Class of '99 commencement ceremony

By Shawn Lawrence
 Staff Writer

Seventy-eight Manchester men and women participated in their last act as Manchester High School students Sunday when they were given a grand send-off into the world as high school graduates.

The commencement took place in the afternoon sun at the football field as parents and friends looked on one final time to watch their sons and daughters graduate.

Faculty member James Fielder began the commencement with an address to the students. He said he had one final assignment for the class of 1999:

"Never forget where you came from, and always keep the future in sight," he said. "It is our dreams and wishes that are the future.

"And never stop learning. Be a consumer of learning for the rest of your life."

Class President Amy Gall gave the traditional tribute to parents.

"You have stuck by us through thick and thin," Gall said. "No matter what we did, mom and dad were always

"WE WILL never forget that you are our biggest fans." After the speech, each graduate presented their parents with a flower.

Amy Gall and Ben Grenier both received the Manchester Booster Club scholarship for athletic achievement.

Emily Tucker earned the Ms. Dutch Award and Eli Adam was named Mr. Dutch for athletic achievement.

Five graduates, Adam, Brandon Brown, Marily, Maher, Cheryl Pfau and Alexis Punched were given Manchester Community scholarships, sponsored by local businesses and organizations.

Amy Gall received the Manchester Manor scholarship.

Adam was awarded with the Luther Klager Award from the Manchester Optimists Club.

Alexis Punched also received the Nellie Ackerson scholarship and the Knights of Columbus scholarship.

8th-graders take trip to Washington D.C.

By Marsha Johnson Chartrand
 Special Writer

In the chill and dark of the pre-dawn hours of Thursday, May 27, 85 students and 35 chaperones boarded buses for a long day's trip to Washington D.C., via Gettysburg, Pa. Though bleary eyed one and all, those departing were excited and — in the case of the chaperones, at least — perhaps a little apprehension.

The beauty of the scenery eased the long trek on the Pennsylvania Turnpike since some of these students had never taken this route. No one had thought of Michigan terrain as "flat" until they viewed the mountains of Pennsylvania along the way.

The students arrived in Gettysburg in the late afternoon just in time to view the Gettysburg Civil War Museum and take a guided tour of the battlefield, both by bus and on foot. The students were able to track the course of some of the Michigan regiments who fought on the battlefield, and charge the hill at Little Round Top, site of one of the largest battles of the three-day siege.

By 10 p.m. when they arrived at the hotel just outside the capital city, everyone was tired enough to go straight to their rooms and, hopefully, to sleep because breakfast and buses came early again the next morning!

THE SECOND day started with plenty of sunshine and the first stop was a panoramic group photo taken in front of the Capitol building. From there, the group headed to the Smithsonian museums where they could choose which museums they wanted to visit — American History, Natural History, or the Air & Space Museum.

Lunch at Union Station gave the students a taste of the hectic pace of a large city at high noon. They ate at the food court and were lucky enough to be able to find everyone before taking off again for a brief visit to the Holocaust Museum, where they viewed "Daniel's Story," a child's account of Jewish life before and during the Holocaust. A photo stop at the White House followed, and Eighth grade students Justin Moutinho and Melissa Luckhardt placed a memorial wreath at the Vietnam Memorial Wall in Washington D.C. last week when the class took a trip to the nation's capitol. Luckhardt had just finished giving a stirring speech about her grandfather, a veteran, prior to placing the wreath.

Then a sobering visit to the Vietnam Veterans' Memorial, known as "The Wall."

Four Ackerson Middle School students read their essays about what The Wall meant to them and their families. Melissa Luckhardt read an emotional account of her grandfather's service in Vietnam and his death resulting from the effects of Agent Orange.

They laid a wreath at the apex of the wall, and took some time to view the other aspects of the memorial as well — including the Women's Memorial and the statue depicting

School board president not seeking re-election

By Shawn Lawrence
 Staff Writer

After six years on the Manchester Board of Education, the most recent two as president, Wayne Winzenz has decided not to seek reelection.

Winzenz, 52, said that his business has placed increasing demands on his time, and he felt it was time to step aside, but he has not ruled out a possible bid for office in the future. Winzenz is a part owner of the BalaDyne Corporation, an Ann Arbor company that manufactures balancing devices. His job, he said, forces him to travel on a more regular basis, and inhibits the contribution he feels he can make to the district.

"There have been a lot of indicators that it's time to let other people serve," Winzenz said. "But if my situation changes, I might consider serving again."

WINZENZ WAS first elected to the school board in 1993, completing the term of former trustee Ann Marie Gordon, who resigned from the board midway through her term. Winzenz completed the two-year term and in 1995 was re-elected to a four-year term, which is now expiring.

In addition to serving as president, he also spent three years as board treasurer.

Winzenz raised three children in Manchester, all of whom graduated from Manchester High School. He said that the school system did a fine job of educating his children, and that was one of the reasons he initially ran for a board seat — to give something back to the district.

Winzenz saw the district through the building and renovation projects at Klager and Ackerman schools, and he said that being a part of the improvements at those two buildings has been his proudest accomplishment as a board member.

"A couple of years ago, there was a good deal of disagreement in the community on how we could get funding for the projects," he said. "We had several alternatives to consider, and I lead a team that analyzed the financial impact to the district of the alternatives.

The committee made a presentation to the board which allowed the board to achieve consensus and present a united front to the community. When the bond passed overwhelmingly, I felt real good about that."

HE SAID that the building project has had a great impact on the lives of the students in those schools.

"First of all, it relieved some serious overcrowding," he said. "Second, we made additions and renovations to improve the environment in the classroom."

Winzenz said he is also proud of his contributions to the district through the technology committee.

"For our size, we're second to none, and in better shape technology-wise than some of the larger districts in the area," he said. "We've got computer labs in every school, computers in every classroom, a state-of-the-art technology lab in the middle school, a computer-aided drafting lab at the high school, and the buildings are

No action yet on mobile home park development

By Shawn Lawrence
 Staff Writer

The Sharon Township Board of Trustees has not decided whether to rezone a piece of property in the township's northeast corner to allow for a 693-unit manufactured home subdivision which would more than double the township's population.

Township Supervisor Gary Blades said a host of information is forthcoming which the township will have to consider before bringing the issue to a vote, and he could not estimate when the vote will take place.

The rezoning request came from developers The Landon Company in Southfield. The 178-acre parcel is currently owned by former Manchester resident Margarethe Kozminski, who now resides in Florida.

The Township Planning Commission and the County Planning Commission have already recommended that the Township Board deny the rezoning request, but Blades said that he expects the matter will eventually be settled in a court room.

"A LOT OF people are against this, but what we really have to determine is what the state law is, how this [proposal] meets that, and if they're entitled to it," Blades said. "It's apparent that we're going to get sued either way we go. Just because it's been recommended for denial doesn't mean it won't happen anyway."

Blades said that if the township denies the rezoning request, he expects to get sued by the developers, and if the township approves the request, he expects to get sued by angry residents.

Some of the residents have raised a host of concerns that the project would reduce the quality of life in the community. Some of the potential problems raised by residents include: the development could contribute to a phosphate prob-

State Representative supports Engler tax cut

State Rep. Gene DeRossett (R-Manchester) has endorsed Gov. John Engler's proposal to gradually phase out Michigan's single business tax. The bill passed the state house Wednesday.

"This is a tremendous event," DeRossett said. "For more than two decades, the small-business tax has hamstrung job providers and stunted economic growth. Tonight, we have turned things around."

"This is of interest to all small-business people and Michigan residents," he said. "Eliminating the single business tax removes a heavy burden from job providers across the state."

Engler's proposal would reduce the tax by 0.1 percent each year until it is completely phased out in 23 years. The reduction, if enacted, would be retroactive to Jan. 1 of this year. The single business tax was first enacted in 1976 and costs Michigan businesses $2.7 billion annually.

"Small businesses are what keep Michigan working," DeRossett said. "It is about time we recognized their contribution to our prosperous economy."

The plan carries safeguards in case of a budget shortfall to protect vital state services. In the event the Budget Stabilization Fund were to close a fiscal year at an amount below $250 million, the next calendar year's reduction would not take place.

Future rate reductions would continue once the fund returns to at least $250 million.

"It is a responsible approach to improving the business climate in the state," DeRossett said. "Right now is the perfect time to make Michigan more competitive."

Preschoolers enjoying spring events

Spring can be such a magical time of change for young children. The spring calendar has been full of special and exciting events for Manchester Co-op Preschool.

In the children's regular classes, special themes (besides working on letters, numbers, colors, shapes and feelings) included insects, reptiles, and amphibians. Their studies in these subjects were greatly enhanced by hands (and muddy boots) on exploration at the pond.

Further investigating was insured by bringing some of their newfound "friends" back to the classroom in order to observe the changes they go through.

Space and planets is another favorite theme of study. Numerous class projects and activities revolved around these and the children were also awestruck by the "Larry Cat in Space" show they saw at their visit to the Peter F. Hurst Planetarium in Jackson.

Spring is a time of moving ahead. It is the time for the graduating preschoolers to have their first bus ride at 'Kindergarten Round Up'. It is the time for graduation.

Twenty-one of the students marched down the aisle and onto the stage with much "pomp and circumstance."

Their caps, tassels, corsages, and bouquets reflected their class color of royal blue. The preschool teachers had very nice things to say about each graduating senior preschool student as they received their diplomas. Punch and cake were served after the ceremony to celebrate this noteworthy occasion.

Spring is the time to find any excuse to be outside and the preschool does. Many days there is time to go outside to play sports, look for insects, fly a kite, or take a hike to the Dairy Queen.

Bike Day is one of the annual scheduled events which the children look forward to. They bring in their own bikes, decorate them, race them, and ride them through courses.

There also is a Bubble Station full of messy fun and numerous devices to make bubbles.

On the last day of school the preschool has the class picnic. This has been planned to encourage more fun for the kids and their friends. It is a great time for their parents and siblings to share their picnic treats with each other, put closure to another fun year, and to make plans for seeing each other in the summer ahead.

If you would like to inquire about Manchester Cooperative Preschool or are interested in registering your three, four, or five-year-old for next fall, please call Siobhan Gorman at 428-9616.

Ackerson students honored for achievements

By Marsha Johnson Chartrand
Special Writer

The Honors Assembly for the Nellie Ackerson Middle School took place Wednesday, June 2. Almost 200 students, along with their parents, teachers and friends, gathered in the gymnasium to honor the many achievements of students at the Middle School level.

The presentation of honors ranged from Effort Recognition to Spelling Bee winners, to Band awards and Student Council recognition, and more. One of the highlights of the evening is always the presentation of the special four-year Academic Trophy recognizing attainment of "A" honors during all four years of Middle School.

Nine eighth-graders were awarded a trophy this year. [Those winners will be recognized in next week's Enterprise.]

Semifinalists in the Science and Social Studies Fairs received certificates in honor of their achievements. In addition, Connie Zimmer recognized three eighth-grade students who had entered their science projects in the Southeastern Michigan Science Fair held at Washtenaw Community College in March.

Adam DeConinck, Dyon Evans, and Ken Schwab were acknowledged for their participation in this event.

"Though it is not mandatory, I strongly urge the students to enter their projects from the Middle School Science Fair into this fair," Zimmer said. "I'm proud that these three students entered their projects this year."

"Adam received first place with his interesting and original project on fractals. A fractal is a geometric shape that is complex and detailed at any magnification. He also made a computer program that could generate fractals. In addition to the recognition for first place, he received $150 cash, a medal, and a certificate.

"Dyon received sixth place with his project called, 'Step Off Earth into Mars.' His exhibit actually made you feel like you were standing on the surface of Mars. He also received $60 cash, an invitation to the U. of M. Science Fair, and a certificate."

"Ken entered his project on 'Milfoil Weevils.' Though he did not place, he is recognized for opening our eyes to the many exotic plants and animals that are being brought to this country, either by accident or on purpose."

This year's School Spelling Bee winner went on to participate in the Regional Spelling Bee and received a second-place award in regional competition. Seventh-grader Korie Zink was the school's winner for the second straight year.

The high proportion of middle school students who were recognized for personal as well as academic achievements last week speaks well for the future of the Manchester Community Schools.

Support your community this Summer by eating ice cream

As summer approaches, picnics and ice cream socials become popular area events. The Manchester area is unusual in that it has an ice cream social held nearly every week of the summer. Those who have attended the socials in the past know very well that it isn't just ice cream and cake, but a variety of other items that complete a supper menu.

Hot sandwiches, barbecues, chicken, hot dogs, side salads and desserts often complement the line up.

Most of the socials start at about 5 p.m. Currently, the schedule is as follows:

Thursday, June 17 at St. Paul's United Church of Christ in Saline

Wednesday, June 23 at Sharon United Methodist Church

Friday, June 25 at Bethel United Church of Christ

Thursday, July 1 at St. James United Church of Christ

Thursday, July 22 at St. Mary's of Manchester

Wednesday, August 11 at Emanuel United Church of Christ

The Manchester United Methodist Church and the Zion Lutheran Church will have information about ice cream socials later.

WASHINGTON

 three Vietnam servicemen — then proceeded to the Korean Veteran's Memorial across the National Mall.
 The next meal was at the Pentagon City Mall in Virginia, where some shopped and some simply ate and relaxed, in preparation for the next leg of the trip. Tour guides boarded each bus to deliver the students on a guided and illuminated tour of a few of the many famous landmarks and memorials in Washington. A pizza party back at the hotel was just what was needed to finish off the long day.
 Whoever warned the students that on Saturday they'd need all their energy for a long day of walking was right. By 8 a.m. they had checked out of the hotel and were on their way to Arlington National Cemetery. It's a mile uphill to the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier, with a detour along the way to view President John F. Kennedy's grave and see the eternal flame. Some were even able to view servicemen placing a wreath here in honor of Kennedy's 82nd birth anniversary.
 The impressive ceremony at the changing of the guard at the Tomb of the Unknowns was a highlight of the visit to the cemetery.
 It was an especially important experience for the students to make this visit during the Memorial Day weekend. The tour of Arlington, in particular, provided an emotional backdrop for observing this holiday where our nation honors those who served our country in peacetime as well as on the battlefield.

 A ride on the Metro (subway) took the group from Arlington back to downtown D.C., where they reached at the spectacular new Reagan Trade Center — one of the three largest office/commercial buildings in the world.
 Next, a visit to Ford's Theater, The Peterson House (the house where Lincoln died), and the Holocaust Museum's permanent exhibits began the nation's capital. A quick photo stop outside the U.S. Capitol building and a peek at the Library of Congress concluded the whirlwind trip and started the students on their way home.
 Before heading back to Manchester, a trip through more mountains led the students to Luray Caverns in Virginia, where they explored towering columns, shimmering stalactite "draperies" and crystal clear lakes in a mile of underground chambers. The "Stalacpipe Organ" at Luray Caverns is a unique natural feature in the world and has been highlighted on television programs ranging from Ripley's Believe it or Not to Mister Rogers' Neighborhood.
 A very long trip home through the nighttime hours gave the students a chance for sleep — some took their opportunity while others did not. It stayed very quiet on the bus all the way back to Manchester, even though most people were awake after our final stop just outside of Toledo. There were

Probably very few folks on the bus who didn't take at least a catnap on Sunday afternoon, and many were grateful for the extra holiday on Monday, which gave an additional day to rest up before returning to school.
 Everyone who participated in the trip, even if they'd been through this before, learned new and interesting things about our nation's history and the caverns provided a quick geology lesson as well. Students said that the trip was well worth the time and the considerable effort.

 The eighth grade holds fundraisers throughout the school year to finance their annual trip to Washington DC. Many would not be able to participate in the trip if not for these opportunities to raise money. So the entire community deserves some extra recognition for its support of this program which is educational as well as fun.

 Ruth Jackowski was also given a scholarship.
 Three students, Michelle Barker, Mary Barrett and Megan Kennedy received scholarships from Eastern Michigan University.
 Travis Lucas was awarded a scholarship from the Stockwell family and Stockwell's Home Cookin' in Clinton.
 After the address from the salutatorian and valedictorian, student Jodi Donnellon provided a highlight by singing a solo version of the contemporary song "Arms of the Angel."

OUTGOING SCHOOL Board President Wayne Nelsen also addressed the class.
 "You're accomplishments are many, and they are impressive," Winzenz said. "Some of you made it look very easy and it wasn't. As you go forward to make your future, we believe that you'll make a better future for all of us."
 Faculty member Phyllis Heinrich also addressed the graduates with a quotation from Winston Churchill.
 "Success is the ability to go from failure to failure with enthusiasm," she said. "Learn from your failures, never give up and always move forward."
 Superintendent Ron Niedzwiecki also recalled the first time he met the class of 1999.
 "Thirteen years ago, I met them at the door as they entered kindergarten," he said. "There were a lot of anxious faces, a lot of excitement and a few tears. Today, 13 years later, I see anxious faces, excitement and perhaps, a few holding back tears. Nothing has changed."
 "This is the reason why Manchester is such a special place. We are so proud of our youth, and we take care of our children."

lem in the Huron River watershed; it would add several hundred children to the Chelsea School District; it would gobble up good agricultural land; it would burden police, fire, and roadways and cause traffic congestion; it is out of compliance with the current zoning plan; and the environmental impact is still an unknown factor.

Blades said that numerous unanticipated and peripheral costs could also arise, ranging from having to purchase new voting booths for the village hall to additional staffing requirements for paperwork that would come through the township.

A citizens group opposed to the measure has surfaced and is also in the process of gathering information about the impact of the proposed development. The group is a loose association of residents who are preliminarily calling themselves Steward's of Sharon.

One member of the group, Charlotte Anderson, said the project would have a detrimental effect on the small community.

"Bringing in a mobile home unit that more than doubles the present population in the township is rather far-fetched," she said. "(That's a burden that the infrastructure in Sharon Township just can't be asked to accommodate. It's the size (of the development) and local control is being trampled on by this outside company that has the resources to do it."

Currently the township has a master plan which allows for manufactured housing on a 40 acre parcel closer to the village of Manchester. Anderson said that outside development companies should respect the master plan of the township.

She said a development of this magnitude would cause many adverse effects to the community.

"In addition to doubling the

WINZENZ

being wired to bring the internet to every classroom, every administrative office and every media center in the district."

But Winzenz said he knows he is leaving the board members with perhaps their greatest challenge ahead of them: planning a new high school.

"WE'VE BEEN talking for the last year or two about acquiring additional property and coming up with bond issue for a new high school," Winzenz said. "I wish I had been able to drive that process further than it's gone. That's one issue that has sorely tempted me to run again, but could see I didn't have time. It's going to be a very time-intensive process for the board members. Coming up with a building project that will suit the needs of the community will be a great challenge."

Winzenz said that he believes another problem the school district may face in future years is managing finances.

"If our district doesn't start growing a little more rapidly, we're going to face some challenging times," he said. "Development, a moderate growth rate, would be a real good thing for this district. A lot of districts in the state are going to be severely limited when the building bubble in those districts slows or halts. Districts that are facing static or reduced enrollment, with the restrictions of Proposal A, will be in financial trouble."

WINZENZ SAID that the board will be faced with finding new ways to fund existing programs without dipping into the district's $500,000 fund balance.

Over his years on the board, Winzenz has earned a reputation as somewhat of a mediator. His strength has been in being able to build consensus among board members.

"In my time on the board, I've tried to have all of the board members involved in the process. That's important. When people feel isolated from the process or members of the public or members of the board feel then you've got a situation where you're not going to like the results."

And he has some advice to any new board members: "Being on the board is not about you, it's about the district, the kids, the staff. There will be things you disagree with other board members on, but don't let that disagreement become personal."

size of the township, it would make more than half of the resident leaseholders to one landlord," she said. "That seems like a politically dangerous, undesirable kind of situation."

"The township has a current, viable land-use plan that we believe they should uphold," she said. "We also believe that the township should continue to be proactive in planning for orderly growth and that spot rezoning for this particular piece of land would not be conducive to orderly growth. That particular piece of land is not suited to mobile home park development because of its natural features. A mobile home development of this size is totally inappropriate and disruptive to a township of our size."

The Landon Corporation, however, has developed a financial impact report which presents a rosier picture.

According to the report, the new development would actually provide the school district and the township with revenues above and beyond what it would cost the entities to support the subdivision.

"In each case, revenues generated by the manufactured home community would exceed the cost associated with it," Katz said.

Katz' report states that the township would net an annual excess of $61,019, based on the state revenue sharing formula. The report also states that the school district would have excess revenues of $896,178 after costs.

He said that the fact that the development would take many years to complete, and the fact that the new residents to the township and new students to the school would be phased in over a decade or so would make the growth much more manageable for both entities.

He also said the townships would generate extra revenues from a possible cable franchise agreement, administrative percentages allowed for tax collection, and other potential sources.

"The Landon Company is prepared to sit down and determine what unique capital costs might be incurred by the Chelsea School District and the township," Katz said. "They are prepared to talk about ways to meet those costs far beyond what is required."

"I would say that based on revenue (projections), there is no reason to deny it," he said. The report was paid for by the Landon Company. Copies of the report can be requested via email by contacting joe Coleman at joe@london.com.

Blades said he believes the information in the report is not presenting an accurate depiction of the financial impact on the community.

"That financial report is way off," he said. "I have a big stack of information from different people and organizations that all needs to be (considered)."

Blades said the report from Landon would only be one piece of information used in the decision process.

Blades said he has received information about the project from the Village of Chelsea, Chelsea Public Schools, Lima Township, Sylvania Township, the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department, the Wash-tenaw County Road Commission, the Washtenaw County Drain Commissioner, and the Michigan Department of Transportation. None of the organizations recommended the board approve the project.

"A lot of (these recommendations) didn't make any recommendation, and just gave us some input, but (of the agencies that did have a stance), none recommended it."

"We need to make a decision based on the facts. The two main questions are, does it fit into the master plan, and is the site suitable for that?"

Sanford Green, vice president of the Landon Companies, said that the subdivision is a different variety of community than people normally associate with mobile home parks.

He said all of the homes in the subdivision would be a minimum of 1,200 square feet, some much larger, and would exceed most of the current building code standards for construction. The typical cost of the homes would run about $70,000 for the home, with an additional charge for the pad rental.

In addition, he said the subdivision would have a large clubhouse, a swimming pool, several playgrounds, basketball courts, tennis courts, weight facilities and a substantial amount of green space. It would also include curbs, sidewalks, entrance landscaping and street lighting.

Green said that he believes the high density of the proposed development is a positive element of the project.

"We think there's a lot to be said for clustering housing and creating pockets of density as opposed to having a lot of houses spread over the countryside on two acre lots," he said. "If this 170 acre parcel can be home to 694 (units), that's a lot of homesites that aren't going to be built elsewhere in western Washtenaw County."

"Issues such as agricultural preservation are important," he said. "We don't see how allowing homes to be built on two-acre parcels accomplishes that. That development pressure will be there whether we're allowed to do the project or not."

Project delay causes residents headaches

By Shawn Lawrence
Staff Writer

Finger-pointing, mistakes and headaches have taken a back seat to actual work on a bridge project on Sharon Hollow Road in Manchester Township.

Residents who live near Iron Lake thought their new bridge over Iron Creek would be ready two weeks after the project started last September. Now the road has been closed for nine months with no completion date in sight. And no one is willing to take the blame or guarantee a completion date for the project.

"It's just ridiculous that they're charging us for this and it's not done," Dan Turner, a Manchester Township resident said. "I'm paying approximately an extra $400 to $500 a year in taxes for this and I want to see it done."

Turner said having the bridge out for so long has been an inconvenience on him and on people who visit his home. He said the structure was crumbling and needed repairs, and he doesn't mind paying for the project — but he said he does resent paying for work that's not being completed.

THE PROJECT has been delayed by a number of factors. The project is under the joint jurisdiction of the Washtenaw County Drain Commission and the Washtenaw County Road Commission.

Washtenaw County Deputy Drain Commissioner Dennis Wojcik said that problems with the lake level structure and drain culvert were discovered during a routine inspection. He said cracks in the concrete had formed, some of the lake level walls had begun to lean and water was going underneath the road.

An engineering firm was contracted by the government to draw a plan for repairing the structure which would include replacing the lake level structure, the drain and culvert under the road and the road over the drain.

The project was estimated to take two to three weeks, and cost about $158,000. Construction was to have begun last July. Davis Specialty Contracting of Milford was retained to do the work. ACCORDING TO Wojcik, the problem lies with Davis Specialty Contracting. According to Ron Davis, president of Davis Contracting (and not to be confused with Manchester resident and excavator Ron Davis), the problem lies with the engineering firm that has now been dissolved and could not be reached for comment, and so could not blame anyone.

Wojcik said that the contractor has made several mistakes along the way.

"He started late, I think he misjudged the time frame of the project, and he hasn't been working as diligently as it should be," Wojcik said. "I'm very unhappy with how long this project has taken."

Wojcik said that this is the first time his office has worked with Davis Contracting. The project, he said, was required to be put out to bid, and Davis' company was the lowest bidder.

WOJCIK SAID that financial disagreements and work specification disagreements have delayed the project. He said that the work performed thus far on the bridge was not up to par, and so the county delayed payments to the contractor, so the contractor has refused to finish the project. He said the major problem with the project was that the road over the drain was not as wide as it was supposed to be.

He said that the financial details have now been worked out, and he expects the contractor will be back on the job shortly, and the project completed within another month.

"Once we get him back out there, it's probably only a couple of weeks of work," Wojcik said. "I'm hoping it's done in the next month, but based on the (past) performance, I wouldn't guarantee anything."

BUT DAVIS tells a different story.

"The work that's been done has been done to perfection and supercedes what they wanted," Davis said. "No payment was made on that project until February. I basically financed the project and now we're arguing money again."

Davis agreed that the project could be completed in a relatively short period of time, but he said he is unwilling to work on the project anymore until he is paid.

"I have tried to cooperate and do the best job I can under the circumstances, but we're in a dispute at the moment," he said. "I'm sorry the local citizenry is suffering. The whole project has put me in immense hardship by them not paying me. All we want to do is the right thing for the common good and get that thing functional."

Davis said as soon as he receives a check from the county, he will be back at the work site. Wojcik said a check is forthcoming in the next several days.

DAVIS SAID that the problems with the project started from the outset, and are not his fault. He said the project was initially scheduled to begin in July, but was delayed when the design for the lake retaining walls were not approved. Then when he did begin working in September, he said the lake was supposed to be temporarily lowered two or three feet to give his crew room to work. That was never done either, he said. He said that the reference points he was given to work with (the center line of the lake level structure wall) were also not available. Then came the financial troubles.

Davis said that the county's stance that the work is not satisfactory is unreasonable since they designed it.

"I'm building in accordance with their design," he said. "I think we've gone above and beyond with the aesthetics and the structure."

But Wojcik said that the work has not been completed in accordance with the specifications of the design — including the width of the road.

The $158,000 project is being paid for by the road commission, which is paying two-thirds of the bill, and a special assessment to 84 residents who live in the area for the remaining one-third. The residents are paying their share of the cost over five years.

Manchester softball team has painful end at district tourney

By Frank Dimich
Special Writer

As its 8-18 record would indicate, the Manchester softball team has struggled this season.

But a 21-0 loss in five innings to East Jackson Saturday in the Division III district semifinal at Michigan Center was the type of loss coach Wes Gall hoped his team would not have to suffer through to end the season.

Manchester managed just one hit, and that was off the bat of Pam Domengoni.

"It was a rough way to end the season," Gall said. "We couldn't get any breaks to go our way."

It was 12-0 after the fourth inning and East Jackson finished off the game with nine in the fifth, in what Gall said was "an extremely bad inning" for the Flying Dutch.

Manchester does lose five seniors, including two four-year letter winners in catcher Amy Gall and pitcher Courtney Whitaker. The others are Domengoni, Elise Geyer and Marilyn Maher.

Amy Preston, who also pitched this season, could potentially fill the loss at pitcher. Other than that, Gall will wait to see who emerges.

"We have somebody we know can pitch," he said. "We'll have to get one more from the younger kids on the junior varsity."

Not surprisingly, Gall said, the Dutch need work on all areas of the game, but he stressed that started with building a program committed to working on things like defensive fundamentals.

He said his girls need to play summer softball to gain a better knowledge of the game and learn about situations that can't be covered in the two weeks before the high-school season starts.

"That all comes with experience," Gall said. "You have to learn by playing. (And) as they develop skills, they'll become stronger."

Track team shows improvement

Manchester Middle School girls' track team finished the season with a 3-4-2 record. The team was focused and trained in their times and skills at each event. The Dutch finished with a second place at Michigan Center, second place trophy in Hudson, and ended their season with 67 points to take first place in the Grass Lake Invitational. There were three invitational records set by Manchester this season:

1. Michigan Center — 400 relay-56.07-Nichole Minder, Dara Jose, Michelle Slocum and Kristine Smith.

2. Grass Lake — 400 relay — 55.6-Nichole Minder, Dara Jose, Michelle Slocum and Kristine Smith.

Big inning sinks baseball team

By Frank Dimich
Special Writer

For about half the game Saturday, it looked like Manchester had a chance for a baseball upset over Napoleon, the Cascade League champions.

But Napoleon showed why it won the league championship, blowing the game open with nine runs in the fourth inning to hand Manchester a 13-3 loss in the Division III district semifinal at Michigan Center.

Manchester managed just two hits in the game, but one was a two-run homer by Jeff Panches that gave the Flying Dutchmen a brief 3-2 lead after the first inning.

Then came Napoleon's nine runs, which were a result of a combination of factors, including solid hitting and some untimely Dutchmen mistakes.

"We gave them some outs and passed balls," Manchester coach Scott Stull said. "The wheels just fell off. (But) we were happy just to stick with them."

Manchester finishes 1-24 and loses four seniors. Much of the team is made up of underclassmen, including three freshmen and sophomores.

Stull said the key to getting them developed and helping them to improve next season is to gain more experience in the off-season.

"We need to play (more) baseball," he said. "A lot of these kids need to play summer baseball."

With that said, Stull has committed most of his nine returners and six players from the junior varsity to play a 20-game summer league schedule, which he hopes will help these players gain experience and learn fundamentals that can't all be learned within the course of a high-school season.

Runners place at Michigan Center

Manchester Middle School boys' track team finished with a 4-5 record. There was a lot of hard work and determination that went into this season with athletes bettering their times each time they raced.

Their invitational standings were, Michigan Center, fourth place, Hudson, fifth place and Grass Lake Invitational, fifth place. Dale Becker and Dyon Evans set a new Michigan Center Invitational pole vault record with combined vaults of 15-6.

Summer insects not always a nuisance

Let's start this column by admitting that we both understand that I am not claiming to be an entomologist, or even a naturalist. But I do like to feel I am a lover of nature in most of her forms, and in this column I would just like to bring up the fact that not all insects are to be considered enemies of mankind.

OUTDOORS by Mike Zielinski

Since this column is devoted to the outdoors, I feel, on occasion, I should try to cover a few things besides hunting and fishing, realizing that everyone who is interested in the outdoors may not be interested in reading only about fish and wild game. So let's talk about bugs.

When the word insect comes up, most people probably think of flies, spiders, cockroaches, wasps, bees and ants, and think only of the problems they cause. So let's discuss only the insects that are beneficial to man and his way of living.

One other point to mention here, in the space allowed we could never cover all of the beneficial insects, so we will try to cover a few of the ones I am most familiar with, before I run out of space.

Another thing, all of these insects have a latin or scientific name that is about a foot long and hard to pronounce, but why don't we just refer to them by their common name, so I don't look like I'm quoting from a class book and you don't get lost half way through the column.

The first "good" insect is one of my favorites, the ladybug, sometimes called the ladybird. It is completely harmless to man and actually does a lot of good for an insect of its size.

The ladybug's favorite meal consists of several types of plant aphids, of which it eats over two dozen each day. The plant aphid is a destructive little fellow that does much damage to crops and ornamental plants in the United States by sucking the sap that the plants need to survive, and it is a great spreader of plant diseases. It is very prolific and one female can produce as many as a million descendants in one year.

At one time a large number of ladybugs was imported into California to help control a destructive scale that causes damage to the fruit trees. It is felt that about 3,000 ladybug beetles can protect an acre of fruit trees.

The pretty little ladybug and a few other beneficial insects do more to control aphids than any of man's insecticides or bug sprays.

Another beneficial insect that makes a main meal out of aphids is the praying mantis, which is a fairly common insect for this area. It gets its name from its common stance which gives one the impression it is praying.

An interesting fact I discovered while doing research, is that no insects have teeth. But they do have jaws, and some have biting apparatuses called mandibles, with which they chew.

The lacewing is another insect that feeds on aphids while in its larva stage.

The dragonfly is another "good guy." It feeds mainly on mosquitoes when they are in their larva stage and found in many slow running or still bodies of water, which is also where the dragonfly is found.

The mosquito is probably the insect that presents the biggest threat to mankind, because of its ability to carry disease. Not all mosquitoes carry diseases but some do. One type is known to carry malaria and another is capable of carrying yellow fever.

Everyone knows of the benefits provided by the honeybee. The honeybee has been kept and cultivated by man since the early ages. More valuable than the honey it provides is the service the honeybee performs while making the honey — the pollination of the many fruit trees and plants the bee must visit in order to collect the pollen used in the production of the honey.

Honeybees are very communal and some hives can contain as many as 50,000 bees.

Only about 1 percent of all insects can be described as being harmful to man. Many types of insects besides the honeybee help to pollinate fruit trees and crops. Any insect that visits from flower to flower carrying bits of pollen that have become attached to its legs can unknowingly help to pollinate the many plants that require pollination to produce fruits and vegetables.

Some insects are beneficial because they help to control destructive insects, like the ladybug and the mantis mentioned above.

The antlion, or doodlebug as it is sometimes called, is a little creature that has always fascinated me. It is one of the little-known insects that are common in this area, and there are probably more people who have never seen one than there are those who have.

While in its larva stage, the antlion will dig a small cone-shaped depression in the loose sand and position itself at the bottom of the cone, buried in the sand. When some unlucky ant or other small insect falls down the steep sides of the cone it ends up in the jaws of the antlion and quickly becomes a hot lunch. Thus, the antlion helps to keep the ant population under control.

Well I'm about out of space and I hope you have enjoyed my sharing a few of the thoughts that go through a hunters mind while he sits in the cold blind waiting for the big one to pass along the trail.

Someone to watch over mom

I told my mom she didn't need to look any further than The Meadows at Silver Maples—I could live here! Several months ago, I got a call from my mom's neighbor, saying an ambulance had taken her to the hospital, when she woke up one day on the floor. That's when my brothers and I decided that mom needed more attention and better nutrition. "My first impression of The Meadows was first class. But I told my mom that if it wasn't a match, she didn't need to stay here. Well, it is a match! She's made lots of new friends, and the well-balanced meals and special care helped her health improve. Most of all, she is relieved that her sons know there is someone else to watch over her."

Manchester Class of 1999

Alternative high school graduates twelve

By Marsha Johnson Chartrand
Special Writer

It has become a tradition at Manchester Alternative High School to hold a special dinner and ceremony to celebrate the graduation of their students. This spring's class of 1999 included eight graduates, in addition to the four who graduated last January, bringing this year's graduating class to a total of 12. This triples the number of graduates from the 1998 class; evidence that MAHS is growing, thriving and meeting the needs of an increasing number of high school students.

This year's graduates include Deeon Bisard, Demie Brady, Staci Conway, Robert Depp, April Dixon, Cameron Lehr, Ryan Lentz, and Jacob Robinson. Family, friends and classmates joined the graduates on Wednesday, June 2, at the American Legion Hall to hold their Commencement exercises.

Each graduate had a student speaker who gave a brief, light-hearted, yet often emotional overview of the graduate's achievements at MAHS. "Staci [Conway] committed to help two students who had a hard time attending school this year," said Marley Powers. "She would drive to their house every morning and shake them out of bed, if she had to, and drive them to school."

"JAKE [ROBINSON] has brought a lot of positivity into the program," noted Juston Brady.

"We thank De [Bisard] for the positive influence and excellent advice she has given over the short period of time we spent with her," said Wendy Jovanelly. Wendy also introduced her sister, April Dixon.

"Her dedication, determination and strong voice will be deeply missed, yet we know these qualities will help her in the future." Graduate Bob Depp was introduced by Boyce Jones.

"We will miss your comedic style which always made us laugh when times were stressful. Your wonderful stories will also be treasured for they make our school so real."

Student Jimi Collins noted of his friend Ryan Lentz, "Ryan is determined and hard working. His philosophy is 'no one will do it for you, so do it yourself.'" Demie Brady was described by Marley Powers as someone who "... holds it together. Demie is capable and a decisive leader in many school projects."

Fellow student Rich Foss called graduate Cameron Lehr, "A walking book of knowledge. He's subtle in helping others and always goes out of his way to help those in need."

INSTRUCTOR ADAM Benschoter, and two students, Angie Ledwidge and Simon Hayden, presented the diplomas. The inclusion of students in so many integral parts of the ceremony is part of the unique quality of Manchester Alternative High School and indicative of the "family style" setting that is provided there.

Students were involved in planning and preparing for the graduation exercises, decorations, menu planning, creating the program booklet, and every other aspect of the service. Part of their experience at MAHS is to provide the students with education in real-life situations.

Much of the energy behind the alternative school can be attributed to facilitator Kathy MacKercher. Kathy has been with these students for two years now, since the school's inception. Her dedication and hard work is evident through a visit to the school — in the affection she has won from students and staff alike and in her fierce determination to have the best for these kids. She has something great to say about each and every one of them.

"THEY'RE REAL individuals, very independent ... it'll make them very strong leaders in whatever they decide to pursue," MacKercher mused after the rush of graduation was over. "As a group, they're very creative. A lot of these students really enjoy doing community type projects and I think people will find they'll become successful members of the community." The large proportion of students continuing their education and completing their graduation requirements is one of the ways to recognize the achievements of MAS. Many of the Alternative students have achieved academic honors and a number of recent graduates have already gone on to successful careers and college.

This isn't a school for kids who can't or won't cut it at "real school." It is a place where students who are serious about completing their education can stretch their wings and find ways to get their needs met and their goals achieved.

Sharon Township passes annual budget

By Shawn Lawrence
Staff Writer

The Sharon Township Board of Trustees passed its annual budget for fiscal year 1999-2000, and voted to lower its millage rate slightly at its meeting Thursday.

The township voted 4-1 to approve the $195,000 budget, with Supervisor Gary Blades being the sole no vote.

The township raises about $52,000 annually from its millage levy. The remainder of the budget revenues come largely from the state revenue sharing formula.

The major expenses the township incurs are fire protection ($32,000), highway and road maintenance ($28,000), and officials' salaries (combined $65,060).

The board needed to cut about $7,000 from the proposed budget and asked for public input to help decide the matter.

In the end, the board agreed to add $5,000 in expected revenues for contractual fees which it expects to collect over the next fiscal year, and to eliminate the $2,150 library contribution which used to go to the Manchester Township Library.

BLADES SAID that since the library has assessed a user fee of $60 per Sharon Township resident, the township would be paying twice for the same service if it made the library payment.

The board also added a stray $150 to the miscellaneous building and grounds fund.

The board also voted 3-2 to lower its millage levy by a fraction (.0087), for a total levy of .9700, with Blades, Clerk Terry Auito and Trustee Willard Blumenauer voting in favor, and Treasurer Lorraine Dunny and Trustee Reno Feldkamp voting against.

Dunny said that with all of the potential expenses facing the township over the next year, she didn't think it was a good idea to lower taxes.

But Blades said that in order to maintain the same millage rate, it would have involved setting another public hearing, advertising the meeting and in effect, would only have netted the township a small sum.

The reduction will result in a net loss of approximately $400 to the township.

IN OTHER township news:

The board scheduled its regular July meeting to take place at 8 p.m. June 30. It also scheduled its regular August board meeting to take place at 8 p.m. Aug. 12.

All the rest of the 1999-2000 board meetings will be held on the first Thursday of the month at 8 p.m.

The board made appointments for the 1999-2000 year. Peter Flintoft was retained as the township attorney, and Midwest Consulting was retained as the township engineer.

The board did not take up a proposal to reappoint planners Carlisle-Wortman Associates Inc., of Ann Arbor.

Anniversaries

GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY — Lyle and Maxine Widmayer recently marked their 50th wedding anniversary. They were married at Emanuel United Church of Christ in Manchester on June 5, 1949, and will be celebrating with friends and family later this summer.

65TH ANNIVERSARY — Marjorie and Duane Rogers of Saline will celebrate their 65th wedding anniversary on June 7.

Marjorie E. Kendall, the daughter of Clifford and Laura (Huesman) Kendall of Sharon Township, married Duane R. Rogers of York Township on June 7, 1934. Duane is the son of Reuban and Martha (McKenry) Rogers.

The couple has lived all of their married life in York Township on a farm off Saline-Milan Road, where they raised four children. Duane farmed while Marjorie worked as a homemaker. The family has grown over the years, and the couple now has nine grandchildren and 15 great-grandchildren.

Family and friends are invited to attend a reception being held in the special couples honor on Sunday, June 13 at York Baptist Church from 2-4 p.m. The church is located at the corner of Platt and Stony Creek roads.

The reception is being hosted by the couples four children: Elaine Ewald of Westland, Kendall and William Rogers of Saline, and Ronald Rogers of Wellfleet, Neb.

The couple requests that gifts and memories only be brought to share. No gifts, please.

GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY — Raymond and Doris Alber of Jackson will observe their 50th wedding anniversary this month. Raymond and the former Doris L. Buss were married June 11, 1949. They are the parents of Elaine Strohming of Phoenix, Ariz.; Sharon Ruede of Michigan Center; Barbara Mathis of Paducah, Ky.; Beverly Burgett of Grass Lake; and the late Michael Alber of Napoleon. They have five grandchildren and one great granddaughter. Raymond Alber is a retired cross-country truck driver. He is currently enjoying part time farming. Doris is retired from Clark Equipment Cafeteria. Their children have planned a get-together for family and friends at the Wolf Lake Yacht Club. Raymond and Doris have plans later this year for a trip to Alaska.

Local Grads from Albion

On May 8, several Manchester students graduated from Albion College in Albion.

Karin T. Messing, daughter of Bradley A. Messing, graduated magna cum laude, receiving a bachelor's degree in psychology. Messing wrote a senior thesis, titled "Autism and the Pragmatics of Language: A Case Study," and was one of fewer than 15 percent of the graduating class to do so. In recognition of this achievement, Messing was awarded departmental honors.

Justin L. Ebersole, son of Loring F. and Linda J. Ebersole, graduated summa cum laude, receiving a bachelor's degree in political science and history. Ebersole was also named to Phi Beta Kappa, the nation's oldest honorary scholastic society.

Melissa F. Driessche, daughter of Ronald G. and Caro! M. Driessche, received a bachelor's degree in English, German, and Pre-Law.

Albion College is a private liberal arts college.

POLICE REPORTS

Manchester Township

Larceny

A 19-year-old Clinton man reported that his four-wheeler was stolen at 12:41 a.m. May 30. The man said he was talking with friends at his home on Michigan Street when he saw a truck drive up his driveway. He didn't pay attention, but when he went to find the four-wheeler, it was missing. Total loss is $4,800.

Domestic Assault

A 24-year-old township man told police that his live-in girlfriend, 25, assaulted him at 8:47 p.m. May 31. He said the two were in an argument, when the woman threw a telephone book at him. The man asked her to leave, and she went upstairs and started throwing his clothes out the window. The man said the woman hit him in the back of the head with a lamp and then came at him with a shiny silver object.

When the woman was interviewed, she said the man had thrown her clothes out the window, and the lamp had hit him when they were in a struggle. She denied using any kind of weapon when she hit him.
