IMC Has New Manager and Sales Representative

James L. "Bud" Camp, a former Indiana golf course general manager, has been named manager of administration for the lawn and garden department of International Minerals & Chemical Corporation.

Camp will be responsible for sales of the complete departmental product line, which includes plant food for fairway and greens.

He joined IMC last year as sales manager for the company's agricultural chemicals, working out of Plymouth, Ind. Previously, he operated a golf course, which he designed and built, at Wabash, Ind., for three years.

Also joining the department recently was Frank Ross, sales representative, who will work in the Chicago area. He formerly was a lawn and garden plant food salesman for a Chicago-based company for six years.

Both men will work out of IMC's plant at Chicago Heights, Ill. The department was moved there recently from IMC's main headquarters at Skokie, Ill.
