Contents

A distant, heavenly place

Donnington Grove is more than a golf course – it's a means of strengthening Japan's cultural links with Britain. Chris Boiling meets their course manager and learns of a company which started out as a Buddhist temple.....Pages 20-29

National Tournament's water hazard

When it wasn't falling out of the sky, it was causing mischief on the ground... how greenkeepers defied the elements in the BIGGA/ICI Professional Products tournament ..Pages 10-11

The taming of Wildwood

Wildwood used to be yellow, wet and miserable. Now this Surrey golf course is a real gem. We report on the people and the practises behind the transformation.....Pages 15-16

No machinery, just sheep

There's a million dollar hole in the "World's Most Outrageous Tournament" – but turf maintenance is never considered in this extraordinary New Zealand competitionPages 38-40
