Fusarium
Patch

Fusarium patch is common and can be troublesome any time of the year during mild, wet weather. The pathogen affects a wide range of turfgrass species.

The disease first appears as roughly circular, water-soaked spots, 1 to 3 inches in diameter, which soon turn yellow or reddish to dark brown.

With continued mild, wet weather, these patches may enlarge to a foot or more in diameter.

Cool, wet weather will promote the onset and development of this disease but it has been found that periods of frost interspersed with cold, wet weather, offer the ideal conditions for fusarium patch disease to flourish.

All turf grasses are susceptible to infection but annual meadow grass is known to be the most susceptible of all cool-season grasses.
