Klager 20th Anniversary

Noah Gordon and Jon Pilarski stand by the school plaque of Luther C. Klager Elementary School. The 20th year celebration of the school will be held on April 16th from 2:00 to 4:00.

In 1969, Luther C. Klager Elementary School opened its doors to students for the very first time. Many students, parents, teachers, community members, administrators and board members have since walked through those doors. In honor of this special twenty-year anniversary, an open house is being planned. The Klager 20th Anniversary Open House will be held on Sunday, April 16th from 2:00 to 4:00 p.m. at the school. All community members are invited to attend. Guests will have the opportunity to visit the classrooms, tour the school, see displays of yearbooks, pictures and awards and chat with former friends. Many memories of the past 20 years can be shared.

Health-O-Rama April 19 - Saline

Saline Community Hospital will present Health-O-Rama from 7:00 a.m. to 7:00 p.m. Wednesday, April 19, at Dimensions Fitness and Education Center, 400 Bemis, Saline.

Health-O-Rama offers a large number of health screenings for such factors as blood pressure, diabetes, cardiopulmonary function, vision, nutrition and blood cholesterol levels. There's also information on health-related topics.

No appointments are necessary. The tests are free with the exception of blood analysis, $10, and colo-rectal cancer self-test kit, $3.

If you plan to have the blood analysis, do not eat four hours prior to the test for best results. You may have water, plain tea or plain coffee. Continue taking all prescribed medications.

Health-O-Rama parking is available at Dimensions. Additional parking with shuttle bus service to Dimensions will be available from the rear parking lot of Leutheuser's 413 E. Michigan, from 7:00 to 11:00 a.m. and 4:00 to 7:00 p.m.

Lin Fox Heads Family Program

Lin Fox has been named director of the family program for Greenbrook Recovery Center, the chemical dependency treatment program at Saline Community Hospital.

Fox has been with the Greenbrook program for five years, first as a therapist then as a clinical supervisor. She has a masters in social work from the University of Michigan and is a state certified social worker.

In her new position, Fox said her first priority will be to strengthen the present family program which provides education and treatment for the family and close friends of those enrolled in the Greenbrook. She predicts there will be more interaction with the families of the chemically dependent people in treatment.

Claire Reck Memorial Scholarship Founded

In honor of Claire Reck, Wayne and Sue Hamilton together with the Manchester Stamping Corporation have begun a new scholarship fund. The Claire Reck Memorial Scholarship, in the amount of $2500, will be funded by the Manchester Stamping Corporation. It will be given to one graduating senior each year at Manchester High School who best fills the following criteria: 60% consideration will be given for service to the community of Manchester and 40% consideration will be given to high school academic performance. The scholarship must be used for attendance at a four-year college or university.

This is the beginning of what we hope will be a long standing and important scholarship program for the students of Manchester. If any other area business or organization, in the spirit of Claire Reck and community service, would like to contribute a matching amount to enhance this scholarship fund you are asked to call Wayne Hamilton at Manchester Stamping.

Claire Reck was a model and inspiration to all of us in Manchester. This scholarship is founded on the belief that it is important to encourage our young people to reach out beyond themselves as Claire did. We cannot exist just for ourselves. It is hoped that this educational opportunity will be a vital sign of the importance of sharing life generously with others. Applications for the scholarship can be picked up in the high school guidance office. They are due back in the guidance office no later than Friday, April 28th. The award will be presented at the graduation ceremonies on Sunday, June 4th.

A German School

Manchester Enterprise October 29, 1874

Many of our German fellow citizens have long felt the need of a school where their children could acquire a thorough German education. They feel that it is very important that they should first learn the German as they will naturally take up the English. And they accordingly held a meeting and find that they can obtain about forty scholars to attend their school, each being assessed to pay the expense.

A meeting of the school board was held a few evenings since, which was attended by two or three of the prime movers in the matter, who asked the privilege to repair the old school building, on the public square, and use it for that purpose. The Board granted their request, provided they pay the expense of all repairs.

We understand that they met with some opposition, that the property holders near the building object to the building of out-houses as they will be so near their residences. In view of the objection, the Germans have proposed to buy a corner lot near the German Lutheran church, and the church society have held a meeting this afternoon to take action in regard to assisting in the matter.

We learn that the parties have engaged a gentleman as teacher, should they go ahead with the movement, at a moderate salary, and he has been a teacher in Germany for some thirty years. No doubt, they have done remarkably well. As we understand it, any one can send their children to this school, if they live up to the rules and pay their proportion of the expense. We think this is a good movement, as there are plenty of our children who are graduating every year, with no knowledge of German language which is so essential to the qualifications of a business man at the present day.

(Dec. 17, 1874) The German school has commenced and is now in fine running order. They occupy the Lutheran Church.

Benefit Banquet Wednesday, May 10

Two things often make our world a better place to live in: first, people who give of themselves unselfishly for some common good - not as a job or duty, but simply because they care; and second, giving recognition to the good another has done and honoring them for it.

On Wednesday, May 10, a Benefit Banquet for the Community Resource Center will be held at which "Outstanding Community Volunteers" will be honored. Organizations, churches and clubs throughout the area have been sent letters from the CRC asking them to nominate that person within their organization whom they feel deserves recognition for their volunteer work.

If you feel strongly that someone's tireless efforts should be recognized in this way, make sure you contact a board member of the group you are involved with. Ask them about nominating that individual for Outstanding Community Volunteer.

All those nominated are to be honored. In addition, a screening board headed by Gov. John Swainson will review the list of nominees and select one to receive the "1989 Outstanding Community Volunteer Award."

Organizations have received all the information about the procedure for nomination. The Banquet will be held at Webers and will include dinner, an awards ceremony and entertainment by musicians from the High School band. It is hoped participating organizations will sponsor their nominee's attendance. More details on the Banquet will be forthcoming.

But now is the time to let your Board know if there is a particular person you think they should remember for their outstanding volunteer efforts. The deadline is April 21 for returning the Outstanding Volunteer Nomination forms to the CRC. Think about it.

Historical Society

James W. Craven, book and paper conservator at the University of Michigan's Bentley Historical Library, will speak at the next meeting of the Washtenaw County Historical Society, Sunday, April 16, 2:00 p.m. at the Bentley.

Craven's presentation will focus on the disastrous fire at the U of M's Economics Building during the 1981-82 Christmas break and how they retrieved and preserved the papers and books involved in that fire.

The Bentley Library is located at 1150 Beal on U of M's north campus near Veterans Hospital. The meeting is open to the public and free of charge. Free parking is available across the street.

Senior Citizens News

The following will perhaps lift you out of your early spring blahs, as it did for me: If I'd 'a knowed ya wished ta went I would of sawed ya off and seed'd ya got ta git ta go. It cannot was, don't it awful, ain't it? If I could understand robin talk these days, the sounds coming from a robin on our porches the last ten days might sound just as weird. I don't know where this bird spent the winter, but it must have been some place in the south where loco grows wild. It all started when we began hearing odd noises in the front part of the house. At first I blamed our cat for chasing fuzballs near the windows or something. Then we noticed the robin.

The bird would perch himself near a porch window and just sit there for long periods of time. (My wife is sure it is a male, but naturally I'm not so sure. We'll probably never settle that one since neither of us is too experienced in making quick and accurate judgements about the sex of robins.) He, she, or it would just stare in the direction of the storm window for no apparent reason. Then, abruptly the bird would fly into the window and peck at its shadow reflected there. The pecking might go on for 10 to 20 seconds. Then it would back away and start the starting process again. When he, she or it got tired of one porch window, the move was made to the matching porch window on the other side of the bay and the ritual started all over again there.

As I said, the bird may have come back from the south full of loco weed. But then again, I've thought maybe somehow I could blame the situation on the government. After all, it is IRS week and lots of us would like to find something else to blame on that "loving" part of our government.

Consider the possibility that some NASA scientist or other government researcher might have been told to develop an artificial robin. What the heck, it could happen—they study the sex habits of tsetse flies and other important stuff like that! Let's just imagine they have developed artificial robins. Maybe this bird could be one that got away from them. Here it is, out on its own and almost making it like normal robins. Perhaps the computer brain installed in it got the virus and what should be a spring mating urge with a robin of the opposite sex has degenerated into narcissism. If any offspring are forthcoming, I'll let you know.

Thanks for sharing your tale, Howard Parr. Maybe your bird have let it in out of the blinding snow last week and patented it!

Thursday, April 13: BBQ meatballs are featured today for noon lunch. Mr. William Manning will be present to share his ideas about Substance Abuse Awareness. Come and listen. Bingo and cards will follow lunch.

Monday, April 17: A shopping trip to the Monroe Outlet is planned. Call Erma to go along at 9:00 a.m. on the bus.

Tuesday, April 18: Pastor Cooper will represent the clergy and its message beginning at 11:00 a.m. Beef stroganoff will be served at noon and Center activities will follow.

Thursday, April 20: No senior meal today as the kitchen will be a busy place getting ready for their sauerkraut supper.

Looking ahead: Saturday morning, starting at 9:00 a.m., the National Honor Society's members will begin Chore Day for any senior in the Village who needs help with their chores. Call Rubena Boelter at 428-9655 to place your name on this list to get help.

One more thing—Jan cannot take your dinner reservations for a meal after 9:45 a.m. on that day's lunch. Makes sense that she can't put in another piece of chicken after that time, (even if it is over fried!) My copy said oven, not over, so it was not my fault (for once). Such fun at senior meals, come and try!

Free Soil Samples Available

The Washtenaw County Soil Conservation District's Michigan Energy Conservation Program (MECP) is offering up to five free soil samples to county farmers. The MECP will pay for analysis of the soil samples through the Michigan State University Soil Testing Lab.

The purpose of the free soil sample program is to assist farmers in managing their fertilizer use and show them where they can save money and improve profitability by following soil test recommendations for their crops.

Farmers who want to receive the free soil samples will be provided information on how to take proper soil samples and will have to complete a worksheet on their normal fertilizing practices. When the soil test results are returned, a computer program will be used to compare normal fertilizer practices versus Michigan State University fertilizer recommendations to show where farmers can save money on their fertilizer bill.

Participation in the MECP free soil sample program is limited. Interested persons should contact MECP Technician, Dennis Rice at the Soil Conservation District office, 6101 Jackson Road, Ann Arbor, telephone 313-761-6721.

Monday, April 17: A shopping trip to the Monroe Outlet is planned. Call Erma to go along at 9:00 a.m. on the bus.

Thinking About Gardening?

Now that spring is here, are you thinking of gardening? If you are, your head may be spinning with all the different things that need to be done.

For instance, did you know it is time to plant cabbage and broccoli seeds indoors? Or that this is a good time to repot or propagate houseplants? Or that it will soon be time to plant fruit trees?

These are just a few of the hundreds of common and not so common questions that are answered in the Gardener's Timetable, the newest publication from the Michigan State University Extension Service in Washtenaw County. As the name implies, this handy reference is arranged in a calendar-like format so that gardeners will know when to do what. Specifically geared for southeast Michigan, advice is provided to enable other Michigan and Midwest gardeners to adjust the timing to their own area. Information is also provided so that gardeners may adjust their personal time schedules to take into account the effect of unseasonable weather (after all this is Michigan!)

Each page in the Timetable is illustrated with attractive and informative pen and ink drawings. More importantly to the gardener, however, this publication provides concise descriptions and information on gardening chores and problems. All facets of gardening are covered—vegetables, lawns, houseplants, flowers, trees and shrubs and fruit. Information includes planting, pruning, fertilizing and propagation. Pest control includes special emphasis on what, when and where to look for problems. Innovative biological and other non-chemical controls are stressed.

The Gardener's Timetable is available to you for only $5.00 per copy, mailing costs included. To receive your Timetable please send a check or money order made out to Washtenaw Cooperative Extension Service (no cash, please) to: Timetable, Washtenaw Cooperative Extension Service, P.O. Box 8645, Ann Arbor, MI 48107.

Spring Into Action: Make Your Exercise Workouts Safe

Are you getting ready to cut loose those sedentary habits of winter, and think you know just how to do it? If you've decided to run or jog away those winter blues, be careful not to risk triggering an aching back.

Spring is the No. 1 season for athletic injuries, according to Dr. Ray Horan, collegiate and marathon runner of Middletown, N.J. In jogging and running, knee and low-back problems rank among the most frequent ailments. When you renew your running or jogging program this spring, consult your chiropractor or family physician first if you plan a major running program. Take these precautions, advises Dr. Horan:

- Wear a running shoe with ample heel padding. Your low-back takes a pounding from running. Each heel hits the ground about 1,500 times a mile, adding potential stress to your low back. As your heels strike, the pressure on your low back increases an average of 3 times the body weight (450 pounds for a 150-pound person). Air-cushion shoe inserts or other cushions help absorb the shock.
- Run on surfaces that "give." Give preference to grass, boardwalks, pathways and dirt roads. Avoid pavement and asphalt.
- Alternate sides of the road. Running on one side continually may cause imbalance in the muscles of the low back because the grade of the road or pavement may slope at the edges. If you feel tightness in the low back, seek a level surface. If the tightness persists, stop and bend your body to the side. Try to touch the side of your knee with your hand. This usually helps.

• Stretch. Stretch at least 5 minutes before and 5 minutes after running. If you are a "weekend-only" runner, you may need to stretch longer. Stretch both leg and low-back muscles. Jog in place lightly for a few minutes first, because stretching "cold" may cause microtears in the muscles.

- Watch the mileage. Do not overdo.
- Avoid hills. With gravity pulling you on a down grade, your normal 3-foot stride becomes 5 feet. To compensate for gravity and the longer stride, the body often leans backward to maintain balance. This can increase the curve of the lumbar spine and tighten the surrounding muscles.

Remember the good old days when you weren't constantly urged to exercise? When there were more cars on the road than joggers? When Jane Fonda was just an actress? Well, hold on to your memories because those days are not likely to return.

According to Dr. Leroy Perry, Los Angeles sports chiropractor, fitness awareness is spreading like wildfire. "More and more people are exercising—and ironically, injuring themselves in the process," beams Dr. Perry.

"Avoiding injury while exercising is as easy as adopting the proper posture and movements required by each activity," assures Dr. Perry. Stand incorrectly and you could be starting off on the wrong foot, heading for inefficient movement and possible injury.

These hints can help you:

- Maintain proper posture. Proper posture while sitting, lifting, and working helps keep the body in a balanced position. This allows the vital organs enough room to function efficiently, enables the blood to circulate freely, and permits muscles to relax.
- Distribute your weight evenly. Most people stand on their heels, which may cause a strain on various parts of the body. While walking, try to spread weight evenly from the heels to the balls of your feet, centering the weight in front of your ankle.

• Warm up before exercising. Be sure to slowly stretch each part of your body. Do not bounce while stretching because you can pull a muscle. For lower-back stretches, try this: Facing a wall, extend your hands above your head on the wall. Keep feet flat, and pull in your abdominal muscles, not your buttock muscles. Repeat ten times.

• Don't forget to warm down. When you do strenuous exercise, your muscles may shorten slightly from the exertion, which can cause soreness. To help prevent this, at the end of your workout, try to continue your activity but at a slower pace while slightly increasing your overall range of motion. This increases flexibility.

To optimize benefits and minimize the chance of injury, Dr. Perry advises using from 20 to 30 percent of your exercise time warming up and 10 to 20 percent warming down.

The IRS said that their walk-in taxpayer assistance offices in Michigan will not be open on Saturday, April 15; but that those walk-in offices will stay open on Monday, April 17 until the last taxpayer is assisted.

"Our toll free number is 1-800-424-1040, and we certainly encourage taxpayers to call with their last minute questions or problems. We're here to help," said Hummel.

MAY MOREL MANIA

HUNTING TIPS

- Go with a guide. Novices should hunt with an expert because many false morels may be poisonous.
- Get down to ground level. Morels are difficult to spot and are often covered by leaves, underbrush and other debris.
- Pick unblemished morels. Place them in net bags or a basket because plastic bags cause morels to spoil quickly.
- Look in the woods. Morels are often found near hardwood trees, old orchards and stumps.
- Cook before eating. Raw morels are often indigestible.
- Cut morels at the base. Never pull morels out of the ground.

Mushroom Hunters Hope For Rain

A pitted, but tasty morsel of fungi attracts widespread attention each May when an estimated half-million people search the state's woodlands for morel mushrooms, AAA Michigan reports.

Morel hunters hope a wet spring and warm temperatures will combine to produce plenty of those delectable wild mushrooms with the nutty taste which sell for $13 to $35 pound.

The best time to hunt is early May to early June in the Lower Peninsula and mid-May to early June in the Upper Peninsula.

Hunters can learn more about this Michigan tradition at the Mesick Mushroom Festival, May 5-7; Harrison Mushroom Festival and Arts and Crafts Show, May 6; Boyne City National Mushroom Hunting Championship, May 13-14; and the Lewis Morel Mushroom Festival May 13.

Morel maps, recipes, cooking demonstrations, restaurant promotions and contests highlight the annual events.

Morels can be recognized by their caps or tops. Caps on true morels, the edible varieties, have small pits and a honeycombed appearance.

The false morels, some of which are poisonous, are ridged, wrinkled or even smooth, but are not pitted.

False and true morels may appear at the same time in similar locations, so novices should hunt with an experienced guide. Comfortable clothing and shoes are advised.

A knife is needed to cut the caps off at the base. Picked mushrooms should be carried in a basket or paper bag as plastic hastens spoilage.

The common "black" morel appears first. Its color varies from dark cream to brownish black. Search in moist aspen, birch and balsam fir woods.

"White" morels range from light cream to yellow-brown and grow in old orchards, beech-maple forests and burned-over meadows.

The giant morel, weighing up to a pound, is similar to the white variety and appears about late May in maple, beech and oak forests and around elm stumps. This species is scarce but more prevalent in southern Michigan than in the north.

All morels must be cooked and small samples should be tasted at first to test for allergic reactions.

Experts advise morel hunters to be patient and persistent. And if you discover a productive site, map it for next year's harvest.

Avoiding Excess Cholesterol Read Your Labels

You can reduce your intake of cholesterol, many diet and health experts report, if you take the time to read product labels. By choosing foods made with cottonseed oil, for example, you're picking a product with no added cholesterol because cottonseed oil has no cholesterol.

Here are some helpful suggestions on how to avoid both saturated fat and cholesterol in your diet.

- Look out for highly saturated oils. They'll be listed on ingredient labels.
- Select leaner cuts of meat and trim skin and excess fat.
- Use low-fat dairy products.
- Check labels for polyunsaturated and saturated fat information. Try to use products with at least a two-to-one polyunsaturated to saturated ratio. Cottonseed oil comes by such a ratio naturally.

Remember, too, that for spreads, go easy on butter and use margarine

If you need to reduce your cholesterol level, remember vegetable oils, such as cottonseed oil, have no cholesterol while bringing out flavor in foods.

and mayonnaise made from healthful domestic oils, such as cottonseed oil, because these are high in polyunsaturates.

For more information about vegetable oils, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to National Cottonseed Products Association, Dept A, P.O. Box 12023, Memphis, TN 38182.

Hints For Homemakers

Surround Yourself With Fragrance

Here's a "scent-sible" suggestion: Add fragrance to your home decorating scheme. Experts agree that aromas play an important role in creating and maintaining a home atmosphere that beckons guests and soothes those who live there. In fact, odors are the first thing most people notice when first entering a home or room.

A popular fragrance selection with many homemakers these days is potpourri, that traditional, fragrant mixture of dried flower petals, herbs and spices that come in a variety of pleasing, natural scents. Now it's easier than ever to add the beautiful fragrance of potpourri to your home, thanks to the new Glade Potpourri Sprays—"Orchard Spice" and "Country Garden." The experts who've created these delightful air fresheners say you shouldn't just spray them into the air. Consider these ideas that will crown your decorating plans with the sweet smell of success:

- Lightly spray some on cushions and pillows for a touch of scent that wafts up as you relax against them.
- Use the spray on cool light bulbs. When lights are turned on, the heat helps diffuse the scent in surrounding areas.
- Spray some in the bathroom

New sprays make it easy to fill your home with the sweet smell of potpourri.

before showering. The scented steam can help create a more relaxing environment.

- Spritz the spray on a favorite handkerchief and leave it in your lingerie drawer or closet to lightly scent your favorite articles of clothing.
- Hang a decorative basket of plastic flowers or ribbons in the entryway and spray it with Potpourri for an inviting fragrance.
- A last minute spritz of Potpourri just before guests are due can help start your parties on a gracious note.

For more air fragrance ideas, send a postcard to "The Freshest Air Around," P.O. Box 8-Dept. NAPF, Racine, WI 53401.

Hints For Homemakers

Stuck For Storage? Get Organized!

Has household clutter taken over your home? Look around—if unused items have been piled to dangerous heights in the closet and floorspace is limited due to a lack of available storage. Don't despair! Locating your possessions doesn't have to be a scavenger hunt. The experienced team of Velcro® home engineers offer some easy tips to help organize even the messiest home.

Key to any successful reorganization is being able to get rid of things you don't need or no longer use. These can be given to neighbors or donated to a worthy cause. One time honored tradition is to put them in a box by the front door and let visitors have their pick. That set of matching plastic bowls you never used or clothes the kids have outgrown may be useful to others.

Now that you've gotten rid of what you don't need, let's organize what's left. Starting in the kitchen, it's always a time-saver to have tools close-by food preparation areas. Frequently used bowls, utensils and pans can be arranged on wall surfaces above the work area. Instead of using hooks that can permanently damage walls, cooking pans, stirring spoons and colanders can be hung with Velcro® brand sticky back fasteners. These handy little strips or buttons can save precious shelf space by also allowing you to hang utensils inside doors, thus dramatically increasing your cabinets' storage potential.

Another trick is to organize like things in a single drawer. For instance, pot lids are easier to find when they're all together, and so are baking pans or household paper products.

On to the children's rooms, where no matter how many times things get put away, they seem to come back out almost immediately.

One way to handle small toys and objects that get frequent use is to hang shoe bags on the backs of doors or on available wall space. The clear plastic storrers are especially useful since all toys are immediately visible yet neatly arranged and out from underfoot.

Getting youngsters to hang up clothes is a never ending chore, so why not put iron-on Velcro® brand coins in the collars of coats and shirts, and the waist bands of trousers and skirts and line the inside of closet surfaces with Velcro® strips. Kids can just "stick" their clothes up!

Store makeup and other grooming items in a tool storage case. The various sized trays and compartments are ideal for your assortment of lipsticks, powders, scents and polishes.

Home organizing just takes a bit of imagination and an investment in low cost containers and fasteners. The time saved with a little planning beforehand will reward you with more quality time for yourself and the family, and may prevent many household accidents before they happen.

Stone: Little Known Facts

It provides jobs, boosts our economy and makes life more pleasant for us all: seems we're never more than a stone's throw away from a structure made from crushed stone.

A true building block of modern civilization, crushed stone is everywhere, from the curves of concrete highways to asphalt runways and concrete pavements of airports; over endless miles of railroad tracks and countless miles of asphalt pavements; from the polished granite exterior of a reinforced concrete skyscraper to tons of crushed stone in precast structures and concrete of architectural splendor.

According to the National Stone Association, products from stone are vital to our economy. Did you know that:

• One hundred tons of crushed stone is needed to build an average-size house, its sidewalk and driveway?

• Millions upon millions of tons of crushed stone are required to build our hydroelectric dams and power plants—an absolute necessity to meet our growing need for electricity?

• During the next decade, more will be spent on all construction than during the past two centuries, making production of crushed stone even more imperative?

• Large stones are used in erosion control?

America is the largest producer of crushed stone products.

• Limestone is an important stone product for agriculture and critical to food and meat production? Lime is an important ingredient in producing economical agricultural products?

More and more communities should support stone quarry operations. Moving a quarry just ten miles away from a population center for 125,000 increases that community's building costs tremendously from added delivery costs alone. The presence of a nearby quarry stimulates economic growth simply because it makes available, at lower costs, the most essential of all building materials. Most of the revenue from the sale of stone is returned to the community in the form of purchases, payroll and taxes.

FACTS FROM THE NATIONAL FITNESS LEADERS ASSOCIATION AND ALLSTATE LIFE A PREMIER SOURCE FOR HEALTH AND WELLNESS INFORMATION

Make Stress Your Friend

By Susan Smith Jones, Ph.D. President, Health Unlimited Learning to cope with stress not only makes you feel better, it can improve relationships at home and on the job.

Well-managed stress may help keep your immune system healthy. Here are some suggestions on living a balanced life and handling stress:

• Keep fit. Get plenty of exercise, sleep, water and wholesome foods. Avoid dependence on caffeine, nicotine, alcohol and drugs that interfere with your immune functioning.

Learn deep relaxation techniques such as meditation, yoga and breathing exercises.

• Watch out for stress associated with prolonged feelings of anger, depression, helplessness and hopelessness. Solve your problems in a way that lets you clear up your negative feelings as quickly as possible.

• Find some time each day just for yourself, to be alone and enjoy the peace of your own company.

• Slow down. Simplify your life.

• Develop a sense of humor. A healthy degree of emotional detachment and hearty laughter every day can stimulate the immune system. Don't take life so seriously. Remember, laughter is the lubricant of life.

Biotechnology In Our Lives

A profound scientific revolution is going on that will soon affect us all. Today, advances are being made in the field of biotechnology that uses man's growing knowledge of genetics to join pieces of one gene to another to produce new medical, chemical and agricultural products.

With biotechnology, scientists hope to scavenge pollutants, convert waste to new energy sources and, perhaps, even vastly increase the world's food supply.

To explain these new biological tools in everyday language, the Industrial Biotechnology Association (IBA) has produced award-winning video tapes and several publications. Two of these tapes are "Of the Earth: Agriculture and the New Biology," and "Delicate Balance: Understanding Human Health Through Biotechnology."

For information about these tapes and other publications and videos, write: Biotechnology Information Center, IBA, 1625 K Street, N.W., Suite 1100, Washington, D.C. 20006.

Money Management

LAST-MINUTE TAX MISTAKES TO AVOID

If you haven't already filed your 1988 tax return, get ready for the seven-day madness. Over the next week, taxpayers across the country will frantically search through desk drawers, file cabinets and, in a few cases, shoe boxes in a mad dash to the filing deadline. In the rush, many will overlook deductions and make careless mistakes they may regret months from now. If you want to look back on the 1989 tax season without remorse, the Michigan Association of CPAs suggests you avoid some of the most common, last-minute tax mistakes.

Failing To Make An IRA Contribution
In the good old days everyone could deduct contributions to Individual Retirement Accounts (IRAs). Then tax reform came along. Today, many consider tax-deductible IRAs as outdated as beehive hairdos. But the IRA may not be as extinct as you think. Tom, for example earns $50,000 a year, but he can still deduct up to $2,000 in IRA contributions since he does not actively participate in an employer's retirement plan. In fact, Tom would be eligible for the deduction even if he made $100,000 or more a year. The only taxpayers who cannot deduct all or part of their contributions are those who actively participate in an employer-sponsored retirement plan and who earn at least $50,000 if married and at least $35,000 if single. The easiest way to find out whether you are considered an "active participant" in a retirement plan is by looking at box five on your W-2 form. If you have just slapped the side of your head with the realization that you can deduct an IRA contribution, don't panic. As long as you open your account on or before April 17, 1989, you can still make a 1988 IRA contribution.

Ignoring Your Paycheck Stub
If you toss your paycheck stubs in the waste basket without so much as a glance, you may also be tossing aside valuable deductions. What can your paycheck stub tell you? First of all, if you pay an annual fee to your company for medical insurance, the paycheck stub will usually note the amount automatically deducted each month for this purpose. For example, Mary pays $35 a month as co-payment for her company's insurance plan. Over the course of the year, her payments totaled $420. Mary's unreimbursed medical expenses, which include the co-payments, can be deducted once they exceed 7.5 percent of her adjusted gross income.

Your paycheck stubs may also note automatic deductions for IRAs or donations to charities such as the United Foundation/United Way. Add up the numbers and you may be surprised at how much tax money you can save.

Failing to Deduct State and Local Income Tax
A good number of taxpayers have the mistaken impression that state and local income taxes are no longer deductible. This misconception may mean losing a legitimate deduction worth thousands. You can find out how much state and local income tax was withheld from your 1988 salary by checking your W-2 form. In addition, see if you made any payments last April for the balance of your 1987 state and local tax bill. Those taxes are also deductible this year.

Deducting Reimbursed Expenses
If you don't want to get in trouble with the Internal Revenue Service, here's one taxpayer pitfall to avoid: deducting reimbursed expenses. For example, Pat's annual medical expenses totaled $3,700. As he understood the tax law, these expenses were deductible to the extent that they exceeded 7.5 percent of his adjusted gross income (AGI), which was $36,000. Thus, on his tax return, he deducted $1,000. What Pat failed to take into account, however, was that his insurance company had reimbursed $3,000 of his medical costs. As a result, Pat could not deduct a single penny of his unreimbursed medical expenses.

Before you drop your tax return in the mail box, carefully review your miscellaneous, medical and casualty-loss deductions to ensure that you have not accidentally included any expenses reimbursed by your employer or an insurance company.

Not Taking Credit When Credit's Due
Ignorance is not bliss when it comes to tax law. If you don't know what a tax credit is, it's time to find out. A tax credit is far better than a deduction, since it allows you to subtract a specified amount directly from the income tax you would otherwise owe. Credits are available for qualified dependent-care expenses, for the elderly or permanently and totally disabled and for low-income workers who claim one or more dependents.

Failing To Attach Proper Documentation
Failing to attach the necessary documents to your tax return may well invite an IRS inquiry, enclosed with your return should be a W-2 form, which lists your annual wages as well as the amount of taxes paid during the year. In addition, you may have to send out one or more of the new forms, such as Form 8283 for deducting non-cash charitable contributions of $500 or more. If you make a nondeductible IRA contribution, be sure to also fill out form 8606. If you fail to do so, you become liable for a $50 fine.

Mailing An Unsigned Tax Return
Even the smallest mistakes, such as forgetting to sign your tax return, can have serious consequences. CPAs warn taxpayers that the Internal Revenue Service may treat unsigned returns as if they had never been filed. As a result, you could be penalized 5 percent of the net tax due for each month the return is late, with a maximum penalty of 25 percent.

Failing To File For An Extension
Of all last-minute mistakes, perhaps the costliest is failing to file for an extension. If you are simply unprepared to file a carefully prepared and documented tax return, don't blindly rush ahead. You can request a filing extension by submitting Form 4868 by April 17, 1989. The one-page form requires you to estimate your tax liability and pay any tax due. By submitting the form, you push the filing deadline to August 15, thus gaining an additional four months to prepare and file your tax return.

Farm Bureau Praises Department Of Agriculture

The head of the state's largest farm organization this week praised the Michigan Department of Agriculture for its recent action regarding the safety of the state's food supply and especially apples. "The Michigan Department of Agriculture has taken a responsible position in this highly emotional issue," said Jack Laurie, president of the Michigan Farm Bureau. "By conducting its own tests, the department has confirmed that Michigan growers are marketing an apple crop that is safe for consumers." On March 17, MDA Director Paul Kindinger issued a statement which said test results showed the state's apple supply is safe. Tests of apple products showed residues of the growth enhancer Alar far below the government's recommended levels. "It is the role of such agencies as the federal Food and Drug Administration (FDA) and the Michigan Department of Agriculture to assure we have a safe and wholesome food supply, not groups such as the Natural Resources Defense Council," Laurie said. Laurie also praised recent actions by U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Clayton Yeutter, FDA Commissioner Frank Young, Surgeon General Everett Koop, and Environmental Protection Agency Acting Deputy Administrator John Moore in assuring the public that it is safe to consume apples and apple products. The American Farm Bureau Federation's board of directors, of which Laurie is a member, issued a statement on March 17 charging that the Natural Resources Defense Council (NRDC) acted irresponsibly by knowingly using data rejected by a scientific review panel as the basis for its attack on apples and apple products. The board also criticized CBS for further misleading the public by failing to include the views of leading members of the health community who disagreed with the NRDC report on its "60 Minutes" show. "We implore the anti-chemical critics to address the food safety issue in a completely honest and forthright manner," the Farm Bureau board concluded.

Here's a sharp idea: cover a piece of steel wool with cloth to make a pin cushion. It keeps the pins and needles well-honed as well.

Tragedy In Bridgewater

A Fatal Quarrel Between Father and Son

Manchester Enterprise
April 18, 1989

A shocking tragedy took place in our neighboring township of Bridgewater on Saturday last.

A good many of our readers remember the Linsley family who lived near Parson's saw mill near Saline, but who lately moved onto a small farm south-east of Bridgewater station. They are a hard lot and have become somewhat notorious for drunkenness and quarreling, in the surrounding villages. However, they have not troubled Manchester of late.

On Sunday word was brought here that the old man, David Linsley, had shot and killed his son on Saturday afternoon.

It appears that the old man has been divorced from his wife several years and lived with his son and wife. A few days ago he dislocated his shoulder and has worn his overcoat continually since, even sleeping in it. In his pocket was a revolver of the small bull dog pattern.

The two men went to a saloon on Saturday afternoon and filled themselves with beer, when a quarrel sprang up between them, and the old man claims that the son struck him in the face with a mop, that they then clinched and son reached around and took the revolver out of his pocket and as he was trying to get it away from him it was twice discharged, one shot taking effect in the young man and he died in about 15 minutes. The wife did not see the shooting but reached the men after the second shot was fired and took the revolver away from them. The young man accused his father of shooting him saying, "You have killed your only son. You have threatened to do it a good many times and now you have done it." The father made no reply, but assisted in carrying him into the house and sent for a doctor.

The hall entered the abdomen on a line with the navel and about five inches to the right, taking a downward course. It was not found at the post-mortem examination.

The father is about 60 and the son was 30 years of age.

The coroner's jury gave a verdict that David Linsley, Jr., came to his death from a pistol shot wound, but whether the pistol was in the hands of his father at the time it was discharged, the jury were unable to say.

The funeral was held on Monday.

On Tuesday, Linsley and his daughter-in-law, went to Ann Arbor where they held a consultation with the prosecuting attorney which resulted in the old man being arrested and placed in jail, on the charge of murder. His examination was to take place today before Justice Pond.

George Washington To Arrive

-Janet LaBeau Shurtliff

While we usually think of New England when we hear "Bicentennial Village," in fact our little community can officially boast that title. Manchester was so designated by the Michigan Commission on the Bicentennial of the U.S. Constitution because of our participation in the five-year-long event.

On Sunday, April 30, at 4:00 p.m., the celebration continues when "George Washington" arrives by horse-drawn carriage at the Gazebo on Main Street, marking the 200th anniversary of the Inauguration of the First President.

The community is invited to come to the Park to welcome "General Washington." Governor John B. Swainson has provided great insider-detail on Washington's arrival and plans. The General will be in authentic period dress and will deliver the Inaugural Address on the steps of the Gazebo.

The program will continue with a modern translation of Washington's rather flowery rhetoric. Also on hand: Scouts leading the Pledge of Allegiance; the High School Band playing music of the time; a ceremonial planting of a cherry tree to mark the event, and the placement of an inscribed marker.

The gathering is then invited to move across the street to Emanuel Church for the dedication of their new official State of Michigan Historic Marker, which designates the Church as an historic site and building. Then finally, relax with friends, and enjoy homemade cherry pie and ice cream in the Church Hall.

3 Candidates For 2 Board Seats

Stanley Gilbert, local Chiropractor, is running unopposed for the one-year seat on the Board of Education. This position is vacant because of William Kemner's resignation.

Mark Van Bogelen and Joseph Turk are both vying for the other opening on the Board. This is a four-year term.

Van Bogelen is a branch manager for First of America in Manchester and Turk is employed by Ford Motor Co.
