(Debbie) Allen

There are other attractive things at Glen Oak Country Club other than flowers.

For the first time in the history of Glen Oak Country Club the grounds crew has become integrated. A girl has been put on the crew. As the picture shows, she has been quite an addition. Debbie is our gardener and takes care of the clubhouse flower beds and grounds. Debbie is going to the University of Illinois majoring in Landscape Architecture. She will be a junior in the fall.

I was at first hesitant at hiring a girl not having ever had one on the crew before. But she has worked out far beyond my expectations. My only regret being that she will only work this summer and maybe next season, then she will move on out into her field of study.

> Fred Opperman, Supt. Glen Oak Country Club Glen Ellyn, Ill.

FROM: Mrs. William R. Smith

Dear Mr. Gerber,

Bill had many good friends among the members of your association, please let them know how much his family has appreciated their sympathy and condolences. We continue to receive cards, letters and calls from those who would have attended the services if they had known in time. We regret it was impossible to call all of them personally in such a short time. We will always remember how much Bill enjoyed his work and that this would not have happened except for the fine men he knew as friends among his customers and other employees at his company.

> Our best wishes for all, Sincerely, Mrs. William R. Smith and family

FROM: George A. Davis, Sr.

William R. (Bill) Smith passed away in his sleep early on the morning of June 25, 1973 after aan illness that began almost a year ago.

Bill was an extremely competant representative of our Company for all the 40 years from Feb. 17, 1928 until his retirement Dec. 31, 1968. We will always remember his smile, his good nature, and his lovalty to his customers and his company. Here was a man who lived by the Golden Rule, who earned and appreciated the respect and friendship of all who knew him. Many of his closest friends were his customers, as indicated by the large number who have conveyed their sympathies to the family.

The monthly checks from Bill's profit sharing fund will now be addressed to his wife Evalyn, and she has assured us that she will be able to manage very well.

Bill has left us with many fond memories, we shall miss him.

George A. Davis, Sr.

The sympathy of the Midwest Golf Course Superintendents Association is extended to Mrs. William Smith and the family at the death of William, who passed away on June 24th, 1973. He will be missed by all of his friends and there are many.

The June 19 meeting of the Midwest Association of Golf Course Superintendents was held at Lake Shore Country Club. Adolph Bertucci was our host. The golf course was in excellent condition, and one hundred forty tried to master par without success. Lake Shore Country Club is very lucky and should be proud of its golf course superintendent. The dinner and hospitality was, as usual, the finest.

Dr. Paul Alexander, former G.C.S.A.A. educational director, dropped in to say goodbye to his many friends who were present at this meeting. Paul left the following day for his new position in South Carolina. We all wish him the best and hate to have him leave us, but that is the way the ball bounces-one person's loss is another one's gain.

Emil Butenschoen, after over forty years with the George A Davis Co., filling the orders and keeping their trucks moving, retired about a year ago. After this period, he decided the rocking chair was not for him. He is now working for Charlie Rack at the Flying Carpet Motor Inn.

On July 1st, a couple of retired golf course superintendents, Frank Dinelli, former superintendent at Northmoor Country Club, and the editor, decided to try their luck at fishing. Where to go was not a problem when one has friends. We no doubt selected a friend who had the best fishing lake, and after two hours of fishing, we decided not to spoil a good thing, and accepted an invitation for lunch that Marilyn had so graciously prepared. We thank her for this. The camera the editor had in his possession was not very dependable, and after trying three times and no picture, the two fishermen put the fish in their cars and headed for home.

The arrangement chairman for the trip to Hawaii, following the G.C.S.A.A. conference in February 1974, reports there are very few who are interested that have sent their required down payment. If you are planning on this trip, please get in touch with Joe Grenko. On July 10th Dr. Al Turgeon from the University of Illinois visited several golf courses in the Chicago area. The Bull Sheet editor traveled with him on this day. We visited some very fine golf courses. Sunset Ridge Country Club, under the watchful eye of Dom Grotti, superintendent, has everything under control even to the point that his wife, Betty, washes the car.

Stopped at North Shore Country Club to visit with Joe Dinelli, superintendent. He was busy on the far end of the golf course, and being our schedule was limited, we missed him, but the course looked magnificent.

Glen View Club was another stop, truly a fine piece of real estate and a fine golf course. Bruce Sering, superintendent and retired superintendent Henry Lange, gave us a tour of the club grounds and a demonstration of Glen View's new automatic watering system. With the exception of the damage done by the cicada to many trees, the golf course was just wonderful.

We also visited the Botanical Gardens at Glencoe, Illinois. A real interesting place and certainly educational.

Oscar Miles, superintendent at Olympia Fields Country Club, reports a hole-in-one on the eighth hole, 155 yards foth a 6 iron. Congratulations, Oscar.

Midwest Golf Course Superintendents Association held their July 16 meeting at Glendale Country Club. Clarence Mueller, superintendent, was our host. Sixty-four played golf and reported the golf course in fine condition. Ninety-four members and guests enjoyed a delicious dinner. Golf Prizes were won by –

Low Gross, Ken Goodman – 70.
Low Gross, Sr. Bernard Kronn – 74.

If we noticed little pleasures, As we notice little pains, If we quite forgot our losses And remerber all our gains If we looked for people's virtues And their faults refused to see, What a happy, cheerful place This world would be! One of our truly beloved and dedicated salesmen, William Smith, known to his many friends as Smitty, passed away on June 24th. He was employed by the George A. Davis Co. for over forty years, and most of these years were spent as a salesman, calling on golf courses. Smitty was more than a salesman; service was one thing he insisted on, and carried it out to the fullest degree. If he could find a place in his stationwagon for your purchase, you could be assurred that it would be delivered regardless of what day of the week. He never was too busy to help a customer with some mechanical problem.

GOLF

"Golf is a form of work made expensive enough for a rich man to enjoy it. It is physical and mental exertion made attractive by the fact that you have to dress for it in a $1,000,000 clubhouse.

Golf is what letter-carrying, ditch digging and carpet-beating would be if those three tasks had to be performed on the same hot afternoon in short pants and colored socks by gouty looking gentlemen who required a different implement for every mood!

Golf is the simplest looking game in the world when you decide to take it up and the toughest looking after you have been at it 10 to 12 years.

It is probably the only known game a man can play as long as a quarter of a century and then discover that it was too deep for him in the first place.

The game is played on carefully selected grass with little white balls and as many clubs as the player can afford. These balls cost from 75 cents to $2.50 and it is possible to support a family of 10 people (all adults) for five months on the money represented by the balls lost by some golfers in a single afternoon.

A golf course has 18 holes, 17 of which are unnecessary and put in to make the game harder. A "hole" is a tin cup in the center of a "green". A "green" is a small parcel of grass costing about $1.98 a blade and usually located between a brook, a couple of apple trees and a lot of "unfinished excavations."

The idea is to get the golf ball from a given point into each of the 18 cups in the fewest strokes and the greatest number of words.

The ball must not be thrown, pushed or carried. It must be propelled by about $200 worth of curious looking implements especially designed to provoke the owner.

Each implement has a specific purpose and ultimately some golfers get to know what that purpose is. They are the exceptions.

After each hole has been completed the golfer counts his strokes. Then he subtracts six and says, "made that in five. That's one above par. Shall we play for 50 cents on the next hole?"

After the final, or eighteenth hole, the golfer adds up his score and stops when he has reached 87. He then has a swim, a pint of gin, sings "Sweet Adeline" with six or eight other liars and calls it the end of a perfect day.

TREE ROOTS A PROBLEM?

Maples and oaks are probably the most desirable yard trees we have. But the roots of these trees often cause problems in the lawn.

Tree roots are living organisms, and they need air for respiration just as much as they need water.

As a tree grows, the feeder roots develop at the depth in the soil where they get the proper ratio of air and water. In the tight clay soils common to this area, roots often form just below the soil surface. As the roots increase in diameter, they may raise above the surface interfering with mowing, and creating a general nuisance.

Where this situation occurs, the temptation is to try some corrective measure so that a nice lawn can be kept beneath the tree.

If you value your trees, think twice before you make any changes.

It takes very little change in the grade to kill a mature oak tree. In fact, even changing the pattern of water run-off can have a bad effect on such a tree.

Many people with smaller trees planted in their yard feel they can cut off roots as they appear without detrimental effect. Immediate response is generally not noticed, but the trees often begin to decline in vigor within a year or so after the surgery.

Trees are alive.

They and their roots exist in a carefully balanced eco-system. Injuring the roots, even just a few, upsets the balance and interferes with the ability of the roots to provide the top with essential nutrients and water.

So think about the welfare of your trees. Their roots are as important to them as your feet and stomach are to you.

THE POTTING SHED by Mary B. Good

So you think you've got a handful.

How would you like to take care of 50,000 plants in a hotel lobby – poor light, low humidity, everybody mauling the merchandise?

If you've been to the Hyatt Regency O'Hare Hotel, you can't help but notice the indoor garden showplace - $70,000 worth of grape ivy trailing expensively over 10 floors of balconies and sky-bridges, and oodles of lush, tropical plants gracing the space.

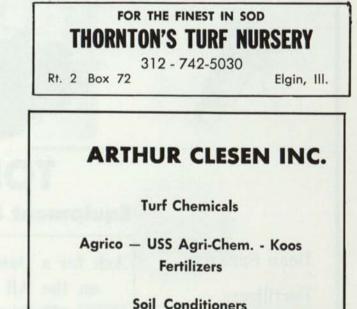

What a bonanza for the firm that got the contract to install all that greenery! Tropical Plant Rentals, Priarie View, just about cleaned out the national grape ivy supply to do the job in May, 1971.

In addition, the Hyatt job carries a $1500 a month maintenance contract and a $350 flowering plant change every three weeks, according to Florist Review magazine. (Mother always told me to go into the florist business, but no, I had to take up the pen instead of the trowel.)

The big job at the Hyatt is not without its problems. It took seven men three days to clean the ivy for Christmas. With automatic plant waterers attached to water hoses, the gardeners were able to water a half floor at a time. Normal maintenance calls for a gardener to work at the hotel two and one half days a week every week.

Romantic but dimly lit restaurants like The Other Place and Hugo's take their toll of the large, specimen plants. Even in the swimming pool, the plants have a hard time hanging on; chlorine gas periodically knocks off the touchy tropicals.

After a look at the problems of professional gardeners, thank your lucky lupine you've only got a few hardy houseplants to coddle.
