Heading for Harrogate

As I write Aldwark Manor is assuming an autumnal look and the season of "mists and mellow fruitfulness" is truly upon us once more. For us at Headquarters it signals the build up to major events and by the time you read this month's magazine the eagerly anticipated Hayter International Cup match and Challenge Tournament will have taken place. The final stages of both the Toro Student Greenkeeper of the Year and the Miracle Premier Greenkeeper of the Year awards rapidly approach. October will see both the Management Courses at Aldwark Manor and the Regional Supervisory Management Courses in full flow. In the midst of all this activity staff, with increasing intensity, are preparing for our biggest event. The BIGGA Turf Management Exhibition will soon be upon us. For our industry, the BTME lights up the long dark days of winter and in ever-increasing numbers our members head for Harrogate in January to what is now a highlight in the greenkeeping calendar as well as a key week for companies in the industry at the start of another year.

This will be the ninth BTME and it has consistently grown in the years since 1989. For the 1996 exhibition we took on another hall to cater for demand and we continue to work closely with the Harrogate International Centre in looking ahead to our further expansion. Within the next two years a new purpose built hall will come on line on the site of the Royal Hall Car park which will be familiar to those of you who have attended the BTME. As the exhibition continues to grow we will look to utilise this new facility to ensure that the needs of the industry are fulfilled in terms of enhancing the status and appeal of the BTME. In the past there has been much debate on the preferred location of the BTME. In the last year or two it would be true to say that a substantial majority amongst both our members and the exhibiting companies have settled on Harrogate as the preferred location and as such BIGGA is intent on providing an exhibition and educational programme which will continue to confirm the BTME as the pre-eminent event within the industry for both members and visitors alike.

BIGGA in focus

BY NEIL THOMAS

For those who have yet to make the pilgrimage to Harrogate there is much in the 1997 programme to attract. For a start there is the town itself, in the past one of Europe's leading spas and with an ambience much appreciated still today. Arrive on Sunday, park your car and you will not need it until you leave on Friday. The International Centre, hotels and restaurants are all closely integrated while, by now, many returning greenkeepers have their own favourite bed and breakfasts and watering-holes! Indeed, a nice place to visit.

To begin at the beginning there is the National Education Conference. Since its inception at Queens College, Cambridge in 1989, this has become a prestigious educational event being incorporated into the BTME in 1995. A look at the programme will indicate that this year's conference programme will most certainly match the standards of previous years. Complementing the conference is an expanded workshop programme covering key areas for greenkeepers wherein they can enhance their learning and skills.

For the second year, BIGGA will be working with the STRI in running a course for Chairmen of Green and Golf Club Secretaries. It made good sense to set up this course in Harrogate for it is essential that the aforementioned participate in the BTME where they will view the latest products and equipment for their golf courses as well as benefit from the "Learning Experience". Ideally all golf clubs will send not only their Course Manager/Head Greenkeeper but also their Chairman of Green or Secretary. We shall keep working on it!

The BTME seminar programme will run through Wednesday and Thursday to Friday lunchtime and this year in a new location, the Kings Suite, located below Hall D. It is our belief that this will create a more intimate atmosphere for the programme and enhance the inter-action between speakers and delegates. Certainly, it should be warmer than the wide, open spaces of the Royal Hall. If you throw in the BIGGA Annual General Meeting and the first Annual General Meeting of the newly formed Federation of European Golf Greenkeepers Associations, attendees indeed have a comprehensive programme to look forward to and that is before both the official (and unofficial) social programme.

The Majestic Hotel is BIGGA's Headquarters Hotel and during the course of the year it hosts many events and attracts the country's top entertainers to entertain conference delegates. It is not an exaggeration to say that the BTME banquet has now become one of Harrogate's top social events of the year. The spectacular cabaret planned to climax this year's show should prove no exception with top of the bill Bobby Davro supported by Laine Kennedy and the City Lights Show Band. Make no mistake tickets will as usual be in great demand and places are limited - a case of "don't delay, order today".

So there we have it, a great week in prospect. It has become an international event and delegates are expected in January from far and wide across Europe and further afield. Old friendships will be renewed and new ones forged. Greenkeepers will return to their clubs with fresh enthusiasm, new ideas and conversant with the latest trends and developments in both the profession and industry. For exhibitors the post Christmas inertia will have been swept away and their order books should be filling. Chairmen of Green and Secretaries will surely leave Harrogate with a fresh perspective. If you've been before then most certainly you will be coming back. If this is your first visit it will be both informative and enjoyable. BIGGA looks forward to welcoming you to a memorable week at the BTME.

Amanda joins the team

The newest member of staff at BIGGA Headquarters is 28 year-old Amanda

Freeman who has joined the Association as Sales and Marketing Assistant.

Amanda, a native of York, arrives at Aldwark Manor from the Yorkshire Evening Press where she worked in the advertising department. Prior to that she was a secretary working for, among others, Rentokil.

"I don't play golf but the nearest I've come to being involved in the game until now is when I worked in a guest house near my family home in Fulford and I used to serve Rodger Davis and Jose Maria Canizares breakfast when they played in the Benson and Hedges International," explains Amanda.

She and her boyfriend Dan, a journalist whom she met while collecting for the Children in Need Appeal two years ago, have just bought a house in York and Amanda is busy designing and doing up old furniture.

"We enjoy camping, walking and mountain biking which I took up when I cycled 12 miles a day to one of my jobs when I couldn't afford the bus fare!"

Amanda joined the Association at the end of August.

As I see it...

BY DEAN CLEAVER
BIGGA CHAIRMAN

My travels this month make Alan Whicker seem like a bit of a home bird! It all started with the Saltex Show at Windsor which was a great success for BIGGA. Not only did we have a large number of membership enquiries but our stand won a prize as well!

Almost as soon as that was over I was hot footing it to Sweden to talk at the Swedish Greenkeepers Association's Conference. I was originally asked to deliver one 50 minute paper but by the time I arrived it had risen to three. They certainly make you work! There was time to relax a little though and I played in the SGA's National Championship as a guest, visited six golf courses and also fitted in some site seeing in Stockholm where I stayed with Tommy Lindelof and his wife Helen.

No sooner was I back than it was off to West Lancashire Golf Club and the inaugural Hayter International Cup. Despite the fact that as Captain I didn't lift the Cup it was a superb event and a lot of lasting friendships were forged between the individual players and the 13 greenkeeper associations which were present. It certainly was a unique occasion.

It also gave us an opportunity to hold the second Federation of European Golf Greenkeeper Associations (FEGGA) meeting and, as Chairman, I can say I'm delighted at the progress that is being made with solid foundations being laid for the future.

From there it was off to Lytham for the Hayter Challenge Final at Fairhaven. I would like to congratulate both John Muir at West Lincs and Peter Simpson at Fairhaven for the magnificent condition of their golf courses. They certainly were worthy venues for two such marvellous events. The Challenge Final, as ever, produced some excellent golf in some extremely trying conditions and the Northern Region deserved its victory.

I would like to pay particular thanks to Tony Bourke and Kim Macfie of Hayters and their excellent team for their sponsorship and hands on assistance in the running of the event.

It really has been one of the busiest months I've had as Chairman but I can say I've enjoyed every minute of it.

Hayter celebrates 50 years in style

A galaxy of the grass machinery industry's well known names and faces gathered recently in the Ironmongers Hall in the Barbican, London, to celebrate Hayter's 50th year. Amongst the guests were the company's founder, Douglas Hayter and his wife Susan, Chairman and C.E.O. of Briggs and Stratton Corporation, Fred Stratton and his wife Anne and Vice Chairman of Hayter's parent company, Tomkins plc, Ian Duncan and his wife Carole. Also joining in the celebrations was local MP, Bowen Wells, and a host of long standing and loyal customers who have supported Hayter since its inception.

Hayter Managing Director, Tony Bourke, commenced the formal proceedings by proposing the loyal toast and was followed by Kim Macfie, Sales and Marketing Director, who toasted the guests and the company's continued success. As the "Star turn", Douglas Hayter, now in his 80s, regaled the assembled dignitaries with an amusing trip down memory lane, recalling his early experiences when starting the company. The opinion of his first bank manager was particularly pointed and his comments went down especially well with the audience. He was right and the bank manager wrong. In the first year, starting with capital of only £250, a profit of £1000 was achieved.

Jeff Randall of The Sunday Times rounded off the evening with insights into the newspaper industry.

The proceedings were much enjoyed by all and marked a fitting tribute to the milestone achieved by a company in the forefront of the industry it serves.

Hayter's Sales and Marketing Director Kim Macfie works for a very understanding company. When he hit the big 50 during Saltex his bosses ensured that, despite his advancing years he should still be encouraged to get out and about.

With that in mind they produced especially for him the very latest in powered zimmer frames which was put on display along with the rest of the Hayter range on the company's stand.

American cousins move forward

BIGGA's sister association in the United States has announced a series of promotions and new appointments.

"Our responsibility as a staff is to provide the highest quality service to GCSAA members and the promotions recognise those individuals who have performed at an exemplary level, while our new team members bring skills that will enhance the services and programmes we provide," said Chief Executive Officer Stephen Mona.

Among those promoted were: Teri Harris, former GCSAA Marketing and Creative Services Manager, elevated to Director of Communications, and Rebecca Spriggs, who has been named Senior Manager of Corporate Marketing and Sales. She is in her second year at GCSAA, having previously served as a Senior Account Manager.

Among those newly appointed were: Jack Schwartz, appointed Director of Development in the Corporate Marketing & Sales/Conference & Show Department. Chris Charlton, hired as Senior Manager of Publications, Marketing and Creative Services. Ed Hiscock, appointed Managing Editor of the association's monthly magazine Golf Course Management. Jeff Bollig, hired as Manager of Media/Public Relations. Hannes Combest, appointed Education Manager and John Verniffe appointed Curriculum Manager.

Hung, drawn and quartered

Alistair Connall, Course Manager at Collingtree Park Golf Club explains the background to the well documented problems experienced in the lead up to and during the recent British Masters.

I think I now know how people felt before being hung, drawn and quartered or being found guilty without a trial.

In over 30 years of greenkeeping I have experienced many highs and lows but never anything as bad as during this year's British Masters.

It has been said in some papers that the greens were vandalised, burned by over application of fertiliser, that the plant was killed by the use of chemical trying to control annual meadow and other means that defy description.

I would like, in this article, to give my view and then let others form their own opinion.

Collingtree is still a fairly new golf course, constructed on a pure sand base and sown out with Penn cross. Unfortunately the predominant grass species in the sward is now annual meadow which seeds almost continually.

During the past 14 months we have been implementing a soil exchange programme in conjunction with overseeding to try and create both a healthier root zone along with a more manageable grass sward.

Until the beginning of August there were no problems with the putting surfaces except for the annual meadow grass continuing to flower.

A highly successful professional Seniors event was held during the last week of June and all the comments were very favourable from the players regarding the conditions of greens, tees, fairways and roughs. From the completion of that event through the month of July cutting heights were slightly raised and a regular maintenance programme of top dressing and feeding, using both granular and liquid materials followed.

The grass plant only started to show some signs of stress in early August and symptoms seemed to indicate leaf spot. An application of fungicide was applied to all the greens.

At this time not all the greens were showing signs of decline, however, within a week, all greens were going the same way.

Temperatures for that ten day period in mid August were extremely high, although the surfaces and the root zone were never allowed to dry out and the sand almost seemed to bake. To try to help the plant grass clippings were never boxed in the build up to the tournament.

A further application of fungicide was applied ten days after the first sign of the problems showing themselves.

By this stage all greens had areas of discoloured patches, brown in colour as if the plant was going further into decline and it seemed a Catch 22 situation. We either kept the height of cut up or continued with the programme that had been successful for the Seniors event with more light top dressing to keep a true surface. We chose the latter.

The previous year for the British Masters the height of cut

'...not all the greens were showing signs of decline, however, within a week all were going the same way'

was slightly higher and the greens were turf ironed for speed. Then the seed heads were a problem and green tended to spike and when it rained that was another worry. This year the decision was taken to go the other way.

The course was closed for one week prior to the tournament and during that time an autumn and winter fertiliser was applied. The Sunday of tournament week all greens were sprayed with a colouring dye.

Used on a trial area this proved quite satisfactory however hindsight proved that the greens may have looked better with the discoloured areas left showing. With the grass plant thin and heavy rain on the first day of the tournament the top dressings which had been used to keep surfaces smooth looked even worse.

Unfortunately it doesn't seem to matter how good the rest of the course is - tees, fairways, roughs etc are never mentioned.

It would appear that the climatic conditions during August ie. very warm weather plus the pure sand root zone and the tight mowing caused the Poa to complete its life cycle. The results were well documented.

Laboratory diagnosis proved that there was no disease present to cause such a rapid deterioration and it would appear to have been a straight physiological problem.

I'm sure that there are people who, either saw the course on television, read about it in the press or in reading this article, have experienced similar conditions with sand constructions perhaps not to the extent of Collingtree. I would certainly look forward to hearing their views.

Finally it is pleasing to know that the grass plant is now recovering perhaps quicker than this writer, but it does prove rightly or wrongly annual meadow grass can survive.

Yorkshire course scoops top UK honours

Rudding Park Golf, on the outskirts of Harrogate, has beaten 300 clubs from around the country to the coveted £5,000 Best Environmentally Designed and Managed Course Award in a competition organised by ground care specialist Amazone.

The £1.5 million 18 hole course, set in the Rudding Park resort's spectacular 18th century grounds, is no stranger to awards. It reached the finals of the same competition last year, but won only the North of England category.

This year entries came in from the four corners of the UK and were of an 'unprecedented standard', say the event's judges, who visited all the short listed courses.

Rudding Park Golf was designed by leading course architect Dr Martin Hawtree, and its four miles of fairways, including flower meadows and woodland, are already recognised as a haven for flora and wildlife.

Environmental information boards detail points of interest, and its meticulously designed woods and lakes now prove as irresistible to many of Britain's native species as they do to hapless golfers.

Managing Director Mark Mackaness said, "Being the best at anything is always a tremendous achievement, and when it involves an area of the business which competes against the challenges of nature, it's all the more rewarding.

"There is so much more work to be done to build on the solid environmental foundations stones we have laid during the first year, and we are eagerly looking forward to putting the prize money to valuable use."

The course is part of a golf complex which also has an 18 bay floodlit driving range and a PGA teaching academy equipped with state of the art video swing analysis.

Rudding Park's 2,000 acres also play host to Rudding House; one of the north's leading conference and banqueting venues which, from next Spring, will include a 50 room four star hotel.

Now's the time to do something about your bald patch

Great looking greens?

90 seconds to a perfect cut with the Rapid Facer

Introduced with great success at SALTEX

The Rapid Facer is a fast, easy to use maintenance tool. Designed to quickly sharpen the front face of bottom blade, it enables mowers to spend more time on the course than in the workshop. In 8 months almost a thousand Rapid Facers have been sold worldwide. Feedback has been excellent.

Magnetically secured to the mower with simple adjustments, running from standard shop air, in just 90 seconds you will have a true front face that follows the blade's original grind angle.

At just £410+vat this great tool should not be missed!

Please call 01788 811600 for more details.
