fungicides in the world cannot replace a poor turf management program.

The equipment you use is also important, especially on a golf course. How fast you can get around and complete a spray application? Pythium strikes, is this fast enough? These are questions you have to answer for yourself. The important thing is to get uniform coverage of the grass. You may have to put in a commercial spreader-sticker or wetting agent to insure wetting of the grass blades and better penetration of the thatch and soil surface.

Table I gives a summary of turfgrass diseases and the fungicides that have been reported by various research workers as giving some degree of control. The success (or possible failure) you have with these fungicides, however, will depend on how well you have put the pieces of the overall turfgrass disease control picture together.
