

Midwest Breezes

The following is a letter from Joe Canale:
Hi! Well, so far so good. I changed valves on cars and mowers, but never dreamed that I would have a valve job on me. On October 22nd, I had open heart surgery. They cut out my aorta valve and replaced it with a pig valve called a John Wayne valve. I was cut open two times, but am feeling great. I got home October 31. I would like to thank all of the boys that sent me cards.

“Termination”

Fall is falling, Winter's near,
Whoops, there goes another Year.
Winter's coming, December will attest,
Dormancy lays the Course to rest.
Relaxing Holidays bring Family cheer,
Capping the end of another Year.

Also a bit of history took place at this annual meeting. The history being that the MAGCS became incorporated. We never were an official organization in the eyes of the state or the Internal Revenue Service. Since “The Bull Sheet” sells advertising the Board of Directors under the recommendations of accountants and lawyers decided to make this change, which became official November 6th, 1985.

Trivia Question? Who designed the Midwest Logo? Those who attended the annual meeting know the answer, but the rest of you can find the answer somewhere else on this page.
