Cecelia Chapin

Cecelia Chapin passed away Sunday, September 25, 1994.

Cecelia Chapin was the Feature Editor of the Manchester Enterprise from March 18, 1971 thru May 20, 1976. Her feature articles included, "Welcome!" in which she introduced and interviewed new families moving into the area and "Do you remember?", which was a look back at what was in the Enterprise that same month in prior years. She wrote articles about the history of buildings and notable people in Manchester. "This and That", "More This and That" dealt with some of her life experiences. "Here and There" concerned vacations made by local resi-

Even after she was no longer listed as the Feature Editor, she provided a few more articles to the Enterprise. I have selected those articles which I thought

IROC: The Super Sniffer

Last Thursday, September 22, The Washtenaw County Sheriff Department in cooperation with Officer Chuck Gauss of the Taylor Police Department and his partner, "Iroc", conducted a search of the lockers and perimeter of Manchester High School.

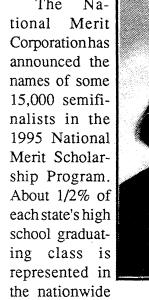

Iroc is a dog who has been trained since the age of six months as a "full service" animal who does everything except bombs. In this instance, Iroc was expected to sniff out the potential of drugs within the high school corridors.

The Enterprise reporters were invited by Sgt. Haensler and Deputy Deacons to come to the High School and document the search, which had been requested by administrators Russ Cecelia 'Cele' Chapin, the LeBlanc and Dave Swanson. Officer Gauss, who had attended Police Academy with Deacons and had, coincidentally, been on the Manchester Police Department prior to the village's contract with the WCSD, volunteered his own and Iroc's time to come out and do the search.

Gauss explained to us in advance that. "We'll go very works best that way." After a Not, a 'proud' person, in the few quiet commands, they were

Hello everyone. I have been asked by the Enterprise to write a monthly column about concerns that citizens in the community have expressed to me.

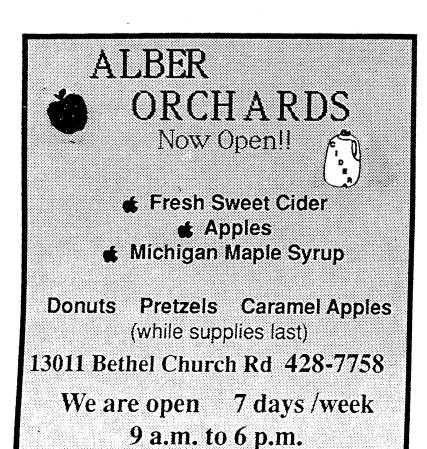

The first area I would like to talk about this month is cooperation with the crossing guards. Since the beginning of the school year, we have had four close calls. On four different occasions, motorists thought they did not have to stop for the crossing guard.

I want to remind everyone that the crossing guard has the right to stop traffic, and it is your responsibility to stop. On two occasions, motorists have received violations for not stopping. Not stopping for the crossing guard is a violation which cannot be overlooked, because the consequences can

So please, give the crossing guard a break and obey their directions. After all, it's the safety of our children that is at stake. Last but not least, I want to thank all the motorists who are courteous and obey the crossing guard.

I would appreciate hearng your comments on this article, or any other community issues. You can drop off you respones to me at the Sheriff's sub-station or at the Village

Deputy Kevin Deacons had a busy day on Sunday. It began early in the day with a call from Emanuel Church. Deputy Deacons asked the Enterprise to publicize that anyone who was parked at any of the places where crimes were committed between Friday evening and Sunday morning and notices damage

Klager PTO representatives were "elated" that the items were recovered so quickly by local deputies. It was noted by Deacons that one of the suspects was technically entitled to the $50.00 reward offered by the PTO for the information he provided leading to the suspects in this crime, but by agreement of his parents, he will not be claiming the reward.

Under the heading of "MORE THIS and THAT", By C. Chapin, Cele told the story of a trip she and Bob took in Canada during the gas shortage of 74.

"With enough gas to get to Windsor we carefully checked to see if Canada had plenty of gas. Never mind the weather. The sun shone and the roads were clear. Plenty of gas we were assured. The price a little high I thought, and asking about this got confusing. "Isn't sixty cents a gallon a lot?" I said.

There is a certain sort of condescending look on a husbands face when he knows about things that women don't understand. "You have to remember, that there are five quarts to a gallon here, so it isn't really that bad" he says.

Down the express way— — Onward to Niagara Falls— —The Shops are open—— Plenty of gas too. So I said (having been doing some thinking meantime) "Listen, I don't understand this. If we have four quarts to a gallon and they have five quarts to a gallon, then it's still a gallon and it's the same gallon and the same amount then the price is still sort of high".

With that same sort of look on his face I was told "You just don't understand.'

twig has a coating of thick frost, so heavy one is amazed to think that the spring will find them alive and blooming. Back indoors to get a view from warmth. Let's try the Skylon, the tower with the revolving restaurant at top The elevator is on the outside and very smooth quick trip it is too! I know, because I held my breath the whole way. While husband is hearing about the suicides from this tower, and because I don't want to hear the story, I've been thinking again. I know how to cope. One has only to think it through. So I ordered American Fries. "What you mean" the waitress says "Is that you want Cottage Fries".

Well of course, when the potatoes arrived they were chunks. Potatoes quartered and warmed and sprinkled with what must have been paprika, for they were red.

Undaunted and game to the last round, I shook my head and began to think again. This was easy for the blizzard had begun and the five hour drive home was such to keep my eves closed and leave the driving to that man who knows so

But there was plenty of gas. Privately I still thought that something was wrong. If I take a pie and cut six pieces and another pie and cut eight pieces then certainly I got more pieces but it was the same pie. When I shyly and in a very humble voice tried to use this to explain my ignorance, it turned out that there are SIX AMERICAN quarts to an Imperial gallon. Well!!!!

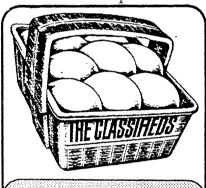

The college son maintaining vigilance over the disorder at the Homestead, seemed in good form and receptive to conversation. "Tell me" I said "About this difference in quarts and gallons". So he did. The thing is, you see, that he is the members of the greater my son, and has not learned to use that smug expression when talking to the woman who raised him. "The problem as I see it Mother" he says, "Is that you should get the amounts memorized. There are four American quarts to an American gallon, Five American quarts to an Imperial gallon The Imperial gallon is used there. However when you need a tankful it would be easier to order eight Imperial gallon which is a firkin. You just drive right in and say "Give me an Imperial firkin please".

So you see a college education is of great value and travel is truly broadening Bigger potatoes and fatter gallons. Higher prices too.'

Cele was a Grand Lady with a fantastic sense of humor but Cele was "Tough" also. She found the 'incompetence and idiosyncracies' in a public school official and took him to task, in a very unpopular stand. A lot of critism was leveled at her but when the facts came to light. Cele's stand was vindicated. She never said "I told you so" but her involvement took a lot of courage the first year. Ahhh, much better.

Typical APŘ (annual percentage rate) includes interest on loan and other fees. and is based on a $100,000 loan with an 80% loan-to-value ratio. The APR may increase after closing. Interest rates and terms are subject to change at any time brought teachers out into the hall wondering what was going on.

The dog jumped, barked, cried, scratched, bit, and snarled at the locker. Although Gauss instructed him to, "Check here - check here check this one" at the neighboring lockers, there was obviously no doubt in Iroc's mind that THIS locker was the one he was looking for. A search of the locker revealed no drugs, but Gauss noted that there was obviously some "heavy residue" on clothing or books. While the search was conducted on that locker, Gauss threw Iroc a ball which he played with like any puppy.

Another quick pass down the other hallways revealed a "slight residue" in a second locker, and also pointed out the locker of a third student who is known to be required to take prescription drugs. At each locker, however, Iroc's reaction was repeated, with fierce barking, scratching and biting at the questionable locker. For Gauss, it was easy to measure the intensity of each "hit" by Iroc's reaction, but for us novices, each one set our hearts pounding and our nerves on edge.

At the end of the hallways, Gauss said to Iroc, "No more work - you're all done." and threw out the ball again. Once more, the ferocious this documents what we drug-sniffing dog was a learned in a recent survey - team since April of 1990. happy puppy.

shade outside with his ball. Gauss explained to us a little bit about his partner. They work 40-60 hours a week in are two two-man teams plus 5-6 blocks of a highly populated area. Unfortunately, this area also contains a lot of drugs.

Gauss has had Iroc since he was six months old. "He goes home with me, lives with me, sleeps with my kids. But no one else handles him." They started out from scratch, training together, and have been working as a tasks, then goes on to repetition of equipment. For example, he has a nylon collar when he is supposed to be tracking drugs. When he is doing suspect tracking, he wears a leather harness.

Iroc is also trained in handler protection. He gave us a very graphic demonstration as Gauss held him close on a leash and gave another quick, quiet command. Suddenly, this playful (albeit large) puppy, who 30 seconds before had been quietly playing ball, turned into a vicious, snarling animal - warning us away from his partner. Not one of the officers, administrators, or intrepid reporters would have dared go anywhere near Officer Gauss. Then, another quiet command. "OK, now you can come and pet him." Nervous laughter from the peanut gallery. Are you kidding?"No, really. Come on this is the dog that sleeps down. with my kids."' Well, I confess, I had to prove I was braver than those men. I petted Iroc. He licked my hand which could have easily fit in his mouth.

The do you give him to look for community can be proud of drugs? "F-I-N-D. I can't say the word or he'd think we were working again. But I use the F-I-N-D command whether it is drugs or people we are tracking - the difference is in the equipment we the projects in Taylor. There use." I don't think any of us wanted to know the command a dog. They have a "beat" of he uses for handler protection. We didn t need further evidence of his ability to tear us from limb to limb. "He likes his work,"

Gauss told us. "He does all that for a ball. It's fun for him. How many of us would work 40-60 hours per week for the reward of a ball? Most of us want a pay check - or better yet, a bonus. We get to do some interesting stuff, though. We often get called to work with ATF, the DEA or FBI. Whenever someone needs a dog, anywhere in the state, we may get called." The Manchester community can be grateful that Officer Gauss was willing to come out here on his own time to benefit our kids and our school. And although we can be proud of our students, we need to remember that we do still live in the "real world" here in Manchester, and realize that the potential for drug abuse is very real and very threatening to our youth. Please be aware of what your kids are doing, what other kids are doing, and most importantly, talk to your children (and your young adults) about what is happening in their lives and in the lives of those around them. Don't take it for granted that because we live in Manchester we have a magic bubble of protection around us.

Last week, maybe we did. Just don't let your guard

On Thursday, September 22, the freshmen class got just a dose of what high school is really like. During their 5th and 6th hour classes, the freshmen listened to student representatives from each active club at the high school. These representatives spoke about the individual characteristics of their Hanson of Klager. This is a try. She has loved children particular club. This assembly not only proved to be informative, but also fun for all involved. The clubs represented from the high school included: NHS (Mary Lobbestael), SADD (Courtney Bentschneider and Jason Cousino), German Club (Karin Messing), Drama Club (Mary Lobbestael), Key Club (Sarah Feldkamp), and Student Council (Jennifer Sahakian and Courtney Bentschneider). This assembly was organized by the Manchester High School Key Club. Sarah Feldkamp, president, initially thought of the idea as a membership drive for Key Club. After consideration, the club developed the idea into an information session, in which all clubs could participate. This assembly acknowledged many organizations that freshmen weren't aware of. The clubs involved hope that the freshmen will start to develop an interest in the numerous activities offered at

Announcements

Manchester's Fall Bloodmobile

With Fall officially here, it is time to think about the "Fall Bloodmobile". The date is Monday, October, 17; the time is from 1 PM till 7 PM; the place will be St. Mary's Parish Center (a.k.a. the K of C Hall), with the people of St. Mary Catholic Church doing the

Our goal is to collect at least 100 pints of blood. To achieve this, there must be the generosity of the citizens of Manchester.

As is the normal procedure, all of the local churches will have a designated person to do the recruiting of the blood donors. This also should be the same for all of Manchester's local industries. If you work locally, check around for a sign-up sheet or the donor cards. If you don't find either, check with the personnel office.

Besides these means of recruiting, there will be small Red Cross file boxes with cards that can be filled out and left in the box. These boxes will be available at Walco Grocery, Kleinschmidt's Hardware, Great Lakes Bancorp, First of America, Comerica and the Bakers Dozen by September 30. If you are not contacted or work out of town, please take a minute and fill out one of the donors cards so we can schedule you to donate a pint of blood

Before I close off the article, a question that has been bothering the blood drive committee is this - "Where have all of Manchester's donors gone?" It was only ten or twelve years ago that when a blood drive was held here, that more than 200 pints of blood were collected. Now it seems that we are lucky to get 70 pints. WHY? What has changed? We don't have the answer, only the questions. Maybe some one out there has some ideas as to how to bring in more donors. We are always open to suggestions.

Please mark Oct. 17 on your calendar as the day you will be donating that VERY SPECIAL gift of life for another person. See
