Dye puts his stamp on 3rd nine at Kohler

Anchored by a golf hole Pete Dye says may be the best he has ever designed, the River Course opened Aug. 1, transforming Blackwolf Run in Kohler, Wis., into two 18-hole championship courses.

The River Course's 9th hole, a short par 4 dubbed "Cathedral Spires," will become a legendary golf hole, according to the club's head pro, Jeffrey Moorman.

It offers a choice of three (high-, middle- and low-road) fairways to the green, and, reportedly, the only clue is that the best choice may be the least obvious.

Until River Course opened, Blackwolf Run played as three nine-hole courses. Golf Digest magazine named Blackwolf Run the Best New Public Course in 1988.

The other 18 holes, now called Meadow Valleys Course, has had two holes renovated.

The River Course's tournament tees play 6,991 yards, is rated 74.9 and has a 151 slope. Its forward set on the four-tee course plays 5,090 yards with a 70.7 rating and 128 slope.

The Sheboygan River comes into play on 14 holes of the River Course, which incorporates the new nine.

"Our fourth nine maintains the tradition of Blackwolf Run's awesome design," said Alice Hubbard, the club's manager. "Strategic play with accurate shot placement is

The Sheboygan River runs alongside the 5th hole at Blackwolf Run's River Course, designed by Pete Dye. The tee on the par 4 5th is elevated on a bluff nearly 50 feet above the fairway and the green 419 yards away. The 5th, named "Made in Heaven," is club pro Jeffrey Moorman's choice as the most scenic of the new nine holes.

the goal, but if you miss, you're still rewarded by the view."

The river runs through the property and separates the two courses, which are the centerpiece of Kohler Village, which is being developed by Herbert V. Kohler Jr. as a business, residential and recreational center.
