They're known by the greens they keep.

Lush, beautiful greens and tee boxes are well-known to superintendents who use Ringer Greens Products. With five finely-granulated formulations available, you can match our fertilizer to your needs throughout the seasons. Each formulation releases the precise amount of nitrogen needed to eliminate burning and green-up greens evenly. The remaining nitrogen is reserved for slower release to encourage consistent growth. Try Ringer Greens Products. Your greens will be in good company.

RINGER®

Contact your local distributor or Ringer's Golf & Commercial Turf Division at 9959 Valley View Road, Minneapolis, MN 55344, (612) 941-4180. Ringer offers a complete line of fertilizers for greens, fairways and general turf applications.

The Ohio State University Golf Course Maintenance Short Course

The eighth annual OSU Golf Course Maintenance Short Course will be conducted January 17-21, 1994 at the Holiday Inn on the Lane in Columbus, Ohio. This short course will provide current and valuable information on golf course turfgrass maintenance. Emphasis will be placed on principles of soils and fertility, weed control, entomology, plant pathology, and golf course design for tournaments. The short course is designed for all golf course personnel including golf course employees, foremen, and superintendents seeking a more formalized training in turfgrass maintenance. Attendants will qualify for recertification credits from the Ohio Department of Agriculture for Licensed Pesticide Applicators. Certified Golf Course Superintendents will qualify for continuing education units from the GCSAA.

The registration fee is $350.00. The deadline to register is December 27, 1993, or until 60 applications are received. Lodging facilities are available at the Holiday Inn on the Lane, or other local hotels. For more information, please contact Barbara Bloetscher at (614) 292-7457 for short course content, or the Department of Conferences and Institutes at (614) 292-4230 for course registration.
