

New Hydraulic Reelmowers Extend The Cut Behind Compact Tractors

Huxleys have added two hydraulically-powered reel-mowers to its line-up of equipment for use with compact tractors. The TR84 and TR138 join the TR66 and TR108. Huxleys also manufactures a mid/rear-mounted unit, known as the TR84M, for compact tractors.

The major difference between

Huxleys' existing rear-mounted mowers and the TR84 and TR138 models is the cutting reel width. Both new machines have 762mm (30in) wide units, which is 152mm (6in) wider than those used on the TR66 and TR108 machines. In common with their stablemates, all reels are hydraulically-driven and pivot-mounted.

Overall mowing width of the TR84, which has three cutting reels, is 2.13m (84in). The five reels on the TR138 give a maximum cut of 3.5m (11ft 6in) wide.

The TR84 and TR138 rear-mounted reel-mowers are priced at £3,600 and £5,900 respectively, excluding VAT.
