But why should I join BIGGA?

As a BIGGA member who was the beneficiary of two exceptional events in November, I feel duty bound to write to the magazine and share my experiences with all of you who care to read on.

My first sojourn took me to the deep south to participate in the BIGGA Golf Environment Competition in association with Amazone and Rhône Poulenc award ceremony. Our club was chosen as the Scottish regional winner, which was a real surprise to me knowing the quality of the work already carried out at other Scottish clubs such as Loch Lomond. So with this in mind, it was with great pride that I travelled down to the highly impressive Hankley Common to accept our award.

This is the second year in a row that we have won this specific award and I would like to say that the people who I have met at each award ceremony, in conjunction with the award itself, have provided me with a great deal of motivation and inspiration to drive on with our conservation management plan at Linlithgow. I am sure that our club is not the only one which gains so much from this competition and I think Rod Baker can take great personal satisfaction from the way this whole concept has grown, and from the good that it has engendered.

Part two of my week of travelling took me to sunny Marbella (although it was pouring when I arrived and left), to deliver a talk to the inaugural FEGGA conference.

When first asked by FEGGA Chairman, Dean Cleaver, to represent BIGGA by delivering the paper on the environment I was stunned, honoured and delighted (in that order), but I became so concerned with trying to live up to Dean's expectations that I travelled to Spain with very few expectations about what I could learn from the whole experience. This state of affairs did not last too long though because literally from the moment of my arrival, which was fortuitously just in time for dinner, I was put at ease by the assembled company, which by the nature of the event consisted of many of the leading lights of greenkeeping in Europe.

During the two day conference I learned a great many things not only about greenkeeping, but about life in continental Europe in general, which in these days of common Governmental policies may prove to be very important. Consequently I came away from listening to the many varied and stimulating talks given with the impression that we greenkeepers in the UK may have our problems, but they are in no way comparable to some of the things that our colleagues on the continent have to put up with.

It was struck home to me in Spain that not only do our continental cousins have to put up with difficult climactic conditions, oppressive pesticide legislation and a populace that generally has no time for golf, but they face these difficulties with much smaller Professional Associations than ours. This is a very important point and one that is far too often taken for granted in this country. In BIGGA we British greenkeepers not only have a very well run organisation led by motivated and capable people, but we have a collective voice for the profession that is taken seriously by others in the golf industry and beyond.

In conclusion, I would like to say that I have had an exceptional year, taking part in many wonderful events including the Loch Lomond Invitational, The Open, The National Tournament as well as that fabulous week in November which was all made possible for me only #through my involvement in BIGGA. So if anyone has to ask me "Why should I join the BIGGA?" my answer will be ready for them!

David Roy Course Manager Linlithgow GC Greenkeeping has progressed dramatically over the last ten years or so and, believe me, in no small measure this is due to Jim and people like him who see the future and are not afraid to state their case.

I am not like the fellow who said "I don't mind progress so long as it doesn't mean change" but I think we need to take stock now and again and make sure that every road we take is the right one with no dead ends.

Toro-mendous

I would like to thank BIGGA and Toro for a very enjoyable time at the finals of the Toro Awards held at Harrogate. Meeting the other finalists and swapping stories of greenkeeping times.

Tom Murray Ratho Park GC

PS. All the best to Ian McMillan and Steve Nixon who were worthy winners of the awards.

PPS. Harrogate has lots of shops so any greenkeepers taking their wives or girlfriends beware! Don't let them loose it's fatal - hence my empty wallet.

Jim'll fix it...

Having been in greenkeeping for the last 43 years and therefore seen many changes I have reflected on who has been responsible for the major changes in the game.

Firstly, professionals I am sure would agree that Arnold Palmer was the prime mover for making things happen even to the point where more golfers wanted to see and listen to his passion for the game.

From the greenkeeping side I have to say nobody, and I mean nobody, has done more for greenkeepers than Jim Arthur. He started off as a lone voice in the wilderness telling us - not to overwater, that green is not everything, don't try to be like the States etc, etc, etc. How true this has all turned out to be.

He is the man who makes greens committees sit up and take notice with his forthright views. Of course, lots of people do not go along with Jim's views but as we all know the truth can sometimes hurt.

One thing I am convinced of is that greenkeeping would be a lot poorer without Jim Arthur.

A northern thank you

The Northern Region has had its ups and downs, its highs and lows but over the course of many years the Region has become a credit to all members who have participated in Regional events and Seminars. Major events such as the Hayter Golf Challenge, which the Northern Region has won on numerous occasions, with all Sections thriving. Since Bob Lupton took over we have had three National Chairman, George Malcolm, Barry Heaney and our immediate Past Chairman, Pat Murphy. So between the three of them they must have clocked up more miles than Michael Palin!

Bob and Sarah had worked tirelessly for the Region with the introduction of the Patron's Scheme so without the support of the Patrons the Region would not be as prosper-

I have to thank Bob and Sarah for the support they have shown me
