The Chicken Broil As Entertainment

There is an aspect to the annual Chicken Broil that isn't mentioned very often, but is very much a part of the annual event. That is the value of the entertainment that is provided.

Everyone shares in it. It is not just provided by the band or the singers that perform for the assembled diners. It is the anticipation that is shared by all of the citizens of Manchester as the third Thursday in July draws near. It is the good humor and hard work performed by the men and boys that build the cinder block pits for the Broil on the Tuesday before the day of the big event.

It is the "pre-broil" party that precedes the Chicken Broil at the American Legion Hall where everyone gets together to talk about Chicken Broils past, and to make the acquaintance of the newer members of the community who are just learning about the hard work and preparation that goes into a successful day.

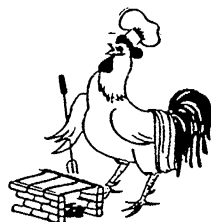

It is the good-natured kidding of the members of the local clergy about their assumed influence on the weather on that fateful day. It is the induction of the "butter boys" into the fraternity of the Chicken Broil. You often hear the "oldtimers" recounting, for whoever will listen, their first years on the line.

It is the self-satisfied smiles on faces of all the women in town who let the men and boys think they are somehow disappointed in not being included in this all-male event. They almost laugh out loud when they are denied the four or five hours of standing and serving amid sometimes smokey conditions.

Then there is the "afterglow" party that takes place when all those who traveled to Manchester have ate their fill of broiled chicken and started back home; the time when the tired, sooty, sweaty men and boys fall upon pieces of any chicken deemed unworthy to serve guests, and finish it off and think about next year.

Yes, there is great entertainment value to the Annual Chicken Broil, and not all of it is provided by the musicians and singers.

Early Deadline

Deadlines for the July 5 issue of The Enterprise will be as follows:

Some Sewer Bills Rise Others Fall

Low-volume users of Village sewer service can expect to see a slight drop in their sewer costs under rate changes adopted by the Village Council at the regular meeting of June 18.

Medium-volume users will probably see sewer costs remain about the same or increase slightly. High-volume users, however, will see more substantial increases.

Village sewer charges are billed in two parts. There is a fixed monthly rate, officially called the "Readiness - to - Serve" Charge. There is also a "Usage Charge", a rate billed according to the number of gallons of wastewater measured by each meter.

Under new sewer rates effective July 1, the Readiness-to-Serve Charge drops from $15 to $11.65 per month. The Usage Charge increases from $1.65 to $2.50 per thousand gallons.

Rates for Village water service have not been changed.

The sewer rate charges are the result of two factors. First is the Council's pledge, when rate increases were adopted in 1988, to hold rates at the same level for two years. In 1990, operating costs for the new wastewater treatment plant are higher than the cost of running the old plant.

For example, the new plant does not use liquified chlorine gas, a hazardous substance which was used in the old plant. But the safer technology of the new plant is more expensive than gas.

Grand Marshalls Announced

The Manchester Community Fair is pleased to announce that the Grand Marshalls for the Fair parade will be Mr. and Mrs. Ron Jenter of Manchester. The parade will be Tuesday, July 10, 1990 at 6:30 p.m.

There is some space still available in the Merchant's Tent; call Kathy Richardson at 428-8474 to reserve a space now.

The Fair's "300 Club" tickets for the drawings each night of the Fair, will be available along with the pre-sale carnival ride tickets at the celebration in Carr Park on the evening of July 3rd. The proceeds from these tickets are to help in the completion of the new exhibit building. These tickets are available now at The Flower Garden and Carol's Cut-N-Curl.

The Fair books are printed and at several area merchants and banks. Pick one up and plan those exhibits. Remember the entries for exhibit in the building will be taken ONLY on Monday, July 9, 1990 between 2:00 and 8:00 p.m.

In addition, the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, which has authority to oversee operations of our treatment plant, requires more laboratory testing today and requires two full-time treatment plant operators instead of one.

Under the terms of the Federal grant and loan which financed the new treatment plant, operating costs must be examined regularly and the system must be self-supporting.

A second factor in the sewer rate changes is the Federal requirement that rates be proportionate.

Federal regulations, which the Village must follow as condition of the grant and loan, identify which costs can be included in the Readiness-to-Serve Charge and which costs can be paid by the Usage Charge.

The MDNR advised Village officials that the old $15 Readiness-to-Serve Charge was paying some costs that should actually be paid from Usage Charges. This meant that small-volume users were paying too great a share of such costs as meter reading, billing and administration.

A reapportionment was necessary to correct this situation.

Fireworks Display July 3

Once again the Manchester Men's Club is sponsoring a fireworks display at Carr Park on July 3, the night before the Fourth of July.

Everyone is invited to come on out to the park and have a family picnic; listen to the music of Brad Frey's band, "The Loyal Legends" and enjoy an evening of dancing at the pavilion. At dark the fireworks will be shot off, giving you the largest and best display ever in Manchester.

REMINDER

It is a violation of Village Ordinance to ride bicycles or skateboards on the sidewalks in the business district from Clinton Street to Ann Arbor Street.

Violators will be issued citations to appear in Civil Infraction Court.

Also, it is a state law violation to ride skateboards on the road.

Bicyclists have to obey the same laws as motor vehicles, i.e. stop at stop signs, yield to traffic, etc.

Transfer Site Surcharge To Help Fund Recycling

Rates at the transfer site operated by the Village of Manchester, and Bridgewater, Freedom, Manchester and Sharon Townships will carry a surcharge beginning July 1.

Surcharge income will be used to enhance the recycling efforts of all five units of government.

The five are now sharing the cost of the recycling station located at Walco Foods on West Main Street. However, income from sale of the recycled materials does not cover the entire cost of transporting and sorting.

Additional bins for recycling of newspaper and clean cardboard will be added to the recycling station sometime in July. The Village and Townships have also been asked to consider funding a joint application for a state grant to set up a more extensive recycling program.

The newly updated, countywide Solid Waste Management Plan calls for 30% of solid waste to be recycled by 1995. However, the county does not provide any funding for current recycling programs.

Following are the surcharges which take effect July 1:

	Rate	Surcharge	Total Charge
3 bags	$ 3.00	$.50	$ 3.50
car load	6.50	1.00	7.50

appliance	10.00	1.00	11.00

Optimists Tardy!

Manchester Optimists awarded the honor of Outstanding Student for the month of May (last year!) to Beth Gilbert, the daughter of Nancy and Dewey Gilbert. Beth's parents had the patience of Job but finally sent us a letter asking why the award was never published in the Enterprise. Back in May of 1989, our regular press agent was attending the Mayor Exchange Day dinner, missing Beth's presentation. Mom & Dad, please forgive us, we let it fall through the cracks and hope this update will make amends.

We thought Manchester citizens might enjoy hearing what's happening one year after Beth's graduation. Currently she is carrying a high B average at Moody Bible Institute in downtown Chicago. She is studying a Christian education program focused on music, particularly piano. The band has a one month tour of Brazil scheduled for next year which will take them to all the major cities. They could use some financial help. Beth likes the distinctively Christian atmosphere at Moody, the people are friendly, enthusiastic and committed to living the Gospel. The work is demanding but fulfilling and the midtown Chicago campus blends urban convenience with the warmth and fellowship of a small college. Beth advises this graduating class and students still in high school to apply themselves. She found that commitment, especially to Jesus is essential in life after MHS.

Non-Dependence Day - July 5

July 5, the day after our nation celebrates its independence, has been designated by the American Lung Association as NON-DEPENDENCE DAY. It is a day when all Americans are urged to declare their freedom from smoking. It is also a day when the nonsmoking family and friends of smokers can encourage their loved ones to quit.

Throughout the country, 132 Lung Associations will celebrate NON-DEPENDENCE DAY and will stage festivities to call public attention to the dangers of nicotine dependency and the benefits of quitting.

Locally, the American Lung Association of Michigan and Marion Merrell Dow, Inc. will be distributing information and featuring displays at local area hospitals and malls.

Take your first step toward quitting smoking, and enjoy the benefits of a smoke-free life. Contact your doctor, or your local American Lung Association at 995-1030, because quitting is a matter of life and breath.

Faulhaber Receives Leadership Award

Jennifer Faulhaber with Principal Rod Morrison

Each year the National Association of Secondary School Principals sponsors a nationwide student leadership recognition program. Manchester High School has selected a person to receive this distinguished award each of the past four years. The 1990 Principal's Leadership Award winner is Jennifer Faulhaber, daughter of James and Patrice Faulhaber of Manchester.

Selection is based on leadership and service to the school community. A committee composed of the Principal, Guidance Counselor and Director of Students made the final selection from a list of several highly qualified senior students. Jennifer is currently the Student Council president, and has been active in a variety of other school activities including: National Honor Society, student director for high school plays, member of SADD, and a participant in track and baseball. Jennifer has also been an Optimist Student of the Month, and was the Manchester 1989 Fair Queen.

Some Sewer Bills Rise Others Fall

For small-volume sewer users, the reapportionment will act as a shield from the increase in the Usage Charge rate.

Some typical changes in sewer bills were reviewed by Council before adoption of the new rates.

These included the following examples:

A senior citizen, living alone, used 6,100 gallons in a calendar quarter. The old rates charged a total of $54.88 for the quarter. The new rates would charge a total of $50.20.

A married couple, with no children living at home, used 15,800 gallons in a quarter. The old rates totaled $70.60 for the quarter. The new rates would total $74.45.

Another couple, no children, used 12,500 gallons. Old rate: $65.25 for the quarter. New rate: $66.20.

A family with two parents and three children used 20,000 gallons. Old rate $77.40, new rate $84.95 for the quarter.

Another family of five used 41,200 gallons. Old rate $111.74, new rate $137.95 for the quarter.

The new rates are effective for sewer bills based on water metered July 1 and afterward.

Johnson Controls Named Industry Recycler of Year

The Washington State Department of Ecology recently named Johnson Controls, Inc., as their "Industry Recycler of the Year" for 1990. The award was presented in appreciation of the statewide program developed by Johnson Controls to collect, recycle, and market post-consumer polyethylene terephthalate (PET) plastic containers.

This award marks the first time that this organization has recognized a plastic products manufacturer for recycling leadership. Aggressive recycling legislation and high public awareness make Washington one of the more environmentally conscious states in the nation.

The Washington state recycling program was launched in February of 1989. The agenda: Make PET a profitable part of new and developing recycling infrastructures. The approach covered public education, market development, and support for a variety of collection systems, including curbside pick-up routes and buy-back centers. The program works. Last year, approximately 300,000 pounds of post-consumer PET were collected; that is the equivalent of 2.4 million 2-liter soft drink bottles.

Johnson Controls is the largest manufacturer of PET containers in the world, and the leading producer of 2-liter plastic soft drink bottles in Washington State.

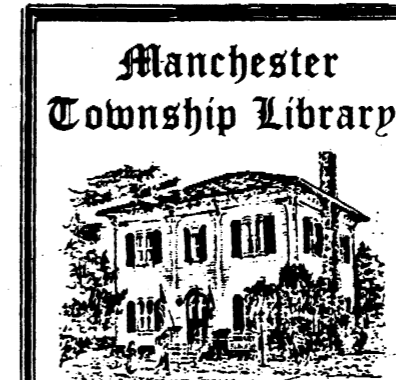

Currently, Johnson Controls is constructing a $3.3 million PET recycling facility in southeast Michigan. When it comes on line this fall, it will have the capacity to recycle more than 20 million pounds of PET each year. Utilizing advanced plastics reclamation technology, Johnson Controls expects to use much of this material in the production of new, non-food containers.

Polyethylene terephthalate, or PET, is the primary plastic used to manufacture 2-liter soft drink bottles; this accounts for the majority of PET used in containers. Other applications include containers for peanut butter, juice, mouth wash, water, and liquor.

First introduced in the late 1970's, PET has been recycled for more than a decade - into products such as paint brush bristles, carpet fibers, fiberfill for jackets and sleeping bags, automotive products, rope, and industrial strapping. The newest and fastest growing market is for use in new, non-food containers.

The Washington state program is part of the overall Johnson Controls recycling strategy. This includes collection, processing, and end-use market development.

LIBRARY READING PROGRAM

"I was a child murderer." Thus begins the story of "Expensive People," a novel by Joyce Carol Oates, the last in a series of books discussed by the Manchester Township Library on June 21. The series, "Novels: Native and Near" was made possible in part by the Michigan Council for the Humanities.

The story, as told by the narrator, Richard Everett, is about how, at the age of 12, Richard planned and executed the shooting of his beautiful but deceitful mother. Richard's perceptions of the people in his world create for us a picture of cold, cruel people whose only purpose in getting to know people is not to love or help them, but to use them for their own personal gain.

Leading the discussion at the Blacksmith Shop was Walter Mason, a teacher of English at the Academy of the Sacred Heart in Bloomfield Hills. "What we are reading," he said, "is a social commentary of degradation of life in the suburbs."

"Oates takes a fairly normal situation - life in the suburbs - adds a grotesque narrator and a murder, and then proceeds to lead us down the garden path. This is a novel of a 10-year-old boy crying for help. 'Can anybody hear me?' cries the narrator in many different ways. The question is, does anybody listen?"

Though not stated in the book, the setting for the story could easily be recognized as Michigan. Several times Mason pointed out the similarities between settings in the novel and Bloomfield Hills and Cranbrook.

Joyce Carol Oates taught English at the University of Detroit and the University of Windsor. She moved to Princeton University in 1978. She is the author of 17 novels, and numerous volumes of short stories, poems, and literary criticism.

The next series sponsored by the Manchester Township Library will begin again in the fall. See you then!

Teachers' Salaries Going Up

State teachers' salaries will increase an average of 5.8 percent (not including step increases) next fall, according to data collected by the Michigan Association of School Boards (MASB).

The Teacher Contract Settlement Report, released by MASB each spring and fall, contains wage and fringe benefit data from 438 of the state's 524 K-12 districts and 48 of 57 intermediate school districts.

Salary growth for Michigan's 81,000 teachers has remained stable over the past five years, according to MASB Labor Relations Director Bruce Bigham. "In general, the rate of growth in salaries during this period has exceeded the rate of growth in revenues for Michigan schools," Bigham explains. "That continues to put financial strain on many districts."

Annual increases were 5.80 percent in contracts settled for the 1990-91 and 1991-92 school years, 5.95 percent for the 1989-90 school year and just over 6 percent in most contracts during the previous three years. Again, this does not include step increases.

"Notwithstanding a trend toward negotiated reductions in health care benefit levels, health insurance costs continue to escalate," Bigham says. "Many districts report changing to plans that include deductibles and employee co-pay," he notes, "but an increased number of districts say they have new or improved insurance benefits in other areas in their contracts. An increase in contracts providing vision, disability, dental and term life insurance is revealed in MASB's contract settlement report."

In an effort to secure contract settlements, the number of contracts containing capped premiums (limitations on the school board's health insurance premium contributions) has decreased from 28.8 in 1980 to 18.1 in 1990. During this same ten-year period, health care costs have tripled.

MASB's Labor Relations Department completes information biannually for the settlement report through questionnaires completed by school districts.

Attends Conference

Michigan Constable Lyle L. Moore attended the 31st Annual Summer Convention and Seminar sponsored by the Michigan Constables and Court Officers Association, June 23, 24 and 25.

At each summer convention, the active constables qualify with the weapons they carry on their person and in the patrol car, using the range officers from the nearest Michigan State Police Post to the site of the convention. The site this year was at Cadillac.

Besides qualifying with other weapons, Constable Moore received the 1st place marksman trophy and a NRA certificate for police sharpshooter using the police shot gun.

Sgt. J. Drum MSP from the Cadillac Post was senior range officer.

It's cause for celebration, the day that marks a fight for freedom won and the birth of our American nation. Let's remember with pride the struggle that brought us to this great time, and know that the ideals and dreams set forth by our forefathers have enabled us to become a nation of strength and justice, one that still endures by the very principles established so long ago. This July Fourth, let us each express our patriotism as proudly and grandly as we display America's stars and stripes.

The Dog Days Of Summer

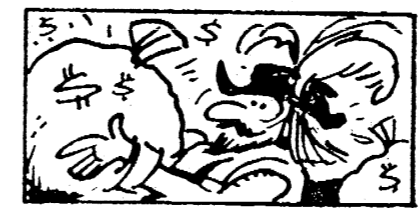

In ancient times, during the hottest days of the year in the Northern Hemisphere, a brown dog was sacrificed to appease the rage of the dog star, Sirius. It was believed that the star was the cause of the hot, blistering weather. Today we know this period — July 3-Aug. 15 — as the "dog days."

We no longer sacrifice animals to fend off the sweltering heat. Instead, we flip a switch and frosty air immediately relieves us of our misery. So not surprisingly, the Air-Conditioning and Refrigeration Institute celebrates "Air-Conditioning Appreciation Days" during the dog days of summer in recognition of the equipment that helps us beat the heat. lol

MARCC Your Calendar

The Manchester Area Resources Conservation Coalition (MARCC) meets Wednesday, June 27 at 7:00 p.m. Join us at the Manchester Public Library for a discussion of environmental issues that concern you. Even better, brainstorm ways to positively affect and improve the quality of life in the Manchester area.

Wednesday's agenda includes an update on efforts to save seven acres of trees targeted for destruction in the mobile home park site plan, plus lobbying for development of riverbank parks, and Raisin River pollution concerns.

Scrumptious Summer Fruit Tart

Something even better than money grows on trees—health, fitness and taste—tempting delights in the form of fruit.

Luscious California summer fruits—peaches, plums, nectarines and Bartlett pears—work so well in so many easy-to-prepare, time-saving recipes. These terrific fruits—low in calories and high in nutrition—are in season through October. They ripen easily. Just place fruit inside a paper bag and close the bag loosely. Leave at room temperature and check daily. Most fruit is ripe when it gives to gentle palm pressure and has increased fragrance. Bartlett pears are ripe when they turn from green to sunshine yellow. Enjoy your fruit right away or store it in the refrigerator. Better yet, use these mouth-watering fruits in a scrumptious summer recipe:

Fruit Tart features four fabulous summer fruits.

- SUMMER FRUIT TART
- 3/4 cup low-fat milk
 - 1/4 cup sugar
 - 2 tablespoons cornstarch
 - 1 egg yolk
 - 2 tablespoons lemon juice
 - 1/2 teaspoon lemon zest
 - 1 cup plain low-fat yogurt
 - 1 baked 9-inch tart shell, cooled
 - 2 each fresh, ripe California peaches, plums, nectarines and Bartlett pears
 - Peach or apricot preserves, sieved (optional)
- Combine milk, sugar, cornstarch, egg yolk, lemon juice and lemon zest in saucepan. Cook, stirring, over medium heat until mixture comes to boil and is thickened. Boil gently, stirring constantly, 1 minute. Cool to lukewarm, then whisk in yogurt until smooth. Pour into prepared tart shell. Halve and pit or core fruit. Place halves, cut-side down; thinly slice, leaving all slices connected at one end, like a fan. Fan out fruit on top of filling. Glaze with sieved jam. Chill until ready to serve. 6 servings.

Note: For a free ripening bag with instructions and more recipes write to: NAPS90, P.O. Box 255627, Sacramento, CA 95865.

FAMOUS LAST WORDS:

"Don't worry, I'm a good driver!"

The trouble was, this 'good driver' had a few drinks before he got behind the wheel.

Good driving requires more than keeping alert and driving defensively. What you do before you get into that car is even more important. If you drink alcohol and then get behind the wheel . . . no matter how good a driver you are . . .

you become a danger to yourself, your passengers, pedestrians and other motorists.

This July 4th holiday, please, don't drink and drive. We want you to have a safe holiday weekend.

Money Management

MONEY MANAGEMENT IS NO MICKEY MOUSE SUBJECT

One of the most essential lessons you can teach a child is not how to do figure eights or play "Chopsticks" on the piano, but rather how to handle money sensibly.

According to the Michigan Association of CPAs, your child has a much better chance of growing into a financially responsible adult if you begin teaching him or her how to handle money today. From the time your children first find a dollar from the tooth fairy under their pillow until the time they begin saving for college tuition, your role is helping them to understand the value and purpose of money. Unfortunately, parents frequently forget that even the way they treat pennies in a piggy bank communicates a message about money to a child.

Ann, for example, would often give her five-year-old daughter, Jenny, coins to save in her piggy bank. On occasion, however, Ann would take a few coins out of the bank if she needed change for a toll machine she passed on her way to work. One day, when Ann came into Jenny's room, she couldn't find the bank. On questioning Jenny, she was surprised to find that she had hidden the bank on purpose. "You said it was mine," she protested. Only then did Ann realize that she had already begun communicating a mixed message to Jenny about money.

If you want your children to learn how to handle money responsibly, you have to allow them a fair amount of control over how they use their money. At the same time, you should let them know there are right and wrong ways of handling money.

One of the best vehicles for teaching money management is the weekly allowance, usually given to children from the time they are at least six or seven years old. To make an allowance an effective learning device, CPAs suggest that you follow some simple guidelines.

First, don't make an allowance contingent upon household chores.

If you do link an allowance with chores, the child may very well start viewing the allowance strictly as payment for a job. Bob learned this the hard way, when his son Peter began working as a paperboy and suddenly stopped doing his household chores. When Bob threatened to cut off his allowance, Peter shrugged. He had decided that he would rather be paid for riding his bike and delivering papers than for doing the dishes and cleaning his room.

Remember, an allowance tells the child he or she is a part of the family. In other words, the allowance represents the child's specified share of the family's income. Household chores, on the other hand, represent the child's duty as a family member. If you confuse the two issues, so will your child.

Another way to make an allowance an effective part of a child's financial learning experience is by carefully outlining its purpose. Take time to explain what expenses you expect the allowance to cover. So, if you expect half of the allowance to pay for school lunches while the remainder covers movies and other types of entertainment, let him or her know. This way, if your child carelessly spends the money on candy or other items and then cannot afford to go to a movie on the weekend, he or she will get a first-hand lesson in the importance of budgeting.

For a similar reason, you may want to set Monday or Tuesday as "allowance day." This tactic forces children to stretch their funds until the weekend, when they usually need more money. In many cases, an early- or mid-week allowance can make a child understand that he or she cannot always spend money as soon as it's received.

One last point about allowances; whenever possible, keep the amount of your child's allowance similar to those of his or her friends. If you cannot provide a comparative allowance, explain why in simple, matter-of-fact terms. No matter how guilty or frustrated you may feel, try to explain the necessity for budgeting in positive terms.

Allowances are not the only way to teach children financial responsibility. Once they reach age eight or nine, they can generally begin to grasp the concept of planning ahead and setting priorities. At that point, you should consider taking your child to a bank and opening a savings account in his or her name.

Be sure that the child understands why the money is being deposited in a bank. You may even want to provide a simplified explanation of how interest works. Once the account is established, encourage the child to maintain the account's records so that he or she can see just how the savings grow. Keep in mind, the experience will probably mean more to the child if you help him or her set realistic short- and long-term financial goals.

Terry found an even more creative way to involve her son, Paul, in learning to manage money. Based on Paul's interest in computers, Terry bought him a few shares of stock in a small computer company. Paul's "assignment" was to track the progress of the stock and keep track of its worth. When the stock had earned a specified amount of money, Paul would be allowed to take out enough funds to buy himself a new video game.

With pre-teen children, the Michigan Association of CPAs suggests that you find ways to involve them in the process of saving for their college education. Whether you invest in stocks, bonds, mutual funds or certificates of deposit, make sure your child understands how the investment works and what you expect the funds to cover. Encourage your child to track the performance of any investments targeted for his or her education. In addition, urge your child to contribute at least a portion of any part-time earnings to help pay for future expenses.

Teaching money management to your child requires patience and persistence. If you get frustrated, try to keep in mind that learning to handle money responsibly is one lesson both you and your child can bank on.

Are You Bored With Boredom?

Bored to tears or otherwise? Why don't you learn a new language, go horseback riding, do some gardening or visit a zoo? These are just a few suggestions from the Boring Institute (yes, there really is such a thing), which is sponsoring its fifth National Anti-Boredom Month in July.

The Boring Institute was founded in 1984 by Alan Caruba as a spoof, but he soon found that he had tapped a serious problem and inaugurated National Anti-Boredom Month in 1986. The Institute focuses on the serious side of boredom such as worker burnout, school dropouts, marital failure and suicide.

There are, however, ways to escape this problem. The Institute has developed a list of 10 ways to avoid boredom: read; develop hobbies; join organizations; feed your mind; watch TV selectively; do your chores; don't isolate yourself; say "I can"; be nice to yourself; and have a wish list. lol

Grant To Boost Vo-Ag Programs

The Michigan Senate has approved a budget for the Department of Education which includes a $150,000 grant for Michigan State University's Agricultural Extension and Education Program. The grant will be used for planning, development and technical assistance in the improvement of agricultural education programs.

"Vo-ag programs are probably the most important resource we have from which to draw future farm leaders," said Vicki Pontz, legislative counsel for Michigan Farm Bureau. She said the funds would support the hiring of specialists to work with school teachers, administrators, boards of education and advisory committees in developing specific programs in agricultural education.

Pontz said Farm Bureau will also seek support in the state House for funding the grant.
