Peek- A -Boo!

As I See It
By Jim Walker

Oh my god. Excuse me for a moment while I go and change my shorts. I just watched the Boo Weekly interview which followed the third round of the PGA Championship. They don't spend nearly enough money on "edgecagation" in Milton where Boo was born July 23, 1973.

This man, who turned pro in 1997 and has won over two million dollars in 2007, doesn't know squat about the Ryder Cup, the FedEx Cup, and "ain't no good at math." His player profile indicates he attended Abraham Baldwin Agricultural College, but doesn't say how long he stayed. I'm shocked he went anywhere that has a five syllable word in its title. While he enjoys the PGA Tour, he says it would be "funner" to be back home catchin' 10 pounders with his buddies.

I have always liked Boo's playing skills but have never heard him speak before. Now that I have, I still like him except he says after 10 or 12 years on the Tour, and he has enough money in his bank (Sealy Posturepedic Savings and Loan). He is giving up the grind and plans to sit home and do whatever folks living on the Redneck Riviera do.

Boo, it's not nice to take what you want from golf and not plan on giving anything back to the game that will put you in a Jon boat or duck blind instead of the local chemical plant. I have always liked John Daly as well, who is a good old boy from Arkansas, but Boo makes John seem like a Rhodes Scholar. Hellfire, Jeff Foxworthy could do a 30-minute routine on the Boo'ster without even trying. God love ya' Boo.

Bobby Clampett, who almost drove himself into the looney bin trying to hit the perfect golf shot (Do you remember the book, "The Golf Machine" by Homer Kelly? Bobby took it to heart) says you have one of the ten best swings he has ever seen. You are a helluva player with clearly the right mental attitude for the game. Git 'er done!

Many years ago, I went to Perdenales, Texas to try and sell "The Red Headed Stranger" (Willie Nelson) some orange iron when I worked for Watson Distributing. They had some strange rules at his nine-hole course. A couple that stick in my mind are, "A foursome shall consist of no more than 15 players," and, "The guy with the fastest golf cart always gets the best lie."

I tell this story because I want Boo to know that I like country music and I'm no snob.

Good ol' boy golf is just fine. To each his own. It is the game of a lifetime. But when you have the title "golf professional," there is a small burden of proof to act like a professional.

Arnie's folks taught him table etiquette and, while he did puff cigarettes on TV back in the 50s and 60s when it was still politically correct, I never saw any tobacco juice dribbling down his chin. Tim Finchem must have felt a migraine coming on during Boo's interview.

Now imagine if you will, a Golf Channel reporter is interviewing a golf course superintendent about fertilizers or pesticides. When asked about nitrogen or phosphorus applications he says, with a chaw or pinch of tobacco in his lumpy cheek, "I don't know nuthin bout no BMPs, PPEs, MSDS, OSHA and all that gummint crap! I've been putting out fertilizer every other Monday for dern near 20 years now." Now Steve Mona is the one reaching for the Extra-strength Excedrin.

Of course the difference is that Boo and the pros are the entertainers and performers and superintendents are the technicians. We know — from recent and all-too-frequent media stories about personal train wrecks — that entertainers can self-destruct instantaneously and sometimes say the darndest harebrained things on the air.

Thankfully superintendents tend to be

You'll Never Look at a Golf Course the Same Way Again.

Take El Camaleón Golf Course at the Mayakoba resort on the Riviera Maya just south of Cancun, Mexico. It's totally unique, not just to Mexico but to the entire world of golf. El Camaleón is also a world-class showcase for SeaIsle1 Seashore Paspalum. The tees, greens, fairways and roughs are all getting rave reviews. No wonder the PGA chose El Camaleón for its first-ever tour event in Mexico. If you've got water quality problems or poor soils, you should consider SeaIsle1 even if you've got an inland location. SeaIsle1 can tolerate most types of alternate water sources, including effluent, brackish water and even ocean water for short periods of time with a careful management regimen. SeaIsle1 can also handle multiple stresses like high salt levels, low-light intensity, waterlogging, and both high and low pH levels. When compared to other warm season grasses, SeaIsle1 requires about a third less nitrogen and only minimal pesticide applications. It also withstands prolonged droughts because of its deep root system. Best of all, SeaIsle1 has one of the most attractive, rich, vivid-green colors of any of the warm season grasses. Make a date with a SeaIsle1 grower near you and see for yourself why SeaIsle1 is changing the face of golf, for both superintendents and golfers. just a tad more practical and generally reticent about putting their feet in their mouths. Maybe it's just as well that we don't get more air time than a cameo appearance at the major events. Professionalism may be different things to different people. I might not be able to define it, but I sure know what it when I see it, or when I don't.

Boo left me wanting so much more from a person with such a talent for the game, but one having so little interest in the finer points of the history and opportunities of the profession. Boo certainly isn't one of those bland golf clones. He's more of a golf clown just joking around. Golf just doesn't need him to be the punch line.

It's Not My Job!

GREEN SIDE UP
BY JOEL JACKSON

(Is Anybody Listening?)

Acknowledgement: A tip of the hat to Richard Staughton, president of the Georgia Golf Course Superintendents Association

whose recent President's message in the GGCSA's Through the Green Magazine revived this old chestnut and provided the opening lines and inspiration for this column.

There was an important job to be done and Everybody was asked to do it. However, Everybody was sure Somebody would do it. Anybody could have done it, but Nobody did it.

Somebody got angry about that, because it was Everybody's job. Everybody thought Anybody could do it, but Nobody realized that Everybody wouldn't do it.

It ended up that Everybody blamed Somebody when Nobody did what Anybody could have done.

It seems to me that the above scenario could easily be applied to our world in the area of volunteer participation on our local chapter boards of directors and committees. Also the act of providing data and input on local, state and national surveys dealing with economic and environmental issues that affect how we conduct our golf course maintenance practices. Anybody can fill out the survey, but usually Nobody does. Sometimes 30 percent is a good return. How much more effective would the data be if we had a 70 percent return?

Here is a little quiz to measure who you are in the little story above. Did you participate in the recent FGCSA Golf Course Maintenance Survey? Did you participate in the GCSAA member surveys on fertilizer use, water use and environmental resources? Did you send any comments to EPA regarding methyl bromide, MSMA or Namacur when their cancellation notices were posted? Have you ever attended or volunteered to serve on a Green Advisory Board of your regional water management district? Have you attended a city or county commission meeting held on fertilizer regulation issues? Have you paid or made sure your 2008 dues were renewed on time?

I'm sorry. You may not like it but, in today's world, it is your job. I know they didn't teach advocacy in turf school. Call it one of life's lessons. I call it survival, given today's rush to judgment and regulation of our industry. If we don't speak up as a unified group, who will?

Everybody should, Anybody can but Nobody does except for a precious few.

You manage 100-plus acres in one of the state's many watershed basins, and a goodly portion of them have been declared impaired. Florida's DEP will be assigning Total Maximum Daily Load limits for everybody living and operating in those basins. The more you participate, the better informed you will be about your role and the responsibilities that are tied to your practices. Plus you owe it to your club to make sure they (you) don't get into any hot water over these issues.

So Everybody has a stake in best management practices to minimize any negative impacts and Everybody affects the public perception of golf course operations. Nobody should take shortcuts with environmental stewardship. Anybody can do better and Everybody should.

You are fortunate that in our associations — from national to local — there are people who are willing to deliver positive messages, provide testimony at hearings, engage and educate regulators and lawmakers. It is your job to support them. It is your job to respond to surveys and to provide information that can be used to defend your practices. It is your job to inform your club officials about the issues facing our industry so we build public support.

Today Anybody can become the target of a negative news story. Nobody is exempt. It only takes one phone call from a disgruntled employee or an unfortunate accident. Somebody could be fired and a reputation ruined. Everybody will suffer the consequences.

So to Everybody out there, is Anybody listening?

Turf Type Perennial Ryegrass

Compare test results of proven overseeding grasses and you'll notice similarities. V.I.P. 3 Turf Type Perennial Blend is a combination of quality and performance...and at an amazingly affordable price. Contains #1 ranked varieties. Available in specific overseeding formulations. Varieties chosen for outstanding ease of transitioning, and genetic dark green color. Contains endophytes.

Private and university trials have shown Cypress to be a premier overseeding grass. Cypress Poa trivialis establishes fast and can be cut close immediately, even after overseeding. As your Bermudagrass goes dormant, Cypress will provide the finest dark green putting surface with no interruption in play. Cypress is tolerant to shade and damp soils. This unique prostrate growing variety thrives in cool weather and will survive cold weather that will damage Turf Type Ryegrasses. But most important, Cypress will maintain its dark green color all winter long. As the weather turns hot in the spring, Cypress will die out naturally as your Bermudagrass begins to grow. Cypress will not choke out your Bermudagrass in the spring as some heat tolerant Perennial Ryegrasses do.

Paragon is in a class all of its own. In fact, we are so certain that you will want Paragon in your turf program because of its superior turf qualities, we have taken measures to ensure that once you see Paragon for yourselves that you will be able to readily get seed for this coming fall season. It's that good. Better color, finer texture, improved disease resistance. Paragon - the professionals choice.

TMI has spent years developing StarDust to be more disease resistant and is one of the darkest commercial Poa trivis for better color matches with some of today's darkest green ryegrasses. University overseeding trials in Florida and Arizona have shown StarDust is setting the next standard that other Poa trivis can only hope to achieve!

PIZZAZZ promises to set the standard for the next decade. Its dark green color and dense turf make it an attractive choice for parks, home lawns and golf courses. Clonal selections contained high levels of endophytes, and this synthetic variety is lower growing than many older varieties.
