This catalogue section 240, in the sense of GeoKatalog 2, comprises the British Isles, the Benelux countries, and France. In praxi, however, this region seldom is combined in a map. So mainly greater parts of it are treated, as Benelux, the English Channel, the North-West European industrial axis, or areas like Meuse-Moselle. Titles which historically would correspond to the Low Countries or parts of them (the Netherlands historical or linguistic, Luxembourg including its Belgian part, or Limburg) are to be found under their modern states. Western Europe in the sense of the Western half of Europe is treated under 200 Europe.

Cette partie 240 du catalogue, dans le sens de GeoKatalog 2, contient les Îles Britanniques, les Pays Bénélux et la France. Cependant, cette région n'est combiné que rarement sur une carte. C'est donc des grandes parties qui sont traité en pratique, comme Bénélux, la Manche, l'axe industriel de l'Europe nord-occidentale, ou la région Meuse-Moselle. Les parties des Pays-Bas historiques on les trouve sous leurs états prédominants d'aujourd'hui (Pays-Bas, Luxembourg, Belgique). L'Europe de l'Ouest dans le sens de la moitié occidentale de l'Europe est traité sous 200 Europe.

BGS © NERC

Geological Survey of Great Britain 1:100 000

4 sheets for the Outer Hebrides, see 1:63 360 / 1:50 000 series below.

Geological Survey of England & Wales 1:50 000

(1:63 360) (titles vary)

BGS, London 1887- (1:63 360: -1975; 1:50 000: 1972-) 353 sheets following the old 1:63 360 sheet plan, col., very detailed, cross sections, profiles, inset maps, sizes vary, chiefly fd. or flat each 22,- EUR
The former 1:63 360 scale is being replaced by the metric 1:50 000 scale, involving an enlargement in the map size. 1:50 000 sheets may be completely new, or former one-inch editions re-edited in a preliminary way. Sheet distribution and availability are shown on diagram, p. 13.

Attention: British geological map types are designated in a very accurate manner. Of any sheet there may be different types (map versions) partly interrelating in peculiar ways. To complicate things, classification terms are being changed from 2004. The thematic versions, old and new, are:

- (B) Bedrock, replacing (S)
- (B&Sup) Bedrock & Superficial Deposits, i.e. normal geol. map, to be replaced by (S&D)
- (D) Drift, to be replaced by (Sup)
- (S) Solid, to be replaced by (B)
- (S&D) Solid and drift, i.e. normal geol. map, to be replaced by (B&Sup)
- (Sup) Superficial Deposits, replacing (D)
- (SwD) Solid with Drift, with drift geology uncoloured, discontinued

As a result there exist, for some sheets, two or even more versions. On some sheets with small land area, any two of the versions above may form one combined map (for example (S, D) or (B, B&Sup)).

Moreover, additional technical versions may occur:

- (E) Electrostatic colour plot
- (F) Facsimile, from earlier 1:63 360 edition, enlarged to 1:50 000
- (P) Provisional, recompiled using old survey data but incorporating new information

In the following sheet listing, versions are separated by a semicolon; for example, "(S); (S&D)" means that there are two maps: a Solid one and a combined Solid & Drift one.

- 1/2 Berwick on Tweed & Norham (S, D), 1969
- 3 Ford (S), 1976; (S&D) 1979

Until 31-12-92, Slovakia was a constituent part of former Czechoslovakia. So please always refer to the overall publications of Czechoslovakia which generally are contained in section 262 Czechia. As for the old map series of Czechoslovakia, they always had strong federal peculiarities so their Slovak share, as a rule, is contained in this section 263.

Also refer to sections 220 Central Europe and 260 Eastern Europe, please.

Da die Slowakei bis zum 31.12.92 Teilstaat der ehem. Tschechoslowakei war, beachten Sie bitte immer auch die tschechoslowakischen Gesamtveröffentlichungen. Deren Einzeltitel stehen in der Regel unter 262 Tschechien; Kartenwerke dagegen wurden von den zwei Teilstaaten in eigenen, oft divergierenden Ausgaben herausgegeben, sodass der slowakische Teil der alten Kartenwerke meist in diesem Katalogteil 263 zu finden ist.

Bitte auch die Teile 210 Mitteleuropa und 260 Osteuropa beachten.
