100 YARDS LONGEST HOLE

CANCUN, Mexico — One hundred yards is the longest hole on a new executive course that opened Dec. 6 at Melia Cancun, Melia Hotels' flagship property in Mexico.

The 2,500-yard course features 18 par 3 holes — all between 60 and 100 yards long. It is the newest amenity at the $60-million, 448-room resort which opened last February on the Yucatan Peninsula's east coast.

The course will take approximately two hours to play, according to Jacques de Paep, vice president of sales and marketing for Melia Hotels of Mexico, and will be open only to hotel guests of the Melia Cancun and its sister hotel, the nearby Melia Turquesa. Greens fees will be $10.

ANTELOPE HILLS ADDING 18

PRESCOTT, Ariz. — Antelope Hills Golf Course, a municipal facility, will add a second par 72 18 holes.

Play is scheduled in the summer of 1992.

Course architect is Gary Panks. Tim Gray is the head professional.

MCCUMBER DESIGNS MISSISSIPPI COURSE

HATTIESBURG, Miss. — The new 18-hole Timberton Golf Club course is on target for anticipated opening this summer.

Grassing of both nines and the practice range complex is complete.

Timberton is the centerpiece of a 460-acre semi-private country club community near the intersection of U.S. Highways 59 and 11, just south of Hattiesburg.

The Florida firm of Mark McCumber & Associates designed the course hewn from the 4,500 acres comprising Timberton. James Ray Carpenter, honorary president of the PGA of America, is director of golf.

DYE'S KIAWAH COURSE NAMED

KIAWAH ISLAND, S.C. — The Pete Dye-designed course that will host the 1991 Ryder Cup Matches in September has been named The Ocean Course at Kiawah Island. But Joe Walser, senior vice president of Landmark Land Co., which owns and operates all resort amenities at Kiawah, said this is one instance where a course, and not its developers, virtually named itself.

"It was a year-long thinking process," said Walser, explaining how The Ocean Course came to be named. "But when it came time to make a final decision, the natural drama of the site itself won out. Having the ocean right there — where you can see it and hear it throughout an entire round — is something truly unique in golf."

YOUNG SIGNS AT DOUBLE CREEK

Snellville, Ga. — Mike Young Designs of Watkinsville, Ga., has been named golf course architect for Double Creek Country Club here.

Construction will begin in January on the new 18-hole private course in Gwinnet County.

Young's design exploits native rock outcroppings to enhance the beauty and challenge of the 6,950-yard, par 72 course.

In addition to the course and adjoining clubhouse, the private club will feature four guest cottages. Membership will be limited to 250.

Wadsworth Construction voted #1

'Nobody does it better,' say golf course architects in national survey

By Peter Blais

There's a saying that goes something like an army is only as good as its sergeants.

That could also be true of Wadsworth Golf Construction Co., runaway winner of Builder of the Year honors for the second consecutive time in the Golf Course News' annual survey of architects.

Chairman of the Board Brent Wadsworth credits the presidents of the four regional offices for much of the firm's success.

"They all have similar characteristics,"

Wadsworth said. "They get along well with their employees. They build loyalty and trust in their work force. We're fortunate to have four such talented people running the various divisions of our company."

Wadsworth's NCOs are:

- Paul Eldredge, Midwest. A Pekin, Ill., native, Eldredge, 49, first joined Wadsworth when the company built the Country Club of Pekin in 1962. Eldredge worked summers before graduating from Southern Illinois University with an engineering degree. He worked full-time as an irrigation specialist until 1983 when he was promoted to president of the Midwest office. He still consults on irrigation matters nationally.

- Ion Shapland, Southeast. The son of a Champaign, Ill. course owner, Shapland, 43, worked part-time summers before graduating from the University of Illinois and joining the firm full-time in 1970. He organized and became president of the Oldsmar, Fla., office near St. Petersburg that same year. "He re-

Architects: Cypress Point best in U.S.

By Peter Blais

Cypress Point fought off a determined challenge from Pine Valley to retain its title as the best-designed golf course in the United States in Golf Course News' second annual survey of golf course architects and builders.

Cypress Point, Alister Mackenzie's masterpiece along the rugged shore of Northern California's Monterey Peninsula, was listed among the top five courses in the country by 60 percent (27 of 45) of those responding.

Pine Valley, running through the sand barrens in the Philadelphia suburb of Clementon, N.J., was mentioned by 56 percent (25 of 45). The George Crump/H.S. Colt collaboration moved past Donald Ross-designed Pinehurst No. 2 (N.C.), last year's runner-up.

Rounding out the top five were Pinehurst, Pebble Beach (Calif.) and Augusta National (Ga.), each listed by 33 percent (15 of 45).

"Cypress Point and Pine Valley are what we are returning to as architects," said Gregory Martin, director of golf course design with Ives/Ryan Group, Inc. of Downers Grove, Ill.

"We don't adhere to the designs of a lot of courses built the past few years. We should build maintainable courses that allow us to be stewards of the land rather than artists that use land to paint with. Both Cypress Point and Pine Valley are good examples of that philosophy," Martin said.

While many mentioned Cypress Point and Pine Valley among their top five, others were avid fans of one or the other. Their choices seem to reflect the current 'playability' versus 'challenging design' debate.

"Cypress Point is pleasurable excitement," said Kansas City, Mo., architect Craig Schreiner. "Pine Valley is treachery at every turn. Pleasure is what golf is all about, more than challenge."

"Cypress breaks all the rules — back-to-we're doing, 36 holes (Newport Coast) at Newport Beach, then Two Rivers Club at Governor's Landing in Williamsburg (Va.), one east of Charlotte on 17 miles of lakefront property (Unharrie Point on Lake Badin), 36 holes in Wrightsville Beach, N.C., (Porter's Neck Golf Course), and the Disney course next door to Pete Dye's (in Orlando, Fla.)," he said.

"All are going to be as good as those we've just done."

"It used to be a Golf Club in Tennessee (which will open this spring in Nashville), or a Caves Valley (under construction in Baltimore), came along once every five years. Not that the other ones were bad but they were either just real-estate development or there wasn't as much total priority given to golf itself... Now there's such a keen golf interest that it's just tremendous."

Fazio rated 1990 a "10" on a scale of 1 to 10. "And I can say it's a 10 because the courses are done. The courses for 1991 should be a 10, but we're still working on those. We've got to work just as hard. A 10 doesn't automatically happen."

"It's like with Shadow Creek (which opened last year in Las Vegas). When I was doing that I wouldn't have said it was a 10. The concept is for a 10, the program, the commitment, but I can't tell you how good it's going to be until it's done... In 1991 these are all 10s in terms of planning."

"The ones that are further along, like Treetops... I can almost guarantee that people will put it as one of the best I've ever done. The one at Williamsburg is in the clearing and development stages; and though it's the desire of everyone to build a 10, you have to work at it. We're at about a 7 now in the mid-part of construction. We're in the shaping and contouring and we're going to bring that up to a 10."

Besides Shadow Creek, Fazio last year opened Emerald Dunes in West Palm Beach,

One of Rees Jones' gems for 1990 is The Peninsula Club in Charlotte, N.C. This view shows the 155-yard par 3 — a peninsula hole "that has all kinds of angles, so wherever they put the marker, it's going to be a different hole every day," Jones said. "It's a gorgeous hole."

Fla., Stonebridge Country Club in Aurora, Ill., St. Ives Country Club in Duluth, Ga., and Hunter's Green in Tampa Fla.

His newest creation is Champion Hills in Hendersonville, where he will live and be part owner.

"We sodded the whole course," he said. "It's a Wade Hampton type of site, only more dramatic in a lot of different ways — maybe less dramatic in some."

He said of The Golf Club of Tennessee, which will open in the spring: "No question, some people are going to think it's the best golf course we've ever done. It's so tremendous. It's a golf club — no housing, no development. We had 1,300 acres to work with and could put it anywhere. We had a stream running through it."

"The course looks like it's been there for 100 years. We sodded the fairways with Zoysia. With the natural trees, the creeks, the streams, the rock walls — you can't help but like it."

The Newport Coast course is on the ocean and "is going to be extremely dramatic and very sensational," he said.

Yet creating a masterpiece, Fazio said, "is no big deal. That's what we're getting paid for... More importantly, that's what they expect. We have to perform."

"And, of course, the golfers go out there and their expectation is so high... If you've gone to Shadow Creek or the Vintage or one of the others and then you came to one of our new courses and it didn't measure up, you'd say, 'What happened here, guys? Did you have to cut back? Didn't you work as hard?'"

Fazio said the pressure never eases.

"After 28 years of doing it, the pressure just keeps building and building. But it's fun. It's not difficult. We've got such tremendous clients with such tremendous interest in golf that it's great for the game," he said.

Fazio said he can't help criticism that he only does expensive or high-end courses.

He saw Troon North, a resort course in Scottsdale, Ariz., open to extraordinary reviews. Touring pros gave it high marks after playing a Shootout there.

Harbor Club in Greensboro, Ga., will open this spring.

Morrish has five others under construction including Loch Lomond in Scotland, Double Eagle in Columbus, Ohio, Bloody Point at Daufuskie Island, S.C., Northwood in Dallas, and Country Club of St. Albans in St. Albans, Mo.

Morrish and Weiskopf were the first Americans ever selected to design a course in Scotland.

"We're getting better and better," Morrish said. "Contractors understand what we want to do more and more. Clients who want something special are coming to us more and more."

Morrish, who worked with the Fazios, Desmond Muirhead and Jack Nicklaus before opening his own firm in 1983, said: "People knew me through yesteryear with Tom (Fazio) and Jack (Nicklaus). But they did not know what I could do by myself. Now we have established our credibility."

Morrish and Weiskopf have taken that credibility to some special sites — from Scotland to back par 5s, back-to-back par 3s. I love that."

Countered Tom Johnson, an architect with Denis Griffiths & Associates of Braselton, Ga.: "Cypress Point may have the grandeur and beauty. But as far as layout and design go, you can't beat Pine Valley."

"It doesn't compromise. The design of many of today's courses are dictated by other things than golf, like real estate or the age of the players. There's none of that at Pine Valley. It was designed as a true test of golf that you have to think your way around...Crump couldn't have done a better job with the terrain he was given."

Pinehurst's slip to No. 3 may be the result of the course's age, according to Johnson.

"I'm from North Carolina and I love Pinehurst," he said. "But it's a short course designed in a different era. If they hold another PGA Tour event there, some players could have rounds of 10, 12 or 15 under."

Pebble Beach (designed by Jack Neville and Douglas S. Grant) along with Augusta National (Alister Mackenzie and Robert Tyre "Bobby" Jones, Jr.) are returnees from last year's Top 5 list.

Other courses mentioned by at least 10 percent of the architects include Shinnecock Hills GC (William F. Davis, William S. Flynn and Howard Toomey) in Southampton, N.Y.; Seminole GC (Ross) in North Palm Beach, Fla.; Merion GC (Hugh Wilson) in Ardmore, Pa.; and Harbour Town Golf Links (Pete and Alice Dye, Jack Nicklaus) on Hilton Head Island, S.C.

Ohio. Bad weather has held back construction at Loch Lomond, but they hope it will be finished next summer.

Being the first Americans, Morrish and Weiskopf have been "looked at through a microscope," Morrish said. "But the British press and players are very impressed with the course so far. The Scottish brought golf course design to America. Now we've taken Scottish work back to Scotland. The course is very traditional. It's got the Winged Foot, Merion and Augusta National feeling to it."

Morrish and Weiskopf have been looked at through a microscope' in Scotland.

He said the Loch Lomond site has a "beautiful change of terrain ... and huge, huge trees. It will be something special."

Yet, he said the Double Eagle course in Columbus "may be our standardbearer. It's a knockout."

Developed by John McConnell, owner of Weddington Industries, the course will have just 50 members and no housing other than clubhouse.

"It has a lot of the feeling of (Alister) Mackenzie or (George C. Jr.) Thomas or (Donald) Ross or (A.W.) Tillinghast. It will look like it's been there forever and ever when we're finished. They have all but four greens built and have irrigation in on eight holes and it will definitely be finished next spring."

Double Eagle's rolling terrain is half covered with woods and half with meadows, and winds around several big lakes.

"It does everything a golf course should do. We have a nice mix of reachable par 5s, one unreachable par 5, a couple of driveable par 4s, the 3s go in all different directions and vary in length. We have a nice change of direction, nice change of terrain, nice change of pace. We have water holes, open holes and wooded holes. It just feels nice," Morrish said. "In my mind, it will be at least as good as Shadow Glen."

He said they have "great expectations" for Harbor Club, which sits along Lake Oconee.
