Where They Went, How They Lived and What They Ate and Drank - A Week of Healthful Recreation at the Lake

A party of young men left Manchester last Friday morning just as the golden orb of the heavens was peeping over the eastern horizon, and the little birds poured forth their joyful notes on the cool, bracing air, for a week's stay at that world-renowned summer resort called Wampler's Lake.

They were high in spirits - or at least it is supposed they were - and looked forward to the time when they should pitch their wigwam on the banks of that glorious old fish pond with no small degree of satisfaction and delight.

Their outfit consisted of a lumber wagon attached to one mule, a large tent - under which to rest their weary heads - one handsaw and sawbuck, one little G. Washington hatchet, one pocket knife, seven fishing rods and three lines. Their wearing apparel was plain, of course, and consisted of one hat, one shirt, one pair of pants, and one pair of socks and boots each. Of cooking utensils we noticed the following: One skillet with a rusty handle, one broken case knife, one old oil stove with a pint of oil, three large cauldron kettles, one 14-quart tin pail in which to make tea and coffee, one half dozen egg-beaters, two dripping pans, a one-gallon crock to salt their fish in, besides six pounds of lard, one quarter of beef, two pounds of mutton, one chicken, one-half pound of weinerwurst, one can of salmon, four pounds of cheese, one barrel of rock salt, one pound of brown sugar, one half dozen eggs, one firkin of butter, two loaves of bread, 12 pies, two dozen doughnuts, three pounds of crackers, two wheat bags full of cookies, and other articles too numerous to mention.

They had gone perhaps a couple of miles when that mule got a mulish idea into his head and he stopped suddenly as they were going down a steep hill, and two of the boys fell from the wagon. They were not much hurt, so all four of the boys went to work trying to start the animal. They whipped, urged and coaxed, but all in vain. Finally a bright idea struck one of the boys, and he went to a farm house near by and borrowed an ear of popcorn which he held in front of the mule's nose. It had the desired effect and the mule made a dash for the corn, the boy jumped on behind the wagon and away they went down the hill.

They arrived in due course of time at the appointed place and immediately set to work putting up the tent; but alas! they had forgotten the stakes and it took them some time to cut and drive them, and it was far into the middle of the day when they had their tent hoisted and everything in order.

As the boys went to rusticate and have fun we will not relate any more of their exploits, but leave them catching small fish and large sunburns, smoking mammoth corn cob pipes, and enjoying themselves generally.

Senior Citizens News

Did you know that the night of March 9-10 is crucial to many experienced weather forecasters? I am told on reliable authority that if the ground freezes that night - firmly enough to support the weight of a wild goose - forty more frosts will follow before summer. I can't find any evidence of how those forty frosts are spread over the days remaining until summer, but what difference does that make to a scientific weathercaster?

So I suppose we will have to band together now and start counting the frosts in order to protect our early garden seedlings and porch plants. Golly, I don't know why I didn't find out about this earlier. I could have saved myself lots of worry each spring if I had just known when the 40th frost occurred after March 9-10. It is just another example of one of the things it pays to know if one is to live in Michigan and put up with this weather.

As I write this, it is so foggy I wonder if the weather isn't trying to help those who will be sitting on boards of review this week. Maybe it will be so foggy no one can find the town hall to complain: I was going to the board of review since my assessment went up the same percent as the planned postage increase, but I guess it wouldn't do much good the way our funny money finances are going these days.

I have a lot of trouble understanding finances today. When cars aren't selling, don't lower the price - that would be too old fashioned and simple. Declare a cash rebate for buyers for awhile and then raise the prices of cars later on and blame it on "inflation." The same thing with groceries. When foodstuffs don't sell, don't lower the price, give rebate coupons; then raise food prices the next year and blame "inflation" again.

Maybe that weather forecasting isn't too bad after all. At least we don't have to worry yet about how heavy the goose must be that is to be held up by the frozen ground or whether the ground must be loam, sand or muck, and they don't adjust the numbers each year to conform to the cost of living.

I should get back from finances

$200,000 dollars for a bridge on a street that only runs three blocks and dead ends into City Road and Adrian Street! How much traffic is on Furnace Street? How much room is there for future growth? There are only 8 houses on Furnace Street between City Road and the bridge. From the bridge to Adrian Street there are no houses and there are no village facilities such as water and sewer. I think that $200,000 dollars could be better spent to upgrade existing village streets in need of repair. Maybe I'm wrong, but wouldn't more people in the community benefit if this amount of money was spent on something else. This bridge would be used only by a very few residents in the Village of Manchester. Why can't our TAX DOLLARS be used more effectively?

President Bush says "No more new taxes."

Gov. Blanchard says "No more new taxes."

Why can't the Board of Education and the other politicians work within their means like we have to? If they can't, let's get them out of office and put in people who know how to operate with what they have. I know I speak for many other taxpayers who say: "Enough is enough."

Chelsea Hospital Offers Health-O-Rama

Project Health-O-Rama will be offered at Chelsea Community Hospital again this year. It will be held on Saturday, March 24, 1990 at the Hospital from 9:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m.

A variety of free health screenings will be available to adults age 18 and over. A number of health professionals from the Hospital service area will be assisting in the screenings.

Screenings will include: height and weight, vision, blood pressure, hearing, pulmonary function testing, nutrition and medication counseling. In addition, glaucoma screening will be offered by Drs. Cheryl Huey and Diane Jacobi; oral/dental screening will be offered by Drs. Sally Stommen, David Swan, Clare Warren, Bruce Bates, Ray Howe, Mary Barkley, Gary Gochanour and Barb Wher; skin cancer testing will be offered by Dr. Charles Ellis. Colo-rectal screening kits will be available for $3. A blood panel chemistry will be offered which includes screening for protein, cholesterol, calcium, diabetes, gout, kidney disease, liver disease and anemia for $10. Those interested in blood panel chemistry should fast for four hours before the test. Prostate and testicular examinations will be offered by Drs. Leonard Wolin and Howard Usitalo. Pap smears will be available for $5. Health screening counseling and summary will be provided by University of Michigan Family Practice Center at Chelsea, physicians and Drs. Doug Portz and Rebecca Patrias.

Project Health-O-Rama is sponsored by Blue Cross/Blue Shield of Michigan, Channel 7 WXYZ-TV and United Health Organization. People with abnormal test results are referred to their health care provider to receive further evaluation. Health screening is not meant to replace a physical examination by a health care provider. It is, however, good medicine to use a screening test so that if a condition is developing there may be a chance to detect and treat it early.

No advance registration is required. Take advantage of this special event offered by Chelsea Community Hospital. For more information, call 475-3935. For information about special travel arrangements for seniors, contact your Community Education Office.

Chelsea Facility Accredited

Chelsea Community Hospital's mammography facility has been accredited by the American College of Radiology (ACR).

The facility has met the necessary requirements, which include a peer review evaluation of the facility's staff qualifications, equipment, quality control and quality assurance programs, image quality and breast dose. The accreditation must be renewed every three years.

More than 1,000 facilities have been accredited nationwide.

This program was started in response to two major concerns expressed by radiologists, other national medical organizations, and the public: (1) that qualified personnel perform and interpret mammograms and (2) that dedicated mammographic equipment be used to ensure that women receive optimum mammographic examinations with the lowest possible risk.

Postal Board Asks For 30 Cent First Class Rate

The U.S. Postal Service received authority from its Board of Governors to seek increases in postage rates, including a 30-cent first class stamp. New rates, if approved, are not expected to go into effect until February of 1991. Rates were last increased on April 3, 1988.

The Postal Service filed its request for new rates today with the Postal Rate Commission, the independent agency established by Congress to provide public involvement in the postal rate-making process. In addition to the 30-cent first class rate, the Postal Service is seeking increases in all classes of mail. The increases average 19 percent.

The Postal Service ended fiscal 1989 with a surplus of $61 million, and its first quarter of the present fiscal year with a surplus of $404 million. Higher operating costs, however, are expected to produce an operating deficit projected between $1.4 and $1.6 billion for the present fiscal year.

During a press conference to announce the filing, Postmaster General Anthony M. Frank said the Postal Service will hold increases in its costs at or below the rate of general inflation through 1995. He also stated that the agency has targeted consistent, reliable service and higher discretionary effort from employees in its strategic business plan for the 1990-1995 period.

Mr. Frank also stressed that the proposed rates include incentives for mailers to prepare mail to be compatible with automated mail processing. The Postal Service is deploying state-of-the-art optical character readers and bar code sorters in its major mail processing centers. Mailers who apply bar codes to first class and third class letters will receive the lowest rates in those classes.

On Monday past our squad braved the weather as they bused to Hudson. This was round one of the district playoffs for the state championship. It's always rough facing the host team, but this we did and kept the score close until the fourth quarter. Unfortunately, the Tigers overpowered us 21-28, to win 61-72. Mat Knul led all scorers, hitting for 18 points, as Jay Gillow and Jesse Widmayer totaled 20 points, 10 each.

Be with us on Tuesday, March 27, for our winter sports recognition night.

Shaking The Salt Habit

This article explores dietary fiber - one of the most important nutrition issues of the '90s - and its effect upon your health and well-being.

Pretzels, olives, salami and other salty snacks may make our taste buds tingle. But, too many salty treats should be avoided, particularly if you are one of about every five adult Americans who has high blood pressure.

Sodium, a major component of table salt, plays an important role in health maintenance. It regulates fluid balance in the body and contributes to normal muscular function. Sodium is present in many beverages and foods, so it's not surprising that the average American adult consumes more sodium than is actually needed for good health.

Although the average person consumes about 5,000 milligrams (mg) of sodium a day, health professionals recommend far less. Generally, health professionals indicate a safe daily intake is 1,100 to 3,000 mg of sodium for healthy adults.

If this appears to be a generous amount, remember that five grams of salt (about one teaspoon) contain about 2,000 mg of sodium. And, there are "hidden" sources of sodium.

Approximately one-third of our sodium intake comes from habitual use of the salt shaker; one-third from processed foods (added to improve taste, texture, safety); and, one-third as a natural component of the foods we eat.

For example, condiments such as soy sauce and catsup, soft drinks, pickled foods and cured meats all contain sodium. Even the baking powder and baking soda used in many breads, cakes and cookies are sources of sodium.

Why is too much sodium a concern? High intakes of sodium have been linked to hypertension (high blood pressure). Hypertension can increase the risk of several health problems, including kidney disease, cardiovascular disease, congestive heart failure and stroke. While the relationship between salt and hypertension remains controversial, studies have shown a significant reduction in blood pressure when some patients have been put on severe salt-restricted diets.

Lemon juice, green onions and paprika take the place of salt in enhancing the fresh, natural flavors of fish fillets which feature a fiber-rich vegetable stuffing made with whole grain oats.

Even if you do not have medical problems, shaking the salt habit is a healthy idea. Start by taking the salt shaker off the table. Other salt-busting strategies include:

- Read labels carefully to determine the amounts of sodium in processed foods and snacks.
  - Moderate your choice of salty foods such as potato chips, pickled foods, cured meats and cheese.
  - Prepare more foods "from scratch," reducing or omitting salt.
  - Prepare vegetables, pasta, rice and hot cereals without salt.
- Since we acquire our taste for salt, learning to enjoy unsalted foods may take time. If your taste buds still demand a tingle, consider other natural flavor enhancers. Herbs, spices, onion, garlic, vinegar and citrus fruits accent a variety of foods and add few, if any, calories.

Stuffed Sole, for example, takes advantage of several of these "healthy" flavor enhancers. Green onions, tangy lemon juice and paprika add a burst of flavor to these vegetable-stuffed fish fillets. The fiber-rich stuffing also features whole grain oats.

In addition to supplying seven B-complex vitamins, vitamin E and nine minerals, oats are an excellent source of water soluble dietary fiber. New research by Northwestern University Medical School provides more evidence that the water soluble fiber in oats may play an important role in helping people achieve lower cholesterol levels, and potentially reduce their risk of heart attack.

Rainbow Trout Stars In New England-Style Favorite

New England cuisine is fast becoming America's latest food trend. With a rich culinary heritage dating back to our nation's first settlers, this region is the home of such favorites as chowder, maple syrup, cranberry sauce and fish cakes.

Borrowing from the original, this recipe for New England-Style Trout Cakes features the delicate flavor of Idaho Rainbow Trout, for a new, lighter twist on an old classic.

Succulent morsels of poached Idaho Rainbow Trout fillets combine with breadcrumbs, tender-crisp celery and onion.

Reduced-calorie mayonnaise is added for extra moistness. Form the mixture into patties, then sauté until crisp and golden brown. Accompany with a creamy dill sauce, for the finishing touch.

For a festive autumn buffet, serve New England-Style Trout Cakes with a mixed green salad, marinated fall vegetables, crispy french bread and plum tart for dessert.

For more rainbow trout recipes, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to: Fall Trout Recipes, C/O SY&T, 460 Boulevard Way, Oakland, California, 94610.

Legislature Awards Additional Funding

The Michigan Energy Conservation Program (MECP) has received an additional $800,000 in Exxon oil overcharge funding from the Michigan Legislature, according to Michigan Department of Agriculture Director Robert L. Mitchell.

MECP is a unique program started in 1988 that combines the resources of the Michigan Department of Agriculture, Michigan State University and the United States Department of Agriculture through 83 local Soil and Water Conservation Districts across the state.

"The additional funding will help the program continue, although at a reduced level, until September 1991," said Mitchell. "The Legislature is quite impressed with MECP's results, particularly the $21.9 million in reduced energy, fertilizer, and pesticide costs."

The $800,000 will be distributed in the same manner as previous monies, with the majority sent to Michigan's 83 Soil and Water Conservation Districts for on-one technical assistance by 89 energy technicians to farmers and forest product producers. The breakdown of proposed spending for this money is: MDA (program support & coordination - $56,500, Michigan State University (MSU) Agriculture Experiment Station - $133,400, Cooperative Extension Service - $81,800, Soil Conservation Districts - $528,000, TOTAL $800,000.

These expenditures will enhance or extend all current program operations. "I am pleased that the Legislature was able to continue funding of the Michigan Energy Conservation Program," said State Senator Harry Gast (R-St. Joseph), chief architect of the MECP funding. "This program is important not only because it reduces farmers' chemical costs but also reduces the amount of chemicals that would otherwise be put into the environment."

In his State of the State message, Michigan Governor James J. Blanchard indicated his willingness to seek alternative sources to continue the highly successful program, targeting new resources to specific problems and geographic areas.

MECP has helped over 20,000 individuals reduce use of herbicides/insecticides by more than 21,217 gallons, save over 6,200 tons of reduced fertilizer application, and increase profits to farmers by $23 million.

For further information, please contact Carey L. Draeger, communications representative, Michigan Energy Conservation Program (517) 335-1436.

Food Price Rise

The U.S. Department of Agriculture this week announced that it expects domestic food prices to rise 3 percent to 5 percent in 1990, largely because of a decline in pork production and the severe December freeze in Texas and Florida fruit and vegetable areas.

However, the department said that ample supplies of most foods this year will keep the food price rise below the 1989 level of 5.8 percent.

Shakespeare Reading Club

The club met at the home of Alta Parr on March 6 to hear a wonderful report on Laura Haviland given by Lenora Parr. Laura was a Quaker pioneer who was born in 1808 and died in 1898. She was a friend and helper to the slaves who were free and also the children of the black race. One of the slaves was John White who worked on the Watkins farm in our area. Laura lived in the Raisin Township, close to Adrian. She also had a school for the children. Since she didn't like the name of Girls' Reform School, she had the name changed to Industrial. She helped the underground railroad so the slaves could go to Canada. Her whole life was spent helping others.

Our next meeting will be held on Tuesday, March 20 at 2:00 p.m. at the Emanuel Church. Gail Curtis has chosen "Harriet Beecher Stowe" for her topic.

S.A.A.C.

The SAAC has rescheduled its monthly meeting for March 19, 7:30 at the CRC office.

The SAAC is committed to promoting the health of the community as related to substance abuse issues. Membership includes but is not limited to residents of the village and surrounding townships.

Agenda items will include discussion about Share the Vision educational awareness training opportunities, parental consent for teens to attend hotel overnights, all-night graduation party promotion, and future programs to be coordinated and supported by SAAC.

The Substance Abuse Awareness Committee is the community organization that should be used to facilitate prevention and education programs in the Manchester area; programs that support and compliment education provided for students in the Manchester schools.

The postal service has been a familiar institution in our country since the late 1700's. It has a noble past ("neither snow nor sleet nor dark of night..."), and yet is not beyond the frequent barbs of comedians!

Next Monday evening, hear the story of "The History of the U.S. Postal Service" told by Jim Gibbons.

Mr. Gibbons is the Postmaster of Ann Arbor as well as a history buff. His delightful look at the parallel development of the postal service and our country will give perspective to this most familiar government institution.

The Manchester Area Historical Society will host Mr. Gibbons at its next meeting on Monday, March 19, at 7:30 p.m. at the Blacksmith Shop, 324 E. Main.

As always, the Historical Society invites all in the community to this meeting. You need not be a member to attend.

To find out more about the history of the post office, about stamp collecting, or even about the cost of a first-class stamp, come hear Mr. Jim Gibbons at the Manchester Area Historical Society meeting next Monday.

Innovative Farm Products

Promoting international trade is important to the agricultural economy, but it's also crucial to increase the domestic demand for agricultural products, according to U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Clayton Yeutter. He addressed farm leaders, legislators, university, and government officials Feb. 15 at the Michigan Biotechnology Institute in Lansing. The secretary's one-day visit to the state was sponsored by the Michigan Farm Bureau.

"Although we've talked a lot about using research and technology to develop industrial uses for farm products, through the years it's been mostly rhetoric and not much reality," he said.

Yeutter said that he thinks there is considerable potential for new developments in farm products. "It looks like we're getting very close to having commercialization of biodegradable plastics, maybe in a very big way."

He also noted what he sees as the substantial potential for using farm based motor fuels to help reduce air pollution.

"If we're going to have a switch to alternative fuels in this country, because of air pollution problems, then the question is what are we going to burn in those automobiles, trucks and maybe even tractors," he said. "And clearly the most environmentally friendly fuel beyond any doubt is ETBE, which is a derivative of ethanol."

Yeutter said that for ethanol-based fuels to become successful, they must become price competitive with petroleum derivatives and the major auto manufacturers must be convinced that the fuels are viable.

Yeutter also visited the Caledonia dairy farm of retired Michigan Farm Bureau president Elton R. Smith and met with area agricultural leaders in Grand Rapids.

USDA Budgets For Survey and Testing

The U.S. Department of Agriculture has included in its 1991 budget proposal a $25 million food safety initiative of which more than $22 million would be spent on residue testing and pesticide data collection. The proposal seeks $15.8 million to be channeled to the states for conducting statistically based pesticide residue sampling programs of commodities.

"The purpose is to develop a data base of pesticide residue data for various commodities and pesticides that will provide more accurate information on which to base risk assessment," said Ken Nye, director of Michigan Farm Bureau's Commodity Activities and Research Division. "Currently, in the absence of actual data, EPA assumes that each commodity is treated with all pesticides registered for that crop at the maximum rate and number of applications. With that conservative risk assessment process, theoretical risk often overstates actual risk and leads to cancellation of the products."

The USDA is also proposing a $7 million program to survey farmers on pesticide usage for the purpose of assessing potential threats to groundwater or other environmental concerns.

Finkbeiner Receives Conservation Award

Ermine Finkbeiner, Lodi Township, was presented the "Walter Wolfgang Memorial" Conservation Farmer of the Year Award for 1989 at the 41st Annual Meeting of the Washtenaw County Soil Conservation District, held Tuesday, February 6, 1990 at the Freedom Township Hall.

The "Wolfgang Memorial" Award is presented to outstanding conservation farmers. Mr. Finkbeiner was recognized for his use of grassed waterways, erosion control structures and conservation tillage.

Seventy-three people in attendance at the meeting heard reports of Soil Conservation District activities: Food Security Act status from Gary Rinkenberger, Soil Conservation Service, District Conservationist; ASCS program from Susan Reid, County Executive Director, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service; and the experiences Louise Hickey, 4th Grade teacher at Pattengill School, Ann Arbor, at the Higgins Lake Teacher Environmental School. Louise received a scholarship from the Soil Conservation District to attend the School.

Two District Directors were elected to three year terms. With 53 votes cast, Steve Solowczuk, Lodi Township and Donald Trinkle, Lima Township, were elected.

Featured speakers for the Annual Meeting were Washtenaw County farmers Dale Lesser and Mike DuRussel. They presented an informative slide presentation on their recent trip to Europe where they participated in a study of the political and food systems of Austria, Italy, Spain and Yugoslavia.

National Nutrition Month Highlights The Good Taste Of Eating Right

Americans want to have it all—convenience, and nutritious foods that taste good.

This March, in recognition of its National Nutrition Month, The American Dietetic Association (ADA) stresses that having it all—when it comes to food choices—is well within everyone's grasp. It's theme for the month encourages Americans to "Enjoy the Taste of Eating Right!"

"Too often people think that eating right means depriving themselves of the foods they enjoy," says ADA President Nancy S. Wellman, Ph.D., RD (registered dietitian). "In reality, healthful eating opens the door to a wide range of tasteful experiences. Think about eating a balanced variety of wholesome foods...and remember moderation."

Registered dietitians define a healthy diet as one that includes many different nutrient-rich foods, without too many calories or too much saturated fat, cholesterol, sugar or sodium. Eating a wide variety of wholesome foods helps ensure an adequate intake of essential nutrients. For example, dark green leafy vegetables provide vitamin A and magnesium, whereas citrus fruits and green peppers are good sources of vitamin C.

While registered dietitians recommend limiting the amount of fat, sugar and sodium in your total diet, not every food we eat needs to be low in these items. "If you do eat a food that contains a lot of fat, sugar or salt, plan to balance your diet by eating other foods that aren't high in these areas," says Wellman.

"The key is how much of these foods you eat and how often you eat them," Wellman continues, adding, "If your favorite food is prime rib smothered in gravy, just eat it less often and try a smaller portion with less gravy.

"As you strive to 'enjoy the taste of eating right' this March and throughout the year, remember to make changes gradually," says Wellman. "Try substituting low-fat milk for whole milk first, rather than jumping directly to skim. Try incorporating new, healthful foods into some of your old recipes. As you make alterations in your diet, remember the word 'enjoy' is a key component of our National Nutrition Month message, and a key element in helping you make lasting changes that will improve the quality of your life."

The American Dietetic Association's 59,000 members comprise the nation's largest group of food and nutrition professionals. ADA is dedicated to the promotion of optimal health and nutritional status of the population. For more ways to enjoy the taste of eating right, contact a registered dietitian in your area.

Letter To The Editor

My family came here from Germany in the early 1800's and settled in Manchester.

I want the same things for my children and grandchildren that they wanted for us -- a safe environment! So I feel it is my responsibility to do my part to let people know what is going on in my neighborhood with Manchester Stamping and their rezoning.

As you know, or may not know, the Manchester Township Planning Commission voted three-two against Manchester Stamping rezoning from light industrial to general industrial.

Also, Washtenaw County Planning Commission turned down the rezoning 9-1.

Despite a total of 12 votes against the rezoning, the Manchester Township Board voted 3-2 in favor of rezoning.

The Washtenaw County Planning Commission said: This is a water recharge filtering system and highly sensitive ground, and very sensitive to pollution—and wondered why it had been allowed to expand so many times! Now, on April the 3rd, Manchester Township voters have an opportunity to uphold the recommendation of our planning commission and vote.

It is our duty to protect the land our forefathers worked to preserve.

Agnes Faulhaber Rafalski

"Getting The Lead Out" Hurts

Farm Bureau is urging the U.S. Senate to vote "no" on legislation that, if approved, could lead to the disappearance of leaded gasoline.

The measure is a Clean Air Act provision that would permit the sale of leaded gasoline for off highway use only. Michigan Farm Bureau Public Affairs Director Al Almy said that would mean that gasoline manufacturers probably wouldn't even bother refining leaded fuel.

"That would deny the availability of leaded gasoline for off road use, and many farms have engines that depend upon leaded gasoline to operate," he said.

"Farmers with farm engines that need leaded fuel could start using engine additives. However, some of these additives have not proven to be totally satisfactory," Almy said. "The engine does not have the life that it would have with leaded gasoline."

A Farm Bureau survey found that it could cost $100 thousand per farm to replace or refit engines in the event of a ban on leaded fuel.

Engagement Announced

Marilyn and Bernie Aumann of Stratford, Connecticut are pleased to announce the engagement of their daughter, Lynda, to Jeffrey Horning of Manchester, son of Diane and Earl Horning of Manchester.

Lynda is a graduate of Michigan State University with a dual major in Tourism Management and Spanish. She is currently working as a travel consultant in Ann Arbor.

Jeff is a graduate of Michigan State University where he received his degree in Food Systems Management. He is currently working on the family dairy farm.

The wedding will take place at Zion Lutheran Church, Chelsea in September. The couple plans to reside in Manchester.

The bagpipe is an old instrument. It is spoken of in the Old Testament and it was used by the Egyptians, Greeks and Romans.

EVERYTHING YOU EVER WANTED TO KNOW ABOUT IRAs

If the mere mention of the term Individual Retirement Account (IRA) makes your head spin, you're in good company. According to the Michigan Association of CPAs, some of the most frequently asked questions among taxpayers relate to the rules on IRA contributions. Here's a quick rundown of the basic facts.

Can I still make and deduct IRA contributions?

If neither you nor your spouse actively participated in a company retirement plan for any part of the taxable year, the answer is yes. You can contribute and deduct up to $2,000 or 100 percent of your wages, whichever is less. If your spouse works and is earning at least $2,000, you can contribute and deduct an additional $2,000, for a total of $4,000; a non-working spouse increases your total allowable deduction to $2,250.

How do I know if I am considered an "active participant" in an employer's retirement plan?

If either you or your spouse participate in an employer's retirement plan, the deductibility of your IRA contribution is based on

Here's a rule of thumb: If your company's pension plan states that you are eligible for coverage, then you are considered an active participant. But as simple as it may sound, determining whether or not you're an active participant in a qualified retirement plan can be confusing. For instance, Dan participated in the Aris Company's retirement plan. On January 14, 1989, Dan left Aris and began working at XYZ, Inc. which does not have a retirement plan. Although Dan participated in Aris' retirement program for only the first two weeks of the year, he is nevertheless considered an active participant.

Perhaps the easiest way to determine your participation status is by glancing at the information box on your W-2 form. If the box contains a printed mark, the IRS will consider you an active participant in a retirement plan. You may also want to check with your employer.

What happens if I do participate in a retirement plan?

If you decide to make a non-deductible IRA contribution, you must inform the IRS by attaching Form 8606 to your federal tax return. To be safe, you should also keep a personal record of all non-deductible contributions made between now and the time you receive the entire sum of your IRA funds. If the recordkeeping requirements make you jumpy, remember there are other ways to accumulate funds tax-deferred. Ask your CPA to describe your options.

your adjusted gross income (AGI). On a positive note, participants in a retirement plan do not necessarily lose the IRA deduction. Married couples with an AGI of $40,000 or less and singles with an AGI of $25,000 or less are still entitled to the full deduction.

However, when your wages surpass those figures, your deduction starts to decrease. For every $1,000 in AGI over $40,000 (if married) and $25,000 (if single), you lose $200 in deductions. The end result is that the deduction phases out entirely for married couples with an AGI of $50,000 or more and for singles with an AGI of $35,000 or more.

Does it pay to make a non-deductible IRA contribution?

Only you and your financial advisor can make that judgment. But you should keep in mind that deductibility is not the only thing IRAs have going for them. One of the greatest advantages of IRAs is that they enable you to accumulate retirement savings on a tax-deferred basis. What that means in dollars and cents is that your savings grow faster.

If you decide to make a non-deductible IRA contribution, you must inform the IRS by attaching Form 8606 to your federal tax return. To be safe, you should also keep a personal record of all non-deductible contributions made between now and the time you receive the entire sum of your IRA funds. If the recordkeeping requirements make you jumpy, remember there are other ways to accumulate funds tax-deferred. Ask your CPA to describe your options.

How are IRA distributions taxed?

In the past, all withdrawals from IRA accounts were taxed as ordinary income. Today, the rules are a lot more complex - especially if you make a non-deductible contribution. Since these non-deductible contributions have already been taxed, any future distributions from your IRA accounts will be taxed based on the ratio of the non-deductible contributions to total contributions.

What are the rules on withdrawing IRA funds?

If you withdraw any IRA money before you turn 59½, you may have to pay income tax on all or some of the amount withdrawn (depending on the proportion of deductible contributions to non-deductible contributions) plus a 10 percent penalty. The only exceptions to this rule are if you become permanently disabled or the distributions are paid under the life-annuity exception. You can also be penalized if you don't start to withdraw money from your IRA account before April 1 of the year following the year in which you turn 70½.

How many transfers can I make between IRA accounts?

You can make as many direct transfers between IRA trustees or accounts that you believe are necessary. However, if you do withdraw your IRA funds and close your account, the transfer is considered a rollover (you are permitted one per year), and must be redeposited in a qualified IRA account or other qualified plan within 60 days. If you miss the 60-day deadline, the amount withdrawn will be taxed and, if you are under age 59½, it will also be subject to a 10 percent early-withdrawal penalty.

Although you must deal with the possibilities of withdrawal penalties and tax deduction restrictions, IRAs generally remain on of the more widely recommended methods of building retirement funds. If you do decide to make an IRA contribution, CPAs urge you to watch how your account is performing. Don't let possible income slip through your fingers. For instance, if you have thousands of dollars in a non-productive mutual fund, switch to an investment that has a proven record of success.

For additional information on whether or not an IRA is right for you, consult your CPA.

Guide To Mammograms

One in 10 women will develop breast cancer in her lifetime. Early detection is the key to survival. Mammography done in conjunction with breast physical examinations provides the most accurate diagnosis of early breast cancer.

The American College of Radiology, the American Cancer Society, the American Medical Association, and nine other major medical organizations, recommend the following guidelines for women without symptoms:

- Between ages 40-49, a mammogram should be done every 1-2 years, a physical breast exam every year.
- After age 50, a mammogram and physical breast exam should be done every year.
