Lohman starts Illinois project

Lohmann Golf Designs recently began a three-year, three-phase renovation of the 27-hole Schaumburg Golf Club in Crystal Lake, Ill.

Each phase will concentrate on an individual nine holes with the first phase scheduled for this April through August.

Lohmann's plans call for developing new greens and tees, rerouting holes to allow for a new driving range, installing a new irrigation system, and converting fairways to bentgrass.

Company President Bob Lohmann will head the project. "Even though our renovation plans are extensive, we will keep the character of the holes and course intact. When completed in 1992, Schaumburg will be an exciting and challenging public course," he said.

During each phase, Lohmann will concentrate on one nine, leaving the other 18 open for play. Golfers will face little or no renovation inconveniences.

Schaumburg Golf Club, formerly Golden Acres Golf Club, was designed by Langford and Moreau in 1928 and purchased by the Schaumburg Park District in 1989. Lohmann Golf Designs is located in Crystal Lake.

IMPROVED YARDAGE MARKERS PAY BIG DIVIDENDS

What's the single most important golf innovation of the century? Dean Beman, Commissioner of the PGA tour, says that measuring the course—and the concomitant benefit to club selection—has done more to improve the overall quality of tournament play than anything else.

If this is so helpful to tournament players with their yardage notes and helpful caddies, think how useful it will be to provide the rest of the golfers with accurate yardages. This can be done by placing our easily seen yardage markers, flush with the fairway, at ten yard intervals, from 220 to 50 yards from the center of the green. Aligning them down the middle or sides of the fairway eliminates the hunt for yardage tags on sprinkler heads or the stepping off of distances from 150 yard markers. These yardage markers do not violate the USGA Rules of Golf.

Once golfers become accustomed to playing by yardage they learn how far they can hit each club and know better when it is safe to shoot to an occupied green. Women golfers appreciate yardage markers in the zone where they choose irons. All golfers hit more greens. Since this results in faster play, these markers will pay for themselves in a short time because the course will accommodate more foursomes on busy days.

Our yardage markers are made of toughened, high density, polyethylene containing UV inhibitors to preserve color and enhance durability. They sell for $7.50 each, postpaid in U.S.A. Add sales tax in California. Free sample upon request.
