Sharpen Your Mind

It has been quite some time since we last drove our spray rigs across the course. The tools we use for setup have been placed on storage shelves and have been collecting dust for some time now. That can mean only one thing; winter is upon us. It is easy to let one's mind wander as focus shifts from the golf course to projects in the shop that have needed attention for some time now. Although the course is taking a well-needed vacation, it is important that we ourselves do not lose our mental edge. One way of refocusing is to attend the MAGCS Annual Superintendents' Winter Workshop. This year's winter workshop will once again be held at the Midwest Golf House in Lemont. The theme will center on career advancement and professional development. This year's organizers have lined up two industry leaders to speak.

In the morning attendees will have the pleasure of hearing Mr. Bruce Williams, CGCS, deliver his talk entitled, "Preparing for the Interview." Williams was born in Evergreen Park, Illinois and spent many hours of his early life on the grounds of the Beverly Country Club. After graduating from Michigan State University, he spent the next twenty-two years at the Bob O'Link Golf Club in Highland Park, Illinois. Twenty of those years were spent as the course superintendent. Currently, Williams is the Director of Grounds at the Los Angeles Country Club, where he has been for twelve seasons. During his career Bruce has trained and coached over 140 men and women who have gone on to become superintendents. Topics covered in his talk will include: how to prepare, methods and tactics, and how to make yourself the most attractive candidate for the job. It will be a great learning experience for everyone in attendance.

The afternoon session will be run by incoming GCSAA President, Mr. Dave Downing, CGCS. Downing is the Vice President of Operations/Construction for the Signature Golf Group, headquartered in Myrtle Beach, South Carolina. He is a graduate of the Penn State Turfgrass Management Program. He spent eleven years as a course superintendent at four clubs, notably the TPC of Connecticut and the Las Vegas Country Club. From 1998 to 2002, Downing acted as Director of Golf Course Operations for Barefoot Resort & Golf, situated in Myrtle Beach. He led the construction of these four world renowned courses, the first 72-hole facility to open all four courses on the same day. This session will focus on how professionals in our field can utilize GCSAA, and its many resources. Not only will you learn where you can access the resources, you will also be shown how you can use them to benefit you and your facility.

This will be a great day for getting that brain back in working order. No matter what your stage of professional development, the day's events will be a great learning experience. So mark your calendars for February 21, for this year's annual MAGCS Winter Workshop. -OC
