TAX TALES YOU WON'T BELIEVE

Guess which deduction the federal Tax Court has allowed: fees paid to an Indian medicine man or the meal costs incurred at a local hospital by two doctors who owned a professional corporation? If you guessed the doctors' dinner expenses, you may know less about taxes than you think. Tax law can be quite surprising — as demonstrated by this April Fools' collection of true tax tales gathered by the Michigan Association of CPAs.

What a Difference a Comma Makes

If you ever thought a misplaced comma was unimportant, this story may change your mind. Alice received a refund check for $49,000 rather than $4,900 due to a mistake made by an IRS computer. Alice notified the IRS of the error several times, but was told that the money was hers. Over two years later, the IRS realized that it had blundered and tried to collect the inflated refund. However, the deadline for correcting mistakes on refund checks had elapsed, making it impossible for the IRS to get the money back. Alice kept the $49,000.

At the age of 40, a high school teacher decided to seriously pursue his dream of becoming a professional golfer. Not only did he take on an after-work job as an unpaid assistant to the pro at a local golf course, but he also practiced almost every day. Over three years, he reported $3,000 in tournament winnings and $21,000 in expenses. The IRS disallowed the losses, arguing that golf was just the taxpayer's hobby. But the Tax Court disagreed. Since the aspiring golfer clearly intended to make a profit, the Court deemed the losses legitimate.

Another Side to Medical Deductions

A homeowner who was severely allergic to mold sneezed her way to an unusual deduction. The siding on her house had grown moldy, aggravating her allergies to an unbearable level. Her doctor recommended that she change her siding to alleviate her condition. The ruling? The cost of the siding (minus any increase in the home's value attributable to the new siding) was deductible as a medical expense.

In the Dog House

A woman set a stack of bills in front of her certified public accountant. "These are my kennel bills," she explained. Since the woman had to put her dog in a kennel whenever she traveled on business, she intended to deduct the bills as unreimbursed business expenses. "I wouldn't have the kennel expenses if I didn't have to travel for my job," she reasoned. "Sorry," explained her CPA. According to tax law, she wouldn't have the expenses if she didn't have the dog. The kennel bills would not be deductible as a business expense.

A Cheating Spouse

For a number of years, Ralph hid money from his wife in various bank accounts. As a consequence, he underpaid his taxes during that time. When the IRS discovered the hidden accounts, it accused Ralph of tax fraud. But the Tax Court interpreted events differently. According to the Court, Ralph intended to hide the money from his wife and not the IRS. Since the IRS couldn't prove that tax evasion was Ralph's primary motivation, the Court held that the IRS couldn't collect the tax for those years for which the statute of limitations had run out.

A Costly Boast

A drug dealer's boast resulted in a hefty tax bill. In a conversation with undercover IRS agents, the drug dealer bragged about the amount of money he earned as a result of his activities. Although the IRS found only $870,000 in the dealer's possession, it hit him with a $84 million tax bill based on the information he gave the undercover agents. In Tax Court, the multi-million dollar tax bill was upheld.

Diving For a Deduction

A staggered work schedule enabled Randy to earn additional income as a rescue diver and as an instructor of searching for underwater treasurers. After three of his students found their fortunes in sunken shipwrecks, Randy decided it was time to do a little treasure hunting on his own. He bought a specially-equipped boat and began searching for sunken treasure. Although he located a few shipwrecks and recovered several artifacts, he findings were essentially worthless. However, the costs incurred during his treasure hunting dives came to $11,851.

When Randy deducted his losses, the IRS objected since his activities had not resulted in a profit. But the Tax Court argued that Randy's treasure hunting was not just a recreational activity. Randy had conducted his activities in a business-like manner and had proof that successful discoveries could result in millions. The end result: Randy was entitled to a small fortune in tax deductions.

The Case of the Missing "John Hancock"

If you think that forgetting to sign your tax return is just a small mistake, you should talk to Gloria. The IRS treated her unsigned return as if it had never been filed. As a result, Gloria had to pay penalties for failure to file a timely return.

If you want to make sure that you don't get caught by some unpleasant tax law surprise, the Michigan Association of CPAs suggests that you consult with a tax-expert before filing your return.

Michelle Mann and John Butler have won their division of the Optimist International Oratorical contest sponsored by the Optimist Club of Manchester. The club contest was held on Monday evening, March 13th, with ten young people participating.

Each winner will now progress to the zone competition on the campus of Eastern Michigan University in Ypsilanti on Saturday, April 15th. Winners from the zone competition advance to the District Finals where winners receive a $1500 scholarship. Both Michelle and John delivered outstanding orations on the subject "Challenge the Summit". Michelle is the daughter of Ron and Judy Mann of Manchester and John is the grandson of Barbara Waters also of Manchester.

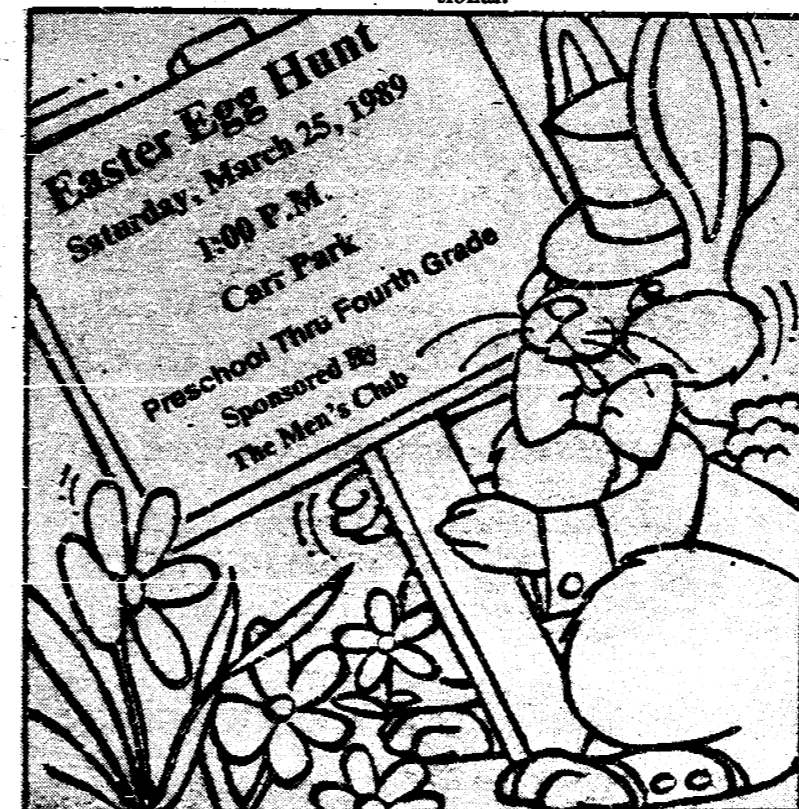

Second place and runner-up medallions were won by Kathy Nobsch (2nd) and Emily Gordon (runner up) in the girls' division and by Kurtiss McDonald (2nd) and Daniel Bihlmeyer (runner up) in the boys' division. All participants received certificates and the top three winners in each division were awarded medallions with neck ribbons. Also participating were Meghan Hakes, Carla Campbell, Maggie Eviltzer and Jennifer Williams.

"All of the contestants should be proud of their efforts," said contest chairman Rod Morrison. "It takes a great deal of preparation and energy to not only write it, but to practice and deliver the oration." Morrison encourages each student to continue their interest in public speaking.

On behalf of the club, Mr. Morrison expresses thanks to several people: Dan Boutell, Bill Kwolek and Ted Tapping for being run-off judges; and Mrs. Dacia Daniels for promoting the contest and providing technical assistance. Special commendations go to the contest judges: Mr. Alan Burg, Mrs. Anne Gordon and Ms. Geraldine Powell.

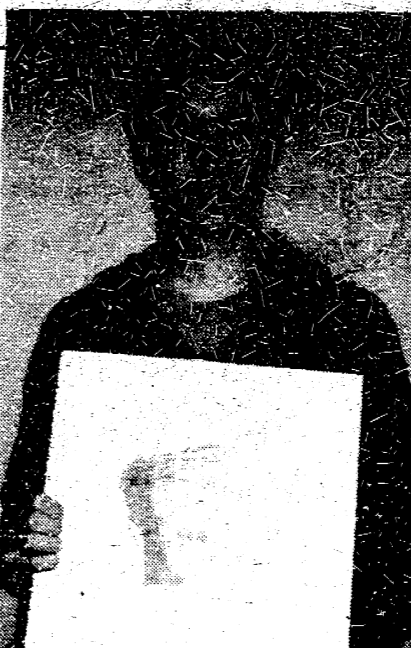

This is the 22nd year the Optimist Club has sponsored the oratorical contest in Manchester. A total of $150,000.00 in scholarship prize money is awarded annually to oratorical contest winners by Optimist International.

FROTH

Manchester Enterprise
 January 17, 1989
 Written by Webster Martin
 Manchester High School

Froth may be defined as the bubbles caused in fluids or liquors by fermentation or agitation; the froth of liquors is caused by fermentation and that of milk by agitation. The foam of the wave is nothing more than froth caused by the waters being disturbed. We may also define froth as an empty, senseless show of wit or eloquence, or as light unsubstantial matter. There is scarcely a day passes in which we do not encounter more or less froth; it is as abundant as anything with which we have to deal.

All humanity must belong to one of four classes: First, those who are all froth; second, those who appear well, but need very little stirring up to bring the froth to the surface; third, those who appear frothy, but contain real good beneath the surface; and fourth, those who do not deal in the article at all. There is but one way in which the first kind of a person can appear frothy, and all ways are embodied in that one. But there are many ways in which the second and third classes may appear so.

A good example of the second class is the uneducated person who has made a considerable fortune and has everything that money can buy. If a community uses him well, which they are sure to do as long as he is rich, he is apt to feel a little better than any one else and at times appears extremely ignorant to the amusement of a good many.

The third class consists of those who made fun of Mr. and Mrs. Shoddy; as they call them; for they used Mr. and Mrs. Shoddy well when they met and then made fun of them in their absence; of course it was done thoughtlessly, for they have a very kindly feeling towards Mr. and Mrs. Shoddy.

Take the dude, with his high-heeled shoes, coat and pants of the latest style, eyeglasses, hair parted in the middle, and a cane to twirl in his fingers; and turn him about, survey him from head to foot, allow him to pass down the street under your scrutinizing gaze, and you will find him to be an exquisite portrait of froth. He can tell the names of all the latest dime novels, but for the life of him he cannot think of who Talmadge is; he don't remember seeing his name in connection with his literature.

Then the girl who knows the best kind of powder to use, the latest style of wrap and hat, and can afford to chew gum 16 hours out of a 24 hour day, may serve as another example of froth; the very evidence that her jaws are always wabbling will convict her.

Do the political parties contain any froth? It is all froth when they talk of the abilities and rare qualifications of their nominees. What does the party care for that

Early Morning Fire

An early morning fire caused extensive damage to the Van Dop residence at 515 Furnace Street on Saturday.

Responding to the 4:45 a.m. alarm, the firemen were on the scene in less than ten minutes. At that time the garage was fully involved and the blaze, helped by a strong northeast wind, spread to the back area of the home.

The nine-year old daughter is credited with waking the family who then escaped to the neighbors.

The cause of the fire is still under investigation.

This past summer's drought has resulted in slightly higher food prices, according to Michigan Farm Bureau's agricultural economist Robert Craig. Although the production of some grain crops dropped by as much as one-third, Craig said that food prices remained relatively stable.

"The change in food prices for the first six months of 1988, before the drought, ranged from 2.8% to 3.4% over the same period in 1987. During the third quarter, food prices increased from 4.5% to 5.3% over the previous year's prices," he said.

"The bulk of the food price hike came in two categories. Fruit and vegetable prices were 13.5% above year-earlier levels. Cereals and bakery products increased 8.1% above 1987 levels. Some fresh and processed fruits and vegetables were also affected.

"Many analysts expected meat prices to lower dramatically as farmers, faced with higher feed costs and lack of water, hurried livestock to market. This did not happen to any large degree. However, anticipated livestock price gains will be much smaller than the increase in crop prices. Meat accounts for about one-third of a consumer's food purchases so limited meat price hikes will moderate the overall food price hike for 1988," he said.

Overall, Craig expects 1988 food prices to be about 4% higher than year earlier levels. He predicts next year's food costs will be 4% to 6% higher than this year's, with about two points of that gain caused by the drought. He expects meat prices to increase in 1989 due to fewer cattle going to market and only modest growth in hog and poultry numbers.

To help track food price movement, more than 80 Farm Bureau leaders in 26 states, including Michigan, are visiting their local food stores monthly to determine the cost of various products. The farmers are monitoring the prices of ground chuck, sirloin tip roast, pork chops, bacon, whole fryers, eggs, whole milk and cheddar cheese. They are also tracking prices of red delicious apples, russet potatoes, cereals, flour, white bread, corn oil, soybean oil and mayonnaise.

if they can only come out ahead? Ask a republican upon what platform he takes his stand, and he will tell you free trade; but what do either care about their protective tariff or free trade? It is merely the froth upon which they hope to float to victory.

Then there is the froth of literature which perhaps is as abundant as any other kind and does the young as much injury. One of the greatest reforms that could happen to our nation would be to have this froth floated far back on the tide of time never to return. One dime novel will do the mind more injury than half a dozen books of good sound argument can repair. They are very few men who in youth read this light, unsubstantial matter, who, after they have reached their years of discretion, do not seriously regret the time they spent so injudiciously. It is not so much the time that is lost, but the effect it has upon the mind. It is literally poisons it and makes it unfit for any vigorous thinking. A better class of literature will repay the reader not only in adding to his stock of useful knowledge, but also by invigorating and strengthening his mind.

When boys and girls, who have much to do with the scum of the world, come to be men and women, they are pretty sure to help compose it. Scum is a thing which cannot be dipped into without leaving its stain; as soon as a person begins to mingle in this kind of society his appearances will betray him. In looking over the history of our country we find that they who have been prosperous and respected by everyone are those who have spurned the froth and scum of the world; and especially that particular kind of froth called misrepresentation.

A very striking illustration of this truth we find in the life of A. T. Stewart. He started with very limited means, but he measured his expenses by his income and never bought anything until he had the money to pay for it; and he sold his goods for what they were, never misrepresenting them. In this way he made a grand success of his business, and wherever you see Stewart's name you find linked with it integrity and perseverance, but no froth. As it was with Stewart so may it be with any man if he will cast aside the froth and scum and live an honest, upright life.

1988 Graduates To Be Surveyed

Do Manchester Schools prepare for the future? One way is to get an accurate picture of what recent graduates are doing and how their high school education helped them. Data from graduates provide input for planning and for improving educational programs. To this end all graduates of the class of 1988 (or their families) will be called during March and April. The questionnaire is very brief but does seek to determine whether graduates are continuing their education, or working, or both. It also provides opportunity for the graduates to share their view on how well their education prepared them for their "future."

If you have information on a graduate who has moved out of the district or would prefer to provide the follow-up information rather than be called, or if you have any questions, you may contact the survey coordinator, Bob Miller, at 428-8327.

Middle School Science Fair

Wow! You could almost hear the collective sigh of relief that was issued by several hundred Nellie Ackerson Middle School students, teachers and parents on Wednesday, March 15. This was the culmination of three months of hard work on the annual middle school science fair and the many student projects. That all of this stress and effort was worthwhile was made very evident when the finished products were collected under one roof at the Manchester American Legion Hall.

Wednesday afternoon and early evening saw a bustle of activity as thirty-two volunteer judges were busy interviewing over 100 semi-finalists and assessing their work. These students were selected through a pre-judging process completed by middle school teachers. As the afternoon's activities came to a close the judges finished determining the first through third place winners in four categories for each grade, fifth through eighth. This was a difficult process and some scores were very close together.

The annual science fair is coordinated by Mrs. Nondus Buss as part of the Middle School Gifted Program (TEEM). It is designed to help meet the needs of the scientifically gifted while improving options for all students. Although all students who participated were clearly winners due to the hard work and learning illustrated by the many excellent projects, ribbons were awarded to these students:

National Merit Finalist

The National Merit Scholarship Corporation has completed its evaluation of semi-finalists named in the fall of 1988 and has determined which of them has qualified as finalists in the competition for Merit Scholarships to be awarded this spring.

Manchester High School is very proud to announce that Linda Hansen, daughter of Lois and Robert Hansen has been awarded finalist status. This accomplishment distinguishes Linda in a very select group who represent fewer than one-half of one percent of American high school students.

Linda is a senior at Manchester High School. She ranks first in her class with a perfect 4.00 grade point average. While in high school Linda has been a member of the Quiz Bowl Team, the English and English Essay Academic Games Teams, and the National Honor Society. Last summer Linda was Manchester's representative to the Summer Institute for Arts and Sciences. Linda is interested in attending either Hope College or Western Michigan University and plans to major in liberal arts.

"One Writer's Beginnings"

The first of the spring series of book discussion programs sponsored by the Manchester Township Library was held last Thursday evening at the Blacksmith Shop. Professor Richard Tillinghast of the University of Michigan Department of English led the discussion of "One Writer's Beginnings" by Eudora Welty, offering his own insights as an author and poet. The book, based upon a series of lectures given by Ms. Welty at Harvard University in 1983, is autobiographical but recounts mainly the facts and memories which led her into her long career as a writer of short stories and more recently three novels. Professor Tillinghast had in fact been present at the lectures and so could also give his impression of the author as a warm, friendly and gracious southern woman. He suggested that many of the best twentieth century writers of fiction in this country had come from the small towns and cities of the south.

Ms. Welty, now in her eightieth year, has been a lifelong resident of Jackson, Mississippi and her highly individualized characters stand out against the background of typical southern communities with commonly held mores, customs and prejudices. The speaker suggested that the economic and cultural upheaval caused by the Civil War left the south little other than the written word to provide identity and purpose for regeneration. Ms. Welty tells of her childhood as a listener and reader, of her youth as a time of learning to see and observe and in the last lecture of "finding a voice" with which to describe in story form the people and scenes she came to know so well.

"Top 40" Assembly Held

On Wednesday, March 8, a special assembly was held for students of Manchester High School and Middle School. The theme for the program was "Top 40" and involved a huge three-screen video presentation and top 40 music. Film clips from recent feature movies were also part of the assembly.

Integrated throughout the program were motivational segments about practicing persistence in attempting to achieve goals, reaching out for courage to overcome fears and self-doubts, believing that every person has a basic worth, and the rewards of accepting challenges. Below is an excerpt from the assembly:

Nobody enjoys the thought of losing. We all want to be winners in life. In a highly competitive world where only a few "winners" are recognized, it can get very discouraging. We must not be naive and think the future will be easy to grasp. It will take tremendous determination and persistence to battle every disappointment and difficulty. Just like negotiating an obstacle course, reaching the finish line in life means overcoming the hurdles one at a time. Our patience will be tested, but if we don't give up, we will find ourselves doing our best and reaching our TOP 40.

A good night's sleep isn't an impossible dream.

After a full day of activities, sleep is vital. But many people of all ages suffer from sleep disorders which deny them a good night's sleep.

In some cases, sleep disorders can be signs of more serious medical problems. Sleep apnea, a serious sleep disorder, can even cause life threatening oxygen loss and heart irregularities.

If you often have difficulty falling asleep, staying asleep, or staying awake, you are probably suffering from a sleep disorder.

The two most common symptoms of sleep disorders: Daytime sleepiness, Heavy snoring, Other symptoms of sleep disorders include: Morning headaches

Excessive use of sleeping pills
Breathing irregularities during sleep
Leg movements during sleep
Personality changes
Irritability

CALL TO ORDER

The meeting was called to order at 7:55 by Chairman Daverman in the Council Room of the Village Hall.

PRESENT

Walton, Boone, Way, Turk, Lowery, Daverman, Gleason, Schiller

NEW COMMISSIONER

Daverman welcomed and introduced the new Commissioner, Martin Way.

AGENDA

Under Old Business a report on Conditional Use Permits was added at 5.3. Under New Business a Sign Permit Application for Michigan Bell was added at 6.1, and a report on Condominium Ordinances was added at 6.2.

Enter Steele at 7:40. Also under New Business, Mobile Home Park Woods was added at 6.3. Lowery made a motion to approve the agenda with the above additions. Schiller seconded the motion. The motion passed on a voice vote.

MINUTES

Steele and Schiller asked for copies of Boone's budget recommendations. Walton made a motion to accept the minutes. Schiller seconded the motion. The motion passed on a voice vote.

REQUESTS FROM PUBLIC TO ADDRESS THE MEETING

None

CORRESPONDENCE

The Commission received a letter from Mr. Hotaling which clarified his fees, and dealt with the need to finish the Village Master Plan, and Zoning Ordinance. He noted that he was in agreement with the annexation proposals. Daverman asked for volunteers to read some documents dealing with Special Lands Uses, and to give a report to the Commission on whether Special Land Uses might apply to situations within the Village. Boone and Steele volunteered.

OLD BUSINESS

ANNEXATION STUDY

A mixup occurred concerning the date of the Township Planning Commission meeting. Therefore, Daverman plans to attend their next meeting on February 27, 1989 at 8:00. He noted that Mr. Kellum has talked to the Township Planning Commission concerning the annexation proposals. Daverman then proceeded to review the annexation proposals for the benefit of the new Commission members (Village Planning). He provided each of the Commissioners with copies of Annexation Procedures which he received from the Michigan Municipal League, and also gave each Commissioner a copy of an aerial view of the land under consideration. Boone suggested it would be more accurate to use the title, Village Annexation Proposal instead of Industrial Park Annexation.

VILLAGE MASTER PLAN

Daverman noted that there were no new developments concerning the Master Plan.

NEW BUSINESS

SIGN PERMIT APPLICATION: MICHIGAN BELL

Michigan Bell is improving their Central Office switching system and would like to put up a temporary sign which would inform the public of this. Discussion included why it was necessary for the Commission to have to approve a temporary sign, and why the zoning inspector couldn't just approve signs which meet the sign specifications in the Code. Commission members expressed concerns of setting a precedent. Payment was questioned concerning this particular sign permit since the fee was not paid at the time the application was filed out. Instead Michigan Bell was sent a bill. Boone made a motion to approve the Michigan Bell sign permit as proposed in the application. Schiller seconded the motion. The motion passed on a voice vote.

OLD BUSINESS

REPORT ON CONDITIONAL USE PERMITS

Turk checked the Village Code and could not find anything in the Code which states Conditional Uses have to be reviewed. Commissioners voiced their concerns with this. Some Commissioners felt conditions can change and that certain Conditional Uses should be reviewed after a set of time. No fee should be charged for this review however.

NEW BUSINESS

CONDOMINIUM ORDINANCE

Gleason attended a meeting in Freedom Township which was open to the public and dealt with a proposed Condominium Ordinance for Freedom Township. She presented a report based on notes taken at that meeting. Gleason stressed the need for consideration of such an ordinance within the Village. Boone asked Gleason if she would type up an outline or summary of her report. This summary will be typed up and placed in the Village Planning Commission files. Daverman said he would bring up the matter of a Condominium Ordinance for the Village, to Mr. Hotaling, the Village Planning Consultant.

MOBILE HOME PARK: CONCERN OVER WOODS

Walton expressed concern over the negative effect a mobile home park would have on the woods located in the area zoned for a mobile home park, and encouraged the Commission to reconsider the area designated MHP.

WORKSHOP

Daverman presented a brochure on Basic Training Workshops for Planning/Zoning Commissioners which are being put on by the Michigan Society of Planning Officials. He encouraged the Commissioners to attend. The closest one will be held March 7, 1989 at Albion College.

ADJOURNMENT

Steele made a motion to adjourn the meeting. Walton seconded the motion. The motion passed on a voice vote. The meeting adjourned at 9:37.

Many rites of spring unfold in April. Detroit's Tiger Stadium opens. Michigan's trees begin budding. Income taxes are filed. And...the smelt run. Most events are predictable. Tigers step up to bat April 7. Taxes should be filed by April 17. And trees will turn green after an April shower. But when in April do Michigan and Ontario waters promise good smelt runs?
 Last year, smelt runs presented a mystery for dippers in some areas, reports AAA Michigan. Although not usually expected to spawn until sometime during the first 21 days of April, the third week of March found the silver fish appearing in Southeast Michigan's St. Clair River.
 By mid-April, fair numbers were concentrating along scattered shoreline areas near Port Huron, Alabaster, Tawas City and Grand Haven. The so-called peak period was rated only fair and by early May, better numbers were coming farther north on the Trout and Oqueoc rivers near Oqueoc and nearby Nagels Creek.
 Last year's dipping season ended in late April at Ontario's Point Pelee National Park near Lake Erie. Normally a productive area where smelt dippers' dreams come true, the park's attendants reported poor activity due to spawning in deeper waters.
 A lesson to be learned? Astute dippers should consider several factors this season - including the current winter's precipitation levels and water temperatures - to determine where and when the runs will be heaviest.
 Because the Lower Peninsula's total precipitation has been below normal so far this year, spawning action - often spurred by late winter rains and usually occurring in streams with a substantial current - may be light on smaller rivers and creeks but better on larger rivers, State Department of Natural Resources (DNR) fisheries biologists predict.
 Popular Upper Peninsula spots - including Memmorie County's Cedar and Memmorie rivers - should have runs similar to last year with no precipitation impact, since most UP streams have adequate water levels.
 Water temperatures also are key to anticipating smelt runs. DNR experts say 42 degrees is perfect and if this past January's record highs indicate an early spring, dippers should be ready to grab their nets sooner than usual.
 If the remaining days of winter produce normal precipitation and temperature levels, runs should be heaviest the first three weeks of April south of a line from Grand Haven to Port Huron, and from the second week to the end of April north of that line. UP runs should occur from mid-April to early May. For the latest smelt information, call the DNR Fisheries hotline at 517-373-0908.
 The most productive areas shown on AAA Michigan's 1989 Smelt Guide include two Canadian sites - Point Pelee National Park and the Wheatley area, both on Lake Erie. Point Pelee is expected to be open for smelt dipping from 6:00 a.m. to 2:00 a.m. April 21-29, tentatively. If warm weather arrives sooner, those dates may be moved up. Call for Pelee information 519-322-2371. Cars are not permitted to enter the park after 10:00 p.m.
 Spawning action is best from 10:00 p.m. to 2:00 a.m. as smelt spawn at night and usually return to the lake by morning. Dippers should bring a bucket, net, warm clothes, waders and a flashlight. Smelt range from 7-8 inches and are easily spotted. They can be recognized by their silver color and scant purple, pink and blue iridescent sides.
 For net and dipping regulations, see Page 6 of the 1989 Fishing Guide. A 1989 fishing license is required after March 31.

HOW MUCH DID YOU LOSE LAST YEAR ON NON-DEDUCTIBLE INTEREST?

UNLESS YOU ACT QUICKLY, THIS YEAR COULD BE WORSE.

As you know, Congress is steadily phasing out interest deductions on most consumer loans. An exception is a loan secured by your home.* Which makes it a great time to apply for a home equity line of credit at First of America Bank.

Put The Deduction Back In Your Interest.

The Federal tax laws allow you to use your home equity line of credit for any purpose you want. And in most cases, on loans all the way up to $100,000, you still get to take a 100 percent tax deduction.

You also may pay a lower interest rate along with those lower taxes.

Take Advantage Of Your Tax Break.

Get your tax break with our home equity line of credit. You can use this line instead of other loans that are no longer fully tax deductible.

You can also access your credit line simply by writing a check. And the payment schedule is flexible, too.

However, using the equity in your home is not something you should do without careful consideration. Furthermore, there are some items—like normal living expenses, for example—for which a home equity line of credit is definitely not appropriate.

So stop by your nearest First of America office, or call 1-800-544-6155 for more information. We'll provide you with a free information brochure and an application. We'll also help you determine if a home equity line of credit is right for you.

In no time, we can have your good credit working in your favor.

Letter To The Editor

Voters of Manchester School District:

I would like to comment on my feelings as they emerged after attending the winter sports banquet Tuesday night. I went with the expectation of viewing young adults receiving awards, duly earned, for their efforts in our athletic programs, and I did. It was encouraging to see young people involved in, and seemingly enjoying, sports at Manchester.

I did not go there with the intent of listening to some coaches and sponsors express their gripes and dislikes over events which took place on and off the court. I do have an opinion on what was said Tuesday night. I feel that this was not the time or place to boost one's ego, slam, rub, make innuendos or defend one's actions during the past season.

If mediocrity is what we want in a coach and a program, I feel we have some that fit the description. I feel we do not have to settle for mediocrity and this has occurred in some of our programs, not only at the high school, but also the middle school.

We have some fine young coaches and some who are willing to improve. We also have some talented seasoned coaches. There were and are good coaches available, and we should make sure that we hire those qualified in fairness to our youth. As far as I am concerned, we can win and also have a "good time"; these are not mutually exclusive events.

I appreciate those people who have given of their time, but I feel we owe it to the athletes to provide them with the most talented people we can find, which may require more planning and searching than has been done in the past. We should not expect mediocrity unless that is what we are looking for. If we want the best for our youth and we would like things to improve, we should set our goal higher and then be willing to go after it. If you ask me whether I had a "good time" Tuesday night, the answer is no.

Seeking improvement,
Brian LaRue

MANCHESTER AREA HISTORICAL SOCIETY

The Manchester Area Historical Society met at the Blacksmith Shop on Monday, March 20. The event to commemorate the 200th anniversary of the inauguration of our first President is moving forward. Plan to be at the Gazebo on Sunday, April 30, for the festivities and to meet President Washington himself!

Those present were privileged to see the 1988 videotape featuring the reminiscences of Herbert A. Widmayer and Mahlon and Esther Smith. The interviews were delightful and extremely enjoyable. We learned how buildings were moved with horses, about preserving meat, and about businesses that were here. There used to be 16 passenger trains a day coming through town. When electricity first came to Manchester, it was generated only at night, except on Tuesdays. It was generated Tuesday morning as well so the women could iron. Mr. Widmayer told about the mill fire in 1924. The fire was so hot that it was almost too hot to stand in front of what is now Frank's restaurant. The windows were cracked in all the stores up as far as The Flower Garden.

The Smith's talked about farming. The first ploughs were only 12 inches wide. That was all that a man could handle behind a horse. They also told about the businesses that used to be in Sharon Hollow. We are fortunate to be able to capture on tape the personal stories of these people. The videotape is available for community groups to see. Please contact Howard Parr or Tom Walton to make arrangements. Refreshments were served by Linda Ebersole and Mary Walton.

Marcia Lynn Porter and David Lee Reineck would like to announce their engagement.

GIVE AND TAKE: TIPS ON DEDUCTING CHARITABLE CONTRIBUTIONS

To deduct your charitable contributions successfully, the Michigan Association of CPAs advises you to keep the following tax rules in mind.

Itemizers Only

First things first: you can only deduct charitable contributions if you itemize on your tax return. Once you meet that requirement, you deduct donations of cash or property to any qualified organization, including most religious, educational, social welfare and health groups. If you have any question about a group's qualification, contact your local IRS office. The staff there has access to a book listing organizations eligible to receive tax-deductible contributions.

How Much Can You Give?

The deduction for charitable contributions is limited, but most people will come nowhere near the maximum level. For cash gifts to public charities, the deduction is capped at 50 percent of adjusted gross income. With donations of long-term capital-gains property, such as stocks, the deduction is limited to no more than 30 percent of adjusted gross income. In either case, few people need to worry about giving too much.

How Much Can You Write Off Cash Donations?

When you donate cash, your charitable deduction will usually equal the amount of your gift. So if you donate a cash gift of $35, the entire amount is generally deductible.

However, if you contribute to a charity and you receive a benefit from it, you may deduct only the amount that is above and beyond the value of the benefit you receive. In other words, if you send a nonprofit organization a check for $50 and in exchange you receive a free subscription to a magazine normally costing $20, you may deduct only $30 as a charitable contribution.

While charities are required to inform donors about the deduction limits, their explanations frequently fail to indicate the market value of items given in return for a donation - which makes it very hard for a taxpayer to know the exact amount of his or her legal deduction. If you are in doubt about any particular contribution you have made or plan to make this year, ask the charitable organization to provide you with a breakdown of your gift that clearly states how much of your donation is tax-deductible.

How Much Can You Write Off When Donating Property?

If you donate a long-term asset (one owned more than 6 or 12 months, depending on the acquisition date) and the asset has increased in value, you can usually deduct the fair-market value of the property as long as the gift is directly related to the charity's business. If this is not the case, your deduction may be limited to the property's fair-market value minus any unrealized capital gains. One note of caution: if you donate an appreciated asset that you have held less than six months, you will probably be able to deduct only your "basis", or the amount you paid for the property.

You should also be aware that donations of appreciated property may be considered a "preference" item and thus make you vulnerable to the Alternative Minimum tax - and possibly a higher tax bill.

Substantiating Your Donation

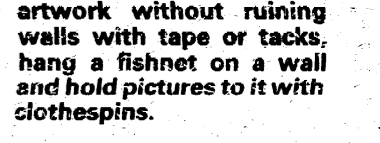

The IRS requires you to substantiate the value of your donation. If your gift is worth less than $500, life is fairly simple. Just keep a receipt showing the name of the charity, the amount of nature of your gift, and the date on which the donation was made.

If the value of your non-cash gift falls between $500 and $5,000, you must complete Section A of IRS Form 8283. Don't automatically assume that you are under the $500 limit. Add up all the small contributions that you have made to such organizations as a neighborhood church, the Salvation Army, or United Way. Your gifts may add up faster than you expect. If you were extremely generous last year and donated property valued at more than $5,000, you will have to hire a "qualified appraiser" to verify the value of your non-cash gift. (Don't forget that the appraiser's fees may be deducted as a miscellaneous expense, subject to a two-percent floor.) In addition, you will have to submit a copy of the written appraisal along with Form 8283. Make sure that you, the organization that received the gift, and the qualified appraiser fill out the proper sections on the form.

You may want to consult a qualified tax expert for some practical advice on how to successfully turn charitable contributions into tax writeoffs.

Even if you don't have any cash to spare, you may still be able to make a charitable contribution. For example, the ancient family car gathering dust in your garage can be an ideal donation - and deduction. Consider, too, contributing other infrequently used items, such as old typewriters or clothes. In addition, if you do volunteer work, you may deduct your unreimbursed expenses for such items as transportation, telephone calls or uniforms.

To display children's artwork without ruining walls with tape or tacks, hang a fishnet on a wall and hold pictures to it with clothespins.

Fielder Receives Fellowship A Fine Farm Residence Annexation Discussed

Manchester High School Mathematics teacher, Jim Fielder, has been awarded a Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship to attend a week long institute at Grand Valley State University this summer. The five day institute is designed specifically for highly qualified teachers of high school mathematics. Acceptance was limited to 32 teachers from Michigan.

The purpose of the institute is to explore mathematics as it is applied in the human decision-making process. The contemporary, discrete and applied nature

A few days ago we had the pleasure of inspecting the beautiful new farm residence of John F. Spafard, on the plains about three miles west of town. Since our visit the house has been completed and Mr. Spafard and family have moved in and are living as happy as pigs in clover, but when we were there Geo. C. Amsden of Ypsilanti and his gang of painters were just putting on the finishing touches, and we were surprised at the elegance of the work.

The house is something after the gothic in style, is good size, well proportioned, with a double bay window in front, with porches on each side of the front upright and presents a good appearance from any direction. It would be hard for us to say who drew the design of the building as the interior of the arrangements were drawn out by Mr. John Spafard and Mr. Field had to build the outside to match. After a close inspection we are convinced that Field & Son have done a very creditable job from cellar to roof and Mr. Spafard has a home of which he can well feel proud.

Being fond of entertaining company Mrs. Spafard planned to have the rooms of convenient size and folding doors so that they can be thrown into one as it were. The house is heated by a furnace, but a beautiful grate and mantle adorn the sitting room.

Of course Mrs. Spafard did not forget the 'kitchen fixin's' and a sight of the dining room, kitchen, pantry, etc., would drive many a woman mad with envy. Nothing seems to have been left undone by Mr. Field to make this a model farm house and he surely has done an honest job.

The painting we have heretofore said was done by Geo. Amsden and as his reputation for doing first class work is unparalleled we think it hardly necessary to add a word, but for the benefit of those who have not seen any of his work of late years we would say we have never seen him excel. His imitations of natural wood seems perfect. He is now at work on S. W. Dorr's residence in this village and we advise our readers to call and see if he is not a true artist.

If any of our farmer friends have a thought of building a house, we would advise them to call on Mr. & Mrs. Spafard and see if we have not spoken truthfully.

NOTE: The above farm home is now the home of Mrs. Lillian Washburne of Manchester.

"Growth will happen, regardless of zoning and planning," began Planning Commission Chairman Bob Daverman when he spoke at the Manchester Area Chamber of Commerce luncheon a week ago last Wednesday. And then using huge maps to illustrate, Mr. Daverman discussed the parcels of land being considered for annexation to the Village, these parcels being adjacent to the "industrial park" and across the road from it.

Mr. Daverman discussed development trends and county growth and then stressed that the need for planning was not so much to bring about growth as to be able to provide a shape for development to follow when it occurs. "And it will occur," he added.

He cited other communities and areas around Ann Arbor, and even in Chelsea, where because growth led the planning the result was an undesirable strip-shopping appearance or worse.

He then presented various scenarios the Planning Commission has looked at, considering the industrial park and the area across the road as a whole (what Mr. Daverman called "complimentary zoning"). The scenarios arranged residential, shopping, green areas, industrial, agricultural, etc., in different configurations. He stated that the Planning Commission's "mission" was to "maintain and enhance the community's situation, remembering why people and businesses came here to begin with."

Mr. Daverman stressed that all of the ideas he was presenting were only working ideas, and that the process the Planning Commission is using is to welcome ideas and to investigate them. Nothing, he said, has yet been decided regarding this land. He asked the downtown merchants to put together a statement for the Planning Commission presenting their vision of the Central Business District so that, too, could be considered when zoning the proposed annexation land.

The audience was attentive. Questions and comments followed, the most succinct of which was, "If the Village can't take care of the property in the Village now with sewer and water service, then we shouldn't annex more land." And that was discussed.

The purpose of Mr. Daverman's presentation - to bring the audience up-to-date on the questions and to provide some insight into the Planning Commission's processes and goals - was well accomplished. Those attending, and indeed the community in general, were urged by Mr. Daverman to attend Planning Commission meetings and to provide the Planning Commission with your views on subjects before the Commission.

The Manchester Area Chamber of Commerce warmly thanked Mr. Bob Daverman for his presentation at the Chamber's monthly luncheon.
