Insect allergy simply means that exposure to an insect brings about an overreaction of the immune system in a sensitive person. Most often, exposure involves a sting or bite. In most cases, insect allergy might be called more correctly insect sting allergy or insect venom allergy, since the allergic reaction is usually not caused by the whole insect but by the venom that it in-

The salivary secretions of biting insects (such as mosquitoes, flies, lice, and fleas) or the irritating substances left on the skin by some crawling insects may lead to sensitivity, but it is the stinging insects that are generally the most dangerous.

The Hymenoptera or "membrane-winged" insects are the only insects that sting, and only a few of the stinging Hymenoptera-honey bees, wasps, hornets, yellow jackets, and ants-cause serious allergic reactions in man. Of these five, reactions to the yellow jacket and the bee are the most common.

Insect stings can cause a variety of reactions, depending on the type of insect, the amount of the site of the sting. In general, reactions fall into three main groups. Normal reactions to stings involve pain, redness, swelling, itching, and warmth at the site of the sting. Toxic reactions are the result of multiple stings. Five hundred stings within a short time are considered enough to kill because of the effects of extremely large amounts of venom injected into one person. Fewer stings, but usually at least 10, closely spaced over time, can cause serious illness and discomfort. Allergic reactions, the third type. produce some of the same symptoms as those of toxic reactions, but allergic reactions differ in that they can be triggered by only venom. Any reaction to a single sting involving extensive swellof the sting probably should be considered allergic until proved

The onset of allergic reactions can be immediate or delayed. A delayed reaction, occurring several hours to 2 weeks after a sting, is similar to a drug reaction known as serum sickness. In this situation painful joints, fever, hives or other skin rashes, and venom injected, the presence or swollen lymph glands may deabsence of a specific type of al-velop. #### Plan Event To Raise Funds For Athletic Fence

If you want to taste charcoal broiled chicken at its finest. salted, buttered with well-done meat under a crisp toasted skin, bring your family and your friends to the Manchester athletic field, anytime after four o'clock. Thursday, August 12.

This open-air feast, sponsored by the Exchange Club with the help of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, is no amateur affair. It's worth coming to, just to watch the expert Michigan State College cooks in action.

For some time, Michigan State has specialized in developing the chicken barbecue. Their equipment consists of two-sided grates to permit the turning of 40 or 50 chicken halves at one time. Part of the chicken will be roasted over metal half-barrels containing glowing charcoal. Part will be done over special long ovens. The staff will be prepared to serve up to 400 meals per hour, and service will last for almost four hours.

Special chickens have been ordered and each serving will consist of a 14-ounce half. The chefs have developed barbecuing to a fine art. Butter is not applied until the chicken is almost done. The roasting is done slowly over an hour to finish the cooking.

Tables will be set on the athletic field and kept clean and ready for guests as fast as diners finish their meals. The menu, in addition to chicken is potato chips, relishes, buttered buns. In case of rain, cooking will be done on the playground under a tent, and service will be in the gymnasium.

The state college technique for preparing barbecued chicken has ecome nationally famous. In many communities the college has serviced as high as 1500 guests and making them all happy. Many ovens will be in operation on the Manchester athletic field and hot chicken will be coming off the grates at the rate of hundred every quarter hour.

Cost of the feast is only $1.50 for adults and .75 cents for children half portions. All profits will be toward the debt on the athletic field fence, for which the Exchange Club has signed notes. The Jaycees are running

CHIROPRACTIC! WHY CHIROPRACTIC?

Many people suffer for years with health problems they hope will just go away - but they never do. Perhaps you should try chiropractic! Chiropractic health care has proved invaluable to sufferers from allergies, anemia, acne, arthritis, asthma, bursitis, constipation, colds, deafness, epilepsy, diarrhea, rheumatism, gall bladder trouble, paralysis, indigestion, vertigo, liver problems, nervousness, neuralgia, sciatica, tonsilitis, high blood pressure, kidney disorders and many more aliments too numerous to mention. In fact, if you sit in a chiropractor's waiting room for any length of time you will hear testimonials from patients on how the doctor has cured everything from hiccups to heart disease. The truth is that any chiropractor who is "worth his salt" cannot and will not accept any credit for curing the patients' sicknesses. A disease is "Cured" when the vital nerve impulses flow freely from the brain to all parts of the body, thereby allowing the body to heal itself. Which is what chiropractic is all about. Chiropractic corrects the cause of the problem rather than treating the symptoms of the problem. Why not try chiropractic, it's different, it's natural and it's effective. So don't wait forever to get well!

Community Resource Center

The Executive Board of the Community Resource Center is announcing the appointment of Dianne Schwab as the Director of the Community Resource Center. Dave Little is the newly appointed Chairman of the Executive Board.

The official opening of the Community Resource Center was December 14, 1987. Past Chairman of the Community Resource Committee, Rev. Robert Macfarlane coordinated the efforts to open the Center to continue to provide employment services to the laid-off employees of Double A Products Company when the facility at Double A was no longer available. Staffing and services of the WALTEC Office (Washtenaw, Ann Arbor, Livingston Training and Employment Center) will end June 30th.

The mission of the Community Resource Center is to cooperate with existing community organizations to provide a delivery site, volunteer recruitment and training opportunities for organizations, programs and task forces which serve the community. In addition, the CRC supports the quality of life by assisting with information and referral, assessments of unserved needs, developing teams to address needs and provide education about functions and availability of resources. Groundwork is being laid to continue assisting the unemployed of the community, beyond the needs of the Double A people.

Residents of the village and surrounding areas are invited to visit the Community Resource Center at 122 W. Main Street, downstairs from Dr. Eccles and Johnson's office. The office hours are 9:00 - 12:00 and 1:00 - 4:00, through Friday. Suggestions and ideas are always welcome. The phone number at the CRC office is 428-7722.

Deadline To File June 30 is the deadline for farmers to file for a crude oil overcharge refund. According to Mike Kovacic, director of Michigan Farm Bureau's Information and Public Relations Division, an earlier deadline had been extended six months, but this will be the final opportunity for individuals to request a refund.

"Refunds will be made at a rate of at least $8 per 10,000 gallons of fuel used or equivalent oil based products purchased between August 19, 1973 and January 27, 1981, the period when crude oil was under government price controls," Kovacic said. "If actual fuel purchase records are not available, the Department of Energy will allow estimates of use by figuring gallons used per acre." Kovacic said farmers who purchased significant amounts of fuel during that period should consider filing for a refund.

"It is money due them as a result of the overcharge ruling. The refund requests are relatively easy to prepare, and are available from county Farm Bureau offices," he said.

Q: How can animals see in the dark?

A: They can't! No animal can see in complete darkness. But some animals can see in extremely weak light. Being an owl, I can see in one tenth the light that you need to see. That's because I have very special, very large eyes.

Q: Why do owls sleep in the day and not at night? A. Like most owls, I hunt at night because that's when I can find the most food. My special eyes - and ears - help me find nice fat mice and other prev after the sun goes down. And by hunting at night, I don't have to compete with the hawks and other animals
