Managing Your Money On A Fixed Income

(Prepared by the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants.)

Those golden years . . . your retirement is finally here. Maybe you've been looking forward to it for years. Or maybe you're not quite sure you're ready to join the ranks of the retirees. Are you wondering how you'll find the time to do all the things you want to do? Or are you worried about how you'll fill all those empty hours? Everyone faces retirement with a personal perspective but if there's a common thread of concern that seems to affect recent retirees, it's money.

One key to managing your money comfortably on a fixed income is knowing what your income and expenses are and formulating a realistic budget, reports the Michigan Association of CPAs. Some retirees might be inclined to live it up and enjoy life. Those people run the risk of outliving their capital. Other retirees tend to be very conservative, scrimping and saving at every corner. They may never get around to enjoying their hard-earned savings. Basically, it's a question of balance. Knowing what your income and expenses are and how much discretionary income you have left, allows you to make informed budgeting decisions.

If you are nearing retirement, you're probably wondering how your financial needs will change. Some experts estimate an individual household needs 70 to 75 percent of current income to live comfortably in retirement. Actually, your individual expenses and circumstances will determine what you need. Many of your expenses will remain the same. If you rent a home or still have a mortgage, the monthly payments continue. Even if your mortgage is paid off, you must still contend with utility costs, real estate taxes, water and sewer bills and homeowner's insurance.

Some expenses will decrease. You will no longer have to maintain a business wardrobe, pay for commuter costs and daily lunches or give to yet another co-worker's birthday or get well fund. On the other hand, at this age, many people are faced with increased medical expenses - for doctors, dentists, prescriptions, and other health-care costs. And you'll probably see an increase in leisure activity expenses as you take advantage of your free time to pursue the interests you never had quite enough time for when you were working.

Start With A Budget

The first step in establishing a workable budget is to determine what your income and expenses are. Add up what you (and your spouse, if applicable) receive from such retirement sources as Social Security, pensions, IRA and Keogh benefits and annuities, and from other sources including savings interest, dividends and other investment earnings you receive on a regular basis. Then total up your fixed and variable expenses. Fixed expenses may include your mortgage or rent payment, property taxes, loan and insurance payments, food, utilities, automobile and transportation expenses and anything else you pay on a regular basis. Variable costs may include such items as clothing, housing maintenance and repairs, medical expenses and recreation. It's a good idea to separate your fixed and variable expenses so that you know which are likely to be affected by inflation and, if necessary, what income and expense items can be adjusted.

People living on fixed incomes have a justifiable concern about providing for their needs, especially during times of high inflation. Except for Social Security cost of living increases, much of the retiree's income often remains the same, while expenses are sure to increase. As a safeguard, you'll want to manage your other investments very carefully. This is not the time to take chances on risky investments. Again, balance is the key.

Along with your fixed-income investments, you may want some growth-oriented instruments that can help shelter you against inflation. Keep abreast of changing economic conditions so you can respond quickly. Now, more than ever, your goal should be to do as well as you can with what you have.

Tax Reform And The Older Taxpayer

Tax reform will prove to be beneficial for the majority of older people, particularly those with low and middle incomes. The new law eliminates the extra personal exemption that could previously be claimed by individuals who were 65 and older or blind. But, as a substitute of sorts, taxpayers who are 65 and older or blind do not itemize can claim an extra standard deduction of $750 for each single individual and $600 for each married individual or surviving spouse.

These extra deductions are in addition to the increased regular standard deductions. Another plus: People who are 65 and older do not have to wait until 1988 to take advantage of the increase in the standard deduction. The higher amounts take effect for them in 1987. With the increase in the standard personal exemption and the extra standard deduction, taxpayers who do not itemize are likely to fare better under the new law than the old.

Beginning in 1987, those who do itemize face a reduction in the amount of medical expenses that are deductible. Starting with your 1987 return, medical expenses are deductible to the extent they exceed 7-1/2% of your adjusted gross income, as opposed to five percent under the old law. Tax reform did not affect two other areas of interest to older Americans. People age 55 and over who sell their homes can still take a one-time, tax-free gain of $125,000 on the sale. Also, the new law did not change the formula for determining how much, if any, of Social Security benefits are subject to tax. Retirement brings significant personal, social and economic changes. But CPAs advise that careful financial planning before and during your retirement can make those special years really golden.

This Time Slips In After Wife And Child And Fades Away - 'Tis Hoped Forever

Oliver Rogelski, alleged auto and accessories thief and carrier of concealed weapons, is furnishing Manchester with more thrills than anyone who has dropped in in a long time, and he's so smooth that he repeatedly slips in and out of village territory and eludes capture, as he did again Saturday evening.

Oliver breezed into town with his wife and baby a few months ago and after taking up his abode made the appearance at least that he was at work for farmers here and there. He had an auto in which he made his trips to the country and frequent returns to town. Meanwhile various things necessary to make the auto chug-chug began to be missed—oil, gasoline, accessories, tires, tools.

Well, to make the story short "our hero" evidently pined for a change and planned to move, but one dark dark night provided the chug-chug car with two perfectly good tires and in a proud moment threw discretion to the wind and drove up the main street. No one cried "stop thief!" oh no, this was a quiet sleuth-like job of capture—but anyway he landed in the village bastille.

Oliver is not so slow, so when he was left alone in his glory he just tried to see if a perfectly good key hanging conveniently near would fit the lock. Well it would and Oliver, old boy, walked away. He afterward found an unpraised plant-crook would keep an officer away - finally he was captured. No one really knew just how slippery Oliver was up to this time, but he showed 'em by slipping out of an Ann Arbor hospital with only a pair of pajamas between his dear self and the chilly morning air.

Manchester was trying to forget that he ever graced the streets of the village, when lo and behold on Saturday evening he came after his wife and baby. 'Tis said he was accompanied by a man and a woman who drove a fine large car. Dropping out of the car just west of town, Slippery Oliver waited until the others came into town, got the

Letter To The Editor

I was surprised, or maybe not so surprised, to see an article in your newspaper (July 9, 1987) with a number of inaccurate statements from State Representative Margaret O'Connor. Since she prides herself in being a legislative "watchdog", you would think she could get her facts straight. Mrs. O'Connor was incorrect about the legislative retirement bill when she stated that House Speaker Gary Owen could retire at age 47 under the new law. If she had read the bill she would have known that no one is allowed to retire before age 50 and collect from the system. It is also strange that she would single out one of our local legislators for attack when a majority of the members of her own caucus, including Republican leader Paul Hillegonds, voted for the bill. In fact, the bill originated and first passed the Republican controlled state senate before going to the House. It is hypocritical and arrogant for her to attack "fat, cushy" legislative pensions while choosing to personally participate in that pension system. She has the clear choice to opt out of that system, and yet she chooses to be part of it while attacking others for making the same choice she has made. Hypocrisy is something we've gotten used to from Mrs. O'Connor. In Lansing, when a legislative spending bill comes before the House of Representatives, they say Margaret is the first to complain and the first one in line after the bill passes. Mrs. O'Connor says she opposes increased government spending, but has no problem with the hypocrisy of this stand and wanting to increase the size and cost of her own staff (remember her complaints about not getting to add an aide to her staff). And, of course, she doesn't vote against measures dealing with the medical profession which would limit costs or force the medical community to be more responsible. But, we have come to expect that from Mrs. O'Connor; after all, she's married to a doctor. Self-interest is also something we've gotten used to from Mrs. O'Connor. Who can forget all the hoopla and complaining from Mrs. O'Connor when she refused to accept a pay increase before the last election. But, once the election was over, Mrs. O'Connor quietly took the pay increase (she forgot to issue a press release on that). After all, this huffing and puffing is strictly to get her re-elected. In spite of Mrs. O'Connor's attacks on everyone else to the contrary, she always puts her self-interest ahead of the people's interest. The real outrage is her complaints are only to get her re-elected and protect her income. It's time she stopped this hypocrisy against us all.

Operation H.E.M.P. Taking Toll

According to recent State Police reports, Operation H.E.M.P. is starting to take its toll on marijuana growing in Michigan. Operation H.E.M.P. (Help Eliminate Marijuana Planting) officers have seized nearly 15,000 cultivated marijuana plants so far this year as a result of 166 tips from citizens. Additionally, some 19 arrests of Marijuana growers have been reported. H.E.M.P. is a federally funded program first initiated in Michigan in the summer of 1984 and administered by the State Police, Department director, Col. Rich Davis, is quick to point out however that it is not solely a State Police program. "While we coordinate H.E.M.P., we have the cooperation and participation of all law enforcement agencies in the state," Davis said. "In addition to the police involvement, the program depends heavily upon citizen participation in providing tips and information relating to these illegal crops." Similar programs are employed

Chosen To Perform At The Pan-Am Games

Officials at the Pan-American Games being held in Indianapolis have selected a local musical act to perform at the games' closing ceremonies August 23. The Washtenaw Community College Jazz Orchestra will perform that Sunday from 5-8 p.m. at the Hossierdome, an indoor arena that will house the closing ceremonies. The Orchestra, which includes 46 pieces when at full strength, was chosen from a pool of applicants that included musical acts from around the country - as well as other nations. "During the closing ceremonies, awards and medals will be given to those athletes who will be considered the 'best of the best,'" said Dr. Morris Lawrence, Jr., a WCC Music instructor who directs the Orchestra. "The honor that will be felt in the hearts of our musicians will be like an award for us." The group earned its latest privilege by submitting an audition tape to Pan-Am officials about two months ago. The WCC Jazz Orchestra consists of wind instruments, a string section and an elaborate African-Brazilian type rhythm section. This same orchestra has become a fixture at the annual Montreaux/Detroit Jazz Festival and was selected last year to play for President Reagan at Cobo Hall during a rally Reagan held for gubernatorial hopeful William Lucas.

Those levels are as follows: for households in which the head of the family is under 60 years of age, the annual income from all sources for all in the entire family must not be more than: family of 1 - $7,150; family of 2 - $9,620; family of 3 - $12,090; family of 4 - $14,560; family of 5 - $17,030; family of 6 - $19,500; family of 7 - $21,970; family of 8 - $24,400. Public Hearing August 31ST

The House -Judiciary Committee will hold a public hearing on traffic ticket quotas on Monday, August 31, at 10:00 a.m. at the Regents Room, Fleming Administration Building, University of Michigan, Ann Arbor. The hearing will give interested parties the opportunity to provide input and testimony on House Bill 4538, which, if enacted, would forbid the setting of ticket quotas by police departments - either directly or as part of a larger management system. The intent of the legislation is not to forbid sound management, but to prevent police departments from using the number of traffic or parking tickets given by an officer to evaluate his/her performance. "Our police officers deserve the freedom to do their job," stated Representative Perry Bullard (D-Ann Arbor,) Chair of the House Judiciary Committee. "Our citizens deserve the security of knowing that serious crimes are not taking a back seat to traffic violations because of systems that value points more than people." Individuals representing various police organizations are expected to attend.

Diet And Heart Disease

There are many confusing messages in the media about diet and heart disease; messages exhorting us to take Omega 3 oils, avoid red meat, give up eggs, use olive oil, etc. Learn the facts about diet and heart disease at a public program, Take Heart in the Kitchen, presented by Marion Prince of Cooperative Extension Service. Ms. Prince is an Extension Home Economist and Registered Dietitian. Participants will learn about the role of dietary fat as a risk factor for heart disease and understand the difference between cholesterol and saturated fat, and how they contribute to serum cholesterol. They will see foods that have "hidden fat" and substitute foods that would constitute a more healthful diet. There will be light snacks served. The program will be held August 25, from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at the Cooperative Extension Service Building at the County Service Center, 4133 Washtenaw. There is a $5.00 fee to cover cost of food; pre-registration required, call 971-0079.

We have the latest in 4 wheel alignment equipment
6 important facts about wheel alignment

- 1. Extend tire life
 It's happened to almost everyone: buy a set of tires, and before long one or two tires are wearing out before the others. On today's cars, this applies to the rear tires as well as the front tires. The most common cause of unusual tire wear is improper alignment. Over the years, a properly aligned vehicle can save hundreds of dollars in tire wear.
- 2. Spot problems early
 A suspension system inspection is an inherent part of the wheel alignment operation. This gives the mechanic a chance to spot worn parts that would affect vehicle alignment. It also gives him an opportunity to spot small problems before they become big, costly ones.
- 3. Ensure safe driving
 A periodic four wheel alignment makes sure your car handles properly and, more importantly, provides an opportunity for inspecting the suspension system for defective parts. In some ways, the safe driving aspect may be the most important benefit of wheel alignment.
- 4. Stretch fuel mileage
 Fuel mileage increases as rolling resistance decreases. Proper wheel alignment sets all four wheels parallel which, in turn, assures minimum rolling resistance. This plus proper tire inflation provide top efficiency for maximum mileage.
- 5. Improve handling
 Does your car pull to one side, does the steering wheel vibrate, do you have to constantly move the steering wheel to keep your car traveling straight ahead? These and other handling problems can generally be corrected by four wheel alignment.
- 6. Get a better ride
 Proper alignment helps the front and rear suspension systems do their job. With all the system components in proper relation, road shock is efficiently absorbed, so the vehicle is more stable, and you get a smoother ride.

Centennial Farms Named In Area

Twenty Michigan farms, including two in Washtenaw County, have been certified as Centennial Farms, Secretary of State Richard H. Austin announced today.

Farms owned by Wayne Clements of Saline and Willis L. Uphaus of Manchester were certified. The Clements farm located at 2515 Textile Road has been in that family since February 17, 1886. The Uphaus family has been farming at 14324 Pleasant Lake Road since February 8, 1875.

"The Clements and Uphaus families deserve special recognition for dedicating over 100 years to Michigan agriculture," said Secretary Austin. "It gives us great pleasure to add them to our Centennial Farms program."

A Centennial Farm is ten or more acres of farm land owned by the same family for at least 100 years. Over 5,550 farms have been recognized since the program began in 1948.

Owners receive a Centennial Farm Certificate from the Michigan Department of State's Bureau of History and a marker for display at the farm. Detroit Edison and Consumers Power Company provide the farm markers.

For a Centennial Farms application, contact the Michigan Department of State, Bureau of History, Lansing, MI 48918; or call 517/373-0510.

Unused Funds Pay For Shore Protection

SAVING THE SHORE--and the highway. Typical of the Michigan Department of Transportation's (MDOT) erosion control work is this scene on M-116, the state highway entrance to the Ludington State Park on Lake Michigan. Workers construct jetties to control currents, and later lay riprap up the embankment. MDOT has allocated $2.5 million of surplus snow-removal funds for 11 shoreline protection projects along the Great Lakes this year.

The Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) has allocated $2.5 million of surplus snow-removal funds for 11 shoreline protection projects along the Great Lakes this year. Record high lake levels, generally rising since the late 1960's, have caused extensive property damage and beach erosion, and have threatened to wash out sections of coastal roads and rail lines maintained by the department. Although lake levels are lower now, due to a mild winter and below normal precipitation during spring and this summer, coming

Subsidy Phase-Out

The Reagan administration's proposal presented at a trade meeting in Geneva, Switzerland, to phase out all agricultural subsidies over a 10-year period, has the qualified support of the nation's largest farm organization, according to Michigan Farm Bureau's director of public affairs, Al Almy.

"Farm Bureau generally supports the concept and objectives contained in the administration's proposal," Almy said. "It will point the GATT trade negotiations in the right direction, toward more open trade in agricultural products and reduced government market intervention. Such intervention has encouraged uneconomic production and greatly distorted world farm trade in recent years."

Almy said that Farm Bureau would support the proposal only if agricultural subsidies were eliminated worldwide -- not just in the U.S. "Pressure to respond to this U.S. initiative should be kept on our trading partners, some of whom are already leaning toward reducing government subsidies in agriculture, such as the European Community; some of who profess to be free traders, such as Canada; and some of whom would like the whole issue to go away, such as Japan," Almy said.

An important consideration in Farm Bureau's support of the proposal, he said, would be the form and effectiveness of the "safety net" program that will be left in place when other programs are phased out.

"We would oppose the elimination of extension programs. The Extension Service provides valuable educational information to farmers and does not contribute to surplus production or in any way interfere with world wide trade," he said.

Ontonagon Boulder Comes Home

Michigan's Sesquicentennial Family Reunion, it's only fitting that one of the state's most famous geological artifacts is being returned to its place of origin...Lake Superior's copper country. For the first time in 144 years, the Ontonagon Boulder, a 3,708-pound chunk of pure copper, will come home to the Upper Peninsula and be placed on display as a Sesquicentennial project of Michigan Technological University (MTU) in Houghton.

The boulder was said to be revered by prehistoric Indians as the home of their Gitchee Manitou -the Great Spirit - and was supposed to have possessed miraculous powers. It also was reported to have been the site of several human sacrifices. Since its discovery, the Ontonagon Boulder has been sold and resold by people who laid claim to it.

Following the MTU exhibit, it will be displayed at the Greater Detroit Gem and Mineral Show. This exhibition will be held from Friday, October 9, thru Sunday, October 11, at the Detroit Light Guard Armory, 4400 E. 8 Mile Road.

Homeowner's Insurance — How Not To Get Burned

(Prepared by The Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants)

The smell of smoke permeates your car. You turn the corner and find yourself face-to-face with the charred remains of the house you've called home for 15 years. It's the nightmare no one wants to think about, much less plan for. But according to the Michigan Association of CPAs, having enough homeowner's insurance and keeping good records of your possessions can help to ease the burden of such a tragedy.

Homeowner's insurance provides protection for your most treasured assets — your home and personal belongings. Homeowner's policies include two general areas of coverage: property insurance which protects against loss or physical damage to your property, and liability insurance which covers you when you are liable for another person's injury or for loss or damage to another person's property.

Most insurers require that a home be covered for at least 80 percent of its replacement cost. Replacement cost means the amount it would cost to have the house rebuilt in the current marketplace.

If your house should burn to the ground, resulting in a total loss, you will be reimbursed only up to the face amount of your policy. So, if you're insured for $100,000 and it costs $120,000 to rebuild your home, you will have to pay for the difference. While 80 percent of replacement cost is considered to be the minimum for standard coverage, you may want to consider insuring your home for full value.

As a general rule, the contents of your house and your personal possessions are insured for no more than 50 percent of the coverage on your home. In case of loss or damage of personal possessions, actual-cash-value policies reimburse you for the current replacement cost, minus depreciation. For example, suppose a fire destroys the beautiful traditional sofa you bought for $1,200 four years ago. Even if you're convinced it was in perfect condition before the fire, its actual cash value is now considerably less than what you paid for it. And you certainly could not go out and replace it for the depreciated amount you would receive. As a remedy, many insurance companies are now offering replacement cost coverage for your personal possessions. With replacement cost insurance, you are paid an amount that will generally allow you to replace the lost or damaged property, within certain limits.

Now close your eyes for a moment and try to imagine listing every single item in your home — every piece of clothing, every kitchen utensil, every gardening tool in your garage. If this sounds like a momentous task, imagine doing it in the aftermath of a devastating fire or burglary.

As a safeguard, everyone should prepare a household inventory list on which you record everything you own — from coffee mugs to furs. In the event of loss or damage, a household inventory can be invaluable in substantiating that loss. Using a notebook, list all of your possessions, room by room, including a brief description, date of purchase and purchase price. You'll want to supplement this list with a visual account of your home's interior and your possessions. It's also a good idea to retain receipts for all your major purchases.

A video camera can provide an excellent record. You can videotape everything you own, again going from room to room. Pay particular attention to valuable items such as jewelry, silver and electronics. (If you don't have access to a video camera, you can rent one at a nominal cost.) If you cannot videotape your personal property, use a camera to take photographs of the interior of your home and your possessions. Be sure to keep your household list and photographs or video tape in a safe deposit box. They will be of no value if they go up in smoke with the rest of your possessions.

Jewelry, silver, furs and other expensive items are only covered to a limited extent by standard homeowner's policies. To cover a special item, you will need a floater (so named because the first ones insured goods shipped by water). A floater policy protects against accidental loss or theft, whether in your home or away. The insurance company will need to know the value of each item covered and will want a copy of the sales receipt or an appraisal of each, as well.

All standard homeowner's policies include liability coverage. This coverage protects you if you're held liable for property damage, such as when a tree on your property falls on a neighbor's fence, or in the event your child's playmate trips over your garden hose and breaks his ankle. Liability insurance should cover all family members and pets.

The standard limit for homeowner's liability coverage is usually $100,000. But in today's world of escalating damage awards in personal injury suits, this may not be enough coverage for many homeowners. To minimize their exposure to risk, many people are buying excess liability coverage which is often called an umbrella policy. An umbrella policy supplements your automobile and homeowner's insurance, and pays claims over and above the limits of your policies. Since excess liability insurance picks up where your other policies leave off, insurers require you to first have a prescribed amount of homeowner's and automobile insurance. Umbrella policies are sold in amounts of $1 million and up. In addition to providing excess liability coverage, umbrella policies protect you if you are sued for a host of other reasons including libel, slander, invasion of privacy, discrimination and others, depending on the policy you select. While the cost of an umbrella policy is low, the case for getting such coverage is compelling. One judgement against you can wipe out all of your assets and even lay claim to future earnings.

Review your homeowner's policy frequently. Today, many policies automatically adjust for inflation, but you'll want to review your coverage periodically to be sure you are adequately insured.

CPAs caution that there is a provision in the Tax Reform Act of 1986 that affects personal casualty losses where an insurance policy provides reimbursement for loss. If you sustain a loss that is covered by your policy and, for some reason, you decide not to file a claim, you may not deduct the amount of casualty loss your insurance policy would have reimbursed you.

Local Plant Earns Elite Ford Award

Manchester Plastics, Division of Larizza Industries has earned the elite Ford Q-1 Preferred Quality Award.

The award was presented by Louis R. Ross, Executive Vice-President of Ford North American Automotive Operations at a special luncheon in Dearborn, Michigan.

Ford credits Q-1 suppliers with helping produce the highest quality cars and trucks built in America for the seventh year. The prestigious Q-1 Award which has been earned by 32 percent of Ford's suppliers, goes to individual manufacturing plants that have implemented an effective quality assurance program and received an excellent quality rating. These plants use statistical methods to build quality in, rather than catch errors at the end of the manufacturing line. Manchester Plastics produces injection molded and decorated interior plastic parts used on Ford automobiles. The company employs the majority of its personnel from the Manchester Village area.

River Clean-up Saturday

This Saturday, the 29th, the Raisin River Water Shed Council is sponsoring a river clean-up from Sharon Hollow to Fellows Bridge.

Tri-County Logging is supplying two log skidders to pull out the large log jams. Members from the Men's Club, Jaycees, and Optimist are going to split up into 3 and 4 man crews to clean the small debris along this section of the river. We need volunteers to help out. The river is one of our most important assets, so we need your help to keep it beautiful. We will be meeting at Fellows Bridge on Sharon Valley Road at 9:00 a.m. this Saturday. Wear tennis shoes and levis, bring your chain saw or bow saw. If we have a good turn out, we can have it clean in a few hours. If you have any questions, contact Jim Mann, 428-8388 days or 428-8074 evenings.

Golfers Place Third

The Manchester High School varsity golf team began its season very early this year by participating in the first Annual Jonesville Invitational Golf Tournament on Monday, August 17th. The six team tournament was played on the very difficult Mill Race Golf Course in Jonesville. Manchester's golfers placed third with a total score of 411. Concord High School took home the first place trophy with a 348 total. Other scores included Jonesville (373), Springport (417), Bronson (438), and Union City (473).

Varsity captain Brad Uphouse was selected to the all-tournament team by virtue of his score of 99. Overall, Brad finished in tenth place in the individual competition. Manchester will next compete in the Blissfield Invitational two-man best ball tournament on August 28th. The first regular season match will be on September 2nd at Onsted. This year Manchester has changed their course affiliation and will now be playing at the Clark Lake Golf Course.

Valuable Timber Being Shipped Out

Manchester Enterprise
May 21, 1925

Modern Methods Of Sawing Make Use Of Knots And Roots Once Thrown Away.

Many loads of logs, oak, walnut, hickory and other kinds of wood, have been hauled into town for shipment to mills and factories the past few months.

A few days ago the butt of a large walnut tree was passing on a truck and a man remarked to the Enterprise representative that they are now digging down into the ground to chop down a tree and get that part that years ago would have been despised. Truly timber is becoming scarcer and with modern machinery every part of a tree except small roots and the tree tops are in demand and are cut into small strips, glued together and made into the finest patterns of antique furniture.

Year by year our once boasted Michigan forests are fading away and the land on which they grew since the morning stars sang together, is being made suitable for crops of various kinds. In early days the pioneer in Michigan cleared a small space in the virgin forest and with the trees constructed his dwelling place. The floors were of hewn logs; even the chimney was built of logs and plastered between and within with mud. The settler constructed his couch, tables, chairs and stools out of wood and even the cradle in which to rock the first white child born in the wilderness was made of timber sawed by hand.

Every season a portion of the forest was cleared and plowed and planted to crops of wheat, corn and potatoes. Those were hard times and often of great suffering and privation, but we frequently hear them lauded as "the good old times."

As years roll past, the use of wood in construction of buildings of all kinds is gradually being dispensed with and metal and cement are taking its place. We imagine that the desert wastes in the far east were once covered with forests, as was Michigan little more than half a century ago; that the people wasted and destroyed great sections and the building of cities swept away the verdure and homes and places of business had to be constructed of dirt. The removal of forests caused the streams to dry up and after the lapse of a hundred or five hundred years, the inhabitants died from disease produced by unsanitary surroundings, etc., and at length there was once a happy contented people came desolation, and the archaeologists are digging deep into the desert sands and bringing to light specimens of household utensils constructed and used by people who passed away centuries ago.

Early Michigan Newspapers

By Roger L. Rosentreter
Bureau of History
Michigan Department of State

In August 1809, Father Gabriel Richard printed The Michigan Essay or Impartial Observer — Michigan's first newspaper. But Richard probably produced only a single issue of his paper, and Michiganians had to wait until 1817 for their next locally produced newspaper.

On 25 July 1817, John P. Sheldon and Ebenezer Reed published the Detroit Gazette. The appearance of the weekly Gazette marks the beginning of continuous newspaper publishing in Michigan. The Gazette cost $4.00 for an annual subscription, and much of the paper was printed in French, reflecting the predominant language of Detroit-area residents.

The Gazette stopped publication in 1830 when Sheldon moved to Pontiac and began the Oakland Chronicle. One year later, he returned to Detroit and founded the Democratic Free Press and Michigan Intelligencer. In 1835 the Democratic Free Press became the first daily paper in Michigan, and the first newspaper in the west to use a power press. Today, the Detroit Free Press remains Michigan's oldest newspaper.

As more pioneers arrived to settle Michigan in the late 1820s and early 1830s newspapers appeared in many other communities. Founded in White Pigeon in 1833, the Michigan Statesman and St. Joseph Chronicle moved to Kalamazoo in 1835. Two years later, the paper became the Kalamazoo Gazette. Today, the Gazette is the oldest Michigan newspaper outside of Detroit.

In many cases, newspapers of the antebellum period relied upon political party subsidies. The
