lining - that is is more likely to contain rain."

One chap is said to have remarked "If things always have a way of getting better how come the funeral parlors do such a business?" And then somebody told him that "After the storm comes the rainbow." But this miscreant replied that "After the storms then comes flooded basements."

And speaking of attitudes one chap wants to know if you ever saw in a history book of Abe Lincoln with a smile on his face. He seems to have been the gloomiest man ever to be president.

And of course an uncouth character has remarked that the president usually has a slap happy smile on his face because as he himself is accused of saying that he doesn't know what is going on. This same sourpuss said the other day that we had one president who was gloomy because we had the capacity to shoot at each other with a short-range cannon and now we have one who is happy at a time when man has the capacity to destroy itself.

Another columnist--they are the fellows who know all of the answers--says that we should look at the show-business folks who get their pictures in the magazines attending parties. He wonders why they shouldn't look happy with all the "hootch they have consumed and the powder they are snorting". They don't know which of their ends are up! (Maybe he didn't get invited to the party).

But I hope that the above mentioned research proves that people who smile a lot are support to those who don't. The scientists probably will consider that smiling is unnatural while frowning is natural and that probably gravity pulls our faces downward. One smarty pants has remarked that if we were supposed to smile all the time we would have been born with our heads on upside down.

department tried to procure an order of fresh peas in a restaurant in Hart recently. This is the center of the pea growing area, yet all he could get was an order of canned peas that came from another state.

"We have the best flavored and are approaching the best packed fruits and vegetables in the country. Among discriminating buyers our products command a higher price than the products of other localities, but Michigan has yet to sell its products to its own people. I can conceive of no finer way to co-operate in educating the people to the high standing of Michigan agriculture, than to place the fruits and vegetables of the state on every hotel table. The agricultural department is confident that once the high quality of our products is shown to the people of this state and our guests from other states, there will be an unprecedented demand for Michigan products the country over. The missionary work is in the hands of the hotel keepers.

"Several thousand bulletins are sent out by this department monthly to the citizens of Michigan and to prospective tourists and settlers. We will incorporate in these bulletins an honor roll of all the Michigan hotels and restaurants that serve and specialize in Michigan fruits and vegetables. Owners of these hotels are asked to send their names to the department of agriculture at Lansing."

Mr. Watkins in the same statement issues an appeal to the housewives of Michigan, that they "as loyal citizens of the state, buy and use Michigan products, for in no other way can they do as much to help the Michigan farmer."

Chicken Broil Time!

If it's summer in Manchester, the Chicken Broil must be right around the corner. Mark your calendars for Thursday, July 16th, and plan to do no cooking that evening. Let the men of our town do it for you. Once again, the armies of the Chicken Broil will be out in force to cook up 10,000 or more chicken halves in the time-honored fashion. Radishes will roll, cabbage will transform itself into the famous secret slaw, and if all goes well, the skies will smile down on one of the biggest suppers in America.

On that one day of the year, a stranger driving through Manchester can find out exactly what those signs at the village limits mean, the ones that say "Home of the Famous Chicken Broil." The deputies directing traffic and the clouds of smoke rolling from the athletic field are not signs of a major fire, and the horses pulling wagon loads of commuters from the high school are not evidence of a time warp. This dinner, big enough to feed Paul Bunyan, is Manchester's main event, and it is still going strong after 33 years.

So, you fans of chicken and tradition, plan to come out on July 16th for an annual treat. Serving starts at 4:00 p.m., and there will be the usual take-out line for those who want to eat at home. Profits will go to a worthwhile local project. Tickets are available from Broil volunteers and many local businesses for $4.50 before the Broil and $5.00 at the gate.

Junior Playground Site Moved

Jr. Playground activities planned to start at 1:00 p.m. on June 15, will not be held at the Middle School as previously announced. The recreation activities will take place in the Klager School Multi-Purpose Room for the remainder of the program.

Sand Box Fill Day

The Manchester Mens Club will have their Annual "Sand Box Fill Day" on Saturday, June 20.

To have your child's sandbox filled please call Keiths Barber Shop at 428-8584.

MHS Student To Represent Manchester In Europe

Jacqueline Davis, a junior at Manchester High School, will visit Europe this summer as a member of the Blue Lake International Symphony Band.

The 98-piece Band will depart from Detroit on June 17, and return on July 15. While in Europe, it will tour Belgium, Holland, Luxembourg, Switzerland, and West Germany.

The Band will be conducted by Mr. William Gourley, Director at Chelsea High School.

Also participating in the month-long European tour will be a 90-member Symphony Orchestra which will tour Belgium, Holland, Austria and West Germany, and a 65-voice Choir which will also perform in Belgium, Holland, and West Germany.

Most of the 250 talented young Blue Lake musicians who will make the European trip are from Michigan, but a few are from Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin, Missouri, Iowa and Washington.

Jacqueline, who plays the clarinet, has been traveling to Blue Lake once a month since the fall of 1985 to rehearse with the Blue Lake group. Blue Lake, one of the nation's largest summer music camps, is located about 15 miles north of Muskegon.

Jacqueline is the daughter of Kay and Milton Davis. In addition to music, Jacqueline is also involved with the Drama Club, Manchester S.A.D.D. Chapter, National Honor Society and Lamb Club.

It is important that the public keep itself informed in matters of schools and school administration. Each community very commendably thinks it has the best. But along with generous expenditure of

When you look at the other commercials the car dealers aren't the only transgressors in the field. Take the jeans commercials composers for example. They depict, says my friend, wierdo jeans wearer in outer space sunglasses, and females wearing jeans and their undies and chunky fellers wearing jeans and nothing else, who slouch around on the street corners.

One of his favorite commercials he says, contains the two down-home blues singers who warble about their joys about their jeans. Remember this one? The jeans are pre-washed and faded to match their faded work shirts and their beat up work shoes. It made him he says, want to become a mellow down-home blues singer.

Among other things that I've investigated are the beer commercials. I won't drink a certain beer because a certain clever dog laps it up. Then there is Dick Butkis and Rodney Dangerfield and Micky Spillaine and a bunch of rumpots carrying on like they were looped.

On the other end of the commercials as they are presented is the one showing well dressed superintendent, the handsome executive in a $1,000 suit standing in a sleek office of a New York high rise making powerful decisions who then rides home to one of the Westchester suburbs. There he deserves and gets a certain kind of beer, which he richly deserves, and that's what lies at the end of the road to success in this here country.

Maybe so, and the way things are going, perhaps it is all too true. There's many more of these what someone has called imbecilic s--- pitches but this is enough or too much for now at least.

Michigan now has about 110 of the Smith-Hughes schools in operation. Of this number 82 are receiving federal aid. This is an average of one school for each county of the state. Washtenaw county has three of these schools: Ypsilanti, Milan and Manchester.

"Opinion"

It all started last year in Brighton. Somebody sued the City of Brighton over an injury resulting from the 4th of July fireworks celebration.

Manchester Township reacted to the Brighton incident by refusing fire protection and manpower to set off our fireworks unless the sponsoring organization produced a $5 million liability insurance policy - a demand which is not only too costly at $2,000, but which is not available. A $500,000 policy was purchased last year and the Men's Club offered a $1 million policy for 1987, but the Township stood firm.

So the buck passed to the Village Council, who checked with the village attorney (in Chelsea). The village attorney agreed that $5 million was minimal protection. In fact, that probably wouldn't even be enough.

The Council agreed with the Township that fireworks just shouldn't be held this year and refused to have them in Carr Park without the $5 million policy.

Fireworks do certainly carry a certain amount of risk. It is probably right in there with taking a bath, crossing the street or eating sushi. Lawsuit fever seems to affect more people every day. Fear of being sued leads to exorbitant fees, shortages of some medical services and cancellations of some public events that are meaningful and an important part of our lives.

The fireworks aren't the only events in Manchester that may suffer from increased demands for insurance coverage. The Chicken Broil has potential for at least as much disaster as fireworks produce. And what about the Fair, with its carnival rides, the Street Fair with the beer tent and potential for resultant drunk driving? What about the beer tent that is planned for whatever is left of our 4th of July celebration? All these things probably have more potential for disaster than a well-planned and carefully monitored fireworks display.

It seems that Manchester has taken the safe route. But when do the benefits outweigh the risks? If we are to cover ourselves with layers of protection by taking away entertaining events that bring more people in to appreciate our village, how can we justify presenting ourselves as a progressive community? When our local governments take away one of the few events that we all look forward to how can we expect increases in local taxes to be accepted without a fight?

When a community loses something like the fireworks, it loses something more. When the local governments shy away from any risks they begin to lose credibility. You can't build a community by taking parts of it away. When the fireworks, the Chicken Broil, the Fair, Street Fair and all the ice cream socials are gone, what do our local governments plan to replace them with? Have they offered the Men's Club any alternatives? It is easier to just say no. The alternatives they have left to you and me, and there is precious little time to look into them.

We have been told that fireworks can probably still be purchased, and that there are people here willing to set them off. We have also been told that nobody went to the Village Council meeting June 1, to protest the cancellation. Should we just lose this event in the year of the 150th anniversary of our statehood? Or should we tell our government, elected by us and working in our interests, that we want fireworks this year?

The Village Council works for you. Talk to them - John Hinkley, Ted Tapping, Terry Harris, Don Limpert, Wendell Reinhardt or Joe Marshall. They're almost all in the telephone book. If you want fireworks, tell them. If you can think of anything that would replace them in our 4th of July celebration, tell them that, too.

Libraries Gear Up For Summer

New readers throughout the state will be marching to Michigan's public libraries this summer to "Join the Parade of Readers" in the first statewide library summer reading program for children.

Developed to encourage children to use their reading skills throughout the summer months, the program is funded by a grant from the Michigan Council for the Humanities. It is sponsored by the Library of Michigan and the Children's Services Division of the Michigan Library Association.

Over 428 libraries throughout the state, including headquarters and branch sites, will use the materials developed around the "Parade of Readers" theme. Children who register for the reading program will receive a reading record to keep track of books read during the summer, a certificate of participation and a T-shirt iron-on.

Special events, programs and projects designed for pre-school through eighth grade will be featured at participating libraries. Puppet shows, craft projects, programs on the state's history and resources and read-to-me programs are among the suggested events. Each library will plan programs and events locally.

While the summer reading program runs for six to eight weeks, children are not required to participate for the entire summer. While on vacation away from home, children may participate at the closest local public library.

Children may register for the summer reading program at their local participating public library. Most programs begin in June.

Roadside Flowers Planted

Natural beauty will return to the roadside along reconstructed Interstate 96 Freeway in Ionia County, thanks to a cooperative venture by Interstate Highway Construction Inc., and the Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT).

The project is the seeding this month of a variety of wildflowers in two rest areas and on segments of the freeway which have been reconstructed for the department by the Michigan/Colorado contractor.

Owners of the construction company, Ralph C. Wilson Industries Inc. of Detroit, have contributed $10,000 toward the planting of wildflowers in these locations. Interstate's contract with MDOT includes $28,000 in state money for the seeding.

"This is an unusual joint venture," said MDOT Director James P. Pitz, "and we hope it is the first of many. We gratefully accept Wilson's and Interstate's help in reestablishing wildflowers along Michigan highways."

Ned Evans, Wilson vice president, and Jack Kzeski, superintendent of Interstate, said they are contributing to the plantings as "a legacy for future generations," and they encourage other road builders to follow their example.

The wildflowers will be seeded in several roadside segments along I-96 between Grand Rapids and Portland. The rest area plantings, eastbound near Saranac and westbound by Portland, will include special plots of wildflowers for future seed harvesting. At least one five-acre plot will be sown with seeds obtained from native Michigan wildflowers. Among them are blackeyed susan, lupine, blazing star and milkweed and a variety of asters, goldenrods and coneflowers.

Michigan's mild spring weather should help propel camping activity to even greater heights than in 1986 when 40 percent of the state's private campgrounds established revenue records, reports AAA Michigan.

State park reservations are 18 percent above last year while advance bookings at private facilities also are up through the first quarter of 1987.

AAA Michigan's 1987 private campground guide includes 388 facilities which have between 30 and 2,400 sites. Most of the 39,871 campsites listed have direct access to a pool or a lake and nearly all facilities accept telephone reservations.

The average daily cost for a campsite with electricity is $9.51, 84 cents higher than last year. Daily prices run from $2 for electricity-only sites to $20 for sites offering such amenities as showers, flush toilets, trailer sanitation disposals and at-site water hook-ups.

Approximately 60 percent of all Michigan campsites are in private facilities.

Seventy of the 89 state parks offer camping, with 14,423 campsites available, a slight increase over 1986.

All state campgrounds take reservations, but at least half of the spaces at each facility are available for campers on a first-come, first-serve basis. The minimum number of nights needed to reserve a campsite is two in the Lower Peninsula and one in the Upper Peninsula.

Nightly state park fees, unchanged from last year, are: $8 for a site with electricity; $6, semi-modern site; $4, rustic site; $4 reservation fee; $2 daily park entrance; and a $10 annual park entry permit.

Campers can reserve a state park site by either mailing a check and reservation form to the park or telephoning at least one week in advance. Reservation forms are available from the Department of Natural Resources Information Services, Mason Building, Box 30028, Lansing, MI 48909.

For a more rustic experience, there are about 3,000 state forest campsites, and many have access to water for fishing or launching a boat. Most sites are $4 nightly but can be as low as $1 for senior citizens. Free camping is available to persons who volunteer to serve as campground hosts.

Campground host program information is available by writing: Volunteers for Natural Resources, Department of Natural Resources, Box 30028, Lansing, MI 48909; or calling 517-373-8112.

The National AAA Campbook lists 1,384 National Forest Service campsites at 55 national forests in Michigan. Sites are available on a first-come, first-serve basis with a maximum stay of 14 nights.

Eleven national parks with 613 campsites in Michigan are listed in the Campbook, which also includes 37 county, township or municipal campgrounds with 3,375 sites.

For a more rustic experience, there are about 3,000 state forest campsites, and many have access to water for fishing or launching a boat. Most sites are $4 nightly but can be as low as $1 for senior citizens. Free camping is available to persons who volunteer to serve as campground hosts.

Campground host program information is available by writing: Volunteers for Natural Resources, Department of Natural Resources, Box 30028, Lansing, MI 48909; or calling 517-373-8112.

The National AAA Campbook lists 1,384 National Forest Service campsites at 55 national forests in Michigan. Sites are available on a first-come, first-serve basis with a maximum stay of 14 nights.

Eleven national parks with 613 campsites in Michigan are listed in the Campbook, which also includes 37 county, township or municipal campgrounds with 3,375 sites.

Michigan's mild spring weather should help propel camping activity to even greater heights than in 1986 when 40 percent of the state's private campgrounds established revenue records, reports AAA Michigan.

State park reservations are 18 percent above last year while advance bookings at private facilities also are up through the first quarter of 1987.

AAA Michigan's 1987 private campground guide includes 388 facilities which have between 30 and 2,400 sites. Most of the 39,871 campsites listed have direct access to a pool or a lake and nearly all facilities accept telephone reservations.

The average daily cost for a campsite with electricity is $9.51, 84 cents higher than last year. Daily prices run from $2 for electricity-only sites to $20 for sites offering such amenities as showers, flush toilets, trailer sanitation disposals and at-site water hook-ups.

Approximately 60 percent of all Michigan campsites are in private facilities.

Seventy of the 89 state parks offer camping, with 14,423 campsites available, a slight increase over 1986.

All state campgrounds take reservations, but at least half of the spaces at each facility are available for campers on a first-come, first-serve basis. The minimum number of nights needed to reserve a campsite is two in the Lower Peninsula and one in the Upper Peninsula.

Nightly state park fees, unchanged from last year, are: $8 for a site with electricity; $6, semi-modern site; $4, rustic site; $4 reservation fee; $2 daily park entrance; and a $10 annual park entry permit.

House Votes In Favor Of Bill

Victims of crimes committed by juveniles would receive notification, participation, protection and restitution based upon legislation passed today in the Michigan House, said an area lawmaker

MSU AG Conference Held

who co-sponsored the bill. Rep. Margaret O'Connor (R-Ann Arbor) said that House Bill 4240 applies to crimes that would be felonies if the individual had been an adult.

The legislation would add an important new chapter to the 1985 Crime Victims' Rights Act which dealt with adult offenses. The House voted 104-0 in favor of the bill and sent it to the Senate for further consideration.

"The juvenile court system is far different from the system that tries adults. Yet, the impact of crimes committed by juveniles can be just as severe and rights for victims must be established."

Under the legislation:

- victims would be notified of rights and hearings;
- there would be prompt return of victim's property;
- juveniles would be placed in custody if there are threats made to the victim;
- information about the victim could be kept confidential;
- victims would have the right to be present during trial;
- victims would have the right to make impact statements to the judge;
- victims' restitution would be established and emphasized.

"These safeguards are the logical extension of protections we already give to victims of adult criminals under the Crime Victims' Rights Act. That's why I co-sponsored this legislation. With Senate action we can complete the process begun in 1985. By doing so, Michigan will continue as leader in crime victims' rights," Mrs. O'Connor said.

The MACPA maintains offices in Farmington Hills and serves over 10,000 CPAs in Michigan through its educational and professional programs.

More than 150 Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service county directors and agricultural agents spent May 11-12 gathering background on the future of Michigan agriculture.

Morse Brown, Washtenaw County Cooperative Extension Service Director, Joseph W. Ames and Ivan Camacho, Washtenaw County Extension Agriculture Agents were among the delegates who attended the session near Thompsonville.

The purpose of the two-day discussion was to focus on the international and domestic issues affecting agriculture. Topics ranged from a detailed analysis of international trade barriers to political influences that shape the development of national agricultural policy.

To help shape the analysis of these factors, some of the nation's leading agricultural economists and agribusiness representatives were retained as speakers. They included David Blandford, of Cornell University; Dale Hathaway, former Undersecretary of the U.S. Department of Agriculture; Edward Valliere, Bil-Mar Foods, Inc.; and William Renkema, Pro-Fac Cooperative, Inc.

The intent of the conference was to provide delegates with a perspective on the future of agriculture that they can use in planning local extension agricultural education programs during the next several years.

Michigan Air Travel Soars To New Record

The volume of travel on scheduled airlines serving Michigan moved up sharply in 1986 for the fourth straight year and set a new record, the Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) reports.

State Transportation Director James P. Pitz said 1987 should be another year of growth for the State of Michigan as a whole.

Boarding and de-planing passengers at Michigan's 23 airports with scheduled air service totaled 20.3 million during 1986. Passenger volumes were up 11.5 percent over the 18.2 million total in 1985, the previous high.

The year 1986 set an all-time record for airline passengers in the state of Michigan.

"Reports in the first three months of this year indicate that air travel is continuing on the upswing on a statewide basis, particularly at the larger airports," Pitz said.

The five busiest airports accounted for 96.1 percent of the total air traffic in 1986. The five are Detroit Metropolitan, with 84.1 percent of total traffic; Kent County International at Grand Rapids, 6.1 percent; Capital City at Lansing, 1.9 percent; Tri-County near Saginaw, 2 percent, and Kalamazoo Municipal, 2 percent.

"This trend has generally been observed throughout the Country," Pitz said. "As one of the impacts of air service deregulation, the larger, busier airports are handling a larger share of the market and smaller airports are experiencing a decline in service and passenger levels."

"This is especially true at Detroit Metropolitan Airport which set an all-time record of 18 million total passengers in 1986.

"Much of the increase stems from three main factors—Detroit was designated and is utilized as a hub by Northwest Airlines; the economic climate has improved in Michigan; and there is the tendency of many residents in lower Michigan to use the Detroit airport rather than use their local airport."

Two other findings of this statistical evaluation are:

- Eleven of the airports showed increases in 1986 over 1985, while twelve suffered decreases.
- The airports showing the largest increases in 1986 over 1985 were Ironwood (28 percent), Detroit Metropolitan (13.0 percent) and Pellston (12.9 percent).

FB Urges Balanced Approach For Groundwater Protection

Development of national groundwater standards is creating a dilemma for the agricultural community, according to Al Almy, director of public affairs for the Michigan Farm Bureau. Congress is expected to tackle the groundwater issue this year.

"The farm community is faced with the need to ensure that millions of private wells in rural areas remain a safe source of drinking water and also the need to assure that the means to that end don't make farming an unprofitable or impractical venture," Almy said.

"The definition of underground sources of drinking water must be carefully written to prevent the over-regulation of some groundwater areas or create an inadequate degree of protection of existing wells. Farmers want safe sources of drinking water but have a necessary reliance on pesticides to ensure efficient production of food and fiber.

"Farm Bureau supports a strong, comprehensive monitoring program, but we're concerned that indiscriminate monitoring requirements for certain products may result in cancellation of a product regardless of whether it threatens human health," he said.

Almy said that legislation to reverse the nation's spreading groundwater contamination problem should have a balanced approach of protecting public health and the environment and maintaining a viable agricultural industry.

Light Dessert Cakes

Nothing complements a springtime meal more superbly than light dessert cakes, featuring garden fresh fruit and gelatin.

Imagine the "ooh's" and "ahh's" as Royal Strawberry Poundcake makes its entrance to celebrate spring's arrival. Perfect for lunch, brunch or dinner, this dessert offers a unique twist to a classic American favorite. In the second spring dessert, shortbread cookies create a tasty crust for a mouth-watering fruit tart. This simple dessert is filled with Royal Vanilla Instant Pudding & Pie Filling, peach yogurt and fresh fruit.

Both recipes create convenient no-bake treats that will leave guests begging for the recipe, but only the chef need know how simple they are to prepare.

ROYAL STRAWBERRY SHORTCAKE
(Makes 6 servings)

- 1 (3-ounce) package Royal Strawberry Gelatin
- ½ cup boiling water
- ½ cup cold water
- 6 (½-inch thick) slices prepared pound cake, toasted
- 1½ cups heavy cream
- 1 pint strawberries

In small bowl, dissolve 3 tablespoons gelatin powder in boiling water; stir in cold water. Lay pound cake slices flat in jelly roll pan or 13 x 9 x 2-inch baking pan; gradually spoon gelatin mixture over cake slices until absorbed. Refrigerate at least 30 minutes.

Set aside 6 strawberries for garnish; slice remaining berries. In medium bowl, with electric mixer at medium speed, beat heavy cream and remaining undissolved gelatin until soft peaks form. Spoon strawberries over pound cake slices; top with whipped cream mixture and reserved strawberries.

FRUIT TART
(Makes 8 servings)

- 21 shortbread cookies, finely rolled (about 1½ cups crumbs)
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 3 tablespoons margarine or butter blend, melted
- 2 (3 3/8-ounce) packages Royal Vanilla Instant Pudding & Pie Filling
- 1½ cups milk
- 2 cups peach yogurt
- Assorted fresh, frozen or drained canned fruits (strawberries, grapes, peaches, etc.)

In small bowl, combine shortbread cookie crumbs, sugar and margarine or butter blend. Press onto bottom and 1-inch up side of 9-inch springform pan.

In medium bowl, prepare pudding according to package directions for pie, using milk and peach yogurt; pour into prepared crust. Chill until firm, at least 2 hours.

To serve, remove side of pan; arrange fruit on tart.

SesquiTrain '87 Travels 150 Miles In 13 Days

Led by a prairie schooner replica, a nearly three-mile-long horse-powered SesquiTrain will travel 150 miles through Southern Michigan during a 13-day celebration in mid-June, reports AAA Michigan.

Nearly 100 wagons, carriages and coaches representing Michigan, Iowa, Indiana, Georgia, Ohio and Canada will travel about four miles per hour, giving spectators an opportunity to see how settlers traveled to Michigan.

SesquiTrain '87 will begin its loop trip in Lansing June 15. It will camp at Charlotte, June 15; Olivet, June 16; Marshall, June 17; Albion, June 18; Jackson, June 19-21; Munith, June 22; Pinckney, June 23; Brighton, June 24; Fowlerville, June 25; Williamston, June 26; and returns to the state capital June 27.

Sponsored by the Michigan Department of Agriculture, the train will be accompanied by more than 136 outriders and Pony Express teams. Nearly 500 persons and 365 horses will be part of the train.

Participants may join the train at any time and stay as long as they wish. There is no fee, but advance registration is required with the Michigan Sesquicentennial office, 517-482-1987.

Spectators cannot ride in the train, but they can talk to the participants when the train stops or watch it as it travels. When the train makes camp, spectators can get a close-up look at the wagons, including the prairie schooner.

The lead wagon is one of 50 built by an Arkansas carriage-maker in the early 1970s. It represented Michigan in the 1976 Bicentennial Wagon Train Pilgrimage to Valley Forge and is on loan from the Michigan State Historical Museum where it has been on display since 1980.

The smaller successor to the Conestoga wagon, the prairie schooner's large wheels were developed to navigate the rough trails common in the Midwest in the 1830s.

Those who wish to see the schooner and other wagons under way may do so as it follows this route: I-69 access road from Lansing to Charlotte, Old U.S. 27 from Charlotte to Marshall, Michigan Road from Marshall to Jackson, M-106 from Jackson to Pinckney, Pinckney Lake Road from Pinckney to Brighton and Grand River from Brighton to Lansing.

At each encampment in host towns, a group of local youths will perform "Make Mine Michigan," a musical history of the state written by two music teachers. Local entertainment will follow.

While in Charlotte, the Mini-Theatre of Charlotte will perform "Sesqui-What?", a spoof of the state's 150th year of statehood, followed by square dancing and a western sing-a-long.

For children, the Girl Scout troop at Parkview School will have a display of pioneer life at Kardel all at the fairgrounds, where the train will set up camp.

A chicken dinner will be served by the Lions Club, and the Future Farmers of America will provide breakfast before the train leaves in the morning.

Pigs donated by area farmers will be roasted to feed the wagon train participants at the Starr Commonwealth Schools in Albion.

When the train enters Albion, it will be greeted by an equestrian team which will escort the wagons to the campground site behind Albion Senior High School. Local church groups will provide breakfast and dinner for the wagon train while in Albion.

Celebrate Michigan's 150

The train plans to follow this route: I-69 access road from Lansing to Charlotte, Old US-27 from Charlotte to Marshall, Michigan Road from Marshall to Jackson, M-106 from Jackson to Pinckney, Pinckney Lake Road from Pinckney to Brighton and Grand River from Brighton to Lansing. Spectators can watch the train en route and talk to the participants in camp. Anyone interested in taking part should contact the Michigan Sesquicentennial Office at (517) 482-1987.

Broil Funds Help Build Manchester

For the past 33 years money from the annual Charcoal Chicken Broil has helped renew and improve the village. By its 30th year, in 1983, funds raised by the Chicken Broil totaled more than $110,000.

The service groups involved in the planning of the Broil have financed projects mostly for the youth in Manchester, putting lights on the playing fields, purchasing and improving the parks and recreational facilities.

In 1983 the Blacksmith Shop was purchased and dedicated to the Historical Society. The building is now used as a meeting place for that and other local groups, and as a showplace during annual events like the Street Fair, Mayor Exchange Day, and Chicken Broil Day.

Chi-Bro Park, by the water tower on Ann Arbor Hill, is a little used park because it has no ball diamonds and little play equipment. But it is a beautiful natural park with a small lake and nature trails and a very peaceful atmosphere. It was purchased with funds from the Broil in the early 1980s.

Lately funds have also been expended to benefit the Senior Citizens. The Lifeline program in the area allows Seniors with health problems to activate a device which will summon emergency medical aid when they are unable to reach the telephone. It is possible that profits from this year's Broil will expand the program by buying more of this equipment.

Profits from the Broil have generally increased over the years, although the weather certainly determines much of the outcome. Most of the recent years have averaged between $7,000 and $9,000.

MACC Initiates Phone Study

As a means of assisting phone service improvement in the Manchester area, Jim Mann, Director of Organizational Relations of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce, has developed a form on which businesses and residents can log details of problems encountered.

Forms may be obtained from Jim Mann at Spears and Associates, Mark VanBogelen at First of America, Judy Fahey at Fahey Realty, or David Little at Great Lakes. To insure the accuracy of the study, the logs need to be kept over an extended period of time. The Chamber of Commerce plans to turn in batches of forms to Michigan Bell each month, so businesses and residents should turn in their forms to one of the above locations on a regular basis.

Michigan Visited In Early Days

Game Was Abundant And Attracted Many Hunters Before Settlers Took Up Land.

Manchester Enterprise March 24, 1927

Many more than 100 years ago French voyagers made their way from Quebec and Montreal to Detroit, Mackinac and also to various points on all the Great Lakes. Missionaries and adventurers had learned about the great empire of the west and had followed the explorers, and even substantial residents of eastern states had visited Detroit where they learned about the beauty and fertility of Michigan and they made excursions into the interior to verify the reports.

Naturally they traveled in the direction of Ypsilanti because they wished to see how the land looked at the source of the Huron river, but Ypsilanti had not yet been staked out. We have it from good reports that many visited this section, because it was on the good report of some of them that some of the first settlers here were induced to stake out claims.

Some continued west up the Huron river and passed what is now Ann Arbor and Dexter and then went south, passing the "Great bend of the Raisin," as this section was afterward known by settlers from the east. Continuing, some passed on down Evans creek until they reached its junction with the Raisin river near Tecumseh, then east to Monroe.

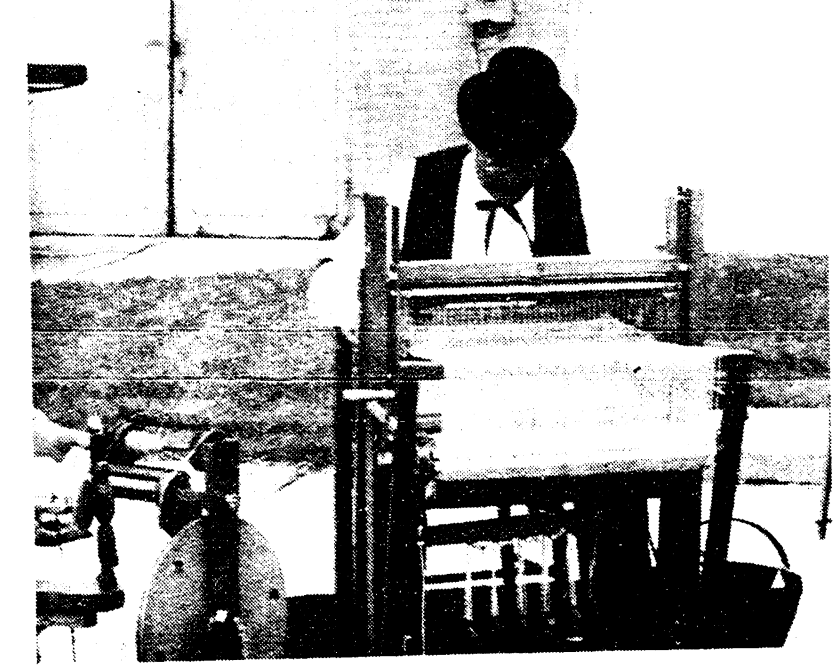

Early settlers afterward told about "land lookers" making a circuit similar to this.

Others landed at Monroe and came west from there through a trackless timber region for upwards of 25 miles.

We recollect attending many meetings of pioneers when a small lad and was fascinated, sometimes even frightened, by exciting tales of encounters with Indians and wild animals of various kinds and of the trial of cutting their way
