Mulligan nine looks to add through subtraction

SLATERVILLE, Utah — There no longer is a 10th hole at Mulligan's Golf Course just north of Ogden, but the current nine-hole setup has length comparable to the previous yardage.

Two new holes, a par 4 and par 5, supplanted two short holes, and two par 3s became one dogleg par 4.

Jimmy Blair, Mulligan's owner/developer/professional, said land logistics meant the course had to be either ten or eight holes.

A new Mulligan's practice facility has opened in West Jordan, and the Mulligan's layout will expand to 18 holes within two years.

With a playing partner's grudging consent, it's still possible to get a "mulligan" off the first tee.
