbor Architects. Twenty feet in diameter and built with two access stairs, it will be constructed of maintenance free materials, provided with electricity, crowned by a weathervane custom fabricated by local blacksmiths and fitted with a memorial plaque.

Village for community use.

Early in the century the Village owned a gazebo which was used for bank concerts on Main Street and as a reviewing stand for various parades and assemblies. The old one was portable and could be moved from location to location as needed. No doubt many readers can remember Frank Lowery doing this for the Village when he was their maintenance man. It is hoped the new gazebo will serve the same community functions from its permanent location on the Commons.
