

IOG SALTEX (Institute of Groundsmanship's Sports, Amenities and Landscaping Trades Exhibition, Windsor Racecourse, 5-7 September 2000) has announced details of its free seminar programme

Saltext 2000

Windsor Racecourse, 5-7 September 2000

This year's SALTEX seminar programme covers five separate themes - sports surfaces, play, horticulture/arboriculture, grounds care and landscaping. The seminars are free to all visitors but visitors will be able to pre-book places at all of the seminar sessions via the IOG SALTEX website, www.iogsaltex.co.uk

Among the line-up speaking as part of this year's programme is Jim Robertson, Landscape Manager, at Legoland Windsor; John Hewitt, Managing Director of Hewitt Sportsturf, whose company provides a consultancy service to Premiership football clubs like Arsenal, Chelsea and West Ham, while returning for a second year, due to popular demand, is Chris Wood, pitches consultant for the England and Wales Cricket Board.

BIGGA will have its usual strong presence at the Show with a well appointed stand welcoming existing and prospective members. Anyone with questions to be answered, forms to hand in or merely wanting a chat will be most welcome to the Stand - G1.

Among the companies providing an insight into the latest industry thinking as part of IOG SALTEX's free seminar programme are Bernhard, Farmura, Greenlink International, HSE Woodworking, Milliken Chemical, Nomix Chipman, Sybron Biochemicals, Toro and SISIS, who will be leading a panel discussion of problem solving experts just waiting to help solve your problems.

SALTEX is an occasion when the whole open space management industry gathers together and as a result operates as a forum for exchanging information and ideas.

"Nobody has a monopoly on all the good ideas. You can always pick up new ideas if you are prepared to listen. The seminars give people the opportunity to look at a situation or deal with a problem in a different way," said keynote speaker, Jim Robertson.

To reserve your place at any of the free seminar sessions or for free tickets to IOG SALTEX visit www.iogsaltex.co.uk or call the Free ticket hotline number on +44 (0)810 751 1510.
