Dear Ray:

Sept. 14, 1974

This is to express our special thanks and gratitude to you and your fellow members for the prime-time in The Bull Sheet devoted to the Testimonial Dinner given for Herb and me.

One quick look at the crusade in the Hall of Memories and we knew we were still deeper indebted to The Midwest Association of Golf Course Superintendents for their encouragement, guidance and affection that made possible whatever we may have contributed to golf.

While everyone seemed to be enjoying the affair, the flagrant (but sweet) testimonial perjury committed in our names must have set a record.

If any of the selected winners of the scholarships heard a tape of proceedings they probably would select a course in Criminal Law instead of Sports Journalism.

However, be it resolved and spread upon the calendars of the past 50 years: that the Graffis brothers have been fortunate, happy and rewarded with their relations with The Midwest Association and hereby duly share with its members the tributes paid them.

With cheers and blessings for your future,

Joe Graffis

MUST HAVE BEEN THE CLUB PRO

The foursome of pretty fair golfers had just finished on a short, 135-yard hole when a ball came over the brow of a slight knoll on which the green was located. It rolled within inches of the cup, and the group raised appreciative eyebrows over what was obviously almost a hole-in-one by one of the duffers in the party following them.

One of the four walked over to the ball, and speaking in hushed tones to his party said, "Let's give this guy a real thrill." The other three nodded in agreement, and the ball was nudged into the cup.

A few seconds later, a man hurried onto the knoll, looked around in a puzzled way, and asked the foursome, "Did any of you guys see where that ball went?"

One of the foursome pointed silently at the cup, grinned, and said, "You put her right in there, Champ."

The man hurried over to the cup, stared at the ball in disbelief, and ran to the edge of the knoll and shouted excitedly:

"Fellas, I did it! I did it! I made it in SIX!"
