Midwest Ford's Marvin Talks of Vehicle Safety

A customer may consider style, performance and value important factors when looking at a new car, but air-bags and other safety items have become equally important, according to Greg Marvin of Midwest Ford, Inc. in

"It's a given that today's customers want styling and value for their money, but people also expect a certain level of safety to be built into any car they might own," says Greg.

"Ford Motor Company has sold more cars equipped with airbags than any other manufacturer in the world," he added. "More than 1.5 million Ford vehicles equipped with air-bags are on the road today."

Workers repair the hole in the west training wall of the dam.

Concrete started to slide down the chute Thursday the 18th, signifying the beginning of the training wall repair work at Manchester Mill Dam.

D.E. Limpert, owner of the dam, applied for his repair permit Division of the DNR on July 26. DNR officials met with Limpert on Milkey Variance Accepted When a petition for a variance from Steve Milkey for the off and adequate clearance of the possible creation of a split lot on Granger near Wolverine was originally submitted there were two main items of concerns.

First, the lack of a proper 90 foot frontage of the lot was a problem, but has since been resolved. The second remaining concern was the proposal of the access lot be jointly owned by both lot owners and be joined by an access drive called Granger Hill On Monday night the latter concern was resolved when Village Council, acting as the Zoning Board of Appeals, approved with some contingencies, the variance request by Steve Milkey to have a joint use driveway, otherwise zoned R1B. A fire department equipped with the proper devices and machines mean the difference between life and death. Unfortunately, money sometimes stands in the way of these important purchases. That is why the Manchester Township Fire Department is establishing a precedent by asking for very important financial support for the funding of an automatic defibrillator, a device used to restore breathing or synchronize the heartbeat of a cardiac arrest victim. #### Editorial / Opinion

Our Reader's Write

At least you can't be accused of "shooting from the hip", since you took two months to respond to my original letter in support of the woodlands ordinance. However, you could be expected in that length of time to get your facts straight.

You deliberately chose to misquote from my letter, by saying"... Ms. Havens thinks wetlands issue has not created problems..." I didn't express any opinion about wetlands. A Novi developer who has worked successfully with both woodland and wetland law quoted in my letter to illustrate that developers do not feel you made a good faith effort to deal with the facts of the situation.

However, the heart of your complaint seems to be that a vocal minority is trying to contorl a silent majority by ramming the proposed woodland ordinance down the community's throat. You've got it very much backwards. Last year I went dood to door down several streets asking people about the importance of trees in this community. The overwhelming majority felt strongly that trees are important to the character, beauty and health of this town. They wanted very much to see trees protected. That's why the Manchester Area Resource Conservation Coalition (MARCC) submitted a petition to council asking them to prevent the loss of trees in the proposed trailer park.

Since trailer park construction hasn't begun, it appears the economy has done the job of preserving trailer park trees. But the fact remains that one year ago, lots of people (including Council members) thought there was no legal way we could protect trees. The woodland ordinance used as a model for Manchester is a law in effect in many communities in Oakland County and elsewhere, positive proof we can legally protect trees.

It is a way the majority of people who like M anchester's unique character can help preserve it from it from the few greedy, willful or indifferent people who don't care about anything but their own

The proposed woodland ordinance is one way to protect trees, but it is not the only way, and in the public hearing held recently, even though half the crowd definitely favored legal protection for trees. it was clear that the proposed law was too complicated for a town this size. Like most things, the first try wasn't perfect.

It wasn't expensive, either. A little over seventy bucks was spent on a preliminary map. Big deal. All the other work of re-writing the Novi ordinance to fit Manchester was volunteer. That's why it wasn't perfect. That's why Commissioners want to pay between two and seven hundred dollars for an expert re-write of a much simpler option. Maybe one that would prevent clear-cutting through the site plan review process. I don't think we're going to bust the budget on this one, Mr. Davis.

I disagree totally with your statement that the Planning Commission is "pursuing its own goals rather than the property owners." The Village Council told Planning Commissioners to explore woodland protection because many property owners and residents (whose voices count whether they own or rent) via petition, private comment, and attendance at council meetings, asked them to do something to protect trees.

Commission and Council members have researched what can be done, listened to residents and responded to a concern expressed by many in this community. As I understand it, that's the way government is supposed to work in this the books which tell us where to put a driveway, what kind of fence we can build, whether we can build on out property, how big it will be and what it can be used for. All these ordinances protect the community health, property values and the "look" of the Village as a whole, despite the rights of an individual property owner.

However, it is not likely that a woodland ordinance will happen, because we can protect trees in a simpler form. What form will be is not yetresolved. There is still plenty of time for a healthy compromise. Perhaps you can make some constructive suggestions instead of continuing to complain about an Island Park. The park includes ordinance that will not be.

Finally, Mr. Davis, whatever part you decide to play in this matter, kindly do not mention my name unless you quote me accurately. I have better things to do with my $2,106.216 for a total project cost time, and this space could be put to better use, than unsnarling misrep-

Reader has International Concerns

This Monday morning's news of a coup in the USSR sent me looking for a recent Ann Arbor News article which allowed the Bush-Gorbachev summit meeting. It quoted the two "world leaders" as they appeared following their deliberations. perhaps Mikhail Gorbachev's sage comment bears repeating: Normal human thinking will have to replace the kind of military political thinking that has taken root in the minds of men." Dependent Children" (AFDC) for your child, you only have to list your child's name and Food Stamp or AFDC case number, sign the application.

The information provided by the household is confidential and will be used only for the purpose of determining eligibility and verifying data. Applications may be verified by the school or other officials at any time during the school year.

Households may apply for benefits at any time during the school year. If a household is not currently eligible but has a decrease in household income, an increase in household size or if a household member becomes unemployed, the household should fill out an application at that time.

In most cases foster children are eligible for these benefits regardless of the household's income. If a household has foster children living with them and they wish to apply for free or reduced-price meals or milk for them, the household should contact the school for more information.

Under the provisions of the policy the building principal will review applications and determine eligibility.

Parents or guardians dissatisfied with the ruling of the official may wish to discuss the decision with the determining official on an informal basis. The household also has the right to a fair hearing. This can be done by calling or writing the "Designated Hearing Official" at: Ronald Niedzwiecki, 710 E. Main St., 428-9711. Each school and the high school has a copy of the complete policy which may be reviewed by any interested

Host Families Needed Soon!

Host families are being sought for high school exchange students from Sweden, Denmark, Yugoslavia, Spain, Czechoslovakia, Brazil, Ecuador, and Turkey for the 1991-92 school year in a program sponsored by the American Intercultural Student Exchange.

The students, age 15 to 17, will arrive in the United States this month, attend a local high school and return to their home countries in June 1992. Students are fluent in English, have been screened by their school representatives in their home Bauder, son of Nelson Bauder countries, have spending money and medical insurance.

Families interested in the host is a member of the Key Club and family program should call toll free: 1-800-SIBLING.

Manchester Teacher Talks Continue

Talks are still underway with the Washtenaw Livingston County Education Association (W.L.E.A.) on the terms of a new agreement covering the district 64 member teaching staff. The prior agreement expired on June 30, 1991.

The W.L.E.A. issued its initial set of contract demands on June 24. Since that time, the parties have met on six different occasions.

The initial proposals of the W.L.E.A. covered a number of areas including agency shop, association and teacher rights, teacher evaluation, leaves of absence, insurance improvements, school improvement process, early retirement plan, and least restrictive environment for special education children. Included in the initial package was pending upon increases in local a 13% pay hike for the 1991-92 school year. On August 19, the proposal was amended to increase wages ranging from 8.1% to 18.71% depending on placement on the salary schedule for the 1991-92 school year. Key issues remaining on the Board side include insurance, reducing the number of half days of student instruction, and the final outcome of salary discussions. In response to the tremendous rise in insurance costs over the past decade, the Board has proposed language to permit the district to select and change insurance companies. Currently, the teachers insurance benefit package is carried by the Michigan Educational Special Services Association (MESSA). MESSA is the insurance wing of the Michigan Education Association (MEA), the parent labor group of the W.L.E.A. The language sought by the district is the same provision previously agreed to by the MEA affiliate support staff employees union in the district.

The district has recently proposed a pay package calling for a 5% increase for 1991-92 with raises in other years of the agreement to range between 4% and 5% de-

All other employee contracts within the district have settled for increases between 6% and 6.25%.

The parties are scheduled to meet with the labor mediator on Friday, August 23 in Detroit. Teachers are scheduled to report on August 23 and the first day for students will be Monday, August

Surveys Sent to Class of 1986

The schools of the South and West Washtenaw Consortium are soon to undertake a rarely performed survey of high school graduates five years after graduation. Beginning August 19, graduates of the class of 1986 from Chelsea, Dexter, Manchester, Milan and Saline will be surveyed regarding their career, employment and educational achievements. The data will be compared with "senior plans" listed prior to graduation and data from the annual survey one year after graduation.

The data will indicate the types of employment and education pursued, the level of education completed, employment and the education used and available, careers selected and when the selection was made. The data will help provide educators and counselors insight into the complex current world of work so that career guidance and educational preparation can best prepare high school students for their future directions.

The survey is being conducted in consultation with the Michigan Department of Education Project Outreach and will utilize a random selection process which tests indicate to be accurate within five percent. With 841 graduates of the class of 1986, 264 will be contacted. As the survey is factual, as opposed to opinion-based, data will be accepted from family members where the graduate cannot be readily

Members of the class of 1986 and their families who have moved, or who have unlisted phone numbers are encouraged to call the Consortium office. Questions may be directed to the survey coordinator, Bob Miller at 428-8327 or the local high school office.

to Europe, Lloyd and fellow club member Barry MacRae claiming the 14th century as the time hounds were used for hunting wild game. The beagle exists as one of the smallest hunters. It came to the United States for the purpose of hunting rabbits. You may confuse them with fox hounds and their horseback followers. They also exist separate from squirrel hounds and coon hounds. Beagles have bred into them the challenge of tracking wild rabbits, period. They do so by latching onto a scent. putting their nose to the ground, and walking along the tree line while wagging their tails like a hyperactive metronome and emitting the most amazing baying sound, true dog music to the hound fancier. They don't run, or don't get out of control if they can really hunt. Lloyd said that a beagle who stays on the scent will eventually force the rabbit back to its burrow where the knowing hunter will be waiting for it. This happens because rabbits usually flee in a circlingback pattern.

Last week-end's competition was a sanctioned licensed trial that only happens once a year at the South Michigan Beagle Club. One of 13 state chapters and of 500 national groups, the club's event provides an opportunity for beagle owners to earn points towards their dog gaining the status of "champion". A beagle may enter these events anywhere in the U.S., but the rules remain the same. Four classes exist: male (13 inches and under), female (13 inches and under), male (15 inches down to just above 13 inches), and female(15 inches down to just above 13 inches). Height at the shoulder determines size.

The purpose for these breeders and all of the participants at the trial this past week-end is to improve the species and so the dogs who lack the necessary qualities find themselves humanely euthanized. The membership contends that as a group, they respect the rights and integrity of animals far more that the American public. Barry sees beagle hunting as relaxation, and a way to prolong your life. The club takes this concept to heart by holding a trial event every third Sunday of the month, and many members come out to enjoy the sound of the dogs and spend time with each other. Seems like a solution to couch potato syndrome. The good news is that the public can come and watch if they want to and walk the beautiful grounds. If I were you, I'd give it a shot. The membership ranks among the most friendly and supportive group of people I've encountered in my lifetime. For awhile the South Michigan Beagle Club rated as one of the top places to hang out in Manchester. But as way goes to way, and media clutches at our souls, we find ways to spend time away from the simple beauties of life. Unique things still exist for those who desire them.

Perfect weather for a Golf Scramble

Sunday morning at Green Valley Golf Course the temperature was 65 degrees with just a touch of fall in the air and a light mist evident on the first and tenth tee. Thirteen groups of four players tee'd off in a scramble format. Spirits were high and pictures were taken of all teams so that the winners would be recorded for prosperity. As the morning progressed the sun burned off the haze and the ground moisture ceased to affect the booming drives and uncanny iron shots.

The early morning moisture did affect our intrepid putters and the early holes were difficult to par. However as the day progressed the lumber came out of the bag and the long, long drives were reaching for the greens. Putts began to fall and two teams with subpar rounds of 66 ruled the very difficult lay out. Truly the day was capped off with a putting tournament and prizes were evident and everyone seemed to share in the fun. A delicious meal rounded out the occasion and bragging rights have been staked out for the coming year.
