John B. Swainson Room Dedicated

Manchester Area Historical Society's John Schneider Blacksmith Shop now houses Swainson's home office and mementos.

Tuesday, November 21 marked the culmination of the efforts of many members, friends and family members in the dedication of The John B. Swainson Room.

Deb Havens, Historical Society President, welcomed some seventy five friends and relatives of Swainson. Rev. Dr. Vincent W. Carroll, Emanuel UCC gave the invocation.

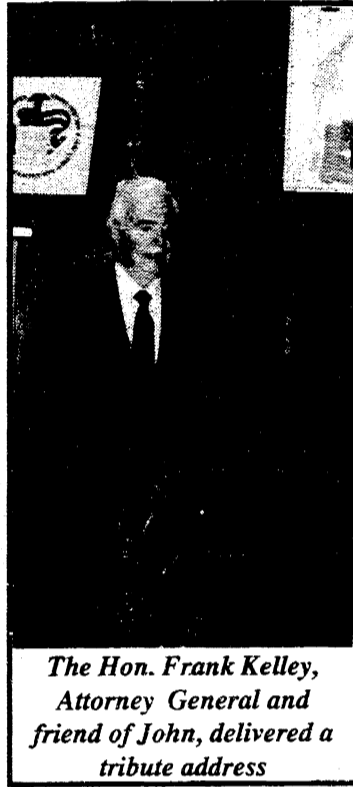

Diane Hough, First Vice President of the Historical Society, introduced Howard Parr, Past President. Howard gave a short history of the Swainson Room. Here are Howard's comments.

"On May 13, 1994 John Swainson didn't get to the Coffee Shop in Manchester. The news that he had finished his earthly course that morning was soon spreading from patron to patron there with disbelief and sadness. After the initial shock was over, it didn't take long for the talk to turn to what he had meant to many of us and how we could memorialize him.

By the September annual meeting, President Reno Feldkamp had a plan in place. The membership present at that meeting unanimously passed a resolution which addressed the issue. The resolution was drafted by President Feldkamp and Secretary Betty Cummings and approved by Board members. John's lifelong service to this State in legislative, executive and judicial branches was acknowledged the Swainson Room dedication

The Hon. Frank Kelley, Attorney General and friend of John, delivered a tribute address recounted. His deep interest in history — particularly Michigan History — was also noted. The resolution added,

'Whereas, He served the local community of Manchester as a Member of the Board of Directors and President of the Manchester Historical Society, led the effort to renovate the Blacksmith Shop, advised and helped local residents and organizations, and was a friend to all; Now, Therefore, Be it Resolved, That the Manchester Area Historical Society dedicate the meeting room in the Blacksmith Shop to the memory of John B. Swainson in recognition of his achievements and that it be known henceforth as the John B. Swainson Room...'

At the conclusion of this same meeting newly elected President Deb Havens quickly appointed a committee to plan any changes needed in the room. Serving with her on this committee were: Sandy Trolz, Tom Walton, John Hinkley and Howard Parr. Three board members were also designated to serve: Reno Feldkamp, Lou Vogel and Loring Ebersole.

At the first committee meeting, exploration of what could be done with the room to improve it was free and far-ranging. Various improvements were agreed upon - lighted display cases, coordinated decor, heating and air conditioning, increased ceiling lighting, removal of wall sconce lighting, open upper shelving, removal of storage closets and use of a track mounted ladder for access to upper shelves. It became apparent that nothing less than a complete renovation would be cost-effective or feasible.

Plans were then reviewed by Alice Swainson to get further input. Contracts were awarded to the following: Norm Walz Construction, General Trades; Manchester Electric, Electrical Trades; John Steele, Mechanical Trades; Don Smith, Painting. John Hinkley agreed to coordinate the work.

What had started out as re-naming the room and making minor adjustments grew into a complete renovation of the room to make it suitable for storage and preservation of any artifacts the Society might have or come into. When it became apparent that a new home was needed for many of John's things, arrangements were made to house many of them here at least on a temporary basis.

I wish to acknowledge tonight the many, many hours that have been put into implementation of this project by John Hinkley, the Architect. Alice Swainson has personally laid out every item now in the Swainson Room. Loring Ebersole, Deb Havens and

Car Strikes Manchester Hotel

On Thanksgiving Day, a vehicle occupied by a two-year-old traveled across Main Street from the Hop-In and hit the front of the Manchester Hotel Building (formerly the Black Sheep Tavern).

The father was inside the Hop-In at the time of the incident and had left the car running. The child bumped the car into gear and it drove across the street, damaging both the car and the large window at 115 E. Main.

This is the second time in less than a year when a car left idling at Hop-In has made its way out of the parking lot. Both times, fortunately, no one was injured; but this time the potential for a child's injury brings the danger more clearly into focus. The possibility exists that another time, someone walking or driving down Main Street could be seriously injured.

Please do not leave your vehicle running while unattended, even for a short time. The danger is not worth the convenience.

Manchester Directories Arrive!

Your wish has come true! How many times have you searched in vain for John Smith from Manchester, by looking through the large Ann Arbor telephone directory? The frustration of trying to find local numbers overshadowed by those from a dozen other localities has been a topic of conversation for years, ever since Ameritech changed their directory listings and eliminated the local section.

CRG Directories, a member of the Manchester Area Chamber of Commerce, has published the "Manchester Community Resource Guide," a local Manchester directory of homes, businesses and services in the immediate Manchester area. A street map and street directory are features everyone will find useful, and a Community Guide to the Manchester area will help newcomers get acquainted.

As in any new venture, CRG notes, the first year is the hardest. Many have already noted outdated or incorrect listings. Next year's edition will be improved by the addition of more accurate listings, more advertisers and more information about the community. However, don't miss this first edition, as you will find it an invaluable guide to our community.

The Manchester Community Resource Guide arrived in your mailbox last week. If by chance you need an additional copy, please stop by the Village Office at 120 S. Clinton Street. Extra copies of the directory will arrive within a week or so. If you find an error in your listing, please contact CRG directly at 1-800-382-0769.

Sports vs. Scholars

Everybody Wins!

by Lois Hochstetler

Mr. John Easley came to Manchester in August of 1995. At that time The Enterprise introduced him to the community. We went back to visit with him and find out how he likes Manchester now that he's had time to settle in, and what changes, if any, are needed.

Mr. Easley was hired as the Athletic Director/Assistant Principal. As Athletic Director he heads all student sports. Our sports roster is full, with Varsity and Junior Varsity Football, Varsity and JV Girls Basketball, Cross Country, Freshman, Varsity and JV Boys Basketball, Varsity and JV Cheerleading, Wrestling, Varsity and JV Volleyball, Golf, Varsity and JV Softball and Baseball and Track. If this weren't enough to keep him busy, he also has duties as Assistant Principal. As such, he helps Mr. John Korican (interim High School Principal), keep track of student absences, supervises detention students, and occasionally fills in for an absent teacher. Mr. Easley likes Manchester and after talking with him, I hope he stays here for quite some time.

Spend some time with Mr. Easley and you will find a man who is dedicated and enthusiastic about sports, but who also demands academic success. He believes that students who are involved in sports do better scholastically. This is backed up by statistics. "It's been proven nationally as well as here in Manchester, that 60% of students who participate in a sport carry a 3.0 grade point average or better," states Mr. Easley. "I would like to see more students who participate in the fall sports get involved in the winter and spring sports, and continue their academic successes."

In spite of these statistics, Manchester still has quite a few athletes "doing minutes". Doing what? If a student gets a D+ or lower grade in a class, or is failing a class, school policy requires that the student serve 100 minutes with Mr. Easley or a teacher. Currently, students serving minutes are grouped together with students serving detention. The students serving minutes are required to bring a book or assignment from the problem class.

However, are these kids really studying or are they just "putting in time?" Many believe it would make more sense if these kids were separated from detention students. Secondly, the students could be grouped together in the classes they are having trouble with. And number three, it may help each group to have a tutor help with that particular area of study.

Mr. Easley has already thought of all these things. "I need to talk to the National Honor Society to see if they would be willing to help, and I do have some phone numbers of parents in the VISA program who are willing to help. I just haven't had the time, yet." Mr. Easley set up a similar program during his previous tenure in Pinckney, but it took him two years to get it organized. He needs that same consideration here in Manchester.

Since it seems we have a lot of students doing minutes, perhaps something more needs to be done. Starting right at the beginning of the season, extra help needs to be given so that students don't get behind and have to do minutes. Mr. Easley is on top of that, too. He is trying to incorporate a study session for athletes, but he cannot at this time make attendance mandatory. This would be for in-season and out-of-season athletes. "For some students 100 minutes is not enough. They need to learn time management and how to study. There is no reason for a student to be ineligible, because there is help available".

There hasn't been enough time for some of the changes Mr. Easley would like to see, but one idea has been implemented already this fall. Students participating in sports while keeping their grade point average at 3.0 or better will receive a scholastic medal along with their certificate from the sport. Easley believes if he expects academic excellence, then it should be rewarded.

A new idea this year which has been inspired by Easley's creativity is a basketball scrimmage between teachers, coaches and players, as a pre-season warm up taking place Monday, November 27. The basketball season will begin next Tuesday, December 5th. Basketball season will be Easley's unofficial "inauguration" as Athletic Director, as football season was already well underway when he arrived late this summer.

It will take time to get our athletic department back to where it should be. As time goes on, academic medals will become the norm instead of for the few. Let's give Mr. Easley the time and the support needed, so that he can institute some new ideas. Time to make these ideas work and our support as tutors or in any other capacity which can help our student athletes.

Our participation can and will make a big difference. Welcome to Manchester, Mr. Easley and good luck for a long and productive tenure.

Out & About

The Historical Society recognized John B. Swainson with the dedication of a room, in his honor, last week at the Schneider Blacksmith Shop.

I thought before the dedication ceremonies began it was altogether fitting and proper that this servant of the people should be recognized in our humble blacksmith shop, of open beams, brick walls and anvil upon the wooden floor.

John B. had on various occasions marveled: "It's absolutely amazing that I, a Democrat, should be accepted and welcomed by this conservative, staunchly Republican enclave of Manchester." Alice, John's lovely wife, spoke at the dedication of his political life. "That John ... loved the game, but that his success brought sacrifice. The thrill of victory and the agony of defeat but, oh, how John had played the game."

Frank Kelley likened John to The Village Blacksmith as written by Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, the last two verses. Toiling - rejoicing - sorrowing, Onward through life he goes; Each morning sees some task begun, Each evening sees its close; Something attempted, something done, Has earned a nights repose. Thanks, thanks to thee, my worthy friend, For the lesson thou hast taught! Thus at the flaming forge of Life

Our fortunes must be wrought; Thus on its sounding anvil shaped Each burning deed and thought!

By word, thought and deed John B. Swainson realized that conservative, largely Republican, Manchester was not unlike the very smithy as Kelley ultimately eulogized him. John B. had his friends and enemies in politics, but here in Manchester he was respected and accepted as a man.

- by gar

For that, we should all be proud.

Bridgewater Township Planning Commission

November 13, 1995
Summary Minutes

Michael and Diane Malone, owners of Rustic Glen Golf Club, were present to update the Planning Commission on their plans for a four-phase expansion of Rustic Glen. The golf course will be expanded from a 9 hole course to 18 holes, and a new clubhouse and parking lot will be constructed. A public hearing may be scheduled for the January 8, 1996 Planning Commission meeting.

The Planning Commission reviewed the first three sections - Agriculture, Open Space, Environment - of the Township Plan. Many items in the plan will need to be considered in the update of the Zoning Ordinance.

It was noted that the Planning Commission does not have information on which farmers are interested in preserving their farms as farming businesses. It was suggested that this may be the time to organize an advisory group of Township farmers.

Review of the Township Plan will continue at the next meeting, which is Monday, December 11, 1995 at 7:30 PM

American Legion Post #117

On Sunday, November 12, 70-80 veterans and their families gathered at the American Legion Hall to participate in a Veteran's Day potluck. Ham and chicken wing-dings were furnished by the Post along with rolls and butter. The meal was further supplemented by delectable hot and cold dishes and desserts by some of Manchester's best cooks.

After this delicious meal was over, membership pins/awards were presented to ten Legion members by Post Commander George Daubner and Post Adjutant Ron Whittington. These awards were presented for continuous membership from 25 years and up, in increments of five years. The recipients were as follows:

25 years: Ron Evilsizer, William Kirk, Gary Wallace and Richard Stein; 30 years: Charles Schiel; 40 years: Norm Walz and Richard Kensler; 50 years: Bud Middlemiss, Bob Huber, and "Doc" Knauss. Hopefully, as the program continues from year to year, all the in-between years will be filled in.

We are grateful to the hall and food committee for all their hard work and thoughtfulness. They are Jay Clouse, Diane Hughes and Laura Deacons.

The day's program ended with a 50/50 drawing won by Leonard Schmidt of Post 282 in Ypsilanti. See you next year on Veterans Day for an even bigger turnout!

Paul Schulte Starts 1995-96 Season as Tournament "MVP"

The warm autumn winds in Southern Illinois were a sharp contrast to the snowy early winter in Manchester, as the first tournament of the Junior Wheel Chair Basketball Season commenced at Southern Illinois University in Carbondale, Illinois. Eight teams came to play including Paul Schulte of Manchester with the Kentwood Junior Pacers of Grand Rapids, Michigan. The first game against the Rollin' Rebels of Chicago, Illinois, proved a real contest, but the Pacers were victorious 58 to 41, with Paul Schulte putting up 32 of the Pacers' points.

The second game was against their old nemesis, the Spaulding Bulldogs (also from Chicago), the team the Pacers beat in a cliff hanger last year 48-47 which bagged the National Championship for the Pacers.

The jinx continued as Paul Schulte got three quick fouls in the first 10 minutes of play and after scoring only 2 points, had to be pulled from the game by coach Lee Montgomery. Lucky for the Pacers, the Bulldogs had lost two of their key players to the collegiate ranks. Paul scored another 10 points in the second half as the Pacers handed a 55 to 24 loss to Spaulding.

The championship game was against the Arkansas Razorbacks, a team with four starters who were taller in their chairs than the Pacers center, and all of whom were good shooters from both inside and outside the paint. But the Pacers had their speed and used it to the utmost as full court press was the name of the game.

"If the big men can't get the ball down the court they can't score" was Coach Montgomery's strategy, and it worked! The defensive emphasis was made with Paul Schulte streaking down the court against the fast breaking Razorback's star player, Steve Tew. As they met near the basket, Paul knew it was late enough in the game to give up a foul and what a foul it was. Both players and chairs went careening into the end line area as everyone watched with excitement for Steve and Paul had been tightly matched the entire game.

Even though Tew was first to make it back up in his chair Paul had made his point - the Pacers had not only come to play, but to win. Final score, Arkansas Razorbacks, 46, Kentwood (Grand Rapids) Junior Pacers, tournament champs at 60.

Both Paul and Steve were voted to the 'all tournament team player' status, but it was Paul who received the trophy for the Tournament MVP.

Manchester Resident Gets A "First in the Country" Option

Lorraine McLaughlin of Manchester was among the first Corvette buyers in the country to take advantage of a new option that allows Corvette buyers to pick up their new cars at the National Corvette Museum in Bowling Green Kentucky, just across the street from the world's only Corvette Assembly Plant.

McLaughlin, who purchased her new '96 Collector's Edition convertible from Tirb Chevrolet, saw her new car for the first time when she and husband James, stepped into the the museum to find his Corvette parked in a special display area, ready to jump in and drive away. A commemorative plaque is available from the local dealer.

The National Corvette Museum, located just one hour north of Nashville on I-65, is across the street from the Corvette Assembly Plant — the only one in the world. The 68,000 sq ft museum, a shrine to America's only true sports car, opened on Labor Day 1994 with more than 4,500 Corvettes arriving in caravans from all across the country.

special delivery room at the Museum Friday morning, November 3.

The new delivery program allows a buyer to order a new Corvette through any local Chevrolet dealer, and specify the option to pick up the new Corvette at the National Corvette Museum. Once the car's approximate build date is determined, the museum finalizes a mutually agreed-upon date with the customer.

The new Corvette is built at the plant and a Bowling Green dealer performs check-in and pre-delivery service. On delivery day, the customer arrives at

The museum has more than 52 vintage, racing and prototype Corvettes on display. The trip to pick up a new Corvette includes a tour of the museum and a tour of the plant to see new Vettes coming down the line.

"We give them a tour of the museum before we show them their car," says Tammy Haddock, National Corvette Museum operations director. "But sometimes they are so excited that they can't wait. It's like trying to keep a kid away from the toys on Christmas morning. So, we take them in and hand them the keys — and they tour the museum later."

SENIOR CITIZENS
News

by Howard Parr

Bud Guest used to talk about "Gumperson's Law". You know, the one that says when you are late all the lights are red; when you are early all the lights are green and stuff like that. I feel a little that way this morning. My good old IBM Selectric isn't working right, so I am using the typewriter from the Senior Center. Every button seems to be in the wrong place—when I want to backspace I hit the carriage return button, etc. We won't even get into how different this one is when I make one of my many mistakes—it is possible to erase on this one, but it almost seems at times it would be easier to start over.

This is being written as the final parts of preparing a Thanksgiving dinner here are falling together. Turkey thawed and ready for the giblets and neck to be taken out and cooked for the dressing, bread drying in various spots around the house for that dressing later on today, oven full of squash, pies at the ready to go into the oven when the squash is done, and some kind of cranberry salad on the make—we'll make it, I'm sure.

By the time you read this all the gustatorial hours of Turkey Day will be over. Right now I feel a lot like the old gent up in New England.

When somebody asked him what he was going to do Saturday night, he said, "I'm goin' over town to get drunk, and Gawd how I dread it!" We'll be having a house full and I don't dread that, but sometimes when there are several things that should have been done a couple hours ago—well, you wonder.

I'm sure now, Gumperson's Law is working against me this morning. When I looked for the last "Enterprise," wouldn't you know? It had already been picked off the stand and thrown in with the re-cycled papers in the garage. But it didn't take me long to find it and pick up the trail of events last listed for you.

Thursday November 30: Salisbury Steak followed by Bingo at the Center.

Monday, December 4: 9:00 Pickup for shopping in Chelsea.

Tuesday, December 5: Lunch at noon will be Chinese, the good homemade kind made only by Jan.

Wednesday, December 6: 8:00 Leave Center for Gerych Greenhouse in Fenton. This is always a fun trip—you could wander for a full half day in that place and not see everything. It will be dressed up for Christmas. We always manage to find some good place for lunch, too. I know the driver will keep the bus warm so your plant purchases don't freeze.

Thursday, December 7: Happy Pearl Harbor Day! We'll be dining on Jan's excellent Pork Chops. Bingo at the Center at 12:30.

Busy week. Call Erma 428-8707 for your bus needs and Emanuel kitchen 428-7630 for food reservations. I hope Mylanta could fix most of your Thanksgiving overeating problems.

Staff/Varsity Scrimmage Tips Off Basketball Season

It was a good idea. The first scrimmage of the basketball season would pit the Manchester Varsity against Manchester teachers and coaches.

The varsity must have thought it was a good idea also. What better way to start the season than to beat a bunch of old, out of shape staff members. During the first period the varsity played as if there was no opposition. But the staff was neither old nor out of shape and at one time they led the varsity by a score of 22 to 11. I don't think the varsity thought that the staff would hustle that much or be so accurate with their shots. At the end of the first period the staff led 24-15.

During the second period the varsity picked up the pace. They realized this was not to be the easy win they thought it would be. At the end of the second period the score was tied, 38-38.

I was surprised that more of the student body didn't show up. It stemed like the perfect time for some good-natured heckling of the staff.

By the time the third period started, I expected to see the staff panting and sweating and slowing down. This was not to be the case, either. The staff kept up with the pace the varsity set and sometimes set the pace themselves. At the end of the third period the staff led 58-54.

I enjoyed the called timeouts. The staff would get a drink of water and laugh about something and congratulate themselves on surviving. Meanwhile, the varsity was in a huddle with their coach, planning their next few plays.

The varsity showed some real hustle and talent. This was a chance for these young men to play a game against what turned out to be quite a talented opposition. The game came down to the last 13 seconds. The staff led 83-82 and varsity wanted to win - BAD! The play they planned didn't work and a foul against the varsity would be their undoing. Staff would win, 84-82.

The Varsity and Junior Varsity Basketball season starts next Tuesday, December 5. Starting at 6 PM, the Manchester Dutchmen will host Clinton. Good Luck!

Swainson Room Dedicated at Blacksmith Shop

Roselle Havens, her mother, designed a master scheme for the room — with Alice's help and suggestion, of course. A careful inventory was made as furniture and materials were moved from The Hustings.

I look forward to a productive time ahead during which we learn to live with our new John B. Swainson Room. As we do this, we will also give Alice and her family time to sort out their thoughts and to make final judgments about what should best be done with the mass of materials and items left over from the life of a politician-statesman-jurist as he served his state and his home town. We are most fortunate to have a chance to help along the way.

In conclusion, I am happy to render this final report of the Swainson Room Committee. Your active participation with us was most helpful.

'Let Us Continue'."

Diane Hough presented the next speaker. "I'm pleased to introduce to you the Honorable Frank J. Kelley, Michigan's 50th Attorney General.

Mr. Kelley was appointed Attorney General by John B. Swainson on January 2, 1962. He was elected to a full term in November of that year. He has been re-elected ten times since then, including 1994 — and as we all know, that was a very tough year for those in office — many others were shown the door! But not he. In thirty-three years as Attorney General, Mr. Kelley has become known as the advocate of all the people.

He was the first state Attorney General to create a Consumer Protection Division, an Environmental Division and a Medicaid Fraud Division. These divisions are known as some of the best and most successful in the country. Mr. Kelley has received many awards for his service on behalf of the people of Michigan, but he is special to us here in Manchester for more personal reasons.

This is not the first time Mr. Kelley has joined us in honor of a special occasion. He came here in 1987 on Michigan's 150th birthday to celebrate Heritage Day and helped us dedicate the Village Gazebo.

The last time Mr. Kelley came to Manchester, he delivered the eulogy at John's funeral. Tonight, he is here to help us inaugurate the John B. Swainson Room. [We] welcome someone very special to our community, the Honorable Frank J. Kelley.

Betty Cummings, Historical Society Secretary, sums up Kelley's remarks in her report to the Enterprise.

"The Honorable Frank J. Kelley...paid tribute to his friend John. He recounted how their friendship began when they met on the day that new, young lawyers were sworn in as members of the bar. At the age of 25, John had survived more adversity than most men face in a lifetime. He had been an Eagle Scout, captain of his high school football team, and war hero, losing both legs. In 1958, G. Mennen Williams selected John to be his running mate as Lt. Governor. John subsequently became Governor of the State of Michigan and during his term, he appointed Kelley as Attorney General.

John never let anything get him down. He accepted whatever happened and went on from there.

Kelly closed with a quote from Shakespeare's Caesar: He was gentle, and the elements so mixed in him that nature might stand up and say to the world, "This is a man!"

Betty goes on to recount the remarks of Alice Swainson.

"Alice Swainson acknowledged the dedication of the John B. Swainson Room. John had given some of his things to the Bentley Library and other museums, but the things he had around him in his office and his home are now in the John B. Swainson Room. She told us how he happened to have a collection of bulldogs. When he was a student at the University of North Carolina, he decided to raise bulldogs to make money. His next project was to get a cow and sell milk to the neighbors. Alice drew the line there or we might also have a collection of cows."

Mark Palms and a group of elementary girls led those present in song, "My Country, 'Tis of Thee."

Following the dedication ceremony, the room was officially opened. It is set up like John's office at The Hustings. On his desk is a cross made in the Blacksmith Shop by Tim Armentrout. It was presented to Alice with a request that it be placed in the Swainson Room as a tie between the forge area and the new room. The room also contains books, photographs, awards and medals, a collection of donkeys, and many other artifacts.

- compiled by EWG

Howard Parr, one of Manchester's well known historians, addressed the crowd with a short history of the development of the John B. Swainson Room over the past 18 months.
