Warm Water Exercise Relieves Arthritis

If no one in your family is suffering from arthritis this winter, you can count yourself among the lucky few.

Those who are afflicted may want to try a bit of warm water exercise.

Arthritis, a general term used for any inflammation of the joints, is mankind's oldest known chronic disease. Neanderthal men suffered from inflamed joints more than 400,000 years ago.

The disease isn't limited to people, either. Horses and dogs can have arthritis. Even the skeletons of prehistoric reptiles show the condition.

Today, more than 30 million Americans—some 20 million of these requiring medical care—suffer from a hundred or more forms of arthritis.

Arthritis is more likely to affect the very young, women between 20 and 60, and the very old, but no one is immune. The wide variety of types and differences in symptoms among people may make the condition very difficult to detect.

Some forms of arthritis can be prevented. Severe shocks to the joints, or regular and repeated damage can lead to arthritic conditions. Football players often develop arthritic knees, ballet dancers may have arthritic toes.

More severe forms of arthritis may require surgery. Over-the-counter drugs can reduce the inflammation— aspirin and ibuprofen are among the most widely used.

Because of the pain that comes with movement, those with arthritis often try to hold their joints very still. Over time, this causes additional pain and muscles become shorter, tighter, and weaker.

Many doctors now recommend a natural program of relaxation and exercise as the best way for patients to get back the full function of swollen joints. Warm water exercises, in which the patient relaxes and does slow movements of every joint to increase flexibility, seem to be particularly effective.

Such a program will decrease pain and stiffness for those who do not have an active inflammatory disease or other severe medical problem. Regular exercise helps keep joints moving, restores and preserves flexibility and strength, and protects joints against further damage.

Because warm water provides buoyancy and lessens stress on the joints, moving becomes less strained. The water also provides a gentle resistance to help build strength.

Exercising in a spa early in the morning, doctors say, may help reduce pain and stiffness when it is at its worst. Repeating the warm water treatment may also be helpful at the end of a day to relax muscles. Gentle exercises that increase the flexibility of the joints and warm temperatures, rather than hot, are believed to be best for this treatment.

The Arthritis Foundation recommends the following guidelines when doing warm water exercises.

- Submerge body part being exercised.

- Move the body part slowly and gently.
- Begin and end with easy exercises.

- Follow through complete joint range of motion if possible but do not force any movement. Stop if you experience any sudden or increased pain.

- Do 3-8 repetitions.
- Pain that lasts for more than one to two hours after warm water exercise may indicate overuse. Cut back next time.

- Remember the weakening effects of heat. Start slowly and don't overdo.

- Any individuals who have severe joint damage or joint replacement should check with their doctor or surgeon before exercising.

If you'd like more information about selecting proper equipment for warm water exercising, ask for "What's Cool... What's Hot," from the National Spa and Pool Institute at (800) 528-6050 ext. 93. ☆

International Printing Week January 15th to 21st

Hans VanAlstine working with computer graphics

The week of January 15th to the 21st has been designated in observance of Printing Week. International Printing Week. This week has been set aside to recognize the participants of the Graphic Arts Industry for their efforts in providing us with quality products which enhance each of our lives in so many ways.

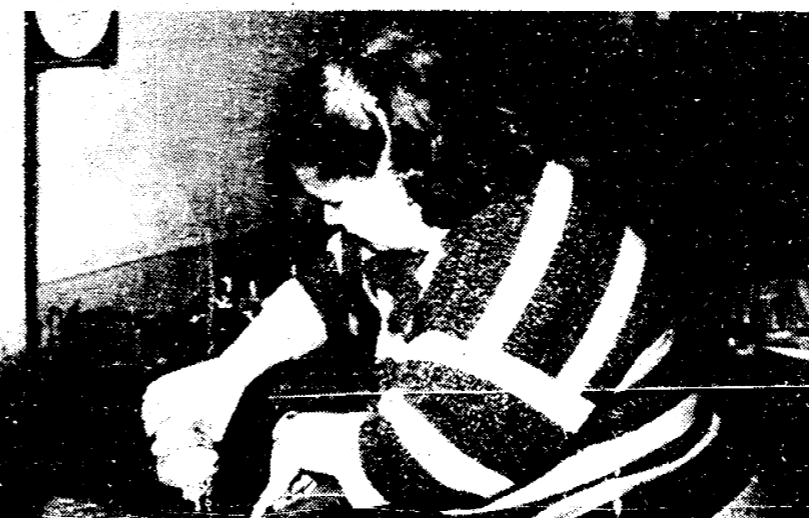

"Print, Linking Industry and Education" has been chosen as the theme this year to point out the role the Graphic Arts play in various facets of our lives. Many local residents share a special part in this role and are employed by one of the many book manufacturing firms in the greater Ann Arbor area. This same pride is taken by the staff at The Manchester Enterprise.

James Roth, vocational graphic arts instructor at Saline High School, says there has been several students from Manchester High School who got a start with their career in the printing industry by being a student in his class. He said he "is proud of the many who are employed in the industry that got their start by being in one of the graphic arts classes in the area. There are many opportunities in the printing industry and there is a place for everyone. It has been an excellent career choice for many and will continue to be."

The Manchester Graphic Arts Students are proud to invite you to attend an open house in the Saline High School's graphic arts lab on January 18, 1989, 7-9 p.m. in observance of Printing Week. They would love to be your host that evening and even give you a demonstration on using some of the equipment if you should ask.

Printing Week is celebrated during the week that holds January 17th. For printing history buffs that is Benjamin Franklin's birthday and this is no coincidence. Franklin was considered the father of American printing and he dedicated much of his life to the printing industry.

The positions of Village President, Treasurer, Clerk and three other trustees will not have expired.

Girl Scout Cookie Time

Girl Scout cookies were first sold in 1934 for 23 cents a box. There was only one kind - shortbread cookies baked in the shape of the Girl Scout trefoil.

More than 50 years later, Girl Scouts are still selling shortbread cookies, along with six other varieties: honey glazed chocolate chips, chocolate sandwich, Echo Echos, coconut caramel Samoos, chocolaty Thin Mints, oatmeal peanut butter sandwich DoSiDos, shortbread Trefoils, and peanut butter patty Tagalongs. And from January 14-27, Huron Valley Girl Scouts will continue the tradition by selling cookies in Washtenaw County.

Although plenty has changed since Girl Scout founder Juliette Low's time, Girl Scouts still learn to take the lead in their communities by participating in substance abuse awareness programs, outdoor education activities and leadership training events.

The Girl Scout cookie sale is the financial backbone for providing these programs and services to nearly 12,000 girls in the four-county area the Council serves. Participation in this sale not only teaches girls about teamwork, it also gives them hands-on experience with the free enterprise system - experience that will prepare them for the transition from cookies to careers.

"A Pioneer"

A Sketch Of The Life Of One Of Bridgewater's Honored and Respected Citizens

Manchester Enterprise August 23, 1888

David Wheeler Palmer was born in Voluntown, New London County, Conn., June 5, 1807. Came with his parents to Lenox, Madison County, N.Y., in 1810, at the age of three years. Followed the occupation of a farmer when he attained sufficient age. For many years he labored on the farm during the summer and taught school winters, until he had taught "the young idea how to shoot" twelve seasons.

On March 19, 1830, he married Flora L. Randall. She died Oct. 5, 1833, leaving one child, F. M. Palmer, then about three years of age.

In Oct., 1836, he came to Michigan. Followed his old occupation of farming and teaching until he had taught eight terms, making twenty in New York and Michigan. December 21, 1837, he married Fidelia D. Randall.

Mr. Palmer has been honored by his fellow citizens in various ways; was justice of the peace eight years; has been town clerk of Bridgewater 36 years; organized and acted as secretary of the Southern Washtenaw Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance Company for 16 years. Has been notary public 20 years, and for the past 25 years has done considerable surveying in this region of the country.

Of the children of D. W. and Fidelia D. Palmer there are four sons and two daughters living.

Mrs. Henry Calhoun, of Bridgewater; Emmet N., Physician of Brooklyn, Jackson county; Albert F., of Yates Centre, Kan., in mercantile pursuits; Henry R. farmer, on the homestead; Ara H., station agent and telegraph operator at Brooklyn, Jackson county, Mich.; Abbie S., wife of Arthur Lowery, a farmer in Bridgewater.

During the past year Mr. Palmer has been greatly afflicted with rheumatism, some of the time unable to prepare his own food, or perform his own toilet; but warmer weather has brought relief, and he is now able to drive about the country.

ACCIDENTS AND INCIDENTS
In an early day, D. W. and William L. Palmer, his uncle, were journeying on horseback from Bridgewater to Norvell; on arriving at Marsh brook, some miles west of Manchester, there was no bridge and D. W.'s horse rearing and plunging in the mire threw his rider over his head; the rider became aware that the steed would continue these exercises, made the best time in his power to escape, but he was not quick enough to get out of reach, for the plunging horse struck him on the hip bruising it, and rending his pants from the point of contact to his ankle. The scrambling to get away from the horse produced such a ridiculous scene that Wm. L., the uncle, had a great amount of mirth over it and taunted D. W. on his agility, etc. After getting the steed righted again, then proceeded on their journey. Arriving at the little run, between where David Brown lived and Wm. Graham, no bridge being there, the pony of Wm. L. concluded to lie down and cool off, and recumbent posture was such that one leg of the rider was fast under the perverse animal. D. W. came to the rescue and released the disconsolate man from his perilous situation; then the laugh was on the other side and well did D. W. use the chance for retaliation. After clearing the unhappy rider's pockets of considerable real estate, and scraping the slimy compound from his pants, the travelers proceeded on their journey without further mishap.

While the Dr. E. N. Palmer was a boy at home he, with several others, were playing ball in the yard near the house; D. W. was passing by, and at that instant Emmet struck at the ball, the club slipped from his hands, the end hitting his father in the side, knocking the breath from his chest, and it seemed death would come before he could recover it. One rib was broken into three pieces by the blow.

A few days since while journeying from home to Brooklyn, in a two-seated buggy, they being on the hindmost seat which was not properly fastened, by a sudden start of the team Mr. P. and wife were thrown out of the buggy backwards, striking on their heads and shoulders; both were severely hurt. Mr. Palmer was in a kind of dazed condition for several days, and it was several weeks before his good wife could walk.

Mr. Palmer, now at the age of 81, is "Only waiting till the shadows Are a little longer grown; Only waiting till the glimmer Of the day's last beam is flown; Till the night of earth has faded From the heart once full of day, Till the stars of heaven are breaking Through the twilight soft and gray."

And you don't stand in January at Epoc Center (a wish come true for me) in our weather without your longies. So many languages spoken there made me wonder if anyone spoke English when the couple lived us asked us where we lived. Grand Blanc was home to them and she also wondered if anyone could communicate. Thanks, Howard Parr, for communicating with our nice folks while we were away (it's like enjoying someone else's cooking.)

County Historical Society

Chelsea artist Benjamin R. Bower will use his own paintings as a basis for his talk, "Interpreting Local History, Past and Present, Through Watercolors," at the Washtenaw County Historical Society meeting.

It will be at 2 p.m. Sunday, January 15, at Bentley Library, 1150 Beal, on the University of Michigan North Campus near Veteran's Hospital.

His paintings are the result of much digging into local history, he says, many walks around Ann Arbor and Washtenaw County, much poring over old newspapers and photographs before he takes watercolor pencil in hand.

Bower, who has painted since he was a child, discovered watercolor pencils during World War II in the South Pacific when a buddy received them as a gift.

The meeting is open to the public free of charge. Free parking Sundays across street with limited parking by library.

Application Deadline For Energy Conservation

The application deadline for Michigan Energy Conservation Program (MECP) direct grants is set for January 30, 1989. According to Dennis Rice, Washtenaw County MECP Technician, direct grants of up to $1000 will be offered to farmers and forest producers who, under the MECP program will complete energy efficiency improvements. The funds will be distributed by the Washtenaw County Soil Conservation District.

Applications will be reviewed in February, 1989 and applicants will be notified of the approval or denial of their grant application by March 30, 1989. Approved applicants will then have up to six months to complete their energy conserving practices with the assistance of the MECP energy technician.

The purpose of the direct grant program is to provide financial incentives to individuals, allowing them to make energy efficiency improvements in their enterprises. Grants will be available for improvements like planter upgrades, irrigation equipment improvements, sprayer calibration and improvements, logging equipment efficiency, and livestock facility efficiency improvements. The money will go toward material and/or equipment purchases only.

The Direct Grant Program is an integral part of the Michigan Energy Conservation Program and helps provide direct reimbursement to farmers and forest product producers who will be initiating energy conservation management practices into their businesses.

September 12, 1988 were read and approved as read. Our new Commissioner, Jim Fish, was welcomed.

Ralph Pasola, Senior Planner of the Washtenaw County Planning Commission, asked by Gabe Dull to address us, was present to discuss with us the preparation of a "Bridgewater Township Subdivision Control Ordinance." He then also described the type of condominium "subdivisions" being built around us today.

Jim Fish made a motion that further review and study of the Model Subdivision Plan be done, that the Township Board be consulted as to its opinion, and that further work on this question be on the agenda for the January 9th, Monday, meeting. Site condos will be discussed also. Passed, Unan. (Second, Fraumann)

Mr. R. B. (Dick) Murningham, of Murningham Associates, Inc., Livonia, was present to introduce Ron Charney, who would like to set up a business making, fabricating and manufacturing neon clocks on some land on U.S. 12 near Neblo Road. It was noted that such an application should be made to the Clerk, and that, since the land in question is now A-1, the Zoning Description would need to be changed.

They raised the question of apparent spot zoning at present in the case of Mr. Vallarde. Since this matter has been referred to the Township Board for action or instruction discussion with the Board was suggested.

Motion was made to adjourn the meeting at 10:10 p.m. (Days and Fraumann)

Respectfully submitted,

Varsity Roundballers Successful

Varsity Action - Tom Mann Shoots

by Jon

In our game against Grass Lake last Friday, our team cruised to an easy 83-52 victory. This was "Tom Mann Night" as he scorched the nets for 25 points and swept the boards 22 times. Three other teammates kept the fires burning. Bryan Barnard and Jim Deitrich combined for 36 points - 18 each, with Jason Van Deven popping for 14.

We played a rare Saturday gym!

Little Dutch Split

JV Basketballers with new coach Jim Krzyzaniak

by Jon

On Friday, our JV squad bussed to Grass Lake to meet the warriors. We were handed our first loss in 1989, 44-37. Jay Gillow was our high scorer with 14.

The very next evening we visited Columbia Central. Despite trailing three-fourths of the game, we rallied during the final stanza to win, 50-47. Andy Pagel had a super night as he gunned for 24 and posted eight rebounds. Jay again hit in double figures with 11.

Be with us Friday at 6 p.m. as we host Vandercook Lake.

Host Families Needed

Host families will be needed this summer for seventy youth and six adults from Japan. The youth are from the LABO Party where they have been studying English and American culture for many years. They will live with Michigan 4-H families for about a month from July 20 to August 20, 1989. The youth range in age from 12 to 18 years old.

This is the 16th year Michigan has offered this tremendous experience to 4-H youth. Those hosting this summer will have an opportunity to visit Japan in 1990 and become a member of a Japanese family.

This cultural exchange is a unique experience for the entire family. Applications must be submitted to the Cooperative Extension Service Office by March 1, 1989. Matches will be made in April so that correspondence can begin prior to their arrival.

For application forms and/or further information about this and other educational 4-H programs contact John Evert, 4-H Youth Agent at (313)971-0079 or stop by the 4-H Office, 4133 Washtenaw Ave. in Ann Arbor.

Wrestling Report

After a much too long break from competition, the Dutch grapplers started the second half of the season on January 5. Later that night, Western defeated Center 34-25.

On Saturday the 7th, the Varsity traveled to corn country to compete in the Morenci Invitational. In this 10-team tournament Jason Woods and Darren Hock placed third at 112 and 125 lbs. In the consolation finals, Jason pinned Scott Clark of Morenci in 3:55. Darren decided Jason Edler of Homer 9-4. Shane Clouse and Chris Fosket each placed 4th and brought home medals. Isreal Clouse got back on the winning track by advancing into the finals of the tournament. "Is" was defeated by his very experienced Blissfield foe but brought home a Silver medal for his great effort.

Five Dutch traveled to the J.V. tournament in Jackson last Saturday. Duane Hopkins wrestled like a champion and placed 2nd. Jim Buono also wrestled well enough to place 3rd. Other Dutch competing in this tournament were Tim Fenelon, Tim Becktle and John Woodard. Good job!

Thursday we will be in Napoleon for our second conference confrontation. On Saturday, January 14, we will be in Redskin territory for the Clinton Invitational and the following Tuesday at home as we will be hosting the Jayhawks of Vandercook and the Eagles of Columbia Central in a triangular meet. Come look over this young Dutch team. We really need your support.

Jerry Lax, prominent Ann Arbor attorney, will present the topic "Historic Preservation: A Legal Perspective" at the January meeting of the Manchester Area Historical Society. The public is invited to attend this meeting on

FISHING FESTIVALS FLOURISH

MICHIGAN FISHING FANCIERS this season can participate in a flood of fishing fests throughout the state. Besides toting warm clothes, spoons, jigs and bobbers to the family derbies, AAA Michigan reminds anglers to take the following "ice advice" on safety:

- Three inches of ice thickness may be safe on a pond but can be dangerous on a moving stream or in the Great Lakes. Use caution on bodies of water with strong currents.
- Use an ice spud as a walking staff on an unfamiliar ice to test thickness. An ice spud is made by welding a large chisel to a 4 1/2-foot pipe handle. If ice appears unsafe, a test hole should be made to reveal exact thickness.
- Avoid ice that is dark, discolored, porous, spongy or carries water.
- Children on ice should always be accompanied by an adult.

Preschool Visits Bakery

Morning 4 year old class - Manchester Cooperative Preschool

Afternoon 4 year old class - Manchester Cooperative Preschool

The spirit of Christmas and fun we all had as we entered through the swinging door to see all the children from the Manchester Cooperative Preschool along with their teacher and decorated some of the sugar cookies. Then, before we left, each child was given a bag of cookies to take home to share with their families. It was just the perfect ending to our visit at the Baker's Dozen.

We were presented with a tour, cookies and juice, coffee and plenty of help and smiles. What

APPLY FOR FEDERAL FINANCIAL AID NOW

If you plan to apply for federal financial aid to pay for next year's college costs, the time to file is now. The federal government started accepting applications last week and procrastination can be costly. According to the Michigan Association of CPAs, the federal government frequently runs out of program money well before the fiscal year expires at the end of September. Remember, too, that many colleges have submission deadlines as early as January 31. You can obtain an application form at either your high school or your college financial aid office. The three most common forms are the College Scholarship Service's

Financial Aid Form (FAF), the American College Testing Program's Family Financial Statement (FFS), and the Application for Federal Student Aid (AFSA). Ask your high school or college advisor to help you decide on which form to submit.

Be warned: tackling one of these applications can be as trying as filling out a 1040 form. In fact, all three applications ask you to supply specific information related to your 1988 income tax return. If you choose to estimate your income and tax information, your application may very well be delayed due to inquiries regarding your figures—especially if any estimate is off by more than $200. For this reason, many experts advise applicants to prepare their returns prior to filling out the financial aid application.

One other important note about filling out the financial aid form: All male students must register for the draft in order to be considered for any federal loan program. If you do not register, you must check one of the several reasons offered on the financial aid application.

Once completed, the application is sent to a "needs analysis" service which then examines your application and determines your ability to contribute to college costs. In fact, one of the most critical factors established by a needs analysis is the "estimated family contribution," also referred to as the Student Aid Index. While you may judge this amount to be beyond your current means, the federal government will nevertheless use this figure to assess your eligibility for a loan as well as to establish the amount of the loan.

Of the six federally subsidized financial aid programs, five require a needs test for eligibility. Don't let the word "needs" scare you off. Because of the number of children in your family and the other considerations used to determine need, a middle- or high-income family may very well qualify for aid.

In addition to the needs test, each of the six federal financial aid programs has its own requirements and purposes. A Stafford Loan (formerly called the Guaranteed Student Loan or GSL) allows you to borrow money from a bank at relatively low interest rates. You won't have to begin repaying the loan until six months after you graduate or leave school, and you'll have ten years from that time to complete the repayment. Because of their long terms, Stafford Loans make inflation work to the advantage of the borrower.

In 1988, the Stafford program permitted first- and second-year undergraduate students to borrow up to $2,625 per year, while third-, fourth- and fifth-year students could borrow up to $4,000 per year. The actual loan amount, however, is reduced by loan origination fees paid to the lender. Eligibility for a Stafford is based on "remaining need," which is - in plain English - the amount remaining when you subtract the sum of your estimated family contribution and any other aid (such as a scholarship or VA benefits) from the cost of attending your particular school.

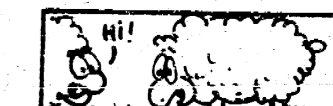

Parent Loans to Undergraduate Students (PLUS) and Supplemental Loans to Students (SLS) provide two other ways to reduce or eliminate remaining need. Last year, both programs allowed undergraduate students to borrow up to $4,000 per academic year to a maximum of $20,000. To determine the maximum loan amount for which you are eligible, simply subtract the amount of aid received from all sources from the cost of attendance. Unlike Stafford Loans, the repayment of interest and principal on PLUS and SLS loans begins 60 days after the loan is released. (If the lender agrees, students may be able to defer repayment while enrolled full-time.) Interest rates are adjusted annually and are usually calculated on a basis of the 91-day Treasury bill rate plus several percentage points, with a cap around 12 percent. The repayment period ranges from five to ten years.

Pell Grants are designed specifically for students who demonstrate financial need. Last year, the grants ranged from $200 to $2,260. Unlike a loan, Pell Grants do not have to be repaid. Eligibility for a Pell Grant is based on the Student Aid Index. As a rule of thumb, if your family has an income of at least $26,000, you probably won't qualify. If you doubt your eligibility, apply anyway. If you don't, you may jeopardize your eligibility for other federal financial aid programs.

Three other financial aid programs based on need are available through individual colleges, but be warned: much of this money may have already been allocated to students who applied for aid last year. Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grants range from $100 to $4,000 and are usually given to students receiving Pell Grants. Work-study programs provide part-time jobs to students demonstrating need. Finally, the Carl D. Perkins Loan Program (formerly the National Direct Student Loan Program) allows students to borrow up to approximately $9,000 for all four years at extremely low rates. In addition, the grace period following graduation is nine months.

Remember, federal financial aid programs are just one of the resources available to help you pay for a college education. Investigate all options, including employer-sponsored scholarships. Since many financial aid programs have debt ceilings, CPAs advise you to combine federal, state, college and private aid whenever possible in order to obtain the most aid at the lowest rate.

Avoid Penalties

If you can't pay your federal taxes or find you need more preparation time, there are actions you can take to avoid IRS penalties, says Ellen Palmer, executive director of the Michigan Tax Information Council.

To get an automatic four-month extension, file Form 4868, "Application for Automatic Extension of Time to File U.S. Individual Income Tax Return." It must be filed by April 15 and you don't need to give a reason.

If after four months, you need more time, a two-month extension can be requested by filing Form 2688, "Application for Additional Extension of Time to File." However, a valid reason must be given for this extension.

If you need to raise money to pay your taxes, you should still file your return on time and pay as much as possible. The IRS will bill you 6-8 weeks after you file. In the meantime, consider borrowing if you must. Possible sources: a bank loan, an advance on your credit card, a loan from your credit union, employee savings plan, cash value of your life insurance, stocks, bonds or other investments, a home-equity loan and finally, friends or family members. Remember, however, that the interest on a loan is not fully deductible on your federal tax return.

To request specific forms from the IRS, call 1-800-424-Form.

Eagle Alert

Michigan residents are urged to participate in the annual Midwinter Bald Eagle Survey conducted by the Department of Natural Resources (DNR). All Bald eagle observations made between January 5-19 should be reported to the DNR's Nongame Wildlife Program.

The Midwinter Bald Eagle Survey is a cooperative effort between the National Wildlife Federation and the DNR. It is part of a nationwide effort to inventory the number of bald eagles wintering in North America.

A record 389 eagles were observed during last year's survey. Over 1300 responses to the survey allowed the DNR to begin to identify key wintering habitat necessary to maintain the increasing breeding population of Michigan's bald eagles.

"It is important to identify these key wintering areas so our growing eagle population can be supported throughout the year," said David F. Hales, DNR Director. "The success of the eagle's recovery from its decline associated with DDT is due in large part to the tremendous cooperation we receive from Michigan's residents."

Anyone sighting a bald eagle during the period of January 5-19 should send a postcard with the date, time, specific location, number of eagles, and any other pertinent information to: EAGLE ALERT, DNR Nongame Wildlife Program, Box 30180, Lansing, Michigan 48909.

"Knowing the numbers of eagles that winter here and comparing the effects of weather and food availability each year give us a better understanding about the winter requirements of bald eagles in Michigan," said Tom Weise, DNR Endangered Species Coordinator.

The majority of bald eagle management in Michigan is funded by the Nongame Wildlife Fund, which provides support for many other nongame species such as loons, peregrine falcons, bluebirds and endangered plants.

"Watts-Its Worth To You"

- Janet LaBeau Shurtliff

"Watts - its worth to you." A light-hearted pun? No; in fact, this is the title of the talk which a representative of Consumers Power will give at the January General Meeting of the Manchester Area Chamber of Commerce.

This meeting is open to the public and will be held at noon on Wednesday, January 18th at the Knights of Columbus Hall. Lunch is available first, but if you plan to attend the luncheon portion, please contact Ann Pat Wolf at 428-8389 for reservations.

The talk will begin at about 12:15 and end at 1:00. The Chamber is presenting this program for the community as an informational service. Especially in these winter months, one wishes energy bills could be lowered. This speaker will discuss what wastes energy and what saves energy. It will be a practical discussion and will include time for audience participation and questions and answers.

For "Watts - its worth to you," plan to attend the January General Meeting of the Manchester Area Chamber of Commerce on Wednesday, January 18th, at noon!

Michigan Archaeological Society

The January meeting will be held on the 18th of the month. The program will be a talk entitled "Then and Now: The Uses of Plants by Native Americans for Food and Medicine" by local botanist Bronwen Gates, who received a one year grant from the Michigan Council for the Humanities. She will compare the results of her own research with the archaeological findings of U-M anthropology professor, John O'Shea.

The meeting will be held in room B-124 of the U-M Modern Languages Building, 812 East Washington at Thayer. The meeting will start at 7:30 p.m. There will be a short business meeting.

The Coming Woman

Manchester Enterprise
November 23, 1876

While the press grows eloquent over the perfections of that phenomenon, "the coming man," the public stand yet striving to catch a glimpse of his approaching state, and little said or tho't of what the "coming woman" will do. Although she may walk unnoticed in a winding path from the "hearthstone to the threshold," yet around her the noblest men of the world have been trained, and while we look upon those personages, upon their true, intellectual, and moral greatness, woman is looked upon as a mere household machine.

Woman too has been created for higher destinies in life, and is it not her fault if she does not soar high above human society of the fashionable world? If the fair girls of today, who are wasting priceless hours, would only accept the rare advantages bestowed upon them by nature and cultivate higher and nobler aims! But no, they are regardless of all future responsibilities in life, and they follow on in the folly and frivolous fashions of dress, until their intellectual minds become utterly void of common sense.

Outward appearance is not all that is necessary to true, womanly greatness, nor even an approximation thereto, but the mind well-stored and illuminated by a thorough knowledge of the things of every day life is of far greater importance and benefit. Women should not aspire to fill the position of man for he is superior. Ah! no, let her have no desire to forfeit her own, but let her fill it nobly, intelligently, and amiably, and in that sphere of life she will find abundant amplitude for all the educational acquirements she can possibly possess, and as wife and mother she will be able to fill the highest destiny of true womanhood.

Sale Of Double A Property Possible

- Janet LaBeau Shurtliff

There is a productive activity occurring in the efforts to secure a purchaser for the vacant Double A Products building. According to Village President Mary Kallewaard, the Village is considering acting as an "intermediary" in a proposed sale.

The Vickers Corporation, parent company to Double A Products and owner of the building, has had the property on the market for more than a year with no success or even encouraging possibilities. The Village felt a concern that the property be sold and utilized in order to provide more jobs for the community as well as to enhance the Village tax rolls.

Thus, the Village government began talks with Vickers to see if the Village could assist in attempts to find a purchaser. If a sale comes about, the Village will serve as intermediary.

Although Mayor Kallewaard was not willing at this time to provide details of the on-going negotiations or of what exactly the Village's "intermediary" role would be, she did confirm that discussions with a potential buyer are taking place and that an announcement may be forthcoming.

Double A Products, Manchester Division, closed in January 1988. It had been one of Manchester's largest industries, and its closing meant almost 200 people were forced to look for employment elsewhere.

The property, which is situated on the large block at Duncan and Division Streets, has been vacant for the past year. While many suggestions have been made for its use, to date nothing has been successful in filling the void which Double A's closing left.

MANCHESTER AREA HISTORICAL SOCIETY

The Manchester Area Historical Society held its monthly meeting on Monday, January 16, 1989 at the Blacksmith Shop. The opening and dedication of the State Library and History Museum will be held on March 6th to 11th in Lansing.

Professor Jerry Lax from the University of Michigan spoke on "Historic Preservation - A Legal Perspective." The important and exciting aspects of historic preservation are to discover the historic importance of buildings in the area and to decide how they are to be preserved. Preserving the appearance and/or the use of the buildings need to be considered. Lawyers can help by drafting regulations and ordinances to allow communities to do what they wish. The Constitutional rights of property owners cannot be abridged. The federal government offers some tax benefits for historic preservation. Some communities, such as Beacon Hill in Boston, the French Quarter in New Orleans, and Williamsburg, Virginia, have benefited economically by preserving their buildings.
