Scovill to get $1.5M facelift

The Decatur (Ill.) Park District is implementing $1.5 million in improvements to its Scovill Golf Course.

This is the result of a master plan developed by Dick Nugent and Associates and a feasibility study by the National Golf Foundation. The development plan calls for new greens and tees, major fairway work, bunkering, mounding, and a complete irrigation system.

Also included is a golf learning center and clubhouse renovation.

The Board of Park Commissioners approved issuance of a $1.1 million general obligation bond to initiate the project. Nugent and Associates has also been retained to provide the actual redevelopment plans and specifications.

The course is scheduled to close during August. Renovations will be completed during 1990 and 1991, with a grand re-opening scheduled for spring 1992.

Hills opens D.C. office

Arthur Hills and Associates has opened an office in Calverton, Md., the third satellite office for the Toledo, Ohio-based architectural firm.

Opening the office is Hills' son, Joseph, who will manage projects in the East and Northeast regions.

A graduate of Notre Dame university, Joseph worked with Keith Foster in the Phoenix, Ariz., office for two years prior to establishing operations in Maryland.
