IRAs UNDER TAX REFORM

(Prepared by the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants)

Contrary to what you may have read over the past few months, the Individual Retirement Account (IRA) is not dead. A bit weaker, perhaps, but alive nonetheless, reports the Michigan Association of CPAs. Last year, Congress took a giant step in an attempt to return the IRA to its original purpose: to provide a personal retirement income fund for lower to middle income Americans who often were not covered by pension plans at work. As a result, the Tax Reform Act of 1986 imposed new restrictions on who is eligible to deduct IRA contributions and just how much may be deducted.

But don't despair. Even if you don't qualify for a deduction (and many people still do), you can still contribute up to $2,000 to an IRA and earn tax-deferred income. Interest, dividends and capital gains continue to compound tax-free in an IRA until you begin to withdraw from your account. You can use an IRA's tax advantage to the fullest by investing your entire deposit at the beginning of the year. And, of course, the longer you contribute to an Individual Retirement Account, the greater the advantage of tax-sheltered earnings. But keep in mind that the original value of the deduction and the value of the tax-deferred growth will become less valuable as lower tax rates are phased-in.

With all the talk about the demise of the Individual Retirement Account, it's easy to lose sight of the fact that the deductibility of the IRA contribution is only one of the two important tax benefits an IRA offers. Even under tax reform, many experts feel the IRA remains a good long-term investment.

WHO GETS THE DEDUCTION?
Two factors determine whether you still qualify for an IRA deduction and how much you can deduct. The first "test" is whether you or your spouse is covered by a retirement plan at work and the second factor is your adjusted gross income. If neither you nor your spouse are considered active participants in a retirement plan at work for any part of the taxable year, the rules remain the same. You can continue to contribute and deduct up to the lesser of $2,000 a year or 100 percent of compensation ($2,250 for a spousal IRA and $4,000 if each spouse earns at least $2,000 and makes the maximum $2,000 contribution).

If you or your spouse is covered by a retirement plan, you may still contribute to an IRA, but the amount of your contribution that you may deduct depends on your adjusted gross income. If you are single and your adjusted gross income is $25,000 or less, you may continue to deduct up to the lesser of $2,000 or 100 percent of compensation for an IRA, even if you are covered by a pension plan at work. Likewise, if you are married and your joint adjusted gross income is $40,000 or less, you can continue to deduct up to $4,000, if you both work and each earns at least $2,000. Incidentally, your adjusted gross income must be figured before subtracting an IRA deposit.

There is no deduction allowed for an IRA contribution if you are covered by a company plan and have an adjusted gross income of $35,000 or more if single, and $50,000 or more if married and filing jointly. This limit applies even if only one spouse is covered by a pension plan.

Single taxpayers with adjusted gross incomes between $25,000 and $35,000 and married couples with adjusted gross incomes between $40,000 and $50,000, may partially deduct IRA contributions. The rule is that for every $1,000 in income over the ceilings of $25,000 or $40,000, you lose $200 in deductions. So if you're single and have an adjusted gross income of $30,000 and make a $2,000 IRA contribution, $1,000 worth of your IRA contribution may not be deducted.

For those who cannot take the deduction, an IRA contribution may still make sense because of its potential for tax-deferred growth. Active participants in employer-sponsored plans, who are not eligible to make deductible contributions, may make non-deductible contributions to an IRA. The maximum allowable contribution to an IRA is the same for both non-deductible and deductible contributions. Although you miss out on the deduction, you can still enjoy the benefit of tax-deferred earnings.

WITHDRAWALS FROM IRA
Most of the old rules governing IRA withdrawals remain intact. Because IRA tax breaks are designed to encourage you to save for retirement, unless you are permanently disabled, any withdrawal of IRA money before age 59½ is subject to a 10 percent penalty tax in addition to the tax due. As was previously the case, you must begin making withdrawals from your IRA no later than April 1, of the year following the year in which you reach 70½.

If you suspect that the change in the rules for putting money into an IRA might affect the rules for taking it out, you're exactly right. The Tax Reform Act of 1986 complicates the way your IRA savings are taxed when you withdraw your money. Before, all withdrawals from an IRA were taxed as ordinary income. Clean and simple. That remains the case for funds attributable to deductible contributions and all accumulated earnings, but non-deductible contributions made after the Tax Reform Act of 1986 will not be taxed again. You do not have the option of first withdrawing the non-taxable money in your account based on the total of deductible contributions and all accumulated earnings. Each time you withdraw funds, a certain portion may be taxed and the rest may be tax-free. It is up to you to add up everything you have in your IRA and then determine what percentage of your withdrawal is taxable. You'll need to keep track of what portion of your total contributions was deductible and what portion was not. Depending on your contributions and earnings, the percentage will change from year to year.

While IRAs have increased the likelihood of a financially secure retirement for countless Americans, CPAs advise you to consider the deductibility, tax-deferred status and withdrawal requirements of Individual Retirement Accounts, as well as the possibility of alternate tax-deferred or tax-free investments that may give you a better or equivalent yield, before making an investment decision.

Farmers - Apply For Refund

The Department of energy has received only about 1,800

applications for agricultural oil overcharge refunds, a small number according to Michigan Farm Bureau Information Director Mike Kovacic, compared to the amount of farmers who may be eligible.

"It doesn't cost a farmer anything to apply for a refund for oil overcharges that occurred between August of 1973 and January of 1981," Kovacic said. "All they have to do is estimate how much diesel fuel, kerosene, motor oil, heating oil, propane or grease they purchased from independent suppliers during that period, and they could get $8 for every 10,000 gallons of fuel used."

Kovacic said the amount of refund will vary with the type and size of farms. "Because petroleum demands differ based on the crops grown, the number of acres farmed is not the only factor. For example, it takes about 10 gallons per acre per year to produce a wheat crop compared to about 127.5 gallons per acre per year to raise apples." Farmers can get refund application forms from their local county Farm Bureau office.

"All is for the best in the best of all possible worlds."

Little Visited Spot, Rich In Scenic Beauty Is Worthy A Place As State Park

Very few people have any idea of what the state of Michigan possesses in the way of mountain scenery. Most of them will laugh at you when you hint that there is a hill anywhere in the peninsular state that will outtop the Irish Hills, south of Manchester.

Some of our residents, notably Ed. E. Root and A.J. Waters, have roamed all over the southern peninsula and have heard their engines knock sometimes when driving up an unusually large mole-hill. Some have stopped their cars at the top and viewed the country round about and come home and told the neighbors what they saw near Newago, Gaylord or Somers.

up to the Soo or to Marquette, but they had more to say about woods and lakes than anything else. So let us say, that if you want to see a mountain in Michigan you must visit Porcupine Mountain, in the copper range of Ontonagon county. "There is no area like it, nor such virgin forest and rugged picturesque topography between the forests of northern Minnesota and the Appalachian ridges," said a state park secretary.

Government Peak, where a state fire observation tower is located, looms up 1,250 feet above Lake Superior and 1,850 feet above sea level. But there are higher peaks not far away that top any between the Black Hills and the Alleghenies.

Some of our readers have been charmed with the lakes in the Adirondack Mountains in New York, or the lakes in the White Mountains in New Hampshire, little dreaming that in "Michigan my Michigan" they might behold Carp Lake and Little Carp lake in the Porcupine range, not only a counterpart of these, but surely their superiors. They are like blue gems set down among the green mountains, with Lake Superior curving around at their feet. R.H. Torrey has his eye upon that wonderful region and we may expect the state to locate a park there before many years roll around, with one of those northern Michigan roads leading to it.

Hit or Miss

By A Farley

As much as I hate to admit it, this is the last HIT or MISS to be published. My grandpa, H.H. Farley, passed away August 26th and one of his last requests of me was to write his last column. Compared to my grandpa, my be as good so I hope you will bear with me.

First I would like to thank the many people that read his column over the years. Because of HIT or MISS my grandpa could go through his final years with dignity and grace.

My grandpa always held a special place in his heart for Manchester and it's special after I always felt like I'd missed something when he told me about the good old days. When he would hear someone start to talk poorly about small towns, grandpa would always defend them. He always said that a small town was like a big family and big towns were where the little guy always got lost.

My grandpa's life was something most of us can only wish for. He had a long full life of happiness with his family and friends but more than anything he was a newspaper man and he said he never could have made it without his partner and love, my grandma.

He is gone now and is in a much better place than the rest of us people. During my childhood and because of towns like Manchester and Clinton, the memory of Hollis and Isadora Farley will remain and mean something.

The Farley family left behind love and misses you both.

OPINION POLL

Recently the Village Council announced that they wanted to use $200,000 of the bond issue passed last December (this was a $500,000 bond for water and sewer systems improvements) for the Industrial Park Site. The monies would be used to extend the existing water and sewer lines to the property located north of Johnson Controls.

In light of our problems with the system today, the question arises - would this money be better spent improving the existing facilities?

The input of the community is an important consideration. Write or call the Village Mayor, John Hinkley, or one of the Council members. Council members are Larry Becktel, Ted Tapping, Terry Harris, Don Limpert, Joe Marshall and Wendall Reinhart.

Cameras In Courtroom Approved

The Michigan Supreme Court has approved an order to permit cameras and recording equipment in Michigan courtrooms on a one-year trial basis.

Chief Justice Dorothy Comstock Riley announced the Court's action at the 30th annual Michigan Judicial Conference being held at Shanty Creek Conference Center near Bellaire.

With more than 200 trial and appeals court judges in the audience, Riley said that the state's highest court has approved an order permitting television, radio and photographic coverage of most proceedings in the state's 241 trial courts, the Court of Appeals and the Supreme Court starting next February 1.

Michigan will become the 24th state to permit electronic and photographic coverage in all of its courts.

As of last January 1, a total of 43 states permitted some form of electronic or photographic coverage of courts, according to the National Center for State Courts, but nearly half of them have restrictions limiting coverage to certain courts or types of trials.

The Michigan Supreme Court

took up the issue of cameras in the courtroom earlier this year after it received a recommendation from the Citizens' Commission to Improve Michigan Courts urging approval of a pilot program to permit cameras in the courtroom. Earlier, the State Bar Representative Assembly recommended a one-year experiment of electronic coverage of trial courts and TV coverage of appellate courts.

Bids Taken On State Projects

Replacement of the deck on the US-31 bascule bridge over the Grand River in Grand Haven will be put out for bids September 2, the Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) said.

It is one of 17 highway and airport projects costing an estimated $9.5 million on which bids will be taken starting at 10:30 a.m. at the Clarion Hotel in Lansing.

The bridge deck work will begin next spring and is expected to be completed by November 1988. During construction, six lanes of traffic will be reduced to four lanes. Traffic crossing the bridge averages 45,000 vehicles a day.

The department, in conjunction with the Grand Haven Chamber of Commerce, is holding a series of three informational meetings on September 16, with local merchants, businesses and public officials to discuss next year's construction schedule.

The bridge work has an estimated cost of $1.9 million.

A job in Wayne County will construct a pumphouse and install pumps at the intersection of Congress and Second streets and change signing on the John Lodge Freeway from Fort Street to Randolph.

The project will also add lighting on the freeway from Fort Street to Woodward Avenue, on Jefferson from Third Street to US-10 and on Larned Street from Washington Boulevard to US-10.

The project is scheduled for completion in July 1988 at an estimated cost of $1.6 million.

There are three shoreline erosion projects, one in Leelanau and Charlevoix counties and one each in Mackinac and Oceana counties.

In Leelanau and Charlevoix counties shoreline restoration on M-22 along Grand Traverse Bay and on M-66 south of Ironton is scheduled for completion in May 1988 at an estimated cost of $260,000.

In Mackinac County shoreline erosion repair is scheduled for US-2 in Moran Township. The work is scheduled for completion in June 1988 at an estimated cost of $110,000.

In Oceana County Erosion protection on Longbridge Road over the Pentwater River and on Polk Road over the Huffle Creek is expected to be completed by December 1987. The Oceana County Road Commission job is estimated at $20,000.

In Washtenaw County removal of existing bridge and construction of a double span concrete box beam bridge and related approach work on Austin Road over the Raisin River is estimated to be done by August 1988.

Children from households whose income is at or below the levels shown are eligible for free and reduced-price meals or free milk.

Application forms are being sent to all homes with a letter to parents or guardians. To apply for free or reduced-priced meals, households should fill out the form and return it to the school. Additional copies of the application form are available at the principal's office in each school. Households should answer all questions on the form. An application which does not contain all of the following information cannot be processed by the school: (1) the total household income AND the amount and source of income received by each household member (such as wages, child support, etc.) OR the household's food stamp case or AFDC number if the household is on food stamps or receives AFDC; (2) names of all household members; (3) social security numbers of all household members 21 years of age or older, or the word "none" for any adult household member who does not have a social security number; and (4) the signature of an adult household member.

FOOD STAMP/AFDA HOUSEHOLDS: If you currently receive Food Stamps or "Aid to Families with Dependent Children" (AFDC) for your child, you only have to list your child's name and Food Stamp or AFDC case number, print your name and sign the application.

The information provided by the household is confidential and will be used only for the purpose of determining eligibility and verifying data. Applications may be verified by the school or other officials at any time during the school year.

If children are approved for free or reduced-price meal or free milk benefits, the household must report to the school increases in household income over $50 per month ($600 per year) and decreases in household size.

Households may apply for benefits at any time during the school year. If a household is not currently eligible but has a decrease in household income, an increase in household size or if a household member becomes unemployed, the household should fill out an application at that time.

In most cases foster children are eligible for these benefits regardless of the household's income. If a household has foster children living with them and they wish to apply for free or reduced-priced meals or milk for them, the household should contact the school for more information.

Under the provisions of the policy Polly Brokaw will review applications and determine eligibility. Parents or guardians dissatisfied with the ruling of the official may wish to discuss the decision with the determining official on an informal basis. The household also has the right to a fair hearing. This can be done by calling or writing the following official: Polly Brokaw, 710 E. Main St., Manchester, Michigan 48158. Each school and the Superintendent's office have a copy of the complete policy, which may be reviewed by any interested party.

In the operation of the child feeding programs no child will be discriminated against on the basis of race, color, national origin, age, sex, or handicap. If any member of a household believes they have been discriminated against, they should write immediately to the Secretary of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250.

When Teenagers Work

With the start of school, teenagers will be adjusting school and work schedules. Many teens may seek their first part-time job and generally they have the support of parents, peers, employers and even school. Studies have consistently shown that working students learn work skills, explore career areas, develop social skills and a work ethic, learn to manage time, and earn wages.

A new book on working teenagers suggests that the picture isn't all that positive. Working teenagers lose touch with other age groups, are often exposed to numbing work activities and acquire bad work habits. They spend money instead of saving, sometimes making harmful choices. The working teen may be more likely to use drugs and alcohol. "When Teenagers Work" (Greenberger and Steinberg) is a thought-provoking book. But the authors conclude that their research doesn't indicate teens will stop working. The challenge is to make work meaningful and to evaluate the benefits of taking a job against costs.

Before job hunting, a teenager should consider the commitments he/she already has: School, sports, music, drama and other school activities, volunteer service, and community activities. Some activities just kill time but others expose students to people and experiences that are as important to growing up as is having a good job.

When a teenager decides to work it may not be best to take the first job that comes along. Some jobs related to vocational classes can provide school credit and a structured learning opportunity (ie. co-operative education). Due to the shrinking numbers of young people, a teenager can be choosier in picking jobs. Excessive and late hours, and poorly trained managers are often problems for teenagers which can be avoided.

Assistance and information on opportunities to work are available at the high schools in the South & West Washtenaw Consortium. Teenagers in Chelsea, Dexter, Manchester, Milan and Saline should check with their high school guidance office about the Job Placement Service or call 428-8327 or 662-9898. All programs and services of the consortium are available to eligible students and graduates regardless of race, sex or handicap.

WWI Combat Patients Sought

The French Government is inviting World War I veterans who were patients at the American Hospital in Neuilly, France (Paris) 70 years ago to return to the hospital September 21-24 for ceremonies commemorating the 70th anniversary of the landing of the American Expeditionary Force in France and America's entry into the First World War.

The American Hospital, now a prestigious French-run treatment and research facility with international staff, was established by U.S. forces in 1917 to treat American combat casualties. The French Government and the hospital are offering World War I veterans who were treated there, and spouses, all expense paid trips to participate in four days of ceremonies, part of the French Government's year-long observance of the 70th anniversary of the landing of American forces on French soil during World War I. U.S. forces stopped the German drive toward Paris and turned the tide of war against the Germans.

Muriel Parkhurst, executive administrator of Veterans of World War I, Inc. in Washington D.C., is assisting the French Embassy in the search for the former hospital patients. "We are seeking a select group within a select group," she said. "The average age of our World War I veterans is 92 and their numbers are down to just over 179,000. We are hoping that publicity through veterans groups, VA facilities and the news media will help those former American Hospital patients get in touch so they can participate." World War I veterans who were treated at the American Hospital in Neuilly just outside Paris should contact Parkhurst at the phone number and address below by September 14th.

Muriel Sue Parkhurst, Executive Administrator, Veterans of World War I of the USA, Inc., 941 Capitol St., N.E., Washington, D.C. 20002-4234; phone 202-275-1388.

"A trip to France and a place of honor are at stake," she said, "but we need to hear from these veterans as soon as possible."

This years varsity squad has much to be optimistic about. The fact that we have 15 returning lettermen who led us to a 6 and 3 overall record last year should make Manchester fans ecstatic. Head coach Jim Fielder is looking forward to this season, but is a cautious man who doesn't believe in counting chickens before the eggs hatch.

Be here at Booster field Friday, when we host arch-rival Clinton.

Dick and Curt Fielder, JV coaches, trek to Clinton Thursday evening. Our little Dutch have not lost in two seasons and still look tough.

With your help, we're out to change that.

We have the latest in 4 wheel alignment equipment
6 important facts about wheel alignment

1. Extend tire life
It's happened to almost everyone: buy a set of tires, and before long one or two tires are wearing out before the others. On today's cars, this applies to the rear tires as well as the front tires. The most common cause of unusual tire wear is improper alignment. Over the years, a properly aligned vehicle can save hundreds of dollars in tire wear.
2. Spot problems early
A suspension system inspection is an inherent part of the wheel alignment operation. This gives the mechanic a chance to spot worn parts that would affect vehicle alignment. It also gives him an opportunity to spot small problems before they become big, costly ones.
3. Ensure safe driving
A periodic four wheel alignment makes sure your car handles properly and, more importantly, provides an opportunity for inspecting the suspension system for defective parts. In some ways, the safe driving aspect may be the most important benefit of wheel alignment.
4. Stretch fuel mileage
Fuel mileage increases as rolling resistance decreases. Proper wheel alignment sets all four wheels parallel which, in turn, assures minimum rolling resistance. This plus proper tire inflation provide top efficiency for maximum mileage.
5. Improve handling
Does your car pull to one side, does the steering wheel vibrate, do you have to constantly move the steering wheel to keep your car traveling straight ahead? These and other handling problems can generally be corrected by four wheel alignment.
6. Get a better ride
Proper alignment helps the front and rear suspension systems do their job. With all the system components in proper relation, road shock is efficiently absorbed, so the vehicle is more stable, and you get a smoother ride.

Public Meeting September 9th

A public meeting will be held on Wednesday, September 9, 1987, at 8:00 p.m. in the Sharon Township Hall at 18010 Pleasant Lake Road to inform residents of what hazards are actually posed by "hog hotels" and what public agencies can and cannot do under existing laws.

James E. Murray, Washtenaw County Drain Commissioner, has invited representatives from the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, the Michigan Department of Agriculture, the Washtenaw County Health Department, the State Farm Bureau and the Washtenaw County Farm Bureau to attend the meeting. They will hear citizens' concerns and discuss the issues raised by the presence of "hog hotels". Murray said that during the last couple of years, a great deal of concern has been generated by the daily operations of the "Bacon Acres" hog farm on Lehman Road in Sylvan Township. Concerns ranging from ground water pollution and well water contamination to poor air quality and strong odors have prompted residents from surrounding areas to petition their local elected officials and public agencies to investigate this potential hazard.

Early Deadline!

Due to the Labor Day holiday on Monday, September 7th, the Manchester Enterprise will have early deadlines for all news items and advertising. All pictures and display advertising must be in by 5:00 p.m. Friday, September 4th. All classified ads and news articles must be in by 10:00 a.m. Tuesday, September 8th.

SALMON CATCHES IN THE 'PINK'

Salmon family homecoming good news to anglers

Michigan's fall salmon run is expected to give anglers variety and geographic choice with pink salmon gaining prominence along with their chinook and coho cousins as part of the state's $91.5 million-a-year sportfishing industry, reports AAA Michigan. Anglers "thinking pink" should fish northern waters as biologists at 15 state Department of Natural Resources fisheries predict that most Lake Superior and northern Lakes Michigan and Huron parent streams will welcome home naturally produced pink salmon.

The pink, smallest salmon in the Great Lakes, was unintentionally introduced into the Great Lakes in the mid-1950s and has slowly grown in numbers and distribution. This year, the pink is predicted to reach as far south as the Betsie River.

Known as the humpbacked salmon because the spawning male develops humps behind the head, the two-year spawner enters small streams in September and October in the odd years. Smaller than its chinook and coho cousins, the state record pink is about six pounds.

Anglers will find the state's heaviest coho concentrations off Lake Superior, Lake Michigan and Metro Detroit rivers with most chinook running in Lakes

Michigan and Huron streams. The average chinook and coho sizes have been decreasing since 1983. Chinook generally weigh 5 to 25 pounds and few reach 35 pounds while coho average 6 to 20 pounds. According to biologists, fish are smaller because intense angling pressure in the Great Lakes is taking large numbers of fish before they reach spawning age.

Decreased forage - alewives, smelt, chubs and perch - also has contributed to the smaller size and is a major reason why the 1985 Lake Michigan salmon planting was reduced by 10 percent.

Although this summer's hot weather may have forced salmon to remain scattered in deeper waters about 10 to 15 miles off Great Lakes shores longer than normal, biologists predict that salmon runs should start near the regular time.

Great Lakes salmon action reaches its peak in late August and September when fish begin schooling near mouths of their parent streams. From mid-September to mid-October, best stream action should be in the 48 areas listed in AAA Michigan's Salmon Fishing Guide.

Approximately 8.8 million salmon are planted annually in the Great Lakes, including 2.8 million coho and 6 million chinook. Nearly 50 percent of those plants are in Lake Michigan, 41 percent in Lake Huron, 8 percent in Lake Superior and about 1 percent in the Huron River near Detroit. Ten to 15 percent of chinook and 20 to 25 percent of coho survive for spawning runs.

Concentrated in bankside pockets and pools, the best way to catch spawning river salmon is casting with lures such as Little Cleos, Mepps Spinners, Hot 'N Tots and other lively baits. Fly fishing in streams is very productive with streamers, nymphs and spawn bags.

Salmon snagging with artificial baits or unweighted hooks is legal from Sept. 10 to Oct. 25, on sections of the Sable, Pere Marquette, Big Manistee and Muskegon rivers. The DNR's 1987 fishing guide details the liberalized areas for each river.

The Michigan Department of Public Health says that contaminant levels in Great Lakes fish have dropped in recent years, but nursing mothers, pregnant women, women who anticipate bearing children and children age 15 and under should not eat salmon.

Jupiter, chief of the Roman deities, was also called Optimus Maximus - "The best and the greatest."

Money Management

To Buy Or Not Buy?

(Prepared by the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants)

To buy or not to buy? That is the question facing many individuals who are in the market for a new car or residence. According to the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants, it is generally a person's individual needs and circumstances that determines whether it would be best to buy or lease. Each option has its own set of advantages and disadvantages, all of which should be carefully examined.

Not long ago, the questions facing new car buyers was whether to pay cash or to finance. Now leasing presents a third choice. When you lease a car, you (the lessee) are using a vehicle that belongs to someone else (the lessor) under certain conditions (the lease agreement). Better yet just think of it as a long-term rental car.

There are several good reasons to lease a car, although saving money is usually not one of them.

It almost always costs more in the long run to lease a car than to buy one. However, some people find it more convenient to lease a car. Many leasing companies would like you to believe that leasing costs less because there's no down payment. And, yes, the monthly payments are often lower, but that's because they are based on the new car price less its resale value at the expiration of the lease. When you finance a car, your monthly payment is based on the car's entire cost less your down payment. But when the car is paid off, it's yours. When your lease expires, you usually own nothing. But if you long to drive a Cadillac and can't afford the down payment, leasing may make your dream come true.

As for tax considerations, CPAs report that under tax reform you no longer have an itemized deduction for the sales tax on your new car and this year you may only deduct 65 percent of the car loan interest. (That amount will gradually be phased out until it reaches zero after 1990.)

If the added convenience of no cash down features of leasing appeal to you, shop around. The best deals and lowest monthly payments generally are available on cars that have the highest resale value. So beware - that loaded pink Cadillac you love may have limited appeal, lowering its resale value and raising your costs. There are two basic types of leasing agreements - open-end and closed-end - of which closed-end has become the most prevalent. With a closed-end lease, the company takes the car back at the end of the lease period. The company sells it and takes the profit or loss. Sounds easy enough, but you'll want to read the fine print to be sure of your responsibilities.

Most lease agreements require that you return the car in good condition, less ordinary wear and tear. Just what constitutes ordinary wear and tear is something you'll want to investigate before signing. Also, if you exceed the agreed upon mileage, you will be responsible for the excess mileage - usually to the tune of eight to ten cents a mile for each additional mile.

With an open-end lease, an estimated resale price is specified when the lease is signed. When the lease expires, if the car sells for more you pocket the gain. If it sells for less, you pay the difference. Your monthly payment may be lower with an open-end lease but you do run the risk of losing money in the end.

Although the fact of the matter is that leasing a car will cost more, it may very well be the right decision for some drivers. The choice to buy or lease one's residence has been around longer than the corresponding choice on cars. Although the facts and figures differ, once again, in the long run, it is generally cheaper to buy than rent. However, there are many instances where renting may make more sense - even when it's not cost-effective. A house provides you with a stable and generally high-yielding investment. You build up equity and your home can serve as an asset you can borrow against. For most people, there is also a definite tax advantage to home ownership. Because mortgage interest costs and real estate taxes are deductible, your ownership costs are directly related to your income tax bracket. The higher your income and your tax bracket, the more you stand to save by owning your home. Those taxpayers who do not itemize, do not realize any tax benefit of ownership.

On the other hand, home ownership does require a hefty down payment (which could otherwise be invested) and a commitment to many years of monthly payments. And as a homeowner, your responsibility doesn't end there. You will have to devote a great deal of time and money to the upkeep of your home. Now, what about renting? Yes, like leasing, it does cost more in the long run, particularly in the sense that you do not realize the build-up of equity, nor do you receive the tax benefits. In addition, unless you are protected by rent control, you can never be quite sure of future rent increases. If they come, you either pay the increase or you move.

Renting does, however, provide you with more financial flexibility. If you lose your job, get transferred or otherwise decide to relocate, it is generally easier to accomplish this in a relatively short period of time if you are renting. When you rent, your commitment is limited to the term of your lease - not a 30-year mortgage. Your day-to-day living expenses will probably be lower than if you were an owner.

Taxes, major repairs, mowing grass and shoveling snow may all be the responsibility of your landlord. Another plus - if you're not sure you like an area or neighborhood, renting can give you a chance to test your surroundings without making a large financial commitment.

Which is better for you? It depends on your circumstances. CPAs suggest that renting or leasing may very well be more appropriate at one state of your life; ownership at another.

Area Agencies Battle AIDS

Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome, or AIDS, is still an incurable, deadly disease that affects thousands of Americans. Several Washtenaw United Way agencies supply support and aid to victims of this fatal illness.

The American Red Cross (971-5300) tests all donated blood for the HIV antibody. If the donor tests positive for the HIV antibody, the blood is destroyed. A Red Cross nurse meets with the donor and recommends that he or she see a physician for further tests. For people who have had transfusions prior to March 1985 and are worried about possible contamination, the Red Cross will test them for the presence of the HIV antibody. To fight the further spread of the disease, the Red Cross will soon offer an AIDS education program aimed at junior high and high school students, a work place awareness program for adults, and a general public education program for clubs and organizations.

Child and Family Service provides counseling and a Home Health Care program for AIDS patients and their families. Through their chemical dependency program - C.L.E.A.R. House (663-2500) - Child and Family reaches out to another high-risk group: intravenous drug abusers. Phil Mosby, Director of C.L.E.A.R. House, says the program tries to "help the individual substance abuser identify whether he or she is in a risk-behavior situation. Do they use other people's needles? Have they had sex with other IV drug abusers? People in these situations have a greater risk of contracting the disease. We suggest they take the AIDS test." C.L.E.A.R. House also works with pregnant substance abusers, not only to rid them of their addiction, but to increase their awareness of the disease and to decrease the chance of the mother or child becoming infected.

The Hemophilia Foundation of Michigan (761-2535) has support groups for hemophiliacs who have been exposed to or infected with the AIDS virus; an additional support group is offered for families of hemophiliacs with the disease. The foundation provides counseling to patients and AIDS-related information to high-risk clients. The Hemophilia Foundation of Michigan is a member of the AIDS-Related Communications Network and the AIDS Education Network. Whitmore Lake Community Health Clinic (449-2033) provides free AIDS testing on request during checkups. Blood samples are sent to a state lab for analysis; the results are then returned to the clinic where physicians act on that information. Executive Director

Hilda Weiser notes that "The AIDS test is an important part of the Clinic's premarital exams. Couples who are about to marry and start families need to know if they could possibly pass the disease on to their children."

If you have any questions about AIDS or would like more information, call one of the above agencies or the AIDS Hotline at 1-800-342-AIDS.

Customers To Receive Refund

Consumers Power Company's 1.4 million electric customers will receive a one-time refund totaling $74 million in September bills.

A typical residential customer, using 500 kilowatt-hours per month, will receive a refund of $18.25, which will appear as a bill credit. The refund stems from a recent Michigan Public Service Commission decision which reduced a $137 million annual rate increase granted Consumers Power in 1984 to $115 million. The rate reduction is effective in September bills and saves a typical residential customer $1.18 per month.

Consumers Power Company, the principal subsidiary of CMS Energy Corporation, is Michigan's largest utility serving almost six million of the state's nine million residents in 67 of the 68 Lower Peninsula counties.

Chamber Of Commerce To Meet

Chamber of Commerce members and guests will have an opportunity to inspect the new Chateau Grand Traverse at the first meeting of the 1987-88 year.

Officers and a Director for the new year will be elected and a reception featuring wine and cheese will be held in the tasting room. Non-alcoholic beverages will also be available.

The meeting will be Wednesday, September 16, 1987, from 6:00 to 8:00 p.m. at Chateau Grand Traverse, 5701 Sharon Hollow Road (old Sharon Mill).

Businesses and industries as well as local residents interested in the Chamber of Commerce are invited to attend. Members are urged to bring spouses and prospective members. There will be a $4 charge per person for refreshments.

R.S.V.P. by Monday, September 14, to Mary Kallewaard (428-7194) or Mark VanBogelen (428-8389).

Fishing

Manchester Enterprise August 12, 1989

Seated at our table a few days since, looking over exchanges, we were accosted by a friend, thus: "By jove, Mat, this is the dullest day of the season, and I for one, do hereby propose that this institution 'go fishing.'" Well, what could I say in reply, but agree; so furnishing ourselves with hooks, lines and other "Necessities," we proceeded up the river in hopes of a jolly old time. Finding a suitable location we proceeded to "drop a line" to the denizens of the Raisin, in full confidence of success. After fishing for about an hour we succeeded in hauling out one little insignificant sun-fish. It dropped off the hook among the flood-wood, and throwing down our fishing tackle we made a lunge for the creature, but he was too slippery for us to handle in our eagerness to capture the little one. We lost our balance and fell down among the logs, tearing our trousers in a way uncomfortable to sit down and think about. However, we was not to be put off with this, for "there's as good fish in the sea as has ever been caught." We seated ourselves on the bank and awaited a nibble, when Hark! I hear a skeeter sing, Skeeters are now on the wing And their voices piping clear, Tell us 'tis time to be out of here.

We don't like mosquitoes; we never did; they are always sticking their nose into other folks' business. We accordingly lit our pipe and proceeded to smoke them out, but we got smoked out first. We never had the name of being very brave, but we did fight like a hero; 'twas of no use; they flocked in as tho' there was to be a free lunch just for their special benefit. We tried to cut off communications, but they would "settle their little bills," (just like our patrons) for all we could do.

We fought like brave men, long and well, We piled the ground with skeeters slain, We conquered and the skeeters fell Bleeding at every vein. The few surviving comrades saw Our smile, then rang their loud huzza, And the red field won.

About this time our companion came to the conclusion that "all bites" and no fish was about played out, so gathering up our scattered "equipments" we left in disgust. Arriving at home our friends failed to recognize us, and we glad, for the rent in our pantaloons was disgraceful to the dignity of the "quillist." Upon squinting into our mirror we were unable to tell whether it was I or some other Dutchman.

Twelve Together

Washtenaw County Juvenile Court is proud to introduce Twelve Together, a drop-out and delinquency prevention program. The Court has awarded a grant to the Metropolitan Detroit Youth Foundation to provide peer counseling and tutorial services to ten groups of twelve youth at a variety of locations throughout Washtenaw County.

Starting in October, 1982, Twelve-Together forms support groups of twelve youth who attend a weekend retreat, a parent reception, 6 monthly Academic Forums, and 22 peer counseling/tutorial meetings held weekly in after school sessions. Each year from 1982 to 1985, 20 new groups have successfully been formed. In 1986-87, 42 new groups were formed. Each group is led by two trained volunteer advisors.

The premise of the program is that high school years are the pivotal years for transition to adulthood. By being a part of a positive peer group, high school students can get the support and direction they need to overcome problems which lead to dropping out such as poor study habits, absenteeism, substance abuse, violence and vandalism in the schools, teen pregnancy, and other personal and family problems. United, the students can survive. Alone, too many simply drop out of everything. They do not become graduation statistics. Rather, they join the statistics of unemployment and crime.

Judith James Wood, Juvenile Court Judge, notes that "This program has a national reputation and we are extremely fortunate to have Twelve Together in Washtenaw County. They will be filing a large void in prevention services for high risk youth and the program hopefully will keep those youth from becoming criminal statistics in the future."

Eligible youth will be those 14 to 17 years of age who are residents of Washtenaw County and who meet at least one of the following criteria:

- (1) are involved with the Court
