

Dam News

Last week's rainfall slowed down repairs to the Mill Street Dam. The west training wall foundation has been poured and formed and awaiting concrete. As soon as that wall is poured, the sandbags will be moved to the east wall and repairs on that side will begin.

Lorenzo Steele, Sidewalk Superintendent for dam reconstruction, watches repairs from a distance.

Next GDP Workshop is Scheduled for Sept. 17

The Village of Manchester Planning Commission is conducting a series of public workshops as part of the Village's General Development Plan revision process. The current General Development Plan was adopted in 1967, and is being revised to reflect the many changes which have occurred within the Village since that time.

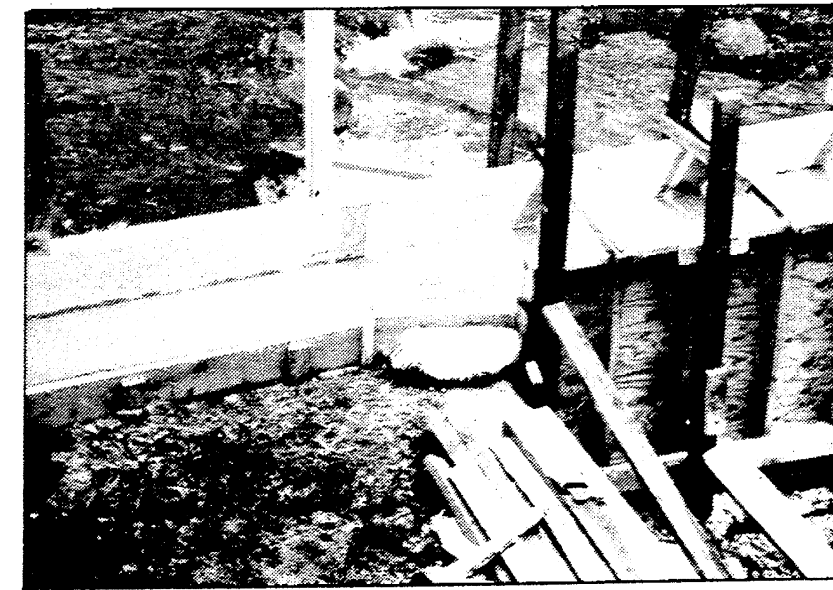

In order to develop a plan which represents the community's vision of its future, the Planning Commission is seeking citizen input, and encourages all citizens interested in contributing to the General Development Plan to attend at least one public workshop.

Public Workshop I was held Tuesday, May 28, 1991. At this workshop the community planning issues which need to be addressed in the General Development Plan were identified. The Public Workshop II is scheduled for Tuesday, September 17, 1991 at the Knights of Columbus Hall located at 106 East Madison, Manchester, Michigan.

The purpose of the second workshop is to develop community goals and policies to guide future land use and development within the Village. The Planning Commission wishes to stress that attendance at the first public workshop is not a prerequisite for attendance at future General Development Plan Workshops.

For more information, please call Bob Daverman, Village Planning Commission Chairman at 428-9367 (evenings) or Emily Palacios of Carlisle Associates at 662-2200 (days).

Political Profile: Village Council's Bill Kwolek

by Vanessa Forsthoefel

Some people listen to counteract what is said, pointing out only the bad things or wrongdoings. But when talking to Bill Kwolek, he is one individual who listens to hear the truth in everything that is said and focuses on that. In the first (and worst) case scenario, this seems to be most prevalent in today's society, fortunately not all of society.

"A lot of what I wanted to participate in on the Village Council I've had a positive effect on," he said. Bill is on the Department of Public Works Committee and is particularly proud of his role in the wastewater treatment plant and the sewer separation project. "I enable myself as a catalyst to get things done between cities and companies," he said. His participation on council can be quite demanding, sometimes spending up to 20 hours a week. Time is our most valuable commodity, Bill commented, and one nice thing about working with this group of council members is their willingness to devote their time.

Sandi and Bill Kwolek

Bill is a self-employed laser engineer and is currently busy designing three new medical lasers. He hopes that it doesn't come to the point where council consumes so much of his time that he won't be able to run for reelection, but it is too soon to tell.

Bill grew up in the Detroit area and coincidentally he and Mary Kallewaard went to the same grade school. Bill attended a Catholic high school, Notre Dame, in Harper Woods. He graduated in architecture from the University of Michigan with none other than local John Hinkley. Small world.

In 1971, during his senior year in college, he married his wife Sandi (Van Beylen). At that time Bill was managing an apartment building, "so at least that paid the rent." He and Sandi have two sons, Danny, 13, and Aaron, 4.

"It was quite an experience for us to meet young adults with strong relationships. It's wonderful to see that there isn't dysfunction everywhere."

They also participate in a Bible study program, which will hopefully be starting this fall, Bill said.

Thank you, Bill, for the time you spend on Council and for your constant search for truth. More of us could take a lesson from you.

— R. Zang

I believe in hard work. I believe in the power of a dream. I believe in the strength and determination of women.

I know one woman who could give us all a lesson or two regarding the above mentioned, someone who has turned a rough piece of land into a garden of Eden, and a run-down house into comfortable dignity. I feel that other women in this area share experiences similar to the one that I'm about to tell; and so this is your story too.

If you've lived around here for awhile you might remember that train tracks used to parallel Austin Road coming from the west, a Michigan Central track that connected a Lake Michigan city, I've heard, to Lake Erie, someplace, coming right through Manchester. A gravel pit also existed along a spur of these tracks about a mile and a half east of Sharon Hollow, an operation that showed promise, but never really got going. The grand opening was in 1928, according to Floyd Parr. From the air you can still see a half dozen or so wide cement pillars, designed to hold the stationary hoppers which held the gravel that was washed, lifted by conveyors and then topside dumped into waiting hopper cars. In 1929, the Depression contributed to the closing of this operation.

Frank Merithew owned the property at this time, and it remained in his family until 1939, when it sold to Charles Hughes, a full-blooded Indian. The Hughes had a large family. They built a small house made of cement block. Another frame house became a dwelling, and a garage, also made of cement block, paralleled this building. A small shed which acted as the pump house that pulled water up from the pond to wash the sand and gravel from the gravel hill completed the picture. Never was very pretty; it didn't seem important at the time. Well, the railroad shut down the line, the tracks were pulled up, and the idea of a sand and gravel business derailed. Wallace Hughes, son of Charles, bought the piles of railroad ties stacked by the Michigan Central Railroad, sold them for a handsome profit, and then sold the property with houses to Floyd Parr in 1965. Floyd sold to Lewis Mandell, a young U of M professor, who in turn sold to George and Teresa (Pat) Shaw and son Gerald in 1973.

When George and Pat Shaw and Gerald first moved back by the gravel hill, it appeared the houses and property had "potential" as they say. According to Pat, the railroad bed and property was a hunter's haven, where game was plentiful, the open windows of her house useful for shooting guns out of. She looked at the pond and open grounds and block buildings and envisioned something other than they were.

She and her son and husband set to covering the block with siding. She gutted the inside of the frame house and opened up the living room, had a large, wide chimney built, moved the stairway leading to the second floor, and gave the place a twice-over. At the time this flurry was happening, tragedy struck, and husband George passed away. Pat could have thrown in the towel, and moved back to Ypsilanti where life in the city made things easier. But she made a commitment with her husband and son Gerald to live in the country. And so the work continued.

Pat recalled to me the fact that her place went by the name of "Rattlesnake Farm" before she and her family moved there. This proved true when she walked from house to garage only to see two large rattlers entwined in some dance of passion, an activity which sether to shrieking at peak volume. Gerald came running only to admonish that if she were to survive in the country, and turn her dreams to reality, it'd be best not to get quite so upset. So the next time she saw a rattler between her house and Gerald's, the matter was handled a little more calmly and the snake disposed of matter-of-factly.

Now according to Pat, not much except a few apple trees and some willow grew on her 30 acres. So she set about planting seedlings distributed by the DNR. Red pine, white pine, Austrian pine, blue spruce, and autumn olive started dotting the landscape. Fifty one year, one hundred another, adding up until she estimates that she has planted in the range of 1,200 seedlings. Today mini-forests of fir trees grow in clusters on her acreage, the most serene and beautiful of which grow around the pond, and east of her driveway. Another large cluster acts as a windbreak atop a westward hill and serves as shelter for rabbit and deer. The little eight-inch seedlings that seemed so helpless when first planted have grown into majestic beauties. The plant-tree campaigners could award a medal to this woman.

The yard around the frame house has beautiful beds of annual and perennial flowers tastefully landscaped so as to surprise and delight, clearly reflecting 18 years of dedication to Mother Nature's bouquet of beauty. I might be the all-time klutz when it comes to flower names, so when I look at the varieties that Pat caretakes, a new language opens to me. Flower lovers, prepare yourself.

Out and About

— by gar

LABOR DAY weekend 1941, fifty years ago. What were you doing at that time? For a lot of folks there was fear in the air and uncertainty of what might happen in Europe with Hitler and the rise of Germany. There wasn't much talk about Asia and the Pacific area. The economy was not that great but the implementation of the lend-lease plan to arm England was starting to increase our military build up.

Dad had purchased a new 1941 Plymouth Special Deluxe 4-door automobile for $796. The equivalent auto today might be $20,000. We lived on the second floor of a converted pickle barn. The rent cost $13 per month. No inside water or bathroom. Dad had started to build a new house a couple of doors away. The end cost of that house when finished in February of 1942 was $3,400 for astory and one-half about 1,500 square feet. Wages were not that great. $125 per month, $1,500 per year. Comparison of costs today? Put your own rent, mortgage cost or your annual income against Dad's.

What were times like? Dad marched in the Union Parade, down Woodward Ave in the heart of Detroit. Labor Unions were just coming into their own and business management was beginning to feel the pressure. Detroit was a beautiful city, crime was minimal, pride was everywhere. People took care of their homes and their neighborhoods. Street cars could take a person to virtually anywhere in the city. Urban lines and railroads connected all the smaller towns and villages with the city. Mass transportation was in place. Later, after World War II, the bus manufacturers encouraged cities to abandon street cars in favor of busses. Some of those same street cars are being operated in South America and other parts of the world 50 years later.

What has happened during the intervening 50 years? Unions increased in strength and popularity and now are on the wane. Cheap labor throughout the world produces goods and materials at a cost well below our own. Other countries are producing cars cheaper and better than we who perfected assembly line techniques. Our cities are decaying at an alarming rate. Crime is rampant: murder, rape, car theft, embezzlement, and, white collar crime with virtually no punishment is prevalent. A new home average cost in Ann Arbor is in excess of $125,000.

Where to from here? Can we recapture some of our struggling glory years? Do we want to fight for our economic freedom or are we becoming content to be dependent upon lesser countries.

Freedom Township Proposed Synopsis August 13, 1991

The meeting was called to order with all board members present. Minutes and Treasurer's report were approved with $9,987.57 in the general fund and $4.10 in the liquor fund.

Various communications were read and discussed including fire runs, P.A. 116 renewals, a meeting with Detroit Edison, and notice that the State Police office in Clinton has closed and the Ypsilanti branch will serve the Township.

Under New Business, the Board approved a rezoning request from RC to A-1 for property owned by the Detling family on Lima Center Road. The Board also adopted a resolution making the Washtenaw County Department of Public Works an official negotiator for long term solid waste capacity contracts. Also discussed was the dust control layer put on by the County Road Commission. There have been several complaints but the Road Commission says the brine was to specifications. The Township Board feels additional money should be spent on spot gravel rather than wasted on another brine application.

Weidmayer reported there have been numerous sheep kill problems in the past few months.

Bills #3111 through #3129 were approved for payment. The meeting was adjourned at 9:30 p.m.

Shelia Meade and James Burch are Wed

Shelia Kay Meade of Tallahassee, Fla., daughter of Ms. Edith Meade of Marianna, Fla., was united in holy matrimony with James Harold Burch of Tallahassee, (formerly of Manchester), son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Burch of Ann Arbor, in a 1 p.m. double-ring ceremony on May 4, 1991, at St. Louis Catholic Church in Tallahassee. Officiating in the ceremony was Father David McCreaner. Nuptial musical selections were played by Debra Lee Laseur, organist.

The bride, was escorted to the altar by her brother Sammy Meade. Jill Welch of Tallahassee was her maid of honor, bridesmaids were Beth Smith of Chattahoochee, Fla., and Lisa Lovely of Tallahassee.

The best man was Daniel Burch of Manchester and groomsmen were Gary Sweetland of Saline and David Malcolm of Greenville, N.C.

Following the ceremony, a reception was given at the Holiday Inn University Center in Tallahassee. Colleen Sweetland, Cathy Burch and Deborah Burch assisted in taking care of the guest book and serving the wedding cake.

The couple honeymooned in the Bahamas and the east coast of Florida, and are residing in Tallahassee.

A Michigan reception will be held on Sunday, September 29 at the Knights of Columbus Hall in Manchester at 3 p.m., for family and friends who could not attend the wedding in Florida.

The couple honeymooned in the Bahamas and the east coast of Florida, and are residing in Tallahassee.

Between the house and garage, an avenue of beauty provides a haven for birds. Winter creeper covers the garage siding, an ivy-like plant who's berries turn orange in autumn and provide food for the birds who winter-over. Old-fashioned "kiss-me-over-the-garden gate" stand tall and light purple over the walkway. Hibiscus, with large, showy flowers burst from large pots, adding red to the lush greens and soft purples.

A bird feeder stands outside the kitchen window, showing off a variety of jays, cardinals, mourning doves, sparrows, and titmice. Hummingbirds draw nectar from the flowers rising past the windowpane, or from the special feeder offering sugary liquid to them.

Behind the garage, myrtle covers a wide hillside under an old apple tree. In front, scarlet salvias, double petunias, and delicate white portulaca contrast with the shaded greens. Flower boxes hold bleeding hearts, and a new garden bed awaits tulip and daffodil bulbs for next spring.

In the back, a canopy trellis holds a climbing rose; other beds contain such beauties as pink double impatiens and New Guinea impatiens.

"simplicity" roses, rose-of-Sharon bushes, phlox, petunias, black-eyed Susans, and mums. Morning glories, my favorite, climb up and along fences here and there. A "burning bush" plant centers itself in another bed surrounded by roses. The leaves of this plant turn bright red following the first frost. Hanging from the porch, huge begonias, some of them grown from bulbs, add color and effect to the subtle ivy and leafy plants hanging beside them. To the east of the house along the driveway recently planted beds show off a rock garden with "hens-and-chickens", and creeping phlox. Another bed flashes four o'clocks in yellows, white, and purples which lead to the yellow day lilies. How am I doing?

Elsewhere, little surprises of color wrap around an old farm implement or tuck in front of a large rock. Another garden holds rows of gladiolas and zinnias, both of which have a stunning array of color.

Throughout, the grass is mown, and a variety of other trees, including one beauty called weeping cherry, dot the landscape. All told, I'd say two or three acres show the result of a master painter in cahoots with a higher authority to smother the senses with ecstasy. This woman, Pat Shaw, seems divinely assigned to display the truly wondrous way nature chooses to please us. She is a master, a craftsman, and exterior decorator supreme who has taken barren land, roughly beautiful in its own way, and turned it into a colorful arboretum.

I wish a way exists for you to experience the wonder of this all and perhaps you can. But a matter of greater significance overrides all: a woman with a dream and a vision worked and continues to work hard to make a desired reality. Pat Shaw moved to the country to a house and thirty acres of potential and turned it into her own garden of Eden because that's what she wanted to do. Her energy and enthusiasm keeps her infinitely youthful. It's no wonder we have such a lively and active older community in Manchester, the Center of the Universe.

Randy VanGasse goes from teacher to administrator —by Vanessa Forsthoefel

His title is Director of Student Services/Athletics, but what exactly does it mean? Randy's duties encompass everything from disciplining students to organizing dances to getting enough uniforms for teams, and the list goes on.

Randy came to the Manchester School District only one year ago from Clinton High School. For 16 years he taught English and art as well as coached baseball, and for the last three years he coached football. But teaching is definitely different than his present job. As an administrator, Randy doesn't get to interact as much with students, something he truly misses. "Most administrators hate to do 'lunch duty,'" Randy commented about a task that involves talking with students during free time, "but I love it." Talking really is one of Randy's favorite pastimes and communication is important, he says.

Much of his time is devoted to the athletics aspect of his job. On his first day of work, waiting for him on his desk were three letters of reprimand from the state for gross unsportsmanlike misconduct which happened the season before Randy began. Obviously one priority was to investigate Manchester's sportsmanship, including coaches and spectators as well as players. Last year, two or three kids were ejected from games but "spectator wise—folks did a pretty good job." Randy remembers one particular basketball game against Addison when Manchester won it at the buzzer. "We had to call in the troops," and some of Addison's officials were escorted out.

Which brought up another point that Randy must handle: Safety. At All JV and Varsity basketball and football games at least one deputy is present to "maintain a family atmosphere." Parents trust that their kids will be safe at the sporting events, Randy explained, and the school must preserve that trust with precautions for emergency situations.

"Many parents drop their kids off for the football games and within the fences it's like a small city, a microcosm of a community." As in any point that Randy must handle: Safety. At All JV and Varsity basketball and football games at least one deputy is present to "maintain a family atmosphere." Parents trust that their kids will be safe at the sporting events, Randy explained, and the school must preserve that trust with precautions for emergency situations.

Athletics vs. Academics
"A lot of times success in the classroom is generated by playing sports. It's all about how students feel about themselves and finding out their potential. Athletics is an artificial environment that develops those tests and abilities for students," Randy said.

Although Randy admits athletics isn't totally essential to public schools, he feels it is an extension of the classroom. It teaches collaborative learning through teamwork and creative problem solving.

But if students can't make the grade, they can't play. Manchester student athletes have stricter eligibility requirements than the state mandates, Randy said, exemplifying his commitment to education. If a "star" athlete can't meet the requirements in any given week, the "star" won't play until he/she can. The requirements are enforced on a weekly basis, also stricter than state guidelines.

Interestingly, more students are on the warning list or ineligible during the spring time than in the fall. Those who go on the warning list must then complete 100 minutes of teacher-supervised study time before the following eligibility assessment.

If a student has to become ineligible to realize their obligation to the team, then so be it, Randy summed up. He has never believed in a "win at all cost" philosophy, and neither should his coaches, if they are following Randy's lead.

He does have three main philosophies of athletics:

- 1) to provide a safe environment both on and off the field
- 2) that Manchester athletes compete to the best of their ability and
- 3) for athletes to represent Manchester with class at all times

Have a super season athletes and good luck in your second year at Manchester, Randy.

Senior Citizens News— T. V. Ludwick

Thursday, September 5 is the birthday party for all seniors 55 years and older and were born in either August or September. The meal will be chuck roast. Wonder what Jan will serve with it? Homemade noodles was my mother-in-law's choice and our kids asked that I continue the tradition. We didn't have all that nice, rich brown gravy because it all went into soaking up those noodles and they loved them—the thicker the better. My mom made noodles to go with chicken—I'd never heard of beef and noodles. I can just see Jan making the homemade kind for the 100 or so folks she serves at each meal (both at Emanuel's dining room and the takeouts), can't you? Anyway, call either Linda ahead at 428-8359 or Jan in the kitchen 428-

7630 for your reservation to come eat with the kings! Don't forget to stop at the Center to play bingo afterwards.

Tuesday, September 10: There will be council meeting at 9:30; come with your ideas to make our programs better. Baked chicken is on the noon lunch menu (maybe noodles?) Jan does surprise us often. Activities at the Center follow, come help on current projects.

Wednesday, September 11: Pickup begins at 10:00 a.m. for the Saline Hospital program entitled "Radiological Imaging: CT Scan and MRI" by Dr. Raymond Whiteman. I have no idea what that is, do you? It will be a learning experience for all of us. Go along by calling Erma Alber at 428-8707 for bus seating. There usually is time for a visit with our Manchesterites who reside at the Home there. Stop and say hello.

Thursday, September 12: Whoopee, Polish sausage and sauerkraut on the menu. (Don't we all love that stuff?) Even if it's in the 90's, we can enjoy the good kraut if someone else cooks. Stay for bingo at the Center.

Looking ahead: Seniors will leave the Center at 9:30 on Friday, September 13 (a lucky day) for Battle Creek and the Binder Park Zoo. Rubena states you will see two red pandas while there and I'm sure there will be a stop for filling your tummy. More next week. Give Erma a ring to reserve your spot.

JV Footballers Romp Clinton

—Jon Hardenbergh

JV FOOTBALL ACTION — #36 Brad Davis Motors

This season-opener in Clinton began as the Brad Davis Show. Brad took our first offensive play following a penalty 35 yards into the endzone. Shortly thereafter, Brad raced 32 yards for paydirt. Before the first quarter ended, Brad plowed in from one yard out. I guess it was time for someone else to work the sphere.

Mike Barnard scooted left and ran 15 yards for a second quarter T.D. Brad got back into the action with a 23-yard third quarter score. Our Dutch attack ended with Shane Goodell's fourth quarter 25-yard run. Jeremy Strook left-toed three of four extra points to cap the 39-0 shutout.

Brad Davis had 11 carries for 123 yards and four touchdowns to be named Coach Jim Fielder's offensive pick of the game. Running back Mica Pucas gained a respectable 77 yards. Coach Fielder said his defense performed well but three individuals were outstanding: Brandon Woods, J.D. Gould and Andy Winzenz.

Village GDP Public Workshop II Scheduled for Sept. 17

The Village of Manchester Planning Commission is conducting a series of public workshops as part of the Village's General Development Plan revision process. The current General Development Plan was adopted in 1967, and is being revised to reflect the many changes which have occurred within the Village since that time.

In order to develop a plan which represents the community's vision of its future, the Planning Commission is seeking citizen input, and encourages all citizens interested in contributing to the General Development Plan to attend at least one public workshop.

Public Workshop I was held Tuesday, May 28, 1991. At this workshop the community planning issues which need to be addressed in the General Development Plan were identified.

Public Workshop II is scheduled for Tuesday, September 17, 1991 at the Knights of Columbus Hall located at 106 East Madison, Manchester, Michigan.

The purpose of the second workshop is to develop community goals and policies to guide future land use and development within the Village. The Planning Commission wishes to stress that attendance at the first public workshop is not a prerequisite for attendance at future General Development Plan Workshops.

For more information, please call Bob Daverman, Village Planning Commission Chairman at 428-9367 (evenings) or Emily Palacios of Carlisle Associates at 662-2200 (days).

Historical Society to Hold First Fall Meeting September 17

The public is invited to attend the first fall meeting of the Manchester Area Historical Society on September 17 at 7:30 p.m. in the Blacksmith's Shop.

The main item of business will be the election of officers for the coming year. Excerpts of two videotapes made in July will be shown. The portion of the July 4th program honoring those who served in Desert Storm will be shown as well as an excerpt from the rededication of the athletic field. Please join us.

Disciplinary Action Taken by Board of Ed

At a special meeting of the Manchester Community Schools' Board of Education Monday night, official disciplinary action was administered to the four students involved in the vandalism of the bus fleet on May 19, 1991.

On the morning of Monday, May 20, 1991, it was discovered by a school employee that there had been vandalism to the tires of Manchester Schools' bus fleet. Sixteen of the eighteen buses received irreparable damage to 72 tires with an estimated replacement value of $14,500. The Board of Education has determined that, effective immediately, two of the students involved as accomplices will be suspended from Manchester High School and not take part or attend any school function for the first semester of the 1991-92 school year. They will be permitted to return to Manchester High School on Monday, January 20, 1992. The Board has also determined that, effective immediately, the two students who were the actual perpetrators of the crime be permanently expelled from Manchester High School and all school activities.

Teacher Contracts Ratified

Also on Monday night, the Board ratified the teacher contract with the Washtenaw Livingstone Education Association/ MEA/NEA. The action by the Board followed ratification by the teachers on September 5, 1991. Superintendent Niedzwiecki reviewed the changes in the new three year agreement which include: procedures for payment of association dues; request for change of class; unused personal business days will be added to sick leave accumulation and the clarification of grievance procedures.

Niedzwiecki identified two new articles in the agreement dealing with school improvement and special education. Both parties recognize the importance of a collaborative effort toward improvement process and the involvement of teachers in school improvement planning is voluntary. The article dealing with special education acknowledges the mandate for a least restrictive environment and emphasizes the role of the Individual Education Planning Committee and the special and general education teachers.

Salary adjustments in the new agreement for 1991-92 is a 7% increase; 1992-93 is 6% and in 1993-94 is also 6%.

The 1991-92 school calendar reflects an increase in instructional time by converting two half days into full days. There will be an additional evening for parent/teacher conferences in the spring and all students will be on the same schedule eliminating the need to double run the bus fleet four times a year. School will end on Friday, June 5, 1992.

President Sahakian expressed her appreciation to both the Association and Board representatives for their effort in reaching an agreement in a timely manner.

Human Services Site May Open

The Washtenaw County Human Services Department has proposed to open a service site in Manchester, contingent on the approval of the senior citizens in the community, designed to assist those with special needs in receiving help.

The Human Service Pilot Program, which would be located in the Manchester Senior Citizen's Building, would include a team of two staff members scheduled one day each week, tentatively on Wednesdays, with additional specialized staff brought in for appointments. As the program gets underway, evaluations will be conducted at the first six month and again at the one year interval to assure peoples' needs are being met.

The site staff would conduct integrated initial assessment, limited eligibility determinations and screening for service needs, work on special and emergency needs, develop initial action plans, schedule appointments and make referrals.

When a client comes to the site, he/she will be asked to complete a checklist assessing their individual needs. After a conference with the staff member, the client will be asked to complete another form to determine what he/she is eligible for according to income, assets, age and disability standards.

The staff will then work on meeting any emergency needs first, such as arranging for food or medical help. Then a plan of action will be conducted to meet the client's needs on a longer term basis.

In short, the staff would act as a liaison between the client and appropriate community agencies and offices. The point is to offer services locally making the task more accessible for residents.

Any western county resident
