John Emory Irwin, Grandfather of Donald Irwin, Sharon Township resident enlisted in Michigan State Service, Civil War, July 27, 1862 and was mustered out May 30th, 1865. John and his brother James Leman Irwin, who was fatally wounded June 18, 1864, served the Union Forces.

We have used various letters in the past and we are indebted to Don for sharing John's letters with us. The Civil war was a very tumultuous time in the history of our Country and we hope some of these letters convey those times in our Nations history.

Near Falmouth, Va., January 1, 1863.

Dear Mother -

I wish you a Happy New Year and all our folks and as I have spent it rather happily, I'll write you a letter yet before the mail goes out, if I can, for I begin to realize how well you must like to hear from us.

Leman is putting up a log shanty today, to make his quarters more comfortable and home like, though nothing can make a soldier's camp appear like the home he left behind him.

I wrote you when I first got here and Leman wrote about the same time, and I believe I wrote again shortly after, and this makes the third. Your letters don't get stale, do mine? I always wish they were as long again and came as often again; do write as often as you can, or at least as often as you get one from us. The only aggravation is that it takes so long to get an answer direct Piesse deliver this copy of THE MANCHESTER ENTERPRISE to Wanchester Township Library P.O. Box 540 Manchester, MI 43158 to the letters we write.

I got a shirt and pair of drawers washed, and a pair for Horace, the other day, paying 25 cents as they were all long worn. We can't get any thing here without paying for it. We had an excellent New Year's dinner consisting principally of bean soup, boiled meat, toasted hard tack and a little butter, and then we had cold gander for supper --- or rather the remains of our dinner - and I spliced mine out with a few high priced apples and a little cheese.

I spent part of the afternoon over at the 17th. I saw Maltman and Pyron Fellows and George Hathaway and withal, had a very good visit. The 79th New York Highlanders are also in our Brigade and lay within forty or fifty rods of our camp, as is also the 8th Michigan. Horace hasn't heard from his folks and he begins to feel uneasy and I can't help but think how often ten days intervene between the letters i get from home. But I don't mean to complain too much; I know you're very busy and Father don't pretend to write to anybody. Just now I suppose I'm in peculiarly happy circumstances. I've nothing under the sun to do but cook my own victuals and eat them and as my appetite is pretty good the last operation isn't attended with any very disagreeable sensations.

I saw Jake Benzler of the 4th Michigan, the other day, he came to my tent and made quite a visit. He was well and hearty, though he has seen some pretty hard fare. Please send me a pocket calendar for 1863. I wrote you of the promotion of Capt. Cutcheon and on Christmas day both of ours were promoted and S. H. Rowe to 2nd Lieutenant, which relieves him of the labor a very hard post and gives him a very easy one with quite an increase of pay. I think of nothing else. Excuse my short letter and write often.

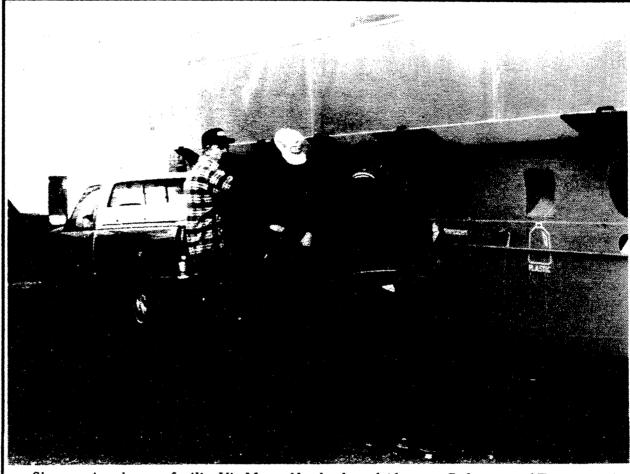

Yours Affectionately,

E. J. Irwin

The poor blacks are to be free from today, I suppose, according to the President's message. I rejoice at this for them their liberty yet, it is now committed to a policy which secures them from its oppression. We were mustered for pay yesterday, but we have been mustered before for pay since we came down here and we don't expect pay yet; whether we get any the future must develop:

Write often. Yours, E. J. I.

Western Washtenaw Recycling Authority to Hold Grand Opening of MRF

The public is invited to attend the Western Washtenaw Recycling Authority's (WWRA) grand opening of its Materials Recovery Facility (MRF) at the Chelsea landfill on Werkner Road on Saturday, January 16, 1993 from 10:00 a.m. - noon. A ribbon cutting ceremony will include the local Authority board and management, officials from State and local governments and the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) and the Authority education committee. Special activities will also be held from noon - 2:00 p.m. at the nine drop-off sites located in Bridgewater, Dexter, Lima, Lyndon, Manchester and Sylvan townships.

This event will be the official launch of the area's recycling program which is funded by a $400,000 grant from the State of Michigan, Solid Waste Alter-

The villages of Manchester and Chelsea have had curbside recycling since this summer. Residents have been able to put their glass and cans in recycling buckets at the curb for pickup. This will continue with pickup every Wednesday. Township residents will have one or two drop-off sites located in their communities

Both the MRF and drop-off sites will collect the same materials: clear, green and brown glass; steel cans (ones that attract a magnet); plastic withe the

Anyone who brings their recyclable's to the MRF or the drop-off sites during the grand opening, will receive a coupon for $.25 off a gallon of milk. Eight area merchants will participate, Chelsea Pharmacy, Pollys Market, North Lake Party Store, Walco Foods, Schneiders Grocery, Portage Lake Trading Post and Vogel's Party Store. Volunteers will be at the MRF between 10:00 a.m. and noon and the drop-off sites between noon and 2:00 p.m. to assist residents with any questions and distribute the coupons.

"Educating the residents is a key element to the success of our program", stated Sybil Kolon, Ed. Committee Chair.

Writings from the Klager Kids

Last week, we featured the writings of the Klager Kids from Mrs. Bowden's class and Mrs. Rose's class. These writings were included in the "Klager Kids' Korner" newsletter, December edition. We continue this week with three more classes: Mrs. Lowery's. Mrs. Shaw's, and Mrs. VanRaden's)

Decorating a Christmas tree is a lot of fun and easy. First put on the star. Next put on the garland. Then put on all the lights and the bubble lights. Then put on all the big ornaments and then the little ones. After that we put on the tinsel, candy canes and colored string. Next comes the bulbs that say when we were born. (Mrs. Shaw's Class) Footprints in the snow.

One night, I went outside. I saw these footprints. So I followed the tracks. I stopped at the end of the driveway. Then I went on from there. I walked down the road and I saw dog prints on the cat prints, well they looked like cat prints. They went into the woods. I went in the woods.I got to a tree and the dog prints went one way and the cat prints went the other way. I went the direction the dog prints were going. I came to an icy cold pond. The dog prints went across the icy cold pond. Once again I followed the dog prints. I slipped and fell on the icy cold pond. I finally got across the icy cold pond. I came to a cliff and it was wall. Drywall will only be as good as the wall framing members are true, straight and plumb. Board hangers will use materials that are longer than the wall element. Glue and screw nails or drywall screws should be used on ceilings. If a stud or joist is missed that nail should be pulled. Some board hangers will not nail within 8 inches of a corner at the ceiling line. They will allow the ceiling board to rest on the wall board such that the tape and mud maintain the corner integrity. This can eliminate nail pop's in the corners.

Interior finish trim comes in a wide variety of styles and widths. Interior doors and door finish will help determine what kind of trim is used. I chose natural finish, pre-hung oak the first coat of paint. Lightly

Your painter will prime. caulk and paint all joints, nail holes and surface irregularities. A lot of people do their own painting to save money. Nothing wrong with that but use a good quality of paint and use the same brand of primer and paint. Carefully sand the raw wood with fine sand paper, prime, caulk, re-sand before you apply

The best drywall construction look good unless the painting is carefully done.

Closet shelves and closet clothing rods can be built of board or plywood. Now on the market are wire shelving that is hung from the walls. We used this in the pantry and master bedroom closet. Saves time, is pre-finished and looks great. Not cheap however.

Stairways and railings are treated in a variety of ways also. If you intend to cover the treads with carpet five quarter material is used. This will save some money for material but the carpet cost will offset any savings. If wood steps are what you want

Editorial / Opinion

Dear Manchester Enterprise Editor,

I am President of the Washtenaw County Vietnam Veterans of America, Chapter #310. We are a chapter of the only congressionally recognized national Veterans organization that deals specifically with Vietnam Veterans and the issues pertaining to them. We need some help to grow.

We were chartered in the Spring of 1987. We currently have just over 100 members. They live in every community in Washtenaw County. We do not have our own meeting place, but we think that we have been and are the most active Veterans organization in the county. We march in most of the patriotic parades in the county throughout the year. We do many community-oriented things, like providing food and clothes for needy veteran families, build wheel chair ramps, put on the largest entertainment show at the Ann Arbor VA Medical for the hospitalized veterans each year, built the county Vietnam Veterans Memorial, etc. There seems little that we cannot accomplishonce we make it a goal.

We want to do more for our community. And we could, if

by gar

A friend recently gave me a small framed verse that has some very profound thoughts. I wish to share this with you. The author is unknown and is not on the print.

"One Day At A Time

There are two days in every week about which we should not worry; two days which should be kept free from fear and apprehension.

One of these days is Yesterday, with its mistakes and cares. ts faults and blunders, its aches and pains. Yesterday has passed orever beyond our control. All the money in the world cannot bring back yesterday. We cannot undo a single act we performed; we cannot erase a single word.... Yesterday is Gone!

The other day we should not worry about is tomorrow with its possible burdens, its large promise and poor performance Tomorrow is also beyond our immediate control; Tomorrow's sun will rise, either in splendor or behind a mask of clouds.... but t will rise. Until it does, we have no stake in Tomorrow, for it

This leaves only one day... Today! Any Man can fight the battle of just one day. It is only when you and I have the burdens of those two awful eternities, Yesterday and Tomorrow.... that

It is not the experiences of Today that drives men mad... if is the remorse or bitterness for something which happened Yesterday and the dread of what Tomorrow may bring.

Let us, therefore, live one day at a time."

Board Perspective

The Manchester Enterprise January 7, 1993

Today our children's education is more important than ever before. Our children will become the grandparents and greatgrandparents to the people of the 22nd century! With technology exploding, stiff world marketing competition and the need for highly skilled workers, our chidren's education must be second to none.

First, our children need a firm foundation of the basics, READ-ING, WRITING and MATH-EMATICS. This foundation wiil provide a base to build their rock, composed of knowledge and wisdom. The classes in junior and senior high school are the major components of this rock.

Second, we need highly devoted, skilled teachers. Teachers who work with their students. Teachers who care about their students. Teachers who communicate with their students and teachers who can inspire their students. Today, we are fortunate to have many great teachers that possess these qualities.

Third, we need the most important part of education for our children. It is not programs, buildings or teachers. It is the parents. The parents of the child have the most power and responsibility in educating a child. What is important to the parent is important to the child. What a parent does is what a child does. You see, things are not taught to children they are caught by children. Remember when you were a child -- something in one sentence your parents said-the words hit you and you can remember to this day. You were not taught it you caught

What minor points do you make? What values, beliefs and priorities do you convey? Big and small things children secretly pick up. What pants pocket you keep your change in? What pocket does your child keep change in? What you communicate and focus on by John Hochstetler that's important to you is important to your children.

Is your communication focused on work, boats, new car? Then your children will catch that. To visit the school one or two times a year and 363 days a year not mention it, discuss it in a positive way, or stop by school to see how things are going with your children-guess what they catch -that's right, education's not important! What a tragedy.

The highest taxes, the best buildings, and the newest books can be for naught. Do you see how important a parent is? Nothing can compare with a parent that cares. Do you really care about your child's education? Invest in our child's education. Talk to them, ask of them, communicate with them, come to school with them, and be with them. Get involved in school. Put your heart in school for where your heart is, is where you will be and your children right behind you. Lead the way, for the children of the 22nd century want and deserve wonderful great-grandparents. Your children need you!

I wish you well, my friends. Manchester Community Schools newsletter, December issue)

What every young driver desperately needs to know

Every week, auto accidents wipe out the equivalent of an entire senior class at a typical American high school. More than 6000 people between ages 15 and 20 are killed on roadways each year.

Alcohol is often assumed to be behind the shocking statistics. But in two-thirds of the cases-including the ones that follow—drinking plays no role. Instead, the culprit is an equally deadly concoction of carelessness, overconfidence and inexperience. Each day many good, decent young people simply make lethal mistakes.

On his 16th birthday, Greg Burris saw a dream come true. His parents presented him with his mother's five year-old Chevy Blazer. The gift culminated many happy years shared by the Burrises and their son—including his record as a dependable and well-respected student at-Lincoln High School in Tallahassee, Fla.

As a new driver, youngster proved to be as reliable as his parents had hoped. He was always home by his curfew.

The Burrises were proud of their son. The gift of the Blazer was a tangible expression of their trust in this boy who, to them, was so big-hearted and squaredaway that life's possibilities seemed limitless. On the evening of Saturday, May 9, 1992—one day after his 17th birthday Greg did not come home from a baby-sitting job at the agreed hour of 11 p.m. A little later, irritated, Greg's father drove by the house where his son had been. It was dark.

Returning home, Paul noticed a patrol car parked in the shadows across the street. He watched as a trooper walked slowly toward him. Paul was suddenly jolted by the sickening realization that his life had changed forever. "I'm sorry," the trooper said, "but your son's been in a fatal accident." In ror, she made a U-turn and stunned silence, Paul wondered,

Financial Aid Program Available at High School

Each year Grand Valley State University provides Manchester High School with a free computer program called 'Financial Aid Need Analysis Program." This easy-to-use program will calculate accurately what a family will be expected to pay for a year of college for their son or daughter.

The program follows the financial aid forms, takes 20-30 minutes to run and requires no previous computer experience. It runs on an IBM or IBM-compatible computer. The financial aid program can be used at the high school or signed out to be used at home or at work.

The Financial Aid Need Analysis Program is a valuable tool n helping parents plan for financing their student's college education. It is especially recommended for parents of seniors who are not sure whether they want to fill out financial aid forms for next year. For these parents it will tell them whether or not completing financial aid forms will be beneficial. It can also be used by parents of seniors who definitely plan to fill out financial aid forms but would like to have a head start in planning the process and finding out where they stand financially. A third group of parents who could benefit from this program is parents of underclassmen who are planning for the future and trying to learn how they can help meet the ever-increasing costs of attending college.

Please call the guidance office (428-8274) to use or sign out the Financial Aid Need Analysis Program or to find out more information about it.

By the time Renee Montoya graduated from high school in Oxnard, California, an everchanging parade of young men had passed through the Montoya household, seeking her attention. Finally, Renee settled on one suitor, George Mejia a shy, dark-haired youth with a warm smile.

On the afternoon of March 21, 1992, the couple set out for a party. Renee was at the wheel of her mother's small Ford Escort. Very cautious as a driver, she rarely crossed intersections that didn't have a traffic light. She hated high-speed roads. On this day, she was on a typical, frenzied California highway.

Apparently deciding to take a shortcut, Renee left the highway too soon. Realizing her erwaited at a stop sign for northcross back to the southbound lanes. Her sisters say it is possible that she had never crossed Stephanie McCue, a sophomore, was oblivious to what was considered "in" by the Hutchinson (Kansas) High cliques, she dressed in unusual hats and gaily colored tunics.

Marlee Bretz was a gifted musician and had won statewide voice, flute and piano awards. The attractive junior planned to become a pediatrician, but she was a talented actress as well.

Lisa Steinert, a sophomore, threw herself into everything with enthusiasm.

On the evening of February 14, 1992, the three girls piled into Stephanie's 1977 Datsun sedan to deliver Valentines to friends. They drove through the moonless night along State Highway 61, parallel to a railroad track they needed to cross.

Begin the year with God

Epiphany is a season of light

Epiphany is a season of worship because it deals with the Glory of God manifested in

The season begins with the Wise Men coming to worship the newborn King. The season ends with the worship experience on the mount of Transfiguration.

When people see Jesus as God's Son, they instinctively fall down to worship him as Lord. The name "Epiphany" means "Manifestation." The light manifests itself in the darkness, God reveals himself in Jesus, and the glory of God is seen in Jesus.

The Epiphany season extends from six to nine Sundays. The number of weeks observed depends upon the date of Easter and the beginning date of Lent.

Epiphany is a season of light, the light that shines and reveals. The symbol is the Epiphany Star. The light burns so that all may see truth and the way to God.

Epiphany is the time for emphasis upon evangelism, the telling of the Good News, the spreading of the light of Christ in a dark world. Christ is the light and Christians need to reflect that light in the world. We are light-bearers.

The Mancester High School volleyball team played in the really didn't know what we were Bedford tournament on Saturday. We tied for second place in our pool. However, we didn't eled to Concord for our first make it to quarter finals because tournament. We pulled in on we were beat on total points Saturday with a partial team of scored by Plymouth-Salem, a 11 wrestlers, many of them with Class A school, who was also in little experience. But we a 5-3 tie. The highlight of the wrestled very well, placing 10 tournament was when we beat Bedford, another Class A school, 15-13.

We need to work on defense and being consistent. Top players for the day were Adrienne Wallace with 26 kills and 82% setting proficiency.

Sarah Riske had 18 kills and led us in serving with seven aces and 88% proficiency.

Tracy LaRue also had a good setting day with 92% accuracy. Kathleen Baran led the way in passing with a 76% accuracy mark.

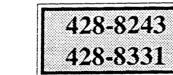

Our next game will be Monday, January 11 at home vs Milan. Please come and show your support.

Chairman Fish reported no response received from Genpack regarding a request from Planning Commission for an updated site plan. Further contact will be

The Zoning Administrator raised the issue of informing township residents of the requirements concerning zoning and building permits for all structures within the township. In addition possible penalties for residents who fail to obtain proper permits prior to construction were discussed.

Motion by Dull, support by Peacock, that Planning Commission strongly recommends that the Township Board consider that the township fee

Chairman Fish called the schedule should include a penalty fee of at least double the permit fee or more for structures which are constructed without The proposed agenda for the proper zoning and building permits within Bridgewater Township. Further, that this penalty fee should be made part of the township fee schedule at a future date following public notices of these requirements and the implementation date in the newspapers of circulation within the township. the one they were approaching had no gates or lights; only a black-lettered "Railroad Crossing" sign warned motorists of potential danger.

At 8 p.m., Frank Hoffman, who lives near the crossing. heard a train whistle pierce the night in long, urgent blasts. Glancing out his window, he saw the Datsun approach the tumoff, slightly ahead of the three-quarter-mile-long train. Then the car turned right and headed straight for the crossing without stopping. A split second later he heard an ear-splitting boom. Brakes squealing, the 3000-horsepower locomotive crushed the Datsun like a tin can and pushed it over a thousand feet along the tracks before dropping it into a ditch. The three girls died instantly. Devastated family members, friends and officials tried to piece together what had happened. The Datsun had no mechanical problems. The train's light and

Perhaps the car radio blocked out the sound of the train's whistle. Possibly, when the girls turned toward the tracks, the locomotive was already so close they could no longer see its headlight towering two stories above them. Or maybe they simply weren't paying attention. One thing is certain: they had violated the first commandment of crossing railway tracks: stop, look and listen.

"Until you have been asked to identify your own child's body," Stephanie's mother would later explain, "you do not know the meaning of heartbreak." Marlee's room—a friendly clutter of musical scores and family photographs has been left untouched since her death.

Lisa's parents worry about the effect of the tragedy on their youngest child, four-year-old Becky, who idolized her big sister. For a while the little girl was haunted by nightmares of a train with a big mouth that chased her. She has since gained a haunting insight into her own mortality. "How old," she asks,

Kim hugged her mother goodby, and the two teen-agers drove to Chad's house, where he presented Kim with a dozen red roses. "We're going to the movies," they told Chad's father, Gary. "We'll be back around midnight."

Chad and Kim made a striking couple. A high-school senior in Edgewood, Md., Chad was five-foot-eleven, with blond hair and blue eyes. Kim, a trim fivefoot-six sophomore, had dark eyes and ebony hair and a sprinkling of freckles across her

Chad put in long hours at the supermarket his uncle managed, and with his earnings had bought his father's 1985 Plymouth Laser. He wouldn't let anyone smoke or drink in it, and he insisted everyone wear seat belts. If Chad had a weakness, it was speed. Sometimes he liked to show off, squealing the wheels when he left a parking lot.

Kim, like Chad, was an honor student. She often had to study late at night because she was on both the soccer and cheerleading teams. After seeing The Hand That Rocks the Cradle that Valentine's night, Chad took a new route back home. Unfamiliar with the two-lane country road, which was wet from a recent rain, he approached a curve too fast. Police estimate he was traveling 60 in a 40-m.p.h. zone. Skid marks indicate he jammed the brakes instead of pumping them. The car slid across the road, climbed an embankment and slammed into a utility pole.
