

Senior Citizens News Obituary

They all said, "Come to the fair", and we all did! We commend the area folks who brought it all together and worked so hard. Being a little leery because it may be too early for vegetables and that tallest sunflower, it was a resounding success. "Bluck, bluck, bluck" resounded from a small lad as he passed the gate where I worked. "Did you visit the chickens?" I asked. "Yes," he said, "and the birds and the rabbits and I even got to hold one while the cage was being cleaned." I'll bet when he is grown, memories of the fair will include holding that rabbit, don't you?

Today, Thursday, July 20, hopefully all those chickens won't be blucking on our big Chicken Broil Day. Come and enjoy - the action starts at 4:00 p.m.

Tuesday, July 25: There will be a 12 noon potluck for all who are 55 or more at the Senior Center, 214 N. Macomb St. Bring a dish to pass and your own table service.

Wednesday, July 26: Blood pressures will be taken at 11:00 a.m. This is the day that St. Mary's Church ladies open their front lawn for their ice cream social (fun, aren't they, these socials?). It starts at 5:00 p.m. and if you'd like to be picked up by bus, call Erma Alber at 428-8707. Where can you get a delicious meal for the price that our churches charge?

Manchester Road Rally

Manchester Recreation Task Force used the Community Resource Center booth at the community fair to distribute information about the Rally 'Round Manchester. Enthusiastic comments were heard about the Time/Speed/Distance rally which is planned for July 29.

The first vehicle to experience the route for the rally will leave Carr Park at 12:01. Vehicles will be scheduled one per minute until all vehicles are on the road. Of course, the driver has the responsibility for odometer control and the navigator gives the instructions and is time keeper, but the experience tells us there could be a communication problem that adds some excitement.

If you missed the information at the fair, registration information can be picked up at Krauss Pharmacy, Manchester Chiro practic Clinic and Pyramid Office Supply and the Community Resource Center. Entry fee is $7.50 per car and is due with registration by July 26. Trophies will be given to the driver and navigator. Each vehicle will need a licensed driver, a navigator, street legal vehicle with current insurance and working odometer, a watch or stopwatch, a calculator and clipboard.

To get your questions answered or volunteer time to help with the rally, contact the Community Resource Center 428-7722.

Gazebo Concerts Resume

sheer enthusiasm.

Both Beverly Feldkamp Smith and the Manchester Community Band represent the richness and depth of our local talent. Beverly Feldkamp Smith has performed in festivals far and wide and has gained an excellent reputation as a "folksinger-educator."

Her concerts for children are FUN as well as enlightening. Ms. Smith is originally from Manchester and is truly "coming home" to present this concert.

The Manchester Community Band members all currently call the Manchester area "home." The Band members began rehearsing together last Fall, added and lost a few people here and there, and have developed a solid core of performers. The Band has played for the Manchester Area Chamber of Commerce Christmas Party and the Manchester Area Historical Society Annual Picnic.

If you've ever played an instrument, come hear the Manchester Community Band - and consider joining the group. Remember how much fun playing in a band was when you were a kid? IT'S STILL FUN! Check it out.

The following Thursday, July 27, the Gazebo Concert Series will continue with the Sweet Adelines (barber shop music extraordinaire) and The Valley Band with

Mathew Thornton (contemporary electric jazz and rock.)

The Concerts present various musical styles and formats in a common setting - in the open air, under the clear (or cloudy) skies.

It can be fun for everyone - from the little ones, to teenagers, to young families, to the more senior members of the community - and everyone in between.

Bring blankets or lawn chairs, get a good seat at 7:00, and this week, after the Chicken Broil, enjoy Beverly Feldkamp Smith and the Manchester Community Band at the Gazebo Concert Series!

Cholesterol Screening

Saline Community Hospital will offer cholesterol screening on July 21 from 10:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. at Dimensions Fitness and Education Center, 400 Bemis, for $8.00 per person.

The process takes about five minutes. Trained medical staff members draw a small amount of blood by pricking your finger. The blood sample is analyzed by computer while you wait. No fasting is necessary.

High cholesterol is one of the major causes of heart attacks. Often, cholesterol can be controlled through diet and exercise. No appointment is necessary. For more information, call 429-1509.

Little League

The 1989 Manchester Little League Senior game Monday evening at Kirk Park produced no losers. The two teams duelled to a final 9-9 tie with Robbie Blatchford blasting in the tying run for Coach Brooks' team in the bottom of the 6th inning.

The teams were comprised of those boys who will be moving up to the next division in baseball next season. These players were: Coach Lowery's team-Benji Lowery, Andy Winzenz, Mark Branch, Jeff Steele, Vida Shurtliff, Mike Black, Jason Hanks, Gordie Gilbert, Andy Kallewaard and Jared Donnellon. Coach Brooks' team-Geoff Brooks, Billy Bennett, Rob Blatchford, Troy Niehaus, Mark Kueffner, Jeremy Strock, Mike Pularsky, Charles DuRussell and Donny Butler.

Thanks to Coach Brooks, Coach Lowery and Coach Gilbert for devoting one more evening to Little League.

Taxation Hearing

On July 17, 1989, the Manchester Board of Education conducted a public hearing regarding the levy of property taxes for 1989. The Board of Education must hold a public hearing prior to officially approving the tax levy when the state equalized valuation (S.E.V.) in the District increases and would generate more revenue than in the fiscal year.

Superintendent Ronald Niedzwiecki stated that the Board of Education is authorized to levy 40.6534 mills for operating purposes. As a result of the Headlee Amendment the authorized millage was rolled back from 41.5 to the current 40.6534 for 1989-90.

Based upon the increase in state equalized valuation (S.E.V.), the District's tax levy would be limited at 39,0515 mills unless the Board of Education takes action to levy the maximum authorized millage rate of 40.6534. The 39,0515 mills would only generate revenue equal to last year.

The Board of Education after careful examination of its estimated operating expenses and revenues for the 1989-90 fiscal year has determined that the best interest of the school district requires the levy of the additional millage rate of 1.6019 mills for a total of 40.6534 mills for operating purposes.

Mr. Niedzwiecki emphasized that the additional millage rate of 1.6019 mills does not exceed the 40.6534 mills for operating purposes set by the Headlee Amendment for 1989-90 fiscal year.

The Board of Education is scheduled to take official action at the August 21, 1989 Regular Meeting.

Members present: Gilbert, VanBogelen, Klue, Sahakian, Gordon, Gaughan, Turk. Superintendent Niedzwiecki informed the Board and audience that a Public Hearing was necessary prior to officially approving the tax levy because the state equalized valuation (S.E.V.) has increased and would generate more revenue than in the previous year.

The Board proposed a tentative levy of not to exceed 40.6534 mills for 1989. Niedzwiecki stated that this is the maximum millage rate for 1989 as a result of the Headlee Amendment.

Following discussion the Public Hearing was adjourned at 7:35 p.m.

The Regular Meeting was called to order by President Sahakian at 7:35 p.m.

STARTING A SMALL BUSINESS

Many small businesses begin with a brainstorm. For example, Anne's sugar-free apple pies were famous in her community. But she never dreamed of baking for a living. Then, one day, a neighbor raved about her baking at a local gourmet-food store. Soon after, the owners of the store asked Anne if she would be interested in supplying them with a line of sugar-free desserts. Anne readily agreed.

Peter had a similar experience. As a buyer for a national retailer, he had traveled extensively. Friends and co-workers constantly asked him for tips about hotels and restaurants. When Peter's company relocated to another state, a former co-worker recommended Peter start his own business, one that would capitalize on his travel expertise. The suggestion hit home. Today, Peter publishes a small monthly newsletter containing travel information for business people.

If you hope to launch a small business of your own, your business concept may have developed in a brainstorm as well. But the Michigan Association of CPAs warns that a business concept is just a pipe dream until you evaluate your own management capabilities, assess the financial feasibility of the business and develop a sound business plan.

Next, survey your own potential customers. What type of businesses do they frequent? How much would they pay for the service or product you plan to market? What times of the day are they most likely to stop by stores at a particular location?

As you gather information, you may find you have to alter or modify your plans. Peter, for example, originally wanted to open his own travel agency. But after talking to friends and potential clients, he realized many business people either did not have the time to visit a travel agency or they had to make travel plans through a specific agency selected by their employer. What these people wanted, and what they were willing to pay for, was a good, concise travel publication that recognized the special needs of the business traveler. At that point, Peter switched gears and began focusing on a travel newsletter.

Once you've refined your business concept, write a preliminary business plan outlining the objectives of your business, how you plan to achieve them and what obstacles you may face. Be as specific as possible, including such items as how much you expect to earn annually and how many employees you will need. Make sure you consider issues that can affect the long-term profitability of a business, such as changing technology or social trends.

You should also estimate how much money you need to get the business off the ground. Include the cost of furnishings and equipment, such as a desk, filing cabinet, computers, telephone or fax machine. Consider, too, basic office supplies, such as stationery and promotion costs should also be included in your estimate. Next, list your possible sources for start-up capital.

The business plan should describe your criteria for selecting a business site. Pay special at-competition with these people, they may be willing to give you some vital tips about the preferences and buying trends of their customers.

Next, survey your own potential customers. What type of businesses do they frequent? How much would they pay for the service or product you plan to market? What times of the day are they most likely to stop by stores at a particular location?

As you gather information, you may find you have to alter or modify your plans. Peter, for example, originally wanted to open his own travel agency. But after talking to friends and potential clients, he realized many business people either did not have the time to visit a travel agency or they had to make travel plans through a specific agency selected by their employer. What these people wanted, and what they were willing to pay for, was a good, concise travel publication that recognized the special needs of the business traveler. At that point, Peter switched gears and began focusing on a travel newsletter.

Once you've refined your business concept, write a preliminary business plan outlining the objectives of your business, how you plan to achieve them and what obstacles you may face. Be as specific as possible, including such items as how much you expect to earn annually and how many employees you will need. Make sure you consider issues that can affect the long-term profitability of a business, such as changing technology or social trends.

You should also estimate how much money you need to get the business off the ground. Include the cost of furnishings and equipment, such as a desk, filing cabinet, computers, telephone or fax machine. Consider, too, basic office supplies, such as stationery and promotion costs should also be included in your estimate. Next, list your possible sources for start-up capital.

The business plan should describe your criteria for selecting a business site. Pay special attention to such areas as local customer demographics, the availability of transportation services to the site, traffic patterns, space requirements and zoning regulations.

To be truly comprehensive, your business plan should also examine the extent of local competition and the amount of risk associated with your product or service. Ask yourself whether your business will involve any risk of consumer injury. If it does, the insurance costs may be prohibitive.

Finally, decide how you want to record your revenues and expenses. You may want to consult a certified public accountant. Not only can a CPA help you set up an accounting system, but he or she can advise you on tax-related matters. For instance, a CPA can explain how various ways of organizing a business—whether sole proprietorship, partnership or corporation—may affect your tax liability.

Before you can put your plan into action, research local and federal laws and requirements. In Michigan, you will need to apply for a business license at the town or county clerk's office. In addition, you may have to file for a "certificate of assumed name," if the name of your business does not include your surname.

Even a small business can demand a big investment in time and energy. Before you consider a venture of your own, CPAs suggest you carefully assess your ability to succeed in the wide world of small business.

Hazardous Waste Collection

Disposal of household toxics will be easier with the special late hours for the next Washtenaw County Household Hazardous Waste collection. Household hazardous wastes will be accepted from 2:00 to 7:00 p.m. on July 26, 1989. Appointments are required. Call 971-0079 between 10:00 a.m. and 2:00 p.m.

Washtenaw County residents can drop off their unwanted paint thinner and other solvents; pesticides including rat poison, weed killer, and insecticides; acids such as battery acid and some types of drain cleaner; and other items which cannot be recycled. Oil-based paints which can't be given away or used can also be dropped off.

Pesticides should be individually wrapped with a clear plastic bag over the original container. All containers will be collected with the hazardous material, so don't bring a container that you want to keep. Containers larger than 5 gallons will not be accepted.

An Odd Absence: Chicken Broil Canceled

Janet LaBeau Shurtliff

For thirty-six years, every third Thursday in July has meant one thing in Manchester: The Chicken Broil.

14,000 visitors expect it; more than 500 volunteers arrange their schedules around it; signs and banners on entrances to our Village announce it.

But this year, on the third Thursday, the unthinkable happened: the Chicken Broil was canceled. Due to rain.

How odd it seemed. So much work and preparation, so much anticipation and planning. Suddenly there was a void. The Broil was canceled.

According to Gene Bentschneider who chairs the Chicken Broil Committee (along with Ron Nisan and Bob Rhees), at about 10:00 a.m. the decision to cancel was made based on the amount of rain in the broiling pits. Each pit contains three to four inches of sand as a bed on which the charcoal will rest. This bed of sand was "like mud pie."

Gaie Koebbe, the chairman of the fire crew, said "No way," and the Broil Committee chairman concurred. According to Mr. Bentschneider, even if they had been able to start a fire, the Athletic Field was so full of water, the entire location would not have been usable.

The men had been watching the weather and the condition of the pits and field all morning - "hoping." But at 10:00, with the decision made, the process of notifying the radio stations began in hopes of sparing people the inconvenience of driving here only to find the event canceled. Ann Arbor radio stations WPZA and WAAM, Detroit's WJR, as well as the Adrian radio station were all advised of this unfortunate turn of events.

For the first time in its thirty-six year history, the Manchester Chicken Broil was canceled on account of the weather. There have been bad days in the past, days with rains and high winds. But none were ever so bad that the fires couldn't be maintained.

One year, after the charcoal was lit, rain came and doused the flames. However, once the fires are started, "starting pits" are created and tended. These are pits with hot charcoal ready to use to build up any fires that are dwindling. The started pits, on that rainy day several years ago, was covered with a tent-like tarp and so its coals were fine. Once the rain stopped, these started coals were used to bring back any fires that went out in the rain.

But this year it was too much too soon. No fires could even be begun. In fact, the Committee doubted it would have been dry enough to have started the fires on Friday. And with Friday night's rain, Saturday may still have been too wet.

Senator Pollack To Meet With Citizen Groups

State Senator Lana Pollack announced that she will be available for citizen group discussions on the school finance reform proposals which will be before the voters in a special November election. Senator Pollack will meet with any group or groups of 20 or more citizens throughout Washtenaw County from now until November 7 as her schedule permits.

Groups, or individuals who can assemble the minimum number of participants, can request time with the Senator by contacting her Lansing office by letter: Senator Lana Pollack, P.O. Box 30036, Lansing, Michigan 48909, Attention: Mary Sansbury

The Senator's staff advises that her schedule is heavy and fills rapidly; they suggest that groups make their requests early and propose one or two alternate dates. If the Senator is unavailable for the requested time(s), the group will be asked to consider a staff substitute.

The Losses

What do you do when you're planning dinner for 14,000 and it's called off at the last minute? What about all the food and other arrangements made to carry off such an event?

Fortunately, some of the orders for perishables were able to be canceled before they were delivered, things such as milk, pop and cabbage.

Other items had "return privileges." This was the situation with the chickens themselves. The Chicken Broil Committee and the supplier have an arrangement that in the event of cancellation, the chickens may be returned if done so "immediately."

The Committee had a very exact amount of time before the chickens were to be returned. During this time they sold some cases to folks who were interested and could make arrangements in time. There was only about 45 minutes of sales to the public before the chickens were to be returned. These sales were basically at cost to the Chicken Broil Committee although, with the additional expense of handling, these sales may have resulted in somewhat of a net loss for the effort.

The complete financial report will be presented by the Chicken Broil Committee after all the figures are in. The costs of some items like tables and chairs, advertising and printing, will be a complete loss. Other costs, like those for the chickens and the cole slaw dressing (which was also sold to the public), while not profitable, were able to avoid causing expenses.

Ticket Refunds

If you bought your tickets in advance, you may obtain a refund by returning your tickets to Great Lakes Bancorp on Main Street in downtown Manchester.

Out-of-towners may mail their tickets to Chicken Broil, Box 171, Manchester, MI 48158 for a refund. A return address must be included for refunds by mail.

The Chicken Broil Committee apologizes for any inconvenience. (But we might add it is hardly their fault!)

Other possibilities do exist, however, for what to do with the unused tickets. For instance, have you considered what a collector's item these might become? The only Manchester Chicken Broil ever to be canceled.

Gift To Library

Manchester 20th Century Club Past President Elizabeth Beuerle presented the Club's $600 contribution to Manchester Township Library Board President Susan Gleason. The money is earmarked to complete the shelving in the Clifford Adler Memorial Children's Room.

A Question To Consider

Manchester Enterprise
March 26, 1903

To The Taxpayers And Inhabitants Of The Township Of Manchester

Editor Enterprise:—It seems to give one a peculiar sensation and make their heart ache to look over our old forsaken cemetery beside the river, just north a few blocks, of the present M.E. church. How it has been neglected and used for a cow pasture, etc., the past years. Just think of the old settlers who came here years ago and worked to develop and advance our beautiful village and now we are living from the fruits of their toil. It would not be more than respect to see that their last resting place is not trampled on, and demoralized, for this you would not look for in any nation at this stage of civilization.

I would suggest that their remains all be removed and put somewhere in our oak grove cemetery and given the respect due them, which is not more than what ought to be done.

How long will it take for the present oak grove cemetery to get in the same shape? There is quite a little headway that way now in my estimation, as the town does not do anything much to improve it or keep it in presentable shape, and most that is done is by private individuals?

It will not be long before you or I will be laid to rest and then we can't take care of these things, but it would make one feel better to know that we might have a place for our dear ones and self where our graves would not be trampled on and used the same as our old cemetery.

Every city and village ought to provide some means to keep their cemetery sacred in memory of our departed. Certainly it would not hurt anyone, the little extra tax that we might have to pay, and we ought to pay it willingly for such purposes.

I hope that your readers will not see this in a selfish light but for the community at large.
