What Does Your Car Really Cost?

[Prepared by The Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants]

You've had your eye on that sleek new coupe for months and now you've got the perfect excuse to buy it: your four-year-old family econo-box needs a $500 repair. After all, it'll be cheaper to buy the new car than continuing to fix the old one.

Not so, says the Michigan Association of CPAs. It is almost always less expensive to own and operate an older car than to buy a new one. In fact, that four-year-old economy car costs you only about 25 cents a mile to drive while the new mid-size car will cost you well over 45 cents a mile. And that's including the repair bills you'll face with the older car.

If those figures don't seem to make sense to you, don't worry. Most people don't know what their cars really cost them. What they usually do is add up the total of annual payments, throw in the cost of insurance and you've got your annual cost. But that's a "cash flow" cost and doesn't truly represent all of your costs.

Your Car's Annual Cost
To determine the true cost of your car, you have to take into account the following things: depreciation, insurance, loan interest (if applicable), registration and taxes, maintenance, gasoline (including oil, lubrication, etc.), parking and tolls. The first four items are what's known as fixed costs - costs that will remain more or less the same whether you drive your car ten miles a year or 10,000 miles a year. The other items are variable costs because they will tend to increase as your use of the car increases. Let's look at them one at a time.

which your car's value will fall during a specific period. It is generally calculated on an annual basis over a projected ten-year life. While it is tempting to just divide your car's purchase price by ten to determine depreciation, that again does not represent the true cost. The reason is your car's value falls more rapidly in the early years and then levels out.

Let's say the purchase price of a new car is $10,000. Using estimated average depreciation rates, the value of the car will depreciate about 32 percent in the first year. In the second year, it will depreciate another 25 percent.

The specific depreciation rate for your car may be different, but will follow roughly the same pattern - high in the early years, low in the later years. It is for this reason the ownership costs for older cars tend to be much less than those for newer cars.

Insurance can be expensive and is rising every year. For a new car, you'll need collision and comprehensive coverage in addition to the liability coverage you probably already have for your older car. In fact, the additional coverage is usually required if you finance the car. For a car more than four years old, it may not be economically feasible to get collision and comprehensive coverage.

Loan Interest is a cost of car ownership few people consider. It will, however, become an increasingly important consideration as its deductibility on income taxes is phased out over the next four years. And the cost can be significant. Using that same $10,000 car as an example, interest costs would average about $435 a year assuming you put down 20 percent and paid off the remaining $8,000 balance over four years at 10 percent.

Registration and taxes include charges for vehicle registration and inspection and sales tax on the purchase. For a $10,000 car, a five percent sales tax would add $500 to the first-year costs.

Maintenance and repair costs can be difficult to estimate, but national averages range from $161 for a one-year-old car up to $446 for a ten-year old car. A number of publications such as Consumer Reports provide information for specific model types. These items include major repairs as well as maintenance items required by new car warranties or the age of the car.

Gas and oil costs can be calculated quite easily even if you don't save receipts. To estimate your gas costs, divide your annual miles driven by your car's average miles per gallon (MPG) and multiply by the average cost per gallon of gasoline. For example: if you drive 10,000 miles a year and your car averages 20 MPG, you use approximately 500 gallons of gas per year. At $1.10 a gallon, that comes to $550 per year.

Parking and tolls can be, depending on where you live, either minor or major expenses. For city residents, for example, annual parking costs can run as high as $5,000 a year. Commuters in some cities can pay as much as $1,000 a year in tolls, while those who live and work in a suburb or small town may incur few or no parking and toll expenses.

When you put together all of these costs for both your existing car and any new one you are considering, you have a basis of direct comparison - at least on a financial level. According to the Michigan Association of CPAs, a careful consideration of true ownership costs can show you just how expensive that new car can be - and perhaps make you a bit more content with the old family car you're now driving.

Manchester High School Expands Computer Lab

Manchester High School has taken an important step toward rebuilding the computer lab that was lost when the vocational equipment moved to the Pleasant Lake Building. Although all eight IBM computers have not been replaced, an excellent beginning was made this year with the purchase of four PC's through the Zenith school purchase plan. Although the PC's have double the IBM memory and come standard with both color and graphics capability, they were purchased at a considerable savings to the school district.

Since the new computers are 100% compatible with the IBM's all of the software taught on the former equipment is already purchased and waiting to be powered up on the new computers. "Not having to replace expensive software," says business computer teacher Sheryl Puroil, "means saving taxpayers money." Eighty-five Manchester students are currently enrolled in Business Computers, Computer Programming or Accounting. Hopefully, the new equipment will allow more students to take computer classes.

HALLOWEEN LEAVES TRAIL OF DEBRIS
Auto Plays Prominent Part In After-Dark Activities In Name Of "Fun"

Verily times are changing, even with the Halloween revelers. In years gone by there was a certain amount of secrecy about the doin's on Halloween night, as the town marshal and his shining badge threw fear into the youthful heart. Then a few years ago it seemed that fear was flung to the wind and the youngsters began their favorite sport of soaping store windows even before night had fallen. This year a new crimp was placed in the custom. At supper time everything seemed serene, with no signs of the evening's activities except black cats, witches, and false faces and jack-o-lanterns to be used by the "kids."

But the curtain of night had hardly dropped down when a racket here and there gave notice that somethin' was doin'. It generally proved to be some old box or bunch of cans being dragged behind an auto. And again here is evidence that times have changed and if it wasn't for Henry Ford Halloween might have gone into the discard. In the old days vehicles and other things were moved by hand on this eventful night, but now ambition has waned and gas power is needed. So hail to Henry, for it he hadn't invented the famous Model T and made it easy to pick up one on most any corner there would be no power to move old cultivators, wagons, small houses, etc. and consequently no Halloween fun.

Too bad, however, with all the fun that someone had to be dirty - had to think of dirt and filth long enough to transport it to the main street and dump it here and there - but there's no telling what some minds will do after dark.

With all the decrepit vehicles, etc. strewn along Exchange Place, the Enterprise received its share of attention, for we were unable to enter the place until several varieties of rolling stock had been removed from in front of the door. Glad of one thing - they didn't break the windows - and we didn't have a crop of corn fodder to lose, as someone did - that was destruction of property that the owner really needed.

Recreation Task Force To Meet

The Manchester Recreation Task Force is planning a "Grand Opening" celebration of the walking/jogging trail that we have been working on for our village. The ceremony will take place on Saturday, Nov. 7, 1987 at 12 noon at the corner of the High School driveway and Main street. There will be ribbon cutting and then we hope that a large number of people will walk the trail.

New Charges For Trash Pickup

Responding to reports that village finances are in serious trouble, the Village Council voted Monday night to begin charging village residents for garbage disposal. The additional charges will be added to water and sewer bills each month and will affect all village residents whether or not they use the service.

The only dissenting vote was cast by Joe Marshall, who expressed concern that those on fixed income would be overburdened by the additional expense. He referred to the increase in water and sewer billing earlier this year and the increased charges at the transfer facility, saying that he still felt the village should offer some services to its residents for their money.

He was overruled, however, by the rest of the council members, whose main concern was to stay within the new budget restraints. To date all funds designated for trash disposal have been expended.

Service for the past year has been paid for by a 1 mill tax levy which has not been sufficient to cover the expenses of the pickups and the operation of the transfer site. One mill, according to Interim Manager Emory Garlick, covers only about one-half of the operating costs (a total of about $48,000) and the general fund cannot pick up the balance of the cost in its present condition.

The new charges of $.90 will appear on December water bills, said Garlick.

Community Resource Center Committee

The next meeting of the newly formed Community Resource Center Committee is now Thursday, Nov. 19th, at 7:30 p.m. at St. Mary's Church Fellowship Hall, in the basement. We urge all community leaders and those interested to please attend.

Council Apprehensive Over Budget

Tentative revised budget figures presented to the Village Council reveal that a possible shortfall of $124,500 is possible before July 1988, when revenues are again expected. The figure is a tentative projection based on the figures that have been compiled over the last two weeks.

Emory Garlick, Interim Manager, explained that the figures represent a worst case scenario and would be dependent on the amount of money already spent that would be recoverable when bonds are sold for the treatment plant.

Council voted Monday to have those bonds peddled by Washtenaw County instead of trying to sell them. Although that would involve a fee, it is expected to be offset by the interest rates that result from the county's higher rating.

Twentieth Century Club

The October meeting of the Twentieth Century Club was held at the home of Doris Bersuder on Tuesday, October 13. Club president Elizabeth Beuerle served as co-hostess. After a short business meeting the members were treated to a special showing of paintings of Michigan barns by local artist Nancy Feldkamp.

Nancy has a commission for twelve barn paintings, and has completed painting and researching about thirty from all over the state. Among the most unusual are a round barn north of Grand Rapids, and a log barn with metal roof in the Upper Peninsula.

Two of Nancy's barn paintings are on display in the Ann Arbor Women Painters fall show, and one received honorable mention. Club members agreed that anyone would have trouble picking only twelve from this unique collection.

The next meeting will be a theater party. After dinner at a Saline restaurant the group will enjoy "Play It Again Sam" by the Saline Area Players on Thursday, November 12.

Letter To The Editor

Let's set the facts straight. There are too many rumors and misquotes on this issue. I'm referring to the Oct. 20th article in the Ann Arbor News and the Letter To The Editor in last week's Enterprise. First, the proper procedure for disciplining a child on the bus was not followed. If the proper procedure had been followed and the child's repeated loud talking had been reported to his parents, the bus driver would have known the child was not being "rowdy." The child is hyper-kinetic and has always talked loudly. There are ways to control his volume.

Secondly, the incident in question. The child was sitting in the front seat across from the bus driver. He was sitting there as a disciplinary action for talking too loud. The young girl sitting in the seat behind started squeezing his neck. Since he wasn't allowed to talk, he tried to push her off and got his hand tangled in her hair. At this time the driver, without stopping the bus, reached across the aisle and struck the child on the cheek with the back of his hand. The child recoiled and witnesses state he said "That hurt," the bus driver then stated "You deserved it." The child came home extremely quiet. His cheek was red spotted and slightly swollen. He appeared to be in shock. His younger brother explained to their mother what had happened.

Thirdly, her course of action was to find out exactly what had happened. She also took pictures of her child so there would be proof as to his condition. She worked within the school system to correct the situation. There was a meeting held where all facts were discussed. The decision was made by the superintendent to suspend the driver for a period of time. In the Oct. 20th article the parent stated the bus driver should be removed because of the fears of the children as well as the parents. She never stated he should be fired.

Lastly, she could have filed criminal charges against the bus driver, she did not. She could have filed a civil suit, she did not. Her son needed medical treatment because of the incident. She absorbed the cost and didn't file it with the school. She also pays taxes, but because her children are afraid, she drives them to school.

Deer Hunter Information Station Set At Clare

A special "Deer hunter Information Station" will be manned by Department of Natural Resources (DNR) personnel from November 12-14 at the Department of Transportation (DOT) John C. Mackie Welcome Center and Rest Area on U.S.-27 at Clare.

As hunters head north for the firearm deer season, which opens November 15, they can plan to take an "informed break" at Clare.

DNR law enforcement officers and wildlife biologists manning the center will provide hunters with the latest deer data, provide deer hunting literature and answer questions on hunting regulations, places to hunt and even places to set up camp.

Hours for the hunter information center are: noon to 8 p.m., Thursday, November 12; 10 a.m. to 10 p.m., Friday, November 13 and 10 a.m. to 8 p.m., Saturday, November 14.

DOT Director James P. Pitz said during past hunting seasons more than 2,000 persons a day have visited the rest area and welcome center prior to the deer season opener. "We're glad we can provide the DNR with this focal point for contact with deer hunters and hope this pilot project leads to a permanent program to assist hunters."

Additional information on the deer hunter information station may be obtained by contacting DNR Law Enforcement Division, 517-373-1230.

New service equipment includes CPS (Comprehensive Performance Service) where the mechanic uses the computer equipment to go in and diagnose the problem instead of replacing parts that he thinks are causing the problem. The advantage of this is lower repair bills, fixing it right the first time and finally a satisfied customer. This system has been implemented for engine service and also wheel and chassis service. DNR Accepting Project Applications

Clean Michigan Fund Applications Accepted Until November 20 - Market Development Projects Emphasized

The Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) is currently accepting applications for projects requesting grant monies available through the Clean Michigan Fund (CMF) program.

The CMF program was established pursuant to P.A. 249 of 1986, in order to reduce dependency on solid waste landfills by supporting the establishment of resource recovery technologies as alternatives to landfilling.

The Michigan Legislature has appropriated nearly $5 million for the 1987-88 CMF program, and grant assistance is available for projects in nine funding categories: 1) recycling capital grants; 2) composting capital grants; 3) recycling operational grants; 4) composting operational grants; 5) market development grants; 6) resource recovery education grants; 7) landfill/dump closure grants; 8) transfer station construction grants; and 9) household hazardous waste collection grants.

Applications for grant assistance must be postmarked or delivered by the November 20, 1987 deadline.

The DNR is "emphasizing market development for recyclable materials as a program priority. According to Fred Clinton, Chief of the DNR's Resource Recovery Section, "Adequate markets must be available for materials that are collected in Michigan's recycling programs in order to assure the economic viability of the program." The Clean Michigan Fund's market development will assist projects with the potential to expand existing markets or create new markets.

The DNR is encouraging Michigan businesses to utilize recycled materials in manufacturing processes. Applications submitted for market development grants must be for projects that are beyond research stages and that have been demonstrated to be technically feasible.

Grant requests should be for equipment that will result in the increased use of recyclable materials in the creation of a marketable end-product, or for the intermediate processing of materials to supply a new end-market.

In both cases, the final market and demand for the materials must be documented. Only costs related to the purchase of appropriate equipment are eligible.

The last thing you need when you're over 55, is a problem paying for your car insurance.

Age has its rewards. Sometimes. It does with Auto-Owners. They give good drivers age 55 or older a discount. So instead of raising your premiums or reducing your coverage you may pay a little less for your auto insurance. Auto-Owners respects maturity and a good driving record. Just ask your "no problem" Auto-Owners agent how he can save you money on your car insurance. When you hear the news, you'll be glad you've got a few years behind you.

WINNING STRATEGIES TO DRIVE 'OLD MAN WINTER' OFF THE ROAD

Motorists can make winter driving a snap by following the maintenance steps and common-sense practices listed below.

- Check hoses and belts for cracks and fraying before winter arrives and replace as needed. Push on belts to check proper tension. If belts deflect more than 1 to 1 1/2 inches, they are too loose.
- Check heater and defroster to be sure they work properly.
- Make sure all lights—headlamps, front and back turn signals, reverse, hazard warning and brake lights—work properly.
- Make sure tires, including spare, are inflated properly and have sufficient tread for safe traction.
- Make sure windshield wipers are in good working order. Replace when they begin leaving streaks and skipping spots on the windshield.
- Keep jumper cables, flashlight, tools, blanket, boots and shovel in car for emergencies.
- Keep gas tank at least half full to prevent fuel-line freeze.
- Clear off frost, ice and snow from all surfaces, including headlamps and taillights, with an ice scraper or brush before driving.

Dutchmen End Season Overpowering Homer

No. 40 Brian Gebhardt snares a pass.

7-0. Soon after Homer again punted and it was blocked by Brian Gebhardt. The pigskin was recovered on the two-yard line by Mark Fenelon and it took Mike Brokaw one play to score. The first quarter was still not over when Scott Gross caught a 3-yard TD pass from Tom Mann. Jason again kicked the point after to leave the tally 21-0.

The second twelve minute-period saw us up our score by 15, as Homer tallied 6. Both TD passes were caught by Senior flanker Brian Gebhardt.

At halftime we were again treated to an impressive outing by the Manchester marching band.

The second half saw many Dutch benchers see action, both offensively and defensively. The Trojans were able to outscore us 14-6, but as the final gun sounded we were the victors 42-20.

We now put away our football cleats, having concluded a super season. We repeated as Cascades Conference co-champions with a 5 and 1 record, and had 8 wins and 1 loss overall. We also beat our arch-rival Clinton who went on to win their Conference.

Here is a rundown of other Cascades vs Big Eight games: Napoleon 34-0 over Jonesville, East Jackson 13-0 over Springport, Hanover Horton 35-20 over Quincy, Vandercook Lake 27-14 over Athens, Michigan Center 35-26 over Union City and Concord 22-20 over Grass Lake.

It was Parents' night and there are two things you'd like to accomplish — one is to win, the other to use as many players as possible. We accomplished both as all saw action and we defeated the Jayhawks 65-36.

In the first period, we opened up as if shot out of a cannon, assuming an early 8-0 lead. Unfortunately, at the close of this eight minutes, Vandy had rallied and caught up within four. In the second stanza, we outscored them 14-12, to take a six point advantage into the locker room.

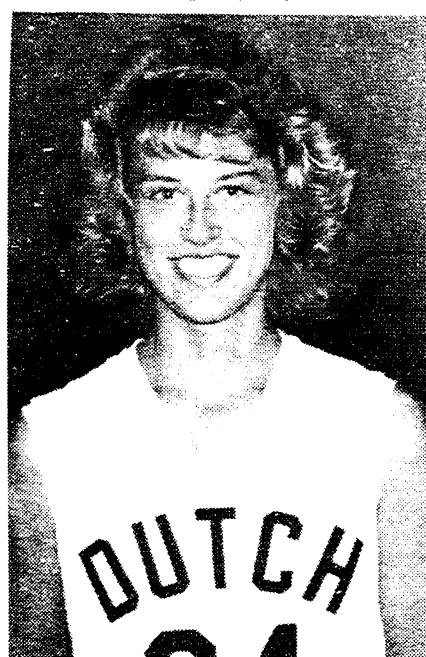

The second half finished Vandercook Lake as our running gun style worked to perfection. We outscored 15-6 in the third period and 22-8 in the final period.

Renea Drouare led all scorers, hitting for 15 points, as Sarah Corwin had a big night with 10. Other scorers tonight were: Nikole Reinhart - 9, Linda Milkey - 6, Dawn Brady - 6, Rockie Weber - 5, Sherry Rickelmann - 4, Kim Lockridge - 4, Jennifer Bailey - 2, Vanessa Salyer - 2, and Sara Scully - 2.

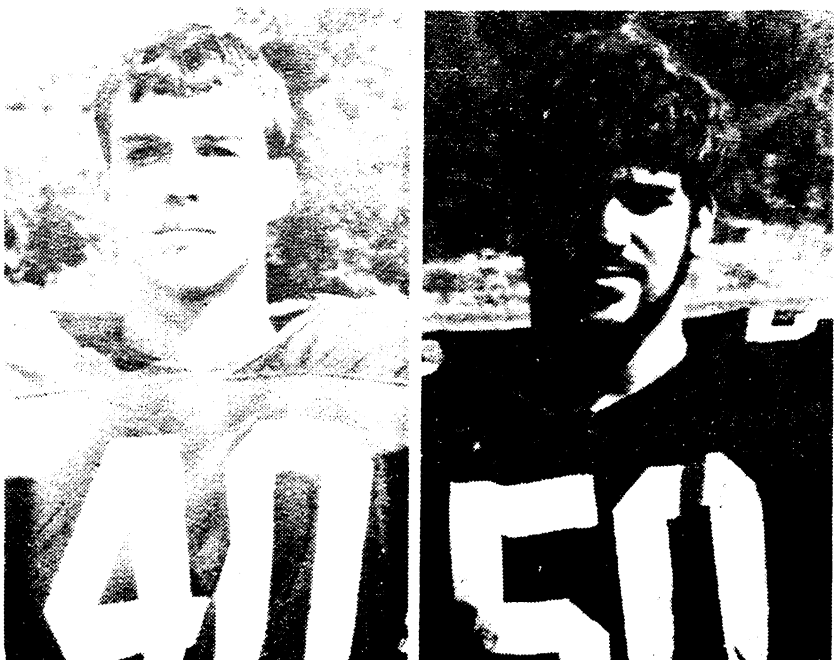

Our girls are now 6 and 2 in the Cascades Conference and 9 and 6 overall.

Despite 11 points by Stacey Wilde and 10 by Jackie Ahrens, our JV's fell 53-34.

Park Attendance At All-time High

More than 24.2 million people visited Michigan state parks this season for festivals and special events, family picnics, swimming and hiking. Department of Natural Resources Parks Division Chief Jack Butterfield said 1987 state parks attendance was up six percent from last year's, and broke the 1978 visitors record count of 23.6 million.

Butterfield said 22 percent of the visitors -- or 5.2 million -- were campers.

The most popular day-use state parks were Warren Dunes, Holland and Grand Haven on the shores of Lake Michigan with over a million visitors each, and Sterling State Park on Lake Erie, with 843,000. Ludington, South Higgins Lake and P.J. Hoffmaster state parks were the most popular parks for camping.

The accompanying notes are an integral part of these financial statements.

For the 1986-87 fiscal year, the Manchester Community School District had revenues of $4,158,814 and expenditures of $4,058,235.

The revenue is divided into local, state and federal sources. Most of the funds for Manchester derive from local taxes. We receive some state aid primarily in the areas of transportation and special education. Funds received from the federal grants are earmarked and must be expended as per the grant.

The expenditures are divided into categories of direct student instructional cost, such as teacher wages, textbooks, and supplies used in the classroom; and the second area is support services such as counselors, libraries, administrators, operations, including transportation, utilities, custodial, maintenance and repair to the buildings.

The fund balance as of June 30, 1987 was $402,840. This represents funds defined as reserved, designated, and undesignated. Reserved funds are those set aside under the 1.5 mills for maintenance/capital improvement. Designated funds include inventory, bus costs, and energy note interest.

Of the undesignated fund balance approximately $60,000 will be needed to balance the 1987-88 budget. This will leave an estimated $238,000 as our fund balance for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1988.

Lowering Dietary Cholesterol

Will lowering cholesterol intake by consuming fewer eggs and other cholesterol-containing foods reduce Americans' blood cholesterol levels and risk of heart disease? This question is a subject of continuing discussion among medical authorities, reports the Dairy Council of Michigan.

Lois D. McBean, M.S., R.D.
Nutrition Technical Advisor
Dairy Council of Michigan

In the face of this issue, Dr. Donald McNamara points to accumulating evidence that, for the majority of Americans, changes in dietary cholesterol have little, if any, effect on blood cholesterol. A high blood cholesterol level is one of several factors which can increase risk of heart disease, explains McNamara, a professor at the University of Arizona. Other risk factors include elevated blood pressure or hypertension, obesity, and smoking.

Not all individuals respond to changes in dietary cholesterol in the same way, says McNamara who led a series of 75 12-week studies looking at how individuals handle changes in dietary cholesterol and fat.

In about 70-80 percent of the population, blood cholesterol is relatively stable regardless of cholesterol intake. For these individuals, lowering dietary cholesterol can be expected to be of little benefit.

Blood cholesterol reflects both cholesterol intake from the diet and cholesterol produced in the body. For the majority of the population, an increase in cholesterol intake triggers a cut back in the body's production of cholesterol with the result that blood cholesterol is unchanged, McNamara explains. However, for about 20-30 percent of the population, there appears to be a defect in the mechanism controlling cholesterol production in the body. McNamara found that in those individuals who responded to an increase in dietary cholesterol with an increase in blood cholesterol, their bodies failed to decrease cholesterol production.

The finding that reducing dietary cholesterol has a small effect on blood cholesterol in the majority of the population raises serious questions about the benefit of making recommendations to lower dietary cholesterol for everyone. Indeed, some experts worry that the nationwide push to lower cholesterol levels may be harmful to health. The American Academy of Pediatrics has expressed concern that lowering dietary fat and cholesterol may fail to "adequately support growth, especially during the adolescent growth spurt."

For optimal health, it is important that all persons consume a nutritionally balanced diet made up of a variety of foods from each of the four food groups — the milk, meat, fruit-vegetable, and grain groups, advises the Dairy Council of Michigan. Individuals should find out what their blood cholesterol level is, and if it is elevated, consult a physician.

Bill Introduced

A bill protecting a husband or wife from becoming impoverished because his or her spouse needs expensive nursing home care will be introduced this week by Representative Perry Bullard (D-Ann Arbor), Chair of the House Judiciary Committee.

Under provisions of the bill, $25,000 of the annual income of a couple, and any assets used to produce that income, would not be considered in determining eligibility for Medicaid coverage of nursing home care.

"The federal government has consistently refused to provide long-term care coverage through the Medicare program," stated Bullard. "This refusal, along with the fact that almost no private insurance companies cover long-term care, makes it almost impossible to protect oneself from the high cost of nursing home or emergency care."

Bullard said that, without a policy to protect couples when one or the other is institutionalized for long-term care, the couple is required to spend down their personal resources almost to the point of poverty before the institutionalized spouse is eligible for Medicaid.

"With private pay rates of $15,000-35,000 a year, a couple's personal assets are quickly depleted, often leaving the non-institutionalized spouse with little to continue maintaining his/her home or to save for future health care or emergency services," explained Bullard. "This creates an unnecessary, stressful and sometimes life-threatening situation. The measure I am proposing would move us toward a more equitable, compassionate alternative to current policies."

Tax Information Council

The New Tax Law And Children's Investment Income

The new federal tax law has limited the advantages that parents have in transferring money into income-producing assets for their children.

Before the new tax law was enacted, all income that children earned from savings accounts, stocks, and other investments was taxed at the child's lower rate.

Under the new law, only the first $1,000 of investment income that a child under 14 earns will be taxed at the child's lower rate.

Any investment income that exceeds $1,000 would be taxed at the parents' rate.

For dependent children age 14 and over, all taxable investment income will still be taxed at their own lower rates.

For example, if a child under the age of 14 earned $3,000 in investment income, then the first $1,000 would be taxed at the child's rate. The additional $2,000 would be taxed at the parents' rate. If the child's parents are divorced, then the tax rate of the parent who has custody would be applied to the $2,000.

It should also be noted that it does not matter who gives the original investment to a child. The same laws apply whether the money is from a parent, a grandparent, an aunt, or a family friend.

Another important change in the tax law is the children's standard deduction. Under the old law children were allowed to claim a personal exemption, making the first $1,080 of their income tax-exempt.

Under the new law children cannot claim a personal exemption and the children's standard deduction has been reduced to $500. That means that any income earned by a child that exceeds $500 is treated as taxable income.

WHAT CAN I DO to support my fire department?

You can help by preventing fires at home:

- HAVE YOUR HOME INSPECTED by the fire department for fire hazards.
 - MAKE A FIRE ESCAPE PLAN and practice it with the whole family every few months.
 - POST THE FIRE DEPARTMENT'S NUMBER by every phone.
- INSTALL SMOKE DETECTORS and fire extinguishers. Ask your fire department for help in placing smoke detectors.
- OTHER HOME FIRE SAFETY TIPS:
 - Dispose of cigarettes and ashes properly.
 - Check wires and cords for breaks and wear.
 - Keep your house free of clutter — especially the basement and attic.
- MAINTAIN HEATING EQUIPMENT — Have it checked and cleaned yearly by a qualified professional.
- STORE FLAMMABLES SAFELY — Gasoline, kerosene, paints and thinners should be stored outside your home, in approved containers.

Remember: contact your fire department if you have any questions about fire safety.

For those of you who burn wood, remember you need to CHECK and CLEAN your chimney once a month.

Transportation In Michigan's History

"WE WANT BETTER ROADS" — Five digits sufficed on Michigan license plates when good-roads advocates took to the roads in the years before World War II to promote upgrading the highway system. These two participate on a "pike tour" in 1914 stopped for a photo on the West Michigan Pike at the Benzie-Leelanau county line.

Before then, anybody could drive anything anywhere — roads permitting — with no license or plates.

Records from the Secretary of State's office show a total of 2,188 motor vehicles were registered in 1905. Last year 6.3 million licensed drivers registered 7.7 million vehicles for use on the state's 118,000-mile system of highways, roads and streets.

Before 1905, some cities registered commercially-used horse-drawn vehicles and simply used the same paper forms to register motor vehicles.

From 1905 to 1910, a small round metal tag served as a registration for motorized vehicles. It was usually fastened on the dashboard, but motorists also were required to display the number on the rear of the vehicle. This was done by mounting the number on a larger license plate, usually made of leather and measuring six by 14 inches.

The year 1910 marked the first time metal license plates were issued in Michigan. These were made of porcelain-covered steel and displayed three or four white numbers on a black background with the abbreviation "MICH" and the year.

The porcelain plates were issued until 1915 when the state began using stamped metal plates that resembled those issued today. Since then, Michigan plates have run the gamut of colors from the olive green of 1918 to the light purple of 1936, from the dull silver of 1961 to the maroon of 1941, 1944, 1957 and 1971. Most

State registration of vehicles did not begin until 1905 and driver licensing was not undertaken by the state until 1919.

When Michigan was organized as a state, the Secretary of State kept minutes of meetings, vital statistics and records of crops and cattle and weather. He also was the custodian of laws passed by the legislature. Today the Motor Vehicle Division with responsibility for vehicle registration and driver licensing is the largest operation in that department.

TAX STRATEGIES FOR THE SELF-EMPLOYED

(Prepared by the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants)

The Tax Reform Act of 1986 is now very much a reality — all 300-plus pages of it, and whether you're self-employed or run a sideline business for extra income, there are a number of tax-saving strategies you can follow.

First of all, you should know that if you are self-employed, you stand to benefit from the lower individual tax rates, reports the Michigan Association of CPAs. Because your self-employment profits are included in your personal income, they are subject to the same lower tax rates as individuals. You pay tax on your business profits only at your personal income tax rates. All in all, the self-employed should fare quite well under tax reform.

Because the ordinary and necessary costs of operating a business are tax-deductible, the self-employed individual gets tax breaks that now carry restrictions for the employed worker. For employed workers, most business-related expenses are considered miscellaneous itemized expenses and as such, are now deductible only to the extent they exceed two percent of a taxpayer's adjusted gross income. Not so for the self-employed worker.

Other tax reform changes that apply to individuals do not apply to businesses. For example, the interest costs of financing a car bought for business remains deductible, even though the corresponding deduction for interest charges is being phased out for individuals. And although individuals can no longer deduct the sales tax paid on a car, the businessperson can add the sales tax to the purchase price and depreciate the total amount.

Beginning this year, self-employed workers get a new deduction. Twenty-five percent of the amount paid for health insurance coverage for themselves and their families can be deducted so long as the deduction does not exceed the business' net earnings. In most cases, if you have employees, you will also have to provide coverage for them to qualify for the new deduction. The law says you cannot qualify for a deduction in any year you are eligible to participate in a subsidized health plan of another employer or through your spouse's employer. This 25 percent deduction is due to expire at the end of 1989.

Consider, too, the tax benefits of opening a Keogh. Keoghs are tax-deferred pension accounts for those who are self-employed either full- or part-time. Keogh contributions are tax-deductible and earnings grow on a tax-deferred basis and are not subject to income tax until withdrawal.

Many self-employed workers take advantage of home-office expenses which continue to be deductible under the 1986 Tax Reform Act, although with a new restriction. As a general rule, to take a tax deduction for using part of your home for business, that part must be used exclusively and regularly as:

- * the principal place of your business or
- * a place where you meet or deal with your clients, customers or patients.

Under the new law, deductions for business use of the home are allowed only to the extent of the taxpayer's net income from the business — that is, gross income less deductions attributable to the business. Expenses that would be deductible irrespective of business use, such as mortgage interest and property taxes, are disregarded for purposes of this calculation. Thus, expenses for items such as depreciation and utilities are subject to gross income limitations. If deductible expenses exceed gross income, a carryover is provided. The net effect of this new limitation is that home office deductions may not be used to create or increase a net loss from the business activity conducted in the home.

The complicated tax laws governing home office deductions are closely scrutinized by the Internal Revenue Service, so you may want to consult with a knowledgeable tax professional before proceeding.

Business equipment can still be depreciated over a number of years, although the tax act generally stretches out the depreciation terms of most equipment. But the lengthened periods are somewhat offset by the new law's increased acceleration method, allowing you a faster rate of depreciation in the initial years. In general, automobiles, which were depreciated over three years under the old law, now use a five-year depreciation period. For other depreciable business assets including machinery, equipment and office furniture, the write-off period generally extends from five to seven years, while the depreciation period for computers remains at five years. Other business assets may be depreciated over a longer period of time.

Some business owners forgo depreciation and choose "expensing" instead. With expensing, you take an immediate tax deduction for equipment purchases, writing off up to $10,000 worth of equipment the first year. This $10,000 cap became effective on January 1, 1987; prior to that, $5,000 was the most that could be expensed. The $10,000 limit applies as long as your business equipment purchases are less than $200,000 for the year. The $10,000 amount is reduced dollar-for-dollar where the cost of equipment put into service during the year exceeds $200,000. For example, if you purchased $205,000 worth of equipment, the most you could "expense" would be $5,000. The amount eligible to be expensed is limited to taxable income from the active trade or business in which the property is used.

Another tax strategy you may use as a self-employed worker is to hire your spouse and/or children. If the work they perform is legitimate and the amount you pay is reasonable, you can deduct the amount of their wages on Schedule C. And you don't have to make Social Security payments on behalf of your spouse or children under 21. Be aware however, that beginning in 1987, an individual who is eligible to be claimed as a dependent on another taxpayer's return will no longer be allowed to claim a personal exemption on his or her own return.

Workers with net self-employment earnings of $400 or more must pay self-employment tax — a Social Security tax for self-employed individuals. Your self-employment tax payments contribute to your coverage under the Social Security system. For 1987, the maximum amount subject to self-employment tax is $43,800. The Tax Reform Act of 1986 is sweeping, to say the least, making it more important than ever for the self-employed to have a good professional support group to assist in creating a comprehensive financial plan that minimizes taxes.

Theives Loot The Yocum & Marx Store

Manchester Enterprise October 22, 1985

Early Morning Visitors Last Friday Carry Away Perhaps $1,800 Worth Of Clothing

Prying open a window in the rear of Yocum & Marx's clothing store early Friday morning, thieves entered and made away with about $1,800 worth of men's suits and overcoats and women's coats and dresses.

The made their escape without being caught and left no clue that has led to their capture. On the window sill was left plainly the mark of some tool used to pry up the window and on the display case in the store was left an impression of a hand, but after attempt by a Lansing expert to transfer the impressions to paper, it was found to be blurred, probably from pressure, and could not be used for purpose of identification.

Tracks in the street running back of the stores showed where an auto had been turned around and backed conveniently in to receive the load. About 10 to 10:30 o'clock a Packard sedan was observed parked on the west side of the M.E. church, and in it were seated two people, but nothing in particular was thought of it. Between 1 and 2 o'clock in the morning members of the Staib family observed what was thought to be the same car come quietly down "Kief's hill" and turn south to Jackson street. It is now thought this was the car bearing the stolen goods.

Examination of the store disclosed that two racks of about 30 suits in the display case had been taken, also the contents of one rack of men's and young men's overcoats. A vest and pants, the coat of which was in the front window, was cast aside. Then stepping into the dry goods department, a rack of women's and girls' coats was gathered in, also several silk and wool dresses on a nearby rack.

That the robbers were intent on getting some women's goods along with the men's is evident to some who have looked over the job, as the car was parked back of Weurthner Bros. clothing store, which would have meant a shorter carry, and the matter of entry would have been the same.

Recreation Task Force

Anyone interested in volunteering some time to help co-ordinate recreational activities for the residents of Manchester is invited to attend the open meeting at the home of Bill and Dianne Schwab, 116 Beaufort Street, November 18, 7:00 p.m.

Major attention being given to the youth thus far. Meetings are held monthly with membership open to anyone at anytime. The group was organized following a community wide Futuring Session conducted December 6, 1986, at the Manchester High School.

County Historical Society

During World War II a rural area in Washtenaw County with a meandering stream named Willow Run was hurriedly turned into a huge bomber plant turning out a B-24 an hour around the clock.

Ms. Flavia Reps, a history teacher at Washtenaw Community College, will give a slide-tape show about the bomber plant at 2 p.m. Sunday, November 15, at the Washtenaw County Historical Society meeting at the American Legion, 1035 South Main, Ann Arbor.

Ms. Reps headed an oral history study of the plant in which she sought interviews with persons who had had any connection with the plant. The study title was "The Impact of World War II on Willow Run."

Ms. Reps, who has a master's degree from Georgetown University in Washington D.C., came to WCC when it started in 1966 and temporarily occupied some of the old Willow Village buildings. That gave her the idea for the study.

The meeting is open to the public free of charge. Refreshments will be served. There is free parking and handicap access.

Federal Foods Distribution

Federal Foods will be distributed in the Manchester area Friday, November 20, at the Manchester United Methodist Church, 501 Ann Arbor Street (M-52) from 10 to 12 noon.

Families and individuals who are receiving assistance from the Department of Social Services, Supplemental Security Income (SSI), or whose income meets the following criteria are eligible for Surplus Foods from the government. MHS Players Present "BONE-CHILLER"

This Friday and Saturday night the Manchester High School Players will be performing in BONE-CHILLER - a comedic mystery thriller. Thirteen people, on the night of Friday the 13th, gather at the Travers mansion in New York City for the reading of the late Joshua Travers' will. The will turns out to be a wall chart - and it is rendered in the form of a rebus (one of those part-word-part-drawing puzzles) that almost defies solution - and instead of designating an heir, it offers the estate to anyone who can solve the will! To make things tougher, the lights keep going out and people keep getting murdered. The audience will have a ball trying to untangle the puzzle faster than the hapless characters - this is not only a very funny farce - it is also a superbly crafted mystery.

Performances are November 13th and 14th at 8:00 p.m. in the High School Auditorium. Tickets are $2.50/students and $3.00/adults. Doors open at 7:30 p.m. For more information call the High School office at 428-7333. Don't miss this evening of fun and laughter.

Blood Donor Battle

Friends, fans, alumni and students of the University of Michigan will literally be out for blood (donations) against their counterparts at Ohio State University in the annual Blood Donor Battle, November 9, through November 20. Winner of the Blood Drop trophy will be announced at half time ceremonies during the annual football game between the rival Big Ten schools on November 21, in Ann Arbor.

Down in Columbus, students have begun recruiting blood donors in an all-out effort to retain the trophy they claimed in 1986. But members of Alpha Phi Omega at the University of Michigan have vowed to bring the trophy home to Michigan where it belongs.

In the five years of competition, Michigan has been the victor in all blood donations remain in the region in which it is collected. Paper "credits" only are exchanged between the rivals.

For friends of Michigan who have never donated blood but would like to join in the battle, requirements to donate are simple: Donors must be between the ages of 17 and 70 years old, in good health and weigh a minimum of 110 pounds.

Call Red Cross at 494-2800 for an appointment to donate blood at the nearest donor center and give blood for Michigan.
