State Attorney General Frank J. Kelly will be the dedication speaker of the new gazebo on Thursday, July 16, at 2 p.m. on the Commons on West Main Street between South Washington and South Macomb Streets. Heritage Day festivities will begin at 1 p.m. with 19th Century craft demonstrations on spinning, weaving, rug hooking, candlemaking, basketmaking, quilting, plants and herbs, and clothing. A restored wagon of the type used by the early settlers to this area will be on display and the Glen Erin Pipers will provide the entertainment. ## Tecumseh Is 100 Years Old Celebrates Anniversary In A Highly Interesting Manner During July 3, 4, and 5.

Manchester Enterprise July 10, 1924

The one hundredth anniversary of the settlement of Tecumseh drew a large number of former residents of the village and community there last Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

The program arranged by the committee, of which Joseph H. Smith was chairman, was one of the great interest and was thoroughly enjoyed. The floats were numerous and beautiful, depicting historical scenes, and the pageant presented by a cast of several hundred actors, was surely one of the finest that had been produced in the state. Many of our Manchester people who attended the Ypsilanti carnival last year saw the only one to surpass the Tecumseh pageant, if it really did.

In the store windows were shown an endless variety of relics of old times, long since almost forgotten—and great crowds stood gazing in wonder and astonishment at the crude things our forefathers and mothers used in their daily tasks in house and field.

While passing up and down the beautiful business section the visitor met for the first time in many years an old boy or girl schoolmate, which was surely one of the most satisfying features of the celebration. It was indeed a great pleasure to once more grasp the hand of a schoolmate and review the days when "readin', writin', and 'rithmetic were taught in the Brownsville, or upper and lower, district schools of the little village.

Many spoke of the joy that was brought to them when they "graduated from the district to the new high school building way back there nearly 70 years ago. Some could recall attending the old "university," a branch of the state institution at Ann Arbor. It seemed good to live over for a day the merry scenes of long ago.

There are a few of the old buildings and residences of say 60 to 80 years ago still standing, but they have been changed and improved more or less, besides shade trees surround them, making them almost unrecognizable. However, the old Episcopal church retains its original exterior appearance very well. Some of the former attendants of the church took occasion to attend services at St. Peters Sunday afternoon and expressed themselves as delighted with the services and sermon, though the interior arrangement of the sanctuary has been greatly changed.

Rev. Frederick Hewitt, a former pastor of St. Peters, gave a most interesting address at the M.E. church, eulogizing the pioneers Evans, Wing and Brown, who located the village, and spoke in praise of others who were responsible for its growth.

Local Company Receives Special Recognition

Johnson Controls, Plastics Machinery Division, has received special recognition for its outstanding safety record. In special ceremonies held, Johnson Controls 400 employees were awarded four safety performance awards. These awards include the National Safety Council's Award of Merit, Johnson Controls Silver Award for best divisional safety record for achieving the greatest overall improvement in a safety record, the National Loss Control Service Corporation certificate for accomplishing one-million consecutive worker hours without a lost-time accident and the Michigan Department of Labor, Safety Education and Training Division's Safety Performance Award for completing over one-year without a lost-time accident.

We're very proud of the outstanding safety record of our people at Manchester, Michigan," states Jim Keyes, President and Chief Operating Officer of Johnson Controls. "Their accomplishments reflect Johnson Controls commitment to workplace safety and our pledge to work together to provide our customers with the best quality and performance possible."

Special recognition speakers included: Stanley F. Raber, General Manager, of North American Operations, Johnson Controls, Plastics Machinery Division, John M. Barth, Vice President, Johnsons Controls, Plastics Technology Group; Johnson Controls President and Chief Operating Officer James H. Keyes; and Allan Harvie, Deputy Director of the Safety Education and Training Division of the Michigan Department of Labor.

The Plastics Machinery Division's success is due in great part to its continuing commitment to safety. Safety incentive contest, plant goals and monthly/yearly safety awards help install in the employees a need to practice on-the-job safety each and every day. The Manchester employees also received a variety of training from the Michigan Department of Labor, Safety Education and Training Division including supervisor and employee training, loss control consultation and back injury prevention training.

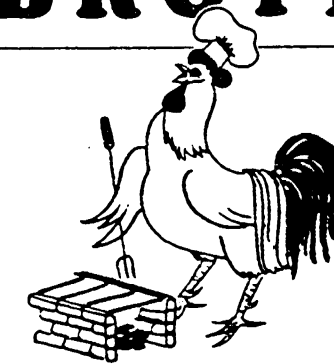

The Johnson Controls Plastics Machinery Division is one of the world's leading suppliers of blow-molding machine systems. These machines mold plastic parts and containers from a few cc's up to 55 gallons. Over 98 percent of all plastic dairy containers and most major producers of detergents, bleaches, personal care, cosmetics, pharmaceutical, petrochemical, food products use plastic containers manufactured under the Company's Uniloy System trademark name. Johnson Controls has four major businesses: building controls, automotive seating and batteries and plastics.

Letter To The Editor

Open letter to the "pranksters(?)" who showed so little respect for, not only other people's property and possessions, but this very community and country we live in.

On Friday, June 5, someone entered our yard and stole both our American and MSU flags from our flagpole. The MSU flag was a gift from our daughter who attends MSU and, more importantly, the American Flag was the one that draped my husband's father's casket as he was an Army veteran who served our country during World War II.

My husband labored last year to build and raise the flagpole so that he could proudly display this tribute to both his father and his country. Flag Day has come and gone and now, as Independence Day approaches, we find it very sad to look out at a bare flagpole.

We are very grateful to the concerned citizens who responded to our ad and told us of the quantity of flags that were found in the river near the American Legion on June 6. We have also received information in terms of names and addresses of possible suspects. None of this helps get our flags back and no replacement will ever hold the same meaning, however, the concern of the callers helps us to know that people do care.

To think of this as a joke is very disheartening. Whatever led anyone to do this disrespectful, uncaring, and senseless act is beyond our comprehension.

In closing, we would like to thank the American Legion Post for their thoughtful article in last week's Enterprise-our sentiments, exactly!

"Under The Oaks"

Jackson, Michigan, located 30 miles south of Lansing and an hour's drive west of the Detroit Airport, is the city in which the Republican Party was founded 133 years ago this July.

On Saturday, July 11, at 2:30 p.m., Republicans from throughout Michigan will gather to dedicate the "Under the Oaks" historical park marking the 133rd birthday of the Republican Party. The Republican Party was founded in 1854 amid controversy over the most explosive issue of that day-slavery. In 1850, a Jackson minister presented an anti-slavery sermon which rocked the town and planted the seed of the anti-slavery movement here. It was widely rumored that his Congregational Church in Jackson was a stop on the Underground Railroad. (At 3:30 p.m., a ceremony will be held in that same historic church.)

After four years of stirring the political pot, Jackson's leaders called for the 1854 convention in which occurred July 6, under the oak trees at Morgan's Forty which is today Second and Franklin Sts. near downtown Jackson. It was a strong anti-slavery meeting.

In 1910, President Taft

dedicated a marker on the spot and President Eisenhower spoke under the oaks in 1952 as did Vice President Nixon in 1954. This year, the Jackson County Republican Party raised the $33,000 necessary to convert the site into an historical park which features brick walkways, flower gardens and two large historical markers. This dedication is also part of Michigan's Sesquicentennial celebration. The land was donated by Michael Dively and Jerry Roe.

Bruce Hanks, a descendant and look-alike of Abraham Lincoln, will be joined by other citizens dressed in costumes of the period. If you have further questions, please contact L.J. Moody in Jackson at 517-787-8198.

Soap Bubble Magic

If you thought you saw huge bubbles in the breeze Thursday afternoon coming from Klager School, you really did! A special activity during the Summer Migrant School Program had thirty children and several teachers discovering the characteristics of bubbles and the art of making them. English and Spanish words were exchanged to describe the size, shape and color of the bubbles. A variety of wands were used also - pipe cleaners, rubber bands, string, straws, funnels, and even a potato masher! Clean-up was especially easy.

4th Of July Celebration

Young Americans at Klager Elementary started to celebrate early. Children in the Summer Migrant Program made "toy streamers" in red, white and blue. They marched and waved them in the true American Spirit. After learning about Betsy Ross and the first American Flag, children enjoyed the cookies they made - which were, of course, red, white and blue.

Brown Bear, Brown Bear

Mrs. Kay Miller and Mr. Jay Wilde's 1st, 2nd and 3rd graders are memorizing BROWN BEAR, BROWN BEAR. They have made a book of BROWN BEAR to take home and share with their family. BROWN BEAR, BROWN BEAR is an excellent book to use to teach color words and rhyming words. Its also a lot of fun to read.

Measuring the streamers is easiest if you have a helper.

Transportation In Michigan History

Bicyclists Led The Way To Good Highways
By Edward J. Boucher

Driving on any crowded highway or freeway today makes it hard to believe that bicycles once ruled the road in Michigan. And it takes more imagination to believe that the bicycle—not the motor car—led Michigan out of the mud into the paved roads of the 20th Century.

When bikes were "it"—Stylish Mrs. Frank Abbey pedals down a street in Grand Ledge, Michigan, in 1896. Bicycles vastly outnumbered automobiles in the early years of the century, and cyclists were Michigan's first good-roads advocates.

For a brief period of time from the 1880s to shortly after the turn of the century, anyone who could afford a "wheel" was king of the road.

The first bicycles, known as "bones," were simply a big wheel with pedals coupled to a small wheel. Not for everyone, they were hard to mount and harder to ride. Most of the weight was directly over the big front wheel, causing riders to be thrown over the handlebars on rough roads or going downhill.

The bicycle, invented by a game warden in Germany in 1816, soon spread to America and by 1868 enjoyed growing popularity, particularly among younger and more athletic groups.

The original bicycle, with two wheels of equal size, resembled modern bicycles more than the subsequent bicycles produced in the 1860s and 1870s. In 1885, an Englishman named J.K. Stanley invented the so called "safety bicycle" with two equal wheels that was easier and safer to ride.

Today, most bicycles look alike, but toward the end of the 19th Century, every manufacturer, inventor and bicycle mechanic tried to outdo each other designing and producing a better bicycle.

There were bicycles with big wheels in front and in back, bicycles with two wheels in front and one in back, bicycles with four wheels, tandem bicycles, bicycles with seats between the wheels and bicycles with steam and gasoline motors.

with miles of line to patrol, used bicycles fitted with maintenance gear. Circus performers used special bicycles for high-wire acts and trick riding and thieves and pickpockets used them for fast get-aways on crowded streets.

A new industry sprang up to provide bicycle accessories, including carbide lamps, clothing and medical treatment for bumps, bruises, broken limbs and sore muscles. Around 1888, women began to ride, ushering in new concepts in dress. Manufacturing techniques, including production lines, electric welding, improved metals and wider use and demand for road maps prepared the way for development of the automobile.

For the first time in the history of the human race, the bicycle offered mobility for recreation and work to those whose previous range of travel was bounded by trolley and railroad lines, the cost of maintaining a horse and buggy, or by aching feet.

But beyond the bone-jarring brick and cobblestone paving of city streets of the time, touring bicyclists faced mud, sand, loose gravel, angry farmers and, more often, no roads at all.

To improve roads, Michigan bicyclists organized into the League of American Wheelmen (LAW). Under direction of president Horatio S. Earle of Detroit, the militant LAW began a campaign to promote and organize roadbuilding bees and prod local governments into improving existing roads. Before 1905, roadbuilding responsibilities were shared by townships, cities, counties and, sometimes, private organizations. Earle lost no time campaigning for a law to establish a state highway department to coordinate a statewide system of highways.

In 1901, he and the LAW founded the Michigan Good Roads Federation and he became known as "Good Roads" Earle. After passage and LAW-supported legislation to establish the state highway department, he became the first state highway commissioner. His first act was to declare war on what he called "King Mud," the ruler of the unpaved roads of the era.

This intensive campaign early in the century convinced voters to support good roads in Michigan and led directly to Michigan's present all-weather, paved system of highways—well ahead of most other states.

What happened to the bicycle? During the 1890s, the first "horseless carriages" began to appear on Michigan roads. At first considered a toy, within a few years it replaced the bicycle as a means of transportation and recreation.

Present day estimates show three to four million bicycles in Michigan, or approximately half of the number of registered motor vehicles. But the only state highway still ruled by the bicycle—and shared with horses—is M-185 circling scenic Mackinac Island, where motor vehicles are banned.

Senior Citizens News

The grass is greening up again and back to serious mowing. It's surely been quiet during the dry spell. I was astonished to hear that Detroit had one of the rainiest Junes on record.

On to these busy seniors: On Friday, July 10 - they will leave at 9 a.m. for the Floral City Festival, Monroe, and eat at Duff's.

Sunday, July 12 - Seniors leave for the Crosswell Theater in Adrian for a play. If you wish to join in, call Helen Knickerbocker at 428-7239.

Tuesday, July 14 - Council meeting begins at 9:30 a.m. At 2:00 p.m., Barbara Zaret will be present to answer your questions about nursing home insurance. Bring your policy along and those who wish to be buyers of this insurance will have the opportunity to investigate it. This is your chance, come to the Center.

Thursday, July 16 - Manchester Chicken Broil Day! Let's all support our local men who work so hard to enrich our community with projects from the profits. It's also the day to welcome home the folks we haven't seen for a year or so and to meet new friends.

Don't forget the summer hours at the Center: Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays from 1-4 p.m. Also seniors are still collecting Bill Knapp's bonus points which you (any age) may ask for when paying your bill. Drop them off at the Center or in one of the canisters in town.

Docent Classes To Begin

Do you wish to expand your horizons? Learn about exotic plants from far-away places without leaving the Ann Arbor area? Become a docent at the Matthaei Botanical Gardens! The rewards are many.

The docents are a key link between the Gardens and its visitors. They are volunteers who introduce and explore the many worlds of plants with people of all ages. They are a part of the Friends of the Gardens.

Docent classes for tours in the Conservatory will begin on Monday, September 21, 1987. The class will meet weekly for five months, with a month recess in December. Pre-requisites are: a curiosity about plants, an interest in people, and a commitment to study. Some exposure to biology or elementary botany is recommended. The course will include a review of some aspects of basic botany, special topics pertinent to the Gardens' collections, tour techniques and practice sessions. The three-year commitment to the program includes class time.

All interested persons are encouraged to apply early. Call Margaret Verghat at the Matthaei Botanical Gardens, 763-7060, for application or further information. Deadline for application: September 4, 1987.

Food Preservation

Gardens are full and produce is overflowing at the farmer's markets so this is the time to preserve food for later. It is important to use the latest failsafe methods when you can or freeze, pickle or make jam. Health, time, money and your labor are all involved.

Don't let your hard work go to waste; learn the newest methods of food preservation at the public demonstration-lecture sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service. Cooperative Service programs are open to all without regard to race, color, national origin, sex or handicap. Information on canning fruits & vegetables will be presented by Home Economist Marion Prince on July 20, at the County Service Center, 4133 Hogback Rd., at 7:30 p.m. Reservations are required; call 973-9510. A $3.00 fee will be collected at the door.

In Memoriam

In Memory of Don "Lefty" Ross, who passed away 6 years ago July 14, 1981. Missed by June & Donna and Family.

No further away than a picture, A smile or remembered phrase, Our loved ones live in memory, So close in so many ways. For how often does a sunset Bring nostalgic thoughts to mind Of moments that our loved ones shared, In days now left behind! How often has a flower, Or a crystal autumn sky, Brought golden recollections, Of happy days gone by! Yes, memory has a magic way, Of keeping loved ones near, Ever close in mind and heart, Are the ones we hold most dear.

Life Insurance: The New Investment

(Prepared by the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants.)

A few years ago, if you heard someone at the cocktail party bragging about what a great investment his new life insurance policy was, you probably would have headed straight for the buffet table. But faced with the same scenario today, you just might want to stop and listen.

Why all the fuss about life insurance being a hot new investment? Investment income on the cash-value of whole life insurance policies has always been allowed to accumulate untaxed. And generally the proceeds of the death benefit received by the beneficiaries have never been subject to federal income tax. Well, the rules may be the same, but the economic climate has changed, reports the Michigan Association of CPAs. With tax reform eliminating or sharply restricting many tax shelters, life insurance is being viewed as one of the few remaining ways to shelter income. Actually, life insurance as an investment hasn't gotten all that much better; it's just everything else has gotten worse.

As a result, insurance policies are being marketed with a new aggressiveness. While the single-premium life insurance policy has been receiving the most attention, whole life, variable life and universal life all provide triple-fold benefits. There's a death benefit, a tax-deferred investment opportunity and a source from which to borrow.

Surely, you're well aware of the advantage of having a death benefit to protect your survivors in the event of your death. At one time this was the only reason for buying life insurance. But now life insurance is being viewed by some as an attractive investment. No longer do cash value policies pay meager interest rates. New types of policies like universal life and variable life were designed to counteract the criticism of the low rates paid on whole life insurance policies. Now many policies declare a guaranteed rate for a specific period of time, after which the rate is adjusted periodically to reflect market rates. But while some of the rates may appear to be very attractive, keep in mind that some companies quote gross rates from which fees and expenses have not yet been deducted. Your real rate of return is what you receive after all commissions, administrative and advisory expenses have been deducted.

Variable policies leave the investment decisions up to you. The policy holder is offered a choice of mutual funds and then elects how to allocate the policy's cash value among the different funds. Like fund families, most companies allow you to switch from fund to fund, either at no charge or for a small fee. In either case, your earnings may accumulate on a tax-deferred basis.

Now what happens if you need the money? Rather than cash in your policy and trigger taxes, you can generally borrow from your earnings with no tax consequences at all. And the good news doesn't end there because, in most cases, the cost of borrowing the money you need is low. You don't even have to pay back the money, although the amount borrowed will lower the death benefit of your policy if not paid back at the time of your death.

As a general rule, you must hold on to a cash value policy for at least 10 years in order to reach the point where your investment income exceeds the commissions and fees deducted - so you'll want to give careful thought to your needs before investing.

Now what exactly is single-premium life insurance and why is it receiving so much attention? Single-premium life insurance is just what it sounds like - a life insurance policy paid up in one single, lump-sum payment. The initial premium is large, ranging from a minimum of $5,000 up to a million dollars or more and the amount doesn't buy a whole lot of insurance. But, then, most people don't buy a single-premium policy for its death benefit. Single-premium life insurance has become an attractive option for high-income investors seeking a tax shelter.

With single-premium life insurance, you may select a policy with a fixed, interest-sensitive rate or a variable policy and, like other cash value policies, the single-premium policy allows you to take low-or-no-interest loans from the earnings on your policy with no tax liability. Most plans allow policyholders to borrow 75 percent of their cash value during the first year and up to 90 percent after that.

The single-premium policy has been highlighted as a way to finance a child's college education, particularly if you happen to have an extra ten - or twenty - thousand dollars to invest when the child is young. If so, you can invest the large sum in a single-premium policy and allow the cash value to accumulate untaxed over the years. When the time comes, you take out interest-free loans to pay tuition.

But beware, the consequences for early surrender of a single-life policy are severe. Cash in your policy and the IRS will tax all earnings including any loans you may have taken. And during the first few years, you will also forfeit part of your premium in early-surrender charges imposed by the insurer. Another caution - there are those who feel that single-premium life policies may soon go the way of other tax-shelters. You'll probably want to consult an expert before proceeding.

With all the enticing features of today's insurance policies, it's easy to lose sight of the fact that the purpose of buying life insurance is to provide for the financial well-being of your survivors. The amount of coverage your dollars can buy varies widely among the different types of policies, with term insurance offering the most coverage for your premium dollars. CPAs suggest that you take care of your family's insurance needs first before considering the use of life insurance as a tax-sheltered investment. Don't skimp on the death benefit because you are hungry for a tax-deferred investment.

Volleyball Clinic

Last winter the volleyball team held its first serve-a-thon to raise money for a summer volleyball clinic. It turned out to be a great success with many people pledging money for the girls. This weekend we will be putting that pledge money "to work" as we have our volleyball clinic right in our own gym. We are very pleased to be having two professional college volleyball coaches from Eastern Michigan University come and conduct our clinic. There will be 18 girls in attendance and each girl will be getting a lot of individual help. The clinic will be Friday, Saturday and Sunday, July 10-12 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. each day.

Community Fair Approaching Fast

Manchester Community Fair time is fast approaching. It is time to think about completing sewing projects, checking the vegetables and flowers in the gardens, and planning the baked goods that you want to exhibit at the fair, for others to see and enjoy.

The fair books will be out soon, some in the mail for those of you who have entered exhibits in the past three years and also at several locations in and around Manchester. Check the fair books for the rules on the new A.T.V. pull and on the new division for entering open class dairy cattle.

Anyone interested in putting a booth in the Merchants tent should contact Kathy Richardson or Carol Britten at 428-8474 or 428-8589 for information.

Glen Erin Pipers Provide Entertainment

The Glen Erin Pipe Band will provide the entertainment at the Heritage Day festivities on Thursday, July 16, beginning at 1 p.m. on the Commons on West Main Street. The band is based in Lansing, but because bagpipers and highland-style drummers are few and far between, members are drawn from as far as Alma, Ypsilanti, and Pontiac. Members of the band range in age from 18 to 60 and perform at Scottish and Irish affairs and in parades and other special events throughout Southern Michigan. The pipe major is Fred Lewis, St. Johns attorney and retired judge.

With reeds of three sizes in each set of bagpipes, careful tuning is a must before the pipes are played. The picture shows two members of the band tuning the pipes. A pipe tunes one of the three drones that provide a background sound to the melody played on the band instrument known as a chanter.

Sand Lake Hotel Burns To The Ground

Loss Over $30,000 On Building— Few Guests And Help Lose Clothes And Valuables

Manchester Enterprise July 19, 1928

An airplane circling over the old Putnam hotel on the south side of Sand Lake about 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon attracted the attention of people at the resort and they discovered that the hotel roof was on fire. So rapidly did the flames devour the dry timbers and so great was the excitement that very little in moveable property was saved.

People who were asleep in rooms on the third floor were awakened and escaped unhurt, but forgot to save all their belongings, and some who were bathing were most unfortunate. Two young ladies who had donned knickers and gone on a "hike" returned to find their diamond rings, money and clothing burned.

The only attempt to extinguish the fire was made by help, guests and cottagers. No outsider help could be summoned, it is said, because the telephone could not be reached and the wires were burned off.

There was no breeze and no other buildings were burned, even the bath house adjoining was saved with fire extinguishers. But few guests were registered in the house at the time.

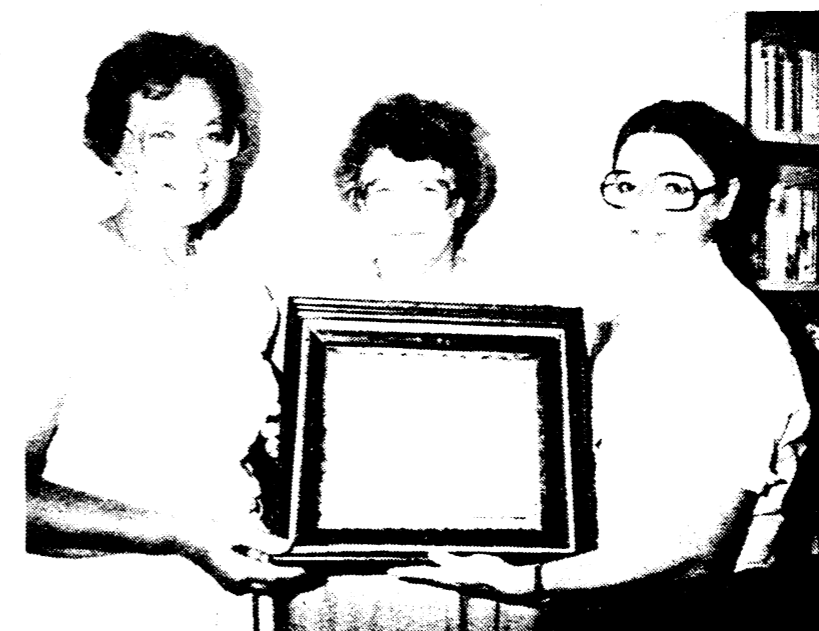

The cause of the fire is undetermined, but it apparently started in the attic and had been burning some time when discovered. It is said the insurance inspector visited the house but a few days before and Mr. Schleh had but a few days ago paid the insurance premium.

The hotel was built in 1833 by J.J. Putnam of Adrian, who owned it many years and was followed by his son, E.E. Putnam. Carl Schleh, who ran the Saline Tavern, became proprietor in 1921, purchasing the property of a Toledo banker named Carr and Fred Wood, a Tecumseh lawyer, comprising the Putnam Resort Co.

Mr. Schleh made improvements, consisting principally of a change in the ball park and the erection of one of the largest and finest dance pavilions in the country. He sold out to George and John Rehm of Monroe and a few days ago John disposed of his interest to George, who had
