BOWNE BUDGET.

The western blizzards have struck us at last, to the sorrow of many corn huskers.

The revival meetings of this place commenced Sunday evening by Rev. day eve from Grand Rapids. Trott of Lake Odessa which was a very able address, the text being, "He Who Wins Souls is Wise."

The winter term of school opened Monday morning with Miss Mary Mc-Vean as teacher, with a full attendance.

Arthur J. Porritt, an esteemed young man of Bowne, has taken unto himself a life-long companion. The ceremeny took place at the bride's home, Mrs. Dan'l Sinclair, Wednesday evening, Nov. 25. We wish them joy and prosperity.

Arthur Godfrey and wife gave a Thanksgiving dinner to their most immediate friends.

Mr. Martin and wife of Lowell have moved on the Augus McDiarmid farm recently vacated by H. L. Smith.

Wm. Bunker is laying a foundation The carpenters have finished their work on L. Hatton's house. Wm. Lee has returned after a short visit.

Owing to bad roads not many from this place attended the quarterly meeting at West Lowell, last Sunday.

BOWEN'S MILLS.

A spell of winter weather is at hand with everything frozen up, which makes roads rough and more like cordurovs.

The Thanksgiving ball at Smith's hall was a nice party of young people and a pleasant time was enjoyed by all. J. W. Briggs was in Hastings Monday on business.

Mr. S. C. Ritchie's friends are jubilant over the recount of votes which makes him the honored sheriff of Barry county ..

Sportsmen are in luck bagging game. In past it is sixteen shots to one whether they get their game or not. Charles Pierse and a friend came Carleton, Mich. A most remarkable instance of the efficacy of Dr. Wheeler's Nerve stance of the efficacy of Dr. Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer in the treatment of nervous troubles is a popular topic in this place. It appears that Mrs. Henry Greene, who resides just outside of the corporation, had suffered many years from a peculiar female trouble, and was advised by the attendant physician, Dr. S. A. Du Paul, to go to Harper Hospital, Detroit, for a surgical operation; that being her only hope to recovery. She followed the advice and the operation was successfully performed, but resulted in such a shock to her nervous system that she was stricken her nervous system that she was stricken with nervous prostration. They were unable to revive her from that condition and so no-tified Dr. Du Paul, and at the same time sent her home as a probable incurable. Dr. Du Paul used all known means to help her without effect, in fact she grew worse. She could not raise her hand to get the smallest particle not raise her hand to get the smallest particle of food to her mouth, was a complete physical wreck. Fortunately Dr. Du Paul knew something of the virtue of Dr. Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer in the treatment of such cases and determined to try it. The effect was almost miraculous. She began to improve at once; it induced refreshing sleep, quieted her turbulent nerves, strengthened her entire nervous system. restored her to health, and she soon gained 20 pounds of good healthy flesh. Dr. Du Paul reports that only four bottles of the medicine were used.

Mad with love, and laden With immortal pain, Pan pursued a maiden Pan, the god, in vain.

For when Pan had nearly Touched her, wild to plead, She was gone—and clearly In her place a reed!

Long the god, unwitting, Through the valley strayed, Then at last, submitting, Cut the reed, and made, Deftly fashioned, seven Pipes, and poured his pain Unto earth and heaven In a piercing strain.

AN AWKWARD SITUATION

Ambition to get leading parts induced me to throw up a good position in the north of England to join a manager starting at Salisbury. The business turned out disastrous, the theater closing in a fortnight. I, an utter stranger in the place, with a wife and babe, was taken ill, and could hardly stir for days. But for a good-hearted landla ly I do not know what would have become of

One morning, however, over a melancholy pipe in the grassy hollow below Old Sarum, a ray of hope dawned upon me. In my anxiety and depression one old acquaintance had altogether slipped my memory. This was a Mr. Atherstone, an art dealer of Bond street. He first knew me when I had become assistant to a well-known engraver and watched my progress with great interest. I wrote, telling him the whole story of my misfortune. A prompt reply followed.

Apart from proof of Mr. Atherstone's good feeling toward me his letter contained news that I read with surprise and pleasure-not without reason, as the following extract will show:

"I want you to undertake a commission that requires tact and discrimination. It is a private inquiry, and has to be carried through at Shrewton court, Merivale, the seat of Lord Mountfalcon, within a few miles of Salisbury. Obtain permission from the owner to see his art treasures. I shall forward to you a jeweled miniature of Lord Mountfalcon, and want you to ascermain if it is a fac simile of one in the collection. That is the least important point of the inquiry with which I intrust you. Find out, at any trouble and with all the skill you can command, the elrcumstances under which the fac simtle came to be painted. There is a keeper of the galleries; try to make friends with him. Keep the object of your visit as dark as possible."

On again hearing from the art dealer I wrote to Lord Mountfalcon, asking permission to visit his picture galleries. By next post I had the most courteous of replies, acceding to my request." One thing puzzled me, the handwriting of the note signed by the nobleman was familiar. Where I had before seen it I could not recollect. Next morning I went over to Merivale. Shrewton court, situated in a spacious park, commands many picturesque objects. One is a graceful Ionic temple, half hidden in a mass of firs and white elms. So much pathway to obtain a close view. It was prevented, however, by a singular incident. As I approached a young girl in white bounded down the marble steps. Her melancholy, yet beautiful, face, and sunny tresses decked with pansies and lilies, might have been Ophelia's. To my perplexity, she advauced and courtesied three times. Directly afterward a matronly woman ran out of the building. She quickly took the girl by the hand and led her away.

The Shrewton collection would be famous if only for its Florentine and Ve netian masterpieces. While absorbed before them, a light foot fall behind aroused me. I turned and saw Lord Mountfalcon. His open, handsome face would have been an excellent letter of introduction anywhere. He said:

"I have seen you before; was it not as Charles Surface at Exeter?"

From theatricals Lord Mountfalcon's talk glided into matters of pictorial art, in which he was evidently an enthusiast. Half an hour passed, and his lordship remarked:

"I must now leave you. On no account miss the small blue galleries. There is a portfolio of Rembrandt etchings that must have special value in the eyes of a practical draughtsman. Perhaps you might also like to look at my bronzes, cameos and miniatures?"

"I should, my lord," I answered, "very much. Are there many?"

"Yes, a large number," replied his lordship, "very representative, from Hilliard and Cooper to Ross and Moule. My portrait by Moule I regard as fine as anything painted by Cosway. The keeper shall now attend to you. He will have orders to let you see anything In which you may have an interest."

When the keeper entered the mystery vanished about the handwriting sent to me the day before.

I had known Samuel Crackenthorpe, and we were no longer on speaking terms. We had become intimate at Exeter, where he was then a lawyer's clerk and a small money lender. It was not long before I found out he was a mean, wily, intriguing, treacherous felgross dishonesty I angrily cut his ac- the mansion. Has the door been unquaintance. I had looked at water colors, bronzes and prints and now asked for the minia-They were contained in three large cases, placed upon the table in the smaller chamber of the blue gallery, and unlocked at my request. Just as I was preparing to examine the works of art a footman entered and informed me it was his master's wish I should take luncheon. I could either sit down with Mr. Crackenthorpe or be attended separately. But I excused myself on the score of wanting to leave almost immediately, intending to resume my visit next day. Left alone, I examined several of the miniatures. At last I unhooked the Mountfalcon picture. It represented the nobleman in court dress. I satisfied myself on every point. After the closest scrutiny I was convinced the miniature I carried in my breast pocket differed in nothing from the original. It was perfect in similarity of jewels, arms and setting. It struck me that I would compare the pictures.

The light being less strong in the northern than southern division of the gallery, I entered the brighter chamber. There I looked at the miniatures side by side. I was aghast for a moment lest they should become displaced. To tell which from which would have been impossible. Putting the copy in my pocket, I returned, placing the original on a small table near the cases. Some feeling impelled me to again visit the south apartment, where I once more examined every point in the picture Mr. Atherstone had sent. My all-absorbing thought was to get a clew to the history of that picture. My meditation was broken by a faint sigh-like sound from the inner apartment. I looked around; it was perfectly solitary and silent. But on returning to replace Lord Mountfalcon's miniature, it had disappeared.

My feelings can be conceived. searched in vain. Everything else had been untouched. Amid bewilderment a terrible idea occurred to me. I knew Crackenthorpe's malevolent nature. Had he, I thought, found an opportunity to pay off his grudge against me? It was time, however, to meet the difficulty. Stating what had happened, I requested Crackenthorpe to at once summon his master, if at hand.

Lord Mountfalcon listened to my statement with the greatest calmness and patience. In reply, he said most likely I must have inadvertently dropped the picture among the prints or other things on the table. The keeper and a footman were then ordered to make a search through everything. It was perfectly fruitless. The nobleman, whose eyes had never-left me, said:

"What explanation have you? I learn that you have been alone with the works of art more than half an hour. and during the time no one has been near the gallery."

"It is a matter of opinion, my lord," I returned, looking hard at the keeper; 'a noise I heard warrants my belief that someone secretly did enter.' "Do you want to throw suspicion on me?" exclaimed Crackenthorpe. would not be the first time you have falsely charged me with dishonesty."

The nobleman waved his hand and said to me:

"It is very painful to me, but I have no alternative. You must be searched." "Forbear, my lord," I calmly replied; spare me such humiliation.'

"Hear me for a moment only," cried the keeper. "I assure you he is a man of disreputable character," and, creeping closer to me, Crackenthorpe struck did it strike my fancy that I left the my breast pocket and hissed out, "What have you there?"

I knew full well, heaven knows.

what could I do? "I have no property of Lord Mountfalcon's," I said, "and Mr. Crackenthorpe knows that perfectly well."

"Disprove his charge, then, by pro ducing what your pocket contains," was the answer. "I can have no more delay. If you again refuse what is demanded one of my servants must ride off to Salisbury for a constable.'

Surveying the whole situation, I anwered:

"Allow me a private interview. Lord Mountfalcon, and I can give you such an explanation that must remove all suspicion."

What the nobleman's answer might have been I know not. At the moment a wild, mocking cry came from the garden.

"What is that?" exclaimed Lord Mountfalcon, anxiously; "surely I know the sound."

In an instant he had quitted the gallery. Soon confused voices, intermingled with the angry tones of the master of the mansion, arose in the corridor Something unusual had taken place. In a few minutes Lord Mountfalcon. strangely pale, re-entered and laid the missing miniature on the table. He said to me, with extended hand:

"I deeply regret we have caused you so much anxiety. Hear my explanation. A niece of mine, unfortunately of weak intellect, gained admission in some inexplicable manner to the gallery. The noise you heard doubtless came from her entrance or departure. A gardener observed her unattended, and, following the young lady, saw her cast something into the rosary. It was the portrait taken from the table where you had deposited it. I deeply regret you should have been placed in such an awkward situation."

I bowed and prepared to depart. Lord Mountfalcon would not hear of it, stating he wished to see me in private.

"By the way," he added to Cracken thorpe, "it is a mystery to me how Lady Hester could have obtained entrance here. By means of that locked door low, and on discovering him guilty of she is entirely cut off from this side of "I have no knowledge of it," faltered the keeper, turning pale. Lord Mountfalcon crossed to the door, and it opened on the handle being turned. What transpired I did not learn until an hour later.

As I sat down over my luncheon I began to see my way to the possibility of obtaining a clew to the history of the miniature in my pocket. Atherstone had given me some facts, but I had been sensitive about disclosing them. It was not long before I was closeted with the owner of Shrewton court. In a lull of conversation his lordship observed in a quiet tone:

"Was it solely an interest in art bringing you to Merivale?"

I answered in the negative.

"I thought so," was the reply. "Now We have established friendly relations, may I ask why you at first so firmly resisted my demand of your being searched?

"Because, my lord," I answered, "I have such a terrible witness of guilt in my pocket."

"What was it?" observed the nobleman

"Only this," I replied, handing over the replica.

Silence in the room was only broken by the faint ticking of a small French clock. "I am astounded," cried the nobleman. "Surely this is my miniature. Yet, no! My own was slightly stained by the wet grass of the rosary.

To whom does it belong?"
"I am ignorant," was my answer. "It has been in the hands of a dealer for sale, and one of his clients is eager to ascertain how it came to be painted." "Who is that?"

"I have no knowledge," I replied. "Well," observed the nobleman, "] would pay a handsome reward to find out the history of the thing. Have you any key to unlock the mystery?"

'No," I said, "but most likely Crack enthorpe has. May I put him through a cross-examination in your presence?" "By all means," returned Lord Mountfalcon; "It may prevent his being lodged in jail. That unlocked door in the blue gallery has revealed waat a grossly dishonest fellow he is. Ask him what you please."

Sam Crackenthorpe, fearful of being prosecuted by his master, answered every question I put. The examination, as near as I recollect, was as follows:

"Well, Mr. Crackenthorpe, you know this fac simile of the miniature you as serted I had in my pocket?"

'Yes.' "Who painted it?"

"Mr. Moule." "Where?"

"In my sitting room."

"Who obtained his services?" "I. did."

"At whose request?" "A lady came to see the galle: es after Lord Mountfalcon went off to the Med terranean."

"Her name?" "Miss Wincaunton."

"Where did she see the original miniature?" "At Moslem, the jeweler's, in Picadilly.

"What story was told the miniature painter to blind him?" "That his lordship's sister secretly wanted a copy." "How came Miss Wincaunton to wish for a copy?" "Because she so admired the like

Three months afterward Mr. Atherstone and I witnessed the ceremony of the marriage at St. George's, Hanover square, between Lord Mountfalcon and the beautiful Lady Susan Brewster. A rival, Miss Wincaunton, had insinuated rival, Miss Wincaunton, had insinuated the nobleman was in love with her, producing as proof the miniature she had obtained under such mean and crafty obtained under such mean and crafty circumstances. Lady Brewster returned Lord Mountfalcon's picture in a fit of anger, believing the falsehood, and broke off the engagement. On Mr. Atherstone communicating the facts of the case Lady Susan became reconciled to her old lover. After the ceremonial was over Mr. Atherstone took me out for luncheon

Later on, dallying with a cigar and a bottle of claret, the art dealer said:

"I think we are in duty bound to drink the health of the bride and bridegroom."

"By the bye," continued my old friend, "I shall run down the week after next to Shrewton court, for Lord Mountfalcon told me he had fitted you un capital quarters as the new keeper of his art galleries."-Lloyd's London Weekly.

We Can't Do Thing to Her.
To one who has visited a telephone exchange and noticed how central works, it is amusing to watch the be havior of the man who cannot get recognition. In nine cases out of ten, if the hour is late and central is sleepy, he goes through this performance:

He turns the handle sharply, jabs the receiver at his ear, and shouts "Hello!" through the transmitter. After waiting a moment or so, he repeats the action. Still no answer. Then, unless he is a church member, he uses language that he would not wish his wife to hear, and twists the handle of the calling bell until his wrist aches. It does not disturb central. No bells ring in the telephone exchange. When the subscriber rings a lozenge-shaped disk drops, and the number of the calling 'phone is exposed. That is all. It remains exposed until central answer the call and puts the disk back. If central's head is turned the other way all the ringing in the world won't at tract her attention. When she looks around she'll see the exposed number and answer the call. If she never looks around she'll never learn of the call .-New York Times.

Sad Scenes of Destruction

Never before has Western Washington had such a visitation of floods as now prevail. A Tacoma dispatch says that there is water everywhere. The Great Northern, Northern Pacific and Canadian Pacific Railroads are blockaded, and it will be several days before traffic can be resumed. The floods have been caused by the four days' almost continuous rain, together with chinook winds which have melted the snowfalls in the foothills. The total damage is estimated at $2,000,000. Business has not suffered alone, for scores of houses are floating about in the devastated fields. Many families have barely escaped with their lives by means of boats. Steamers were sent out in Snohomish, Columbia and Cowlitz Valleys to rescue persons who would otherwise hour description.

The steamer Florence Henry went down Snohomish River and rescued twenty-five families living on marsh and low lands. In Snohomish County the damage is estimated at $400,000. A Snohomish special says the river there is now twentyone feet above the regular water mark at high tide. Henry Johns, a rancher, was crossing the river with his wife and three children when the canoe upset and all were drowned. Peter Jackson, a log-ger, fell from the boom at Cherry Valley and was drowned. Many families have remained in the upper stories of their homes and are safe for the present. Several houses went whirling down Snoho-mish River and were destroyed by crashing into the bridge near Snohomish City.

At Lowell both the Great Northern and Monte Cristo Roads were washed out. Many log booms have been broken and the logs are being swept into the Sound. Between Snohomish and Everett the river is six miles wide, being two feet higher than ever before. Reviewing the work of the weather bureau, special stress is laid upon the value of the many timely warnings which have been issued by the bureau, and have resulted in the protection from loss of damage of many millions of dollars' worth of property, to say nothing of the many lives saved from impending danger. An increase in the percentage of verifications is noted. During the year the department issued 376 publications, mainly for gratuitous distribution. The aggregate number of copies printed was 6,561,700. The Secretary again takes occasion to express his opposition to the gratuitous distribution of seeds and to express the hope that the practice will be discontinued. The work of the experiment stations is reviewed at some length. He opposes, for the present, the establishment of an agricultural experiment station in Alaska, but recommends an appropriation of $5,000 for a preliminary investigation of the agricul-tural resources of the territory.

The report concludes with a comprehensive review of the condition of American farmers. Seventy-two per cent. of the farms in the United States occupied by their owners are absolutely free from mortgages or other incumbrances. The Secretary refutes the idea prevailing that Secretary retutes the flear prevaining that the farms of the West and South are more heavily burdened than those of the East and Northeast. States along the North Atlantic, he says, are quite heavily incumbered with farm mortgages, and New Jersey carries a debt of this kind greater in proportion to its farm valuations than any State in the Union. The frequent claim that the farmers are almost universally in debt, despondent and suffering, he declares to be without any foundation, a belittlement of agriculture and an indig-nity to every intelligent and practical farmer.

Referring to the stress of competition which the American farmer is compelled to endure, Mr. Morton calls attention to the nearly 2,000,000 of farms, of acres each, given away by the Govern ment under the homestead act of 1866, during the last thirty years, and to the amount donated under the timber-culture law, equivalent to over 550,000 more farms of the same size. Lands long tilled and rendered partially infertile could not of course, enhance in value and sell in is equally busy with the preparation of competition with virgin soil donated by the Government. Congratulations to King Menelek, the usky sovereign of Abyssinia. He has rescued his country from the avaricious grasp of Italy, after having inflicted upon that country the greatest military disasters ever sustained by a European nation in Africa. MORTON MAKES HIS REPORT.

Work of the Department of Agriculture Set Forth. Secretary Morton, in his fourth annual report, shows that, with $280,000 which may be saved from the appropriations for the current fiscal year, there will have been covered back into the treasury since March 7, 1893, over $2,000,000 out of total appropriations of $11,179,455.45. That this great economy was effected without any loss of efficiency he attribntes in a large degree to the improvement in the personnel of the force under civil service rules.

The inspection of animals intended for food is treated of at length. The total number of ante-mortem inspections of cattle, sheep, calves and hogs during the year was 35,947,479, an increase over the previous year of over 50 per cent. The total number of post-mortem inspections was 23,164,858, an increase of 25 per cent. The total number of abattoirs under inspection in 1896 was 102 in twenty-six cities; in 1892 there were but twenty-eight in twelve cities. Clearances were issued to 819 vessels carrying cattle and sheep. Of cattle there were tagged for export 377,639, and 422,603 inspected sheep were exported. The percentage of loss in transit was considerably less than ever before. Mr. Morton urges strongly that Government inspection should be extended to all animals intended for human food, whether for consumption in the United States or abroad.

The cattle and meat trade of Great Britain is reviewed at length. Of live meat arriving in the United Kingdom during the first six months of 1896, the United States supplied 75 per cent of the cattle and 45 per cent. of the sheep. The testimony of the department representatives abroad is that cattle from the United States arrived in English ports in

It was impossible for farmers in the old States to profitably sell their products in competition with those of the newer States, grown upon lands which cost their owners nothing.

Referring to the impression that great-er rates of interest are charged for money loaned upon farms than for that loaned pon other kinds of real estate. Secretary Morton states that the rate of interest charged on mortgages upon residential property other than farms averages eighty-four hundredths of 1 per cent. less than the rate of interest charged upon farm loans During the fiscal year just ended the exported products of American farms aggregated $570,000,000, an increase of $17,000,000 over the preceding year. spite of this there was a falling off in the percentage of agricultural products exported to the total exports, but this was due to the unprecedented sale abroad of American manufactured goods. The largest market for our products is admitted to be the home market, but the export trade is the regulator, the balance for domestic trade. It follows that the interest of the manufacturer as well as farmer is found in the most rapid possible increase of the export of farm products. General prosperity depends absolutely upon agricultural prosperity, and any commercial system which will increase with celerity and extend with certainty the export of our farm products will be of the utmost advantage to agriculture and all those interested in its profitable expansion.

WHEAT STILL RISING.

It Has Reached the Highest Point Known in Years.

The boom in wheat is still on and the American farmer is in a correspondingly happy frame of mind. It touched the highest point in years on the New York Produce Exchange during the week. It is predicted that it will yet touch the dollar mark and bring to the farmer the realization of his wildest dreams before the winter is over.

The failure of the wheat crop in India and Australia is so large that a deficiency of 2,033,500 quarters has been created in Great Britain's usual supply, which must be made up from other sources. This change is in itself sufficient to uphold the recent rise. One day recently there were in passage to the United Kingdom 2,045,000 quarters, of which President wheat amounted to 400,000 quarters, North American 300,000, South American 100,000, California 1,220,000, and uments, on a number of accounts, not least among which are the probable recommendations of the President and the Secretary of the Treasury in regard to revenue and monetary legislation. As to the latter, it is by no means improbable that the recommendations of last year will be renewed. As to revenue legislation, the case is somewhat different. Unless some mon who are usually well informed and are generally supposed to enjoy the confidence of some of the higher officials of the administration, if not of President Cleveland himself, are at fault, Congress is to be asked to take early steps to provide more revenue. at the coming session. From trustworthy sources it has been learned that both the President and Secretary Carlisle are strongly inclined at this time in favor of an increase of the internal tax on beer from $1, the existing rate, to $2 a barrel. It is also understood that the Secretary is somewhat inclined to consider favorably Assistant Secretary Hamlin's proposition to impose a revenue duty on tea and coffee imported from foreign countries. At $1 a barrel, the internal tax on fermented ligners amounts in round figures to $52,000,000 a year. On the same output and consumption the tax at $2 a barrel would amount, of course, to $64,000,000 a year, and add $32,000,000 to the total annual revenues. It is contended, however, by the opponents of the proposition to double the tax. that it would would neither double nor greatly increase the revenue, especially in the first year after it should become operative.

A remarkable case is recorded by an English provincial paper. Old William Douglas and his wife lately died. He and his wife were born on the same day, within the same hour; christened at the same time and at the same church, they were constant companions, and at the age of 19 were married at the church at which they were christened. They never knew a day's illness until the day before their death, and on the day on which they died they were exactly 100 years of age. They died in one bed, and were buried in one grave, close to the font where they were christened.

Whisky Quickly Downed One Man-Report from the Asylum for Feeble-Minded-Miss Reul Flees from Muskegon to Join Her Sweetheart.

Onick Fall.

Cornelius Meertens has lived in Holland thirty years, and accumulated considerable property. Thursday he was arrested for drunkenness and sent to jail for twenty days. Until Labor Day last Meertens had never tasted liquor, but he fell in with "the boys" and drank to excess. Since that time he has been on a continual spree. Three weeks ago he drove his family from the house and has since lived alone. For over a week he has not tasted food. The neighbors caused arrest, and his family induced the justice to refuse the alternative of a fine. Meertens is a contractor.

Needs of Feeble-Minded Asylum.

The annual report on the Lapeer feeble-minded asylum says there are 210 inmates, of whom 198 are natives of the United States. The State wholly supports 176, while 31 received clothing and transportation from parents. The fathers of 24 and mothers of five were drunkards. There were nine insane fathers and five insane mothers. Admission has been refused to nearly 600 applicants, of whom 234 are epileptics and 336 feeble-minded. No epileptics have been admitted at all on account of lack of room. The Legislature will be asked to provide for 500 more patients. It is believed the institution may be made self-supporting, so far as adults are concerned. Nearly all the clothing is made by inmates. Among the special appropriations for the ensuing two years are: Six cottages, $90,000; enlarging dining-room and kitchen, $18, 000; laundry building, $6,200; furnishing five cottages, $10,000; 160 acres of land, $8,000; miscellaneous, $17,700; total, $152,200. The appropriations for current expenses asked for amount to $49,850. The year's disbursements for current expense were $31,345.09, and for building and furnishings, $3,002.89.

Benjamin T. Cooper, or Willis H. Con-ners, under which name he worked in Ohio and Indiana, in jail at Flint for forging bank drafts, has made a confession. He gives in detail the operations of the gang of swindlers with which he was connected, and whose draft forgeries were worked upon hotel men in Indiana, Ohio, New York and Michigan by himself, Walter B. Peters, the Chicago lithographer, and W. H. Smith, the "kid," who made his escape from jail at Goshen, N. Y., after having been caught at his crime. According to their scheme, Peters made the bogus drafts, which were then mailed by the conspirators to themselves, addressed to hotels in various towns. Then they would appear on the scene, call for their mail, register and induce the pro-prietors to cash their drafts. Conners says they obtained thus $1.455 in Michigan, $400 in New York, and in Indiana and Ohio $1,800. The Statement of an Indiana Woman Who Was a Dystentic.

From the Journal, Logansport, Ind.

The aiarming prevalence of dyspepsia and kindred disorders of the digestive organs among the people of this section of the country has caused inquiry to be made among the physicians of this city as to the cause, and the remedy which is being applied thereto. Leading physicians assert that three-fourths of the patients who come under their care are affected in some degree with stomach trouble arising from biliousness, indigestion, irregularities of the liver and bowels. While these cases are common, the remedies applied have in most cases been but temporary measures of relief.

A report came from Idaville, Ind., of a number of cases where sufferers from the causes mentioned had found welcome relief from pain in the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. A reporter was sent to investigate the matter and returned with the following statement of facts:

Druggist Reed, of the village, was first visited and from him were obtained the names of people who had purchased the Pink Pills, and who had spoken of the benefit they had received from the use of the medicine. The druggist cited to the reporter Mrs. Louisa Elder, who lived in the village. Mrs. Elder was found at her home, busily engaged in sewing. When asked if she could say that the Pink Pills had benfited her, she said:

"Yes, sir, I am sure that I have been greatly benefited by them. Before I began using the medicine I was troubled with my stomach. I had to be careful of what I ate, and then I was sick most all the time with my stomach. I would have fainting spells, and while walking about the house I would suddenly be selzed with a spell of dizziness and fall to the floor. I could not go out of doors unless some one was with me to hold me when the dizzy spells came on me. I was able to eat, and my sleep was undisturbed by the bad dreams that had bothered me before. When the first box was gone I felt as though I must have some more of the medicine, for the improvement in my feelings was so great that I seemed like a new woman. My husband got five more boxes and I have used all but one of them. I feel now as if I could eat anything, the dizziness is all gone, and my stomach is not troubling me as it did. I sleep well, and I believe I owe it all to Dr. Willams' Pink Pills."

I took box after box of all kinds of pills and nothing gave me more than temporary relief. The doctors told me that I must not take so many pills; that it would cause permanent injury. But I had to have relief in some way, so I took the pills. Why, sometimes I would go a week without a passage and I suffered torment. I could not sleep and had no appetite. I was advised by a physician to-eat nothing but vegetables, and I tried dieting, but it did not do me any permanent good. A Record-Breaking Macnine.

A capitalist of Great Falls, Mont., has in contemplation the construction of what he chooses to term a horsecycle, whereby a horse can propel a fourwheeled vehicle on ordinary ground at the rate of one mile in fifty-nine seconds. The proposed machine can be made in two forms.

The first is in the form of an ordinary buggy. Instead of being hitched ahead, the horse will occupy a position between the four wheels and operate a sort of treadmill. Should the velocity be so great as to attract too much air, then it is proposed to inclose the entire machine-horse, rider and all-in a Two volcanoes in Iceland were not whaleback or torpedo-cut shell, the propelling operation to remain the same. The seat of the rider will be directly behind or above the horse

SCHOOL COLUMN. [Edited by Flora J. Beadle, Commr.]

WHAT SHALL CHILDREN PLAY?

Whether in the home or in the chool the games of childhood possess on educative value that is not generally appreciated. There is a growing recognition of the function of play as a result of the kindergarten movement and the recent development of child study. But with all the discussion of the "new child psychology, the average parent quent and most fitting address and teacher is ignorant of the potency of games which children play.

do not interrupt her house-keeping. It pioneer. is the growing conviction of students of child life that one of the most serious problems of education today is the problem of what our children shall play.

Among the important questions in he relation of the home to the school s the following: What shall our chil-Iren eat and what shall they play? I'he question is two-fold; the parts are complementary. The child's play has he same relation to his spiritual development that his food has to his bodily levelopment.

Just as the body is organized out of the food material which he eats, his in 1896, $26.04. Thus it will be seen character is built up of the elements eccived in the play of childhood. His ood may contain poison; so may his games. Play is the spiritual food of he child.

The games of children are essentially e productive. The little boy impersontes the characters which have imressed him. He is conductor, brakenan, driver, merchant, circus-clown, awyer, soldier, teacher. He does not imply build up blocks-he makes a church, court house, wagon, fence, enine, train, bridge. He reproduces the Many of our citizens were opposed to ife which he has witnessed, the insti- paying a bonus to encourage the buildutions which surround him. He does ot discriminate between good and bad. Ie reproduces either with equal readiiess. Evil impresses the child just as eadily as the good, but no more so. Profanity is not profanity to the babyt is merely in ense language, and he eproduces it for that reason.

It is the intensity of expression that eaches the child. All the salient houghts, expressions and events within is horizon are repeated in his play. deas are incarnated in a thousand hildish forms. Christmas time alvays brings with it Santa Claus games; pringtime the little gardens. Religous tenets often meet one in grotesque orms. Notions of justice, of business, of government, are embodied in a varity of childish creations.

Even the spirit of the child's environnent is reproduced with remarkable fidelity. The play period of life is the period of imagination-the period of great activity and culture of imaginaion. It is the most fertile period for the formation of standards of taste. upon this subject. The quality of imagination and taste leveloped is very largely determined by the quality of the child's play-activty. Healthy play developes healthy imagination and refined taste. Sordid, ow play throws down both and fixes a low trend in the child's life. The taste involved in the game tends to fix itself in character-does so if not overthrown.

Play is spontaneous; it is the original relation of individuality to the mass of impressions received. It is the process by and in which the child asserts itself and was covered in four hours. in which he reveals, in a large measure. the sphere which he will occupy. It is a kind of platform or inaugural address foreshadowing the future man. is more than mere reproduction—it contains an element of self assertion which modifies the reproduction by placing the stamp of the child's instinctive individuality upon it.

In 1882 the taxes in the 1st and 4th wards were on each $1,000, $13.91; in 1886, $12.68; in 1888, $18.31; in 1890, $23 92; in 1892, $26.68; in 1894, $22.86; that our taxes for 1896 are nearly double the taxes of 1882 and 1886, while the assessed valuation has varied but little. The high water mark was reached in 1892 when we paid $26.68 on each $1,000 assessable property. There s, however, a good reason for this. During the years 1890 and 1891 the city expended about $14,000 to assist in the establishment of four factories. No doubt many people are asking themselves the question as to whether or not it was a profitable investment ing of factories in our city. With the assistance of those who are connected with the different factories I have made a careful estimate of the amount of money paid out by our factories thus encouraged by the city. The Hastings Furniture Factory paid out for labor in round numbers $100,000; The Michigan Whip Company paid out for labor $50, 000; The Hastings Table Co. has paid out $75,000, while the Hastings Wool Boot Co. has paid out $175,000. Thus it would appear from the investment which the city has made of $14,000 there has been paid out to the citizens of Hastings for work and labor $400,000. Two of these factories thus encouraged and assisted by the city are in operation and are employing 175 men and paying satisfactory wages. Times have demonstrated I beleive the wisdom of the course adopted by the common council and the citizens of Hastings in the encouragement of these different institutions. The facts which I have just sub-

A MINING TOWN RIOT

DURYEA, PENN., THE SCENE OF A BLOODY FRAY.

Two Men Killed, One Fatally Hurt, and Several Injured-Northwest in the Grasp of a Fierce Blizzard-Express Companies Mulcted by Thieves.

Fatal Riot at Curyea, Pa.

Three men were fatally shot and several others more or less seriously wound ed in a drunken riot at Duryea, Pa., Fri day morning. The dead are: Frank Lambert and James Motsli. John Betts, John Toy and two unknown Poles were John Toy and two unknown Force sightly injured. Duryea is a small mining village three miles north of Pittston, and there is a large colony of foreigners there who work in the mines. They cele brated a holiday principally by drinking, and the tavern of Anthony Palley was their headquarters. The shooting took place about 3 o'clock Friday morning, place about 3 o'clock Friday morning, and the story of its origin told by Palley, the tavern-keeper, is the only one yet heard. He says a number of Polanders were drinking in his place when a party of young Americans entered. After much drinking they began to taunt the foreigners. This led to a quarrel, in which the Americans assumed the aggressive, and set upon the Polanders with canes. The first blow had no sooner been struck than the foreigners drew their guns and bullets began to fly. The Americans beat a re-treat. The shooting was so general and promiseuous that it is impossible to tell who fired the fatal shots. Lambert was carried away by his friends and Motsli and Betts were found on the floor when the fusillade was over. The authorities. urrested Palley, the saloon-keeper; his bartendez, William Cosgrove; James Ryan, James Brady, J. Clark, Samuel Barclay, J. Flood and Alexander Wileyni. They are charged with being the ringleaders in the riot. While they were being taken to Pittston Barclay and Flood escaped from the constable and fled to the mountains.

THEFT MAY BE OVER $100,000. George E. Ross, Kansas City's Missing Express Clerk, Flew Wall Up. George E. Ross, missing money clerk for the Pacific and United States Exress Companies at Kansas City, Mo., has been located in St. Louis by the surety company that furnished his bond and is now under surveillance. It is stated that the express company officials had all along known of Ross' exact location, but have kept it quiet because there are, it is said, others implicated who are not yet in custody. The officials still refuse to give out information of a definite character, but enough has been learned, says a local paper, to merit the statement that evidence of collusion between certain employes to rob the express companies has been turned up. Last Sunday there was handled through the office over which Ross presided money packages containing $110,000. Already $2,300 of this amount is known to be russing and the books are still being gone over. Shortage checks have been coming in so regularly since the examination began, it is said, that the officials have renewed their efforts, and now fear that the whole $110,-000 may never have reached its destina tion. As the system of checking is necessarily slow, the packages having been destined to various points, the result will not be known immediately.

WIND AND SNOW REVEL.

Railroads Blocked, Ranches Furied, and Te'egraph Service Crippled.

Almost the entire Northwest was vis-ited Thursday night and Friday with one of the severest blizzards ever known, and fears are entertained that a number of lives have been lost in the prairie seca number of points in Minnesota and the Dakotas business was practically suspended and a number of trains are reported to be snowbound. On the prairies there was such blinding and drifting snow as to make it unsafe for ranchmen to go to their stock unless they had "life lines" stretched, and stock suffered both from cold and lack of care. Great uneasiness prevails as to the effect on stock on ranges west of the Missonri River which may not have been placed thermometer registered in shelter. The nearly zero. Railroad lines west of St. Paul were in bad shape. The wind drifted the snow into cuts along all lines. In the northern region the snow drifted to the depth of twelve feet, and at some points in North Dakota and Montana drifts eighteen feet high were formed. All trains from the West were delayed several hours. None of the coast lines sent out their overland trains from St. There was not a telegraph wire through to the coast. There was but little difficulty encountered by trains east of St. Paul.

Railroad onds Coming Due.

Secretary Carlisle has issued a circular giving public notice that $9,712,000 6 per cent, bonds issued in aid of certain Pa cifis railroads under acts of July 1, 1862 and July 2, 1864, and commonly known as "currency 6's," become due Jan. 1, 1897, and that interest on these bonds will cease on that day. The bonds were issued in aid of the Central Pacific, Union Pacific, Kansas Pacific, central branch of the Union Pacific, and the Western railroad The bonds should be forcompanies. warded to the Secretary of the Treasury for redemption.

PARENTS DANCED, CHILDREN BURNED | MINISTER MURDERED

Aw.ul Fate of Five Little Ones Upon

Five children of Mr. and Mrs. Snyder Neal, living five miles north of Hamilton, Mo., were burned to death late Saturday night. The Neal dwelling was burned while the parents were attending a dance. They had eight children. The oldest, a boy of 15 years, and a baby accompanied the parents to a social party. About 11 o'clock the gathering broke up. Soon after starting home, the Neals, and those accompanying them, discovered that the Neal residence was on fire, When they reached the burning building the father saw his 11-year-old girl lying burning in the front door, clasping her 3-year-old brother in her arms. The flames pre-vented rescue. The children were then dead. The father fell in a swoon and has been a raving maniac ever since. Nora, 9 years old, is the only survivor of the fire. She says that the children at home, Cullie 13, Hattie 11, Willie 7, Clarence 5, Julian 3 and herself, retired at the usual hour in an upstairs chamber. The next she knew the fire was coming through the floor, and the building was through the floor, and the building was enveloped in flames. She says that all six were aroused. She rushed to a second-story window and jumped to the ground, calling to the others to follow, as the fire had cut off escape by the stairway. It is thought the fire was caused by an incendiary.

UPROAR IN HAVANA.

Captain-General Weyler Returns After

Bootless Campaign Against Maceo. A cipher cablegram from Havana Monday night to a Cuban leader at Jackson-ville, Fla., says that Gen. Weyler has been forced to return to Havana and that the city is in great confusion. Weyler gives no excuse, it is said, except that it is too hot and unhealthy to do any fight-It is openly asserted in Havana that Weyler became frightened because Maceo had set a price upon his head or his capture. Weyler's scouts informed him that Maceo might make an attempt on Havana, and the Spanish general retreated in hot haste to the safety of his palace. It is also stated in the cable-gram that Weyler's recall is assured now, as the Spanish Government is incensed against him for his dilatory tactics. Cubans are jubilant, for they think this will have a favorable effect upon Congress.

HARD ON THE ROCKS.

Big Pacific Steamer Wrecked and Part of Crew Crowned. The steamer San Benito, bound from Tacoma to San Francisco, went ashore seven miles north of Point Arena, Cal., Sunday morning. The steamer struck on a sandbar and broke in two. The San Benito carried forty-four men, and during the severe storm Saturday night must have lost her bearings. Boats were low-ered, but one capsized immediately with five men in it, four of whom were drowned. Another boat with four of the crew capsized nine times, losing two men. Three men, by heroic means, reached shore. Daylight found the rest of the crew clinging to the rigging. Such a heavy sea was running that it was impossible to render assistance.

REV. MILLER FOUND DEAD AT DECATUR, ILL.

Was Evidently the Victim of Footpads-Rumor that Spain Has Ignored the United States in Disposing of the Competitor Cases by Court Martial.

Kill Rev. Miller. Rev. James Miller, pastor of Grace Methodist Church, Bloomington, was found murdered at an early hour Tues-day morning in Decatur, Ill., in an alley. There was a bullet hole in the center of his forehead. Rev. Miller had been in Springfield and returned to Decatur in the evening, arriving at 10:05 o'clock. The supposition is that he walked up Edwards street to go to the residence of Dr. Catto, with whom he had been in the habit of stopping while in the city. A man employed at one of the near-by residences states that he heard a shot just before midnight. The murdered man was found in the alley with his pockets rifled and a 38-caliber revolver lying by his side. No powder burns were found on his face. Two ladies coming home from a party roticed two men standing in the alley and crossed the street to avoid them. As they did so a negro who was on the opposite side of the street joined the two in the alley. The police have a fair description of the men. Rev. Miller was formerly paster of a church in De-He was 60 years of age, and has a wife in Decatur. He was grand chap-lain of the Knights Templar of Illinois for twenty years, and a great worker in the Masons. He attended the annual conclave of the Grand Lodge of Knights Templar in Chicago and was re-elected. He was a member of the Central Illinois Methodist conference for over twentyfive years.

THE COMPETITOR'S CREW.

Prisoners Summarily Tried by Secret Court-Martial.

The Cuban situation is now acute, says a Washington correspondent. The sum-mary trial and conviction of the Competitor prisoners by secret tribunal in a Havana fortress, against the protest of the United States Government, has thrown the State Department into a ferment, and indications point strongly to decided action on the part of the admin-istration. Consul General Lee entered formal protest on behalf of the United States against a military trial of the Competitor prisoners, who were under the American flag when captured, except under conditions that would entitle them to a fair hearing as citizens of the United States. This protest has been ignored, and the State Department has only one recourse, which is to demand the setting aside of this trial and a reopening of the case. A refusal at this time would necessarily bring the relations between Spain and the United States instantly to a war basis. Nothing has occurred since the beginning of the Cuban insurrection which is so full of sensational possibilities as the incident which came to a climax in the conviction of the Competitor's crew, who were under the protection of the American flag. The charge has been made many times of late that Spain was seeking an excuse for a war with the United States as a desperate measure to protect the home administration from overthrow. The arbitrary action of the Spanish military court at Havana would seem to carry out these stories, which have not been believed by the general public, or, for that matter, by the State department. WILL FREEZE OUT LITTLE ONES.

Fight Inaugurated on the Small Manufacturers of Wire Nails.

A surprising story was told at Cleveland, Ohio, Monday by a rod-mill man regarding the operations of the wire nail manufacturers. It is that the present cutting of price in wire nails is not a fight on the pool, but is being done by the pool for the purpose of freezing out the small manufacturers. Taking $1.70 as the base price per keg for nails, the men in the trust have been for some time sending any surplus price they could get for their product to the officers in Boston for a sinking fund, from which the manufacturers will now receive a rebate sufficient to make $1.70 with what they are getting during the present cutting of prices. The thing is being done to kill small facturers. The institutions that manufacturers. make wire nails deny the story.

CERTAIN TO BE DEFEATED.

Senators Opposed to Dividing Appropriation Bills.

During the last session of Congress proposition was made to divide the appropriations among the various committees of the Senate, but by a very derisive vote the whole question was referred to the short session. If the matter is brought up again it will probably aid on the table for good and all. Many Senators who supported the proposition before will vote against it now, and the majority which postponed its consideration will be larger upon a question to finally kill it. Several Senators who supported the proposition at the time said after the vote that they would not vote for it when it came up again.

Big Claims Against a Railroad. W. O. Chapman and J. M. Ashton, of Tacoma, have filed claims aggregating $42,000 against the Northern Pacific Railway Company. GOLD CERTIFICATES. SPANIARDS IN A TRAP

CIRCULATION.

Suspended When the Reserve Was Threatened in 1893-Story of Horrible Spanish Cruelty in Philippine Islands-Death in a Wreck.

May Issus Gold Certificates.

The Secretary of the Treasury is considering the question of resuming the issue of gold certificates, which was suspended in 1893 when the gold reserve first fell below the $100,000,000 point. The issue of these certificates was pended as a means of acquiring gold in the treasury. Theretofore it had been the custom of the treasury to issue certificates on the deposit of gold, but such gold did not become part of the gold reserve. By suspending the issue of those certificates many holders of gold, rather than hold it, exchanged it for legal tenders and treasury notes, which, under the ruling of the department being gold obligations, practically subserved their purposes, but the treasury on receipt of gold so dis-charged was enabled to add it to the gold reserve. As long as the treasury adhered to its policy of redeeming legal tenders and treasury notes in gold the holders of such notes could obtain gold on demand as readily on them as on gold certificates. Since the election and the gradual in-crease of the gold reserve such leaders believe that there is no reason why the issue of gold certificates should not be resumed. The matter is now before Secretary Carlisle, and probably will be decided upon the return of Assistant Secretary Carlis for New York. It is unretary Curtis from New York. It is understood that Mr. Carlisle is not favorably disposed toward the resumption. The issue of currency certificates under the act of 1872 has never been suspended.

SPAIN TORTURES VICTIMS.

Ancient Engines of the Inquisition Are Being Used in the Philippines.

News from Manilla brought by the steamer City of Peking from Kong shows that the Spaniards have re-sorted to torture of natives and halfcastes of the Philippines, which surpasses in its cruelty that practiced by the Chinese mandarins in cases of the most atrocious crimes. They are also charged with confiscating the estates of wealthy half-castes and deporting the wretched victims to Fernando Po, on the west coast of Africa, a place which has a climate that quickly proves fatal to strangers.

James W. Davidson, a well-known correspondent, was recently commissioned by the Hong-Kong Press to go to Manilla and cautioned to evade the press censorship, and in several letters which h smuggled through the lines he tells of what he has seen and what he has heard on good authority. According to him the instruments of torture used in the Spanish inquisition three centuries ago have been kept in the monasteries of Manilla, and were brought out recently and used to extort confessions from natives, and Mestizo suspects have been arrested and have been kept in jail in Manilla, subjected to hideous treatment. Mr. Davidson also intimates that the leading pow ers of christendom will be called upon to interfere and put an end to torture which revive the worst features of the Spanish inquisition.

ENGINEER AND FIREMAN DEAD.

Pennsylvania Express Train Wrecked by Derailed Freight-Car.

The engine, baggage and mail car of the Southern Express from Florida, on the Pennsylvania Railway, was thrown from the tracks at New Brunswick, N.

The accident was caused by the breaking of an axle on a car of a freight train which was passing south on another track. The car swung out from its place and struck the forward end of the passenger train, knocking the engine and two cars down an embankment. None of the passengers

It was supposed at first that they were the remains of Indians, but the subsequent discovery of several pieces of pottery and crude in-struments of war which it is known were not the handiwork of Indians leaves no doubt that they were the bones of some prehistoric race, probably the mound-builders. The skulls were sent to the Smithsonian Institution at Washington for a further examination.

Blown to Bits.

Unconfirmed but apparently authentic information comes of the rout and fearful slaughter of the army under Gen. Weyler in Cuba.

Col. Jose Reyes, aid-de-camp of Gen.

Maceo, passed through Jacksonville, Fla., Thursday. He says there has been flere fighting in the Rubi hills in Pinar del Rio. The most sanguinary battle of the war was fought there and 2,000 of Weyler's men were killed in two days and not less than 4,000 wounded.

When Weyler went into the field he had 35,000 men in three columns, one of 15,000 under his direct command; one of 10,000 under Gen. Echague, and the third of 10,000 under Gen. Munore. They found Macco intrenched in a crescentshaped range of hills.

Gen. Munore was directed to oust him from this position and Gen. Echague to execute a flank movement and cut off the Cuban general's retreat. Gen. Munore went forth gallantly upon the field, but when he had arrived at the foot of the that cut gaps in the ranks. Maceo's men shot from behird rocks and trees and gradually gave way before the Spaniards, who, encouraged by what they thought to be victory, pursued with extreme confidence of success. Without the least premonition a deafening explosion was heard and a scene followed resembling the mine horror at Petersburg during the civil war. Horses and men were blown high in the air and fell to the earth dead and mangled. A dynamite mine had been touched off by Maceo's electrician. Maceo then used his dynamite guns and still greater havoc was wrought. Col. Reyes' men say that Weyler lost 700 men in the explosion and 500 more in the charge that followed, as well as 1.600 wounded.

On the following day, Maceo, who knew of the reserve force under Weyler, retreated to a stronger position. He was there attacked by a column under Echague, who was driven from the field. Eight hundred men were killed and 1,300 wounded. It was in this fight that Echague lost his leg. It was torn off by a dynamite bomb.

His men then became panicstricken. They feared another mine and would not obey when ordered to attack a second time. On the the third day Maceo again re treated, maneuvering continually to entrap Weyler into a filed that had been honeycombed with dynamite. In the meantime Weyler heard that there was danger of an uprising in Havana because he had failed to crush Maceo and he hastened back to the capital.

In a letter brought by Col. Reyes to prominent Cubans Macco says: "Have no fear. I am like a turtle in his shell. If they get into my shell God help them."

PREACHER AND POISONER.

A St. Paul Minister Has Begun a Six

Year Sentence. Rev. James C. Hull, who a few months ago was the popular pastor of one of the Methodist churches in St. Paul, now oc cupies a cell in the Stillwater penitentiary, where he will remain six years unless pardoned before the term of his sen tence expires. Mr. Hull was arrested Aug. 5 last at his home in West St. Paul. His wife suspected that he was trying to poison her and called in some neighbors, who guarded Hull to prevent him from disposing of poison which Mrs. Hull declared he had concealed in his pockets. When being taken to the station Hull attempted to throw away a bottle of arsenic, and a package of the same drug was found on his person when searched. He remained in jail until last has just closed a deal by which it acquires week when he was placed on trail. He possession of all the property of the Ohio

Mr. Hull had a church in Evanston, Ill., a few years ago, and from there went to Massachusetts. They went to Minnesota six years ago, and for three years previous to his arrest Mr. Hull was pastor of the Clinton Avenue Methodist Church in West St. Paul.

HUNTERS FIGHT WILD DOGS.

Desperate Combat Takes Place in an Indiana Forest.

A large drove of wild dogs, even more ferocious than hungry timber wolves, has been discovered near the town of Morristown, Ind., and the people in that vicinity are greatly frightened as a result. It is probable that a grand hunt will soon be organized, in the hope of ridding the country of the dogs, which occupied a big cave, or den, in the Hamilton woods, a gloomy forest which has been avoided by human beings for many years past, on account of the belief that it is haunted

The discovery that the woods shelter a drove of wild dogs was made by John W. Sullivan and his son Charles, Andrew Lamar and Matt Sullivan, while on a hunting trip. They tell a thrilling story of their encounter with the beasts, and Charles Sullivan is under the care of surgeon, having been badly mangled by one of the animals.

The hunting party tracked the ferocious animals to their cave in a dense woods. While the party was debating the matter and laying plans to capture the animals there came a rush from the den and a dog, greatly resembling a rat terrier, only larger and with a bushy tail and a head something like that of a bulldog, darted past them with a snarl and darted in the tangled underbrush.

Lamar and Charles Sullivan immediate ly gave chase, while the rest of the party remained to guard the den and close the opening with brush and stones, so the animals inside could not escape. In a few minutes the report of a gun, some little distance away, was heard by those who remained at the den, followed by the howling of a dog and the screaming of Lamar and young Sullivan. It was found that the two had gotten quite close to the dog, when it had turned and attacked dog, when it had surned and attacked them. Then Lamar fired, severely wounding the beast. Just as the shot was fired another dog dashed into sight and made an attack upon young Sullivan. The boy was being badly bitten and contained by the infuriated gained but the infuriated gained by scratched by the infuriated animal, but Lamar was afraid to shoot for fear of

UNIQUE BRIDGE AT HASTINGS.

Believed to Be the Only One of Its Kind in the World.

Hastings' (Minn.) new wagon bridge has been completed, and it probably is the only one of the kind in the world. Its peculiar feature is the spiral approach at the south end. On account of the great height of the channel span of 380 feet which is placed fifty-five feet above highwater mark-it was necessary to have a very long approach in order to avoid a steep grade. The town being so close to the river it would have been necessary to run a straight approach to such a distance as to spoil the looks of the business streets. In order to overcome this difficulty it was decided to make use of a corner lot 60x120 feet, adjoining the foot of Sibley street, and to build thereon a spiral approach earth grade banked between massive retaining walls 120 feet long. The spiral, built of steel, begins at the end of this drive and winds its way with a curve of sixty feet, with a grade of five feet to the 100, for a distance of 385 feet; then striking again a straight approach from the point where the spiral ends, there is a rise of six feet to the 100 for a distance of 130 feet, to the beginning of the channel span. This span is 380 feet long from center to center of end pins, Beyond is another 120-foot span; then twenty-one spans of thirty-three feet each, terminating with an approach of 172 feet, making a total of 970 feet. The largest span of 380 feet is built to carry 256 tons, besides its own weight, and the smaller span in proportion. The iron work of the north approach rests on wellconstructed masonry pedestals, which have a concrete footing averaging nearly two feet thick and six feet square. Foun dations of the large river pier, carrying 380 and 120 foot spans, were laid by means of a caisson, the river being at a very low stage. On the north side of the river all the masonry was placed on solid rock and the iron work tied to the rock by heavy anchor bolts. The joists which carry the oak floor and sidewalks are of first-class white pine; later they may be replaced by steel joists if desired. In the arge span the entire floor is steel, except the planking which forms the surface.

In the surface there are 1.000 cubic yards of stone masonry, 20,000 feet of timber, 180 yards of concrete, 2,500 yards of cubic earth, 2,400 lineal feet of piling, 500 tons of steel and 150,000 feet of lumber for floors. Provisions for expansion on account of the change of the temperature is made at the main pier, the two spans being five inches longer in July than they are in January. The structure cost about $50,000. ONE HUNDRED YEARS nings. What advancement in music. At

The Marvels of the Nineteenth Century-The Money Power-Labor and Capital-The Great Deliverer of Nations-Vision of St. John.

Our Washington Pulpit.

Considering the time and place of its delivery, this sermon of Dr. Talmage is of absorbing and startling interest. not only national but international in its significance. His subject was "The Dying Century," and the text II. Kings, xx., 1, "Thus saith the Lord, Set thine house in order, for thou shalt die and not

No alarm bell do I ring in the utterance of this text, for in the healthy glow of your countenances I find cause only for cheerful prophecy, but I shall apply the text as spoken in the ear of Hezekiah, down with a bad carbuncle, to the nine teenth century, now closing. It will take only four more long breaths, each year : breath, and the century will expire. theme is "The Dying Century." I dis-cuss it at an hour when our national legislature is about to assemble, some of the members now here present and others soon to arrive from the North, South, East and West. All the public conveyances coming this way will bring import ant additions of public men, so that when on Dec. 7, at high noon, the gavels of Senate and House of Representatives shall lift and fall the destinies of this nation, and through it the destinies of al! nations struggling to be free, will be put on solemn and tremendous trial. Amid such intensifying circumstances I stand by the venerable century and address it in the words of my text, "Thus saith the Lord, Set thine house in order, for thou shalt die and not live."

A Big Subject. Eternity is too big a subject for us to understand. Some one has said it is a great clock that says "Tick" in one century and "Tack" in another. But we can better understand old time, who has many children-and they are the centuries-and many grandchildren-and they are the With the dying nineteenth century we shall this morning have a plain talk, telling him some of the good things he has done, and then telling him some of the things he ought to adjust before he quits this sphere and passes out to join the eternities. We generally wait until people are dead before we say much in praise of them. Funeral eulogium is gen erally very pathetic and eloquent with things that ought to have been said years before. We put on cold tombstones what we ought to have put in the warm ears of the living. We curse Charles Sumner while he is living and cudgel him into spinal meningitis and wait until, in the rooms where I have been living the last year, he puts his hand on his heart and "Oh!" and is gone, and then we make long procession in his honor, Dr. Sunderland, chaplain of the American Senate, accompanying; stopping long enough to allow the dead Senator to lie in State in Independence Hall, Philadelphia, and halting at Boston State House, where not long before damnatory resolutions had been passed in regard to him, and then move on, amid the tolling bells and the boom of minute guns, until we bury him at Mount Auburn and cover him with flowers five feet deep. What a pity he could not have been awake at his own funeral to hear the gratitude of the nation! What a pity that one green leaf could not have been taken from each one of the mortuary garlands and put upon his table while he was yet alive at the Arlington! What a pity that out of the great choirs who chanted at his obsequies one little girl dressed in white might not have sung to his living ear a complimentary solo! The post mortem expression contradicted the ante mortem. The nation could not have spoken the truth both times about Charles Sumner. Was it before or after his decease it

No such injustice shall be inflicted upon this venerable nineteenth century. Before he goes we recite in his hearing some of the good things he has accomplished. What an addition to the world's intelligence he has made! Look at the old school house, with the snow sifting through the roof and the filthy tin cup hanging over the water pail in the corner, and the little victims on the long benches without backs, and the illiterate school-master with his hickory gad, and then look at our modern palaces of free schools under men and women cultured and refined to the highest excellence, so that whereas in our childhood we had to be whipped to go to school, children now cry when they cannot go. Thank you, vener able century, while at the same time we thank God! What an addition to the world's inventions-within our century the cotton gin, the agricultural machines for planting, reaping and thrashing; the telegraph; the phonograph, capable of preserving a human voice from generation to generation; the typewriter, that rescues the world from worse and worse penmanship, and stenography, capturing from the lips of the swiftest speaker more than 200 words a minute! Never was I so amazed at the facilities of our time as when a few days ago I telegraphed from Washington to New York a long and elaborate manuscript, and a few minutes later, to show its acuracy, it was read to me through the long distance telephone and it was exact down to the last semicolon and commo.

A Marvelous Age

What hath God wrought! Oh, I am s glad I was not born sooner. For the tallow candle the electric light. For the writhings of the surgeon's table Godgiven anaesthetics, and the whole physical organism explored by sharpest instrument, and giving not so much pain as the taking of a splinter from under a child's finger nail. For the lumbering stage coach the limited express train. And there is the spectroscope of Fraunhofer. by which our modern scientist feels the oulse of other worlds throbbing with light. Jenner's arrest by inoculation of one of the world's worst plagues. Keeley's emancipation for inebriety. Intimation that the virus of maddened canine and cancer and consumption are yet to be balked by magnificent medical treatment. The eyesight of the doctor sharpened till he can look through thick flesh and find the hiding place of the bul-let. What advancement in geology, or the catechism of the mountains; chemis try, or the catechism of the elements; astronomy, or the catechism of the stars; the beginning of this century, confining itself, so far as the great masses of the people were concerned, to a few airs drawn out on accordion or massacred on church bass viol, now enchantingly dropping from thousands of fingers in Handel's "Concerto in B Flat," or Guilmant's "Sonata in D Minor." Thanks to you, O century, before you die, for the asylums of mercy that you have founded—the blind seeing with their fingers, the deaf hearing by the motion of your lips, the born imbecile by skillful object lesson lifted to tolerable intelligence. Thanks to this century for the improved condition of most nations. The reason that Napoleon made such a successful sweep across Europe at the beginning of the century was that most of the thrones of Europe were occupied either by imbeciles or profigates. But most of the thrones of Europe are to-day occupied by kings and queens competent. France a republic. Switzerland a republic, and about fifty free constitutions, I am told, in Europe Twenty million serfs of Russia manumitted. On this Western continent I can call the roll of many republics-Mexico. Guatemala, San Salvador, Costa Rica, Paraguay, Uruguay, Honduras, New Granada, Venezuela, Peru, Ecuador, Bolivia, Chile, Argentine Republic, Brazil. The once straggling village of Washington to which the United States Government moved, its entire baggage and equipment packed up in seven boxes, which got lost in the woods near this place, now the architectural glory of the continent and admiration of the world.

A Glorious Century. The money power, so much denounced and often justly criticised, has covered this continent with universities and free libraries and asylums of mercy. newspaper press, which at the beginning of the century was an ink roller, by hand moved over one sheet of paper at a time has become the miraculous manufacturer of four or five or six hundred thousand sheets for one daily newspaper's issue. Within your memory, O dying century, has been the genesis of nearly all the great institutions evangelistic. don tavern, March 7, 1802, British and Foreign Bible society was born. In 1816 American Bible Society was born. In 1824 American Sunday School Union was born. In 1810 American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions, which has put its saving hand on every nation of the round earth, was born at a haystack in Massachusetts. The National Temperance Society, the Woman's Temperance Society and all the other temperance movements were born in this cen Africa, hidden to other centuries, by exploration in this century has been put at the feet of civilization to be occupied by commerce and Christianity. Chinese wall, once an impassable barrier, now is a useless pile of stone and brick. Our American nation at the opening of this century only a slice of land along the Atlantic coast, now the whole continent in possession of our schools and churches and missionary stations. Sermons and religious intelligence which in other times, if noticed at all by the newspapers press, were allowed only a paragraph of three or four lines, now find the columns of the secular press in, all the cities thrown wide open, and every week for twenty-six years, without the omission of a single week, I have been permitted to preach one entire gospel sermon through the newspaper press. I thank God for this great opportunity. Glorious old century You shall not be entombed until we have, face to face, extolled you. You were rocked in a rough cradle, and the inheritance you received was for the most part poverty and struggle and hardship, and poorly covered graves of heroes and hero-ines of whom the world had not been worthy, and atheism and military despotism, and the wreck of the French revo lution. You inherited the influences that resulted in Aaron Burr's treason. and another war with England, and battle of Lake Erie, and Indian savagery, and Lundy's Lane, and Dartmoor massacre. and dissension, bitter and wild beyond measurement, and African slavery, which was yet to cost a national hemorrhage of four awful years and a million precious

Yes, dear old century, you had an awful start, and you have done more than well, considering your parentage and your early environment. It is a wonder you did not turn out to be the vagabond century of all time. You had a bad mother and a bad grandmother. Some of the preceding centuries were not fit to live in—their morals were so bad, their fashions were so outrageous, their ignorance was so dense, their inhumanity so terrific. Oh, dying nineteenth century, before you go we take this opportunity of telling you that you are the best and the mightiest of all the centuries of th Christian era except the first, which gave us the Christ, and you rival that century in the fact that you more than all the other centuries put together are giving the Christ to all the world.

Labor and Capital.

But my text suggests that there are ome things that this century ought to do before he leaves us. "Thus saith the Lord, Set thine house in order, for thou shalt die and not live." We ought not to let this century go before two or three things are set in order. For one thing this quarrel between labor and capital. The nineteenth century inherited it the eighteenth century, but do not let this nineteenth century bequeath it to the twentieth. "What we want," says labor, to set us right is more strikes and more vigorous work with torch and dynamite." 'What we want," says capital, "is ; tighter grip on the working classes and compulsion to take what wages we choose to pay, without reference to their needs. Both wrong as sin. Both defiant. Until the day of judgment no settlement of the quarel if you leave it to British, Russian or American politics. The religion of Jesus Christ ought to come in within the next four years and take the hand of capital and employe and say: "You have tried everything else and failed. Now try the gospel of kindness." No more oppression and no more strikes. The gospel of Jesus Christ will sweeten this acerbity, o it will go on to the end of time, and the fires that burn the world up will crackle in the ears of wrathful prosperity and indignant toil while their hands are still clutching at each other's throats. Before this century sighs its last breath I would that swarthy labor and easy opulence would come up and let the Carpenter of Nazareth join their hands in pledge of everlasting kindness and peace. men and women are dving they are api to divide among their children memen tos, and one is given a watch, and an other a vase, and another a picture, and another a robe. Let this veteran century electrology, or the catechism of the light- before it dies hand over to the human race, with an impressiveness that shall last forever, that old family keepsake, the golden keepsake which nearly hundred years ago was handed down from the black rock of the mount of beatitudes, "Therefore all things whatsoverer ye would that men should do, do ye even so to them, for this is the law and the prophets."

Another thing that needs to be set in order before the veteran century quits us is a more thorough and all embracing plan for the world's gardenization. have been trying to save the world from the top, and it cannot be done that way. It has got to be saved from the bottom. The church ought to be only a West Point to drill soldiers for outside battle. What if a military academy should keep its students from age to age in the messroom and the barracks? No, no! They are wanted at Montezuma and Chapultepec and South Mountain and Mission-ary Ridge, and the church is no place for a Christian to stay very long. He is wanted at the front. He is needed in the desperate charge of taking the parapets. The last great battle for God is not to be fought on the campus of a college or the lawn of a church. It is to be fought at Missionary Ridge. Before this century quits us let us establish the habit of giv-ing the forenoon of the Sabbath to the churches and the afternoon and the evening of the Sabbath to gospel work in the halls and theaters and streets and fields and slums and wildernesses of sin and sorrow. Let the Christian souls, bountifully fed in the morning, go forth in the afternoon and evening to feed the multitudes of outsiders starving for the bread of which if a man eat he shall never again hunger.

A Dying Century. Tell us, O nineteenth century, before you go in a score of sentences some of the things you have heard and seen. The veteran turns upon us and says: Thomas Jefferson riding in unattended from Monticello, only a few steps from where you stand, dismount from his horse and hitch the bridle to a post and on yonder hill take the oath of the presidential office. I saw yonder capitol ablaze with war's incendiarism. I saw the puff of the first steam engine in America. heard the thunders of Waterloo, of Sevastopped and S. J. vastopool and Sedan and Gettysburg. was present at all the coronations of the kings and queens and emperors and empresses now in the world's palaces. I have seen two billows roll across this continent and from ocean to ocean-1 billow of revival joy in 1857 and a billow of blood in 1864. I have seen four generations of the human race march across this world and disappear. I saw their cradles rocked and their graves dug. I have heard the wedding bells and the death knells of near a hundred years. I have clapped my hands for millions of joys and wrung them in millions of agonies. I saw Macready and Edwin Forrest act and Edward Payson pray. I heard the first chime of Longfellow's rhythms, and before any one else saw them I rend the first line of Bancroft's history and the first verse of Bryant's "Thanatopsis" and the first word of Victor Hugo's almost supernatural romance. I heard the music of all the grand marches and the lament of all the requiems that for nigh ten decades made the cathedral windows shake. I have seen more moral and spiritual victories than all of my predecessors put ogether. For all you who hear or read this valedictory I have kindled all the domestic firesides by which you ever sat and roused all the halloos and rounde lays and merriments you have ever heard and unrolled all the pictured sunsets and starry banners of the midnight heavens that you have ever gazed at. But ere I go take this admonition and benediction of a dying century. The longest life, like mine, must close. Opportunities gone never come back, as I could prove from nigh a hundred years of observation. The eternity that will soon take me will soon take you. The wicked live not out half their days, as I have seen in 10,000 in-

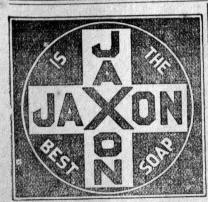

The only influence for making the world happy is an influence that I, the nine-teenth century, inherited from the first century of the Christian era-the Christ of all the centuries. Be not deceived by the fact that I have lived so long, for a century is a large wheel that turns 100 smaller wheels, which are the years, and each one of those years turns 365 smaller wheels, which are the days, and each of the 365 days turns 24 smaller wheels which are the hours, and each one of those 24 hours turns 60 smaller wheels, which are the minutes, and those 60 minutes turn still smaller wheels, which are the seconds. And all of this vast machinery is in perpetual motion and pushes us on and on toward the great eternity whose doors will, at 12 o'clock of the winter night between the year 1900 and the year 1901 open before me, the dying cenutry. I quote from the three inscriptions over the three doors of the cathedral of Milan. Over one door, amid a wreath of sculptured roses, I read, "All that which pleases us is but for a moment. Over another door, around a sculptured cross, I read, "All that which troubles us is but for a moment." But over the central door I read, "That only is import. ant which is eternal." O eternity, eter-

My hearers, as the nineteenth century was born while the face of this nation was yet wet with tears because of the fatal horseback ride that Washington took out here at Mount Mernon through a December snowstorm, I wish the next century might be born at a time when the face of this nation shall be wet with the tears of the literal or spiritual arrival of the Great Deliverer of Nations, of whom St. John wrote with apocalyptic pen, "And I saw, and behold a white horse! And he that sat on him had a bow, and a crown was given unto him, and he went forth conquering and to conquer."

An intelligent foreigner is said to have expressed himself after the following fashion on the absurdities of the English language: "When I discovered that if I was quick I was fast, if I stood firm I was fast, if I spent too freely I was fast, and that not to eat was to fast, I was discouraged; but when I came across the sentence 'The first won one one-dollar prize,' I was attempted to give up English and learn some other language."

Calcutta, India, is a great educational center, one of the greatest in the world. It has twenty colleges, with three thousand students, and forty high schools, with two thousand students. In the city there are altogether about fifty-five thousand English-speaking and non-Christian na-

A Hygienic Restaurant. A suggestion worthy of all praise is put forth by a contemporary journal for ladies. It is to the effect that somebody should start a restaurant in which the waiters should be instructed to refuse to serve any sequence of dishes which obviously make for indigestion. One can easily believe that the world would be the better, the healthier, the happier, if this proposal were widely carried out. Men have been known, for instance, to wash down cysters with brandy and water, but they have always been sorry for it afterward. Students at the British museum have been observed to drink tea with veal and ham pie, and their studies have suffered from the combination. The world, in short, is full of middle aged men who would enjoy their middle age ever so much better if in their youth they had found their way to

No kitchen is kept cleaner than the premises devoted to the manufacture of NONE SUCH Mince Meat. No housewife can be more fastidious in the matter of preparing food than we are in the selection and preparation of the materials of which it is made. The cleaning of the currants (for one thing) is more thoroughly done by means of perfected appliances, than it would be possible to do it by hand.

Its cleanliness, purity, wholesomeness and deliciousness are good reasons for using NONE SUCH Mince Meat. The best reason is its saving-of time, of hard work, of money. A ten cent package affords you two large pies, without trouble to you beyond the making of the crust. Makes just as good fruit cake and fruit pudding as it does mince pie. Sold everywhere. Be sure and get the genuine.

"Excuse me," observed the man in spectacles, "but I am a surgeon, and that is not where the liver is." "Never you mind where his liver is," retorted the other. "If it was in his big too or his left can Dawlit's Little Early him. On that you can bet your gig-lamps." Dr. Nelson Abbott.
