OUR CULTURE

Last week, "ecological literacy" was the subject of this column. Terms like that one have become popular in the last couple of years. Educational literature is full of "scientific literacy," "numerical literacy," "technological literacy," and similar expressions that are meant to denote knowledge and skills in various disciplines.

One such term that came to the fore a few years ago is "cultural literacy," the invention of University of Virginia English proffessor E. D. Hirsch, Jr. Hirsch's book, "Cultural Literacy: What Every American Should Know." became a best seller when it came out in 1987, and it has been the subject of much comment in the education press since.

Basically, Hirsch charges that our education system has not given our young people enough grounding in the basics of our culture to enable them to function in a literate society. He says, "The lack of wide-ranging background information among young men and women now in their twenties and thirties is an important cause of the illiteracy that large corporations are finding in their middle-level executives. In former days, when business people wrote and spoke to one another, they could be confident that they and their colleagues had studied many similar things in school."

The problem is, Hirsch goes on to explain, that "today's high school graduates do not reliably share much common information,

Middle School Academic Honors Night

Students at Nellie Ackerson Middle School will be honored for high academic achievement on Thursday, May 24, at 7:30 p.m. in the middle school gymnasium. The middle school faculty and the Middle School Boosters Club have again combined forces in the effort to encourage and reward educational excellence.

Students will be honored for achievement in the following areas: A Honor Roll, B Honor Roll, Science Fair, Equations, WLEA Festival of the Arts, Midwest Talent Search, Future Problem Solving, Optimist Oratorical Contest, Farm Bureau Essay Contest, Michigan Math Contest, Mathcounts League Competition, Band Director's Award, Michigan Educational Assessment Program, Four Year Academic Recognition even when they graduate from the same school." This background information, Hirsch says, forms the basis of communication, especially written communication.

For example, a writer who uses an expression like "Achilles' heel," expects readers understand that concept, which comes from the Greek myth that Achilles was dipped in the River Styx as an infant to make him invulnerable. His mother held him by the heel when she did this, thus leaving one vulnerable place, which was eventually his undoing.

"Achilles' heel" has come into our language in such a way that we may know what it means without ever knowing anything about the myth. But what about a phrase like "Am I my brother's keeper?" Most would recognize that phrase from the book of Genesis in the Bible as Cain's feeble alibi when God questioned him about the whereabouts of his brother Abel, whom Cain had murdered.

between present or fictional sitreader doesn't understand the phrase or doesn't know its source, then grasping the nuances the writer intends is impossible.

Now, what Hirsch has in mind is that everyone should learn certain information in school, and that such information should with the Marines during WWII. contain this cultural background Melissa's hobbies are bike riding, material. His book even contains a list of 6,000 items that he thinks family and reading. we should all be familiar with in order to be "culturally literate."

Hirsch has founded the Cultural Literacy Foundation to get his Baseball Contest ideas moving. One of the things the foundation does is publish a newsletter with lists of what people should know at various grade levels. He has published "The Dictionary of Cultural Literacy" and "A Child's First Dictionary of Cultural Literacy' and is writing a six-volume text book for teaching history, literature and science that students need for cultural literacy.

The problem with his approach, and the reason I'm discussing Hirsch at all, is that such a list of concepts, expressions, events, authors, etc., will inevitably be elitist, ethnocentric, sexist, and bound by the vision of the culturally privileged.

Writing in "Educational Theory," University of Illinois proffessor of philosophy Walter Feinberg says that Hirsch's ideas are wrong because, "Becoming a part of a public does not involve

Village Oaks Housing Project

Village Oaks of Manchester, a senior citizens' housing complex, from the council of the tax and the village council have reached a tentative agreement, and construction could begin this fall for the 51-unit project.

Mayor Exchange Dinner May 21

As part of the Manchester's traditional Mayor Exchange Day, area residents are cordially invited to join our delegation of guests from Jonesville, Michigan, for a turkey dinner with all the trimmings at the Knights of Columbus Hall on Monday, May 21, 1990.

The buffet dinner at 7:00 p.m. will be preceded by a cash bar commencing at 6:30 p.m.

Tickets for the meal are $7 per person and reservations are being accepted at the Manchester Village offices, 428-7877 through 4:00 p.m. Friday, May 18.

Come share your Manchester experiences and anecdotes with our guests. Your expression of pride in our warm and welcoming community is appreciated.

Under the preliminary approval abatement plan, the developers will pay for services instead of property taxes. They will also pay one-half of one percent of the total annual rent estimated to be $300,000.

The developers, Paul Hendrickson and Garnet Johnson, will pay $10,400 for services the first year. This includes fire and police protection. In future years, the price paid for these services will be adjusted according to the consumer price index.

Village president, Mary Kallewaard stated that the council will vote on the ordinance at the May 21st meeting and will also review the project site plan.

The Michigan State Housing Development Authority will provide rent subsidies for 20% of each type of unit.

There will be a managers unit, 23 one bedroom units and 27 two bedroom units. Citizens that are 55 years or older will be eligible to live in the housing project.

If construction begins in the fall of 1990, completion would take six to eight months.

Poppy Day Says Remember

As we look ahead to Memorial Day weekend with its countdown to the last day of school, the opening of swimming pools and the running of the Indianapolis 500 Mile Race, let us stop for just a moment and look back to the month of May in another time -May. 1918.

America was engaged in a world war - the first time this young country had joined forces with other nations to defend a free society. The young men of the American Expeditionary Forces faced a war in France more cruel than they could have imagined - war fought from trenches that stretched Switzerland to the North Sea.

That May of 1918, they spent week after week crouched in trenches filling with spring rain, turning the earth that had been frozen to mud. On those spring breezes came waves of mustard gas - and the smell of death.

That same rain and warm sun that added to the terrible conditions in the trenches made the wild poppies grow, field after field of bright red poppies growing where thousands had died.

It was nature's memorial to the lost friends and comrades, a symbol of their sacrifice, a symbol that is now a memorial to all men and women who have died serving their country in four wars. It is a small reminder to the American public that millions have died so there could be a 500 mile race weekend, so children could go to school, so there would be an America as we know it today.

On May 18 and 19, the members of the American Legion and the Auxiliary, the mothers, wives, daughters, sisters, and granddaughters of the men and women who have honorably served their country in four wars, will once again ask the citizens of this community to remember the sacrifice that has been made for America by wearing a poppy. This memorial poppy is not only a personal tribute to the dead but it also honors the living veteran and helps with the rehabilitation work. You see, the poppy we will distribute in return for a contribution is made by veterans-to remember veterans-and to help veterans.

Tax Hike Should "Take A Hike"

More federal taxes are part of a plan approved by the House Budget Committee in Washington. The five year spending schedule instructs the Ways and Means Committee to raise revenues to the tune of almost $89 billion over a five year period. That bothers Al Almy, director of public affairs for Michigan Farm Bureau.

"There is very clear indication as we look back over history that Congress has not been able to deal with the increasing deficit by raising taxes," he said. "for every one dollar that taxes have been labs and escort patients, learn raised, Congress has spent a

Deadline Nears

State Representative Thomas C. Mathieu (D-Grand Rapids) today reminded area senior citizens that the application deadline for the new Michigan prescription drug tax credit which helps low-income older people pay for prescription medicines, is June 1. 1990.

The credit is available to Michigan residents 65 or older as of December 31, 1989, who have spent at least 5 percent of their household income for prescription drugs and whose annual income is less than $8,970 for single persons, or $12,030 for couples.

"The maximum credit of $600 for a single person and $1,200 for a couple could take pressure off a lot of household budgets", said Rep. Mathieu.

Completed Prescription Drug Credit Claim forms must be submitted to the State Department of Treasury by June 1. Applications can be obtained from local libraries, Secretary of State branch offices, local Department of Treasury offices or by calling toll-free 1-800-367-6263.

People who need help in filling out the form can visit a local Treasury office. Many senior resource centers can refer seniors to volunteer tax preparation programs that help senior citizens fill out their tax forms.

American Legion Wolf Expansion Plan

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service has announced a plan to increase the size of the Eastern Timber Wolf population in Michigan's Upper Peninsula and several other states. But Farm Bureau is concerned that, among other things, the plan could set a broad precedent for continued expansion of lower peninsula wildlife species such as turkey and elk. Those species are already creating crop damage problems for agriculture.

Michigan Farm Bureau public affairs director Al Almy says the reintroduction of wolves is limited The American Legion Memorial to public lands in the U.P. But he fears the wolves would eventually end up on private land. "The Upper Peninsula does have substantial beef animal
