FREAM GETS CALIF. PROJECT

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. — Golfplan-Ron Fream Design Group is designing an 18-hole public golf course in this town in agriculturally endowed San Joaquin Valley. River Ranch will be a par-72, ranging from 4,650 to 6,650 yards, winding through a residential subdivision. Extensive earth-moving will contour the golf holes and raise adjacent building sites to enhance homesite views.

COORE-CRENSHAW IN ARIZONA

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. — Bill Coore and Ben Crenshaw broke ground in July on a 36-hole daily-fee facility here for the Pima Maricopa Indian tribe. Called Talking Stick Golf Club, it will be operated by Troon North Golf Management. Coore said the north course will be low-profile with crowned-off greens and holes of "great latitude where you can pick angles off the tee." Walking will be encouraged on the south course, which will feature the "club look," he said, "greener, more elevation change, more trees and a couple of streams and lakes."

PELICAN BAY ENLARGING GREENS

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. — Golfers will experience larger greens and more consistent putting surfaces now that a $260,000 greens improvement project has been completed at Pelican Bay Country Club's Members Course here is completed later this year. All greens at the 18-hole course were reconfigured and enlarged, and most bunkers and sandtraps changed, according to Jerry Broome, regional manager for International Golf Management, which oversaw the project.

Maine busting out of slumber

By MARK LESLIE

BANGOR, Maine — Maine golf course construction, in hibernation for six years, has emerged with a bang, counting 17 new projects or expansions in the last year and another eight in planning.

Not since suburban Portland's Falmouth Country Club and The Woodlands opened in 1988 and nearby Sable Oaks Golf Club opened in 1989 has anyone built an 18-hole golf course in Maine. But this summer, construction began on The Meadows in Litchfield, Belgrade Lakes Golf Club, Felts Brook Country Club in Holden and Dunegrass Country Club in Old Orchard Beach which is expanding from nine to 27 holes.

"This is like the shopping center developments back in the '80s. Everybody seems to want to build a golf course," said Chuck Kellogg, a project director for the Maine Department of Environmental Protection.

The surge has carried over from 1995 when construction began on several new nine-hole facilities and additions from nine to 18 holes. In this short time second nines have been added at:

- Bridgton Highlands late last year.
- Point Sebago in Naples this summer.
- Bath Country Club last year.

Belgrade Lakes is Clark's first American canvas

By MARK LESLIE

BELGRADE LAKES, Maine — Two score and two hundred years ago, Maine — as part of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts — declared independence from England. This summer it reopened relations, welcoming British golf architect Clive Clark to build his first course in America.

The property is marvelous. The stakes are high.

"We hope this will be a catalyst [for economic growth]," said co-managing partner John Alford, grandson of Belgrade Lakes Golf Club, Inc. (BLGC) partner Harold Alford. "Central Maine needs a boost and this is it."

"This will mark the resurgence of Belgrade Lakes as a resort," agreed co-managing partner Kyle Evans. Evans, former superintendent of Waterville Country Club and now president of BLGC, was referring to the position the Belgrade Lakes Region held among wealthy vacationers until a 1958 fire destroyed the area's cornerstone hotel, The Belgrade, and its nine-hole golf course.

The 240-acre golf course property sits on very high, wooded ground overlooking Belgrade and Messalonskee lakes and Long and Great ponds. Seven holes, a putting Clive Clark. It's not a household name in the United States, but the Brit hopes to change that, starting with Belgrade Lakes Golf Club in Maine (see accompanying story). After copping four National Amateur Championships, Clark was a touring professional for 12 years, representing both the Walker and Ryder Cup Teams, winning the Danish Open Championship and five European titles. For 10 years he was the playing pro at Sunningdale Golf Club and was head pro there for another nine years. He has either played in or broadcast the British Open Championship for 31 straight years, the last 18 from the BBC-TV booth. He studied architecture at London University. He moved to La Quinta, Calif., 18 months ago.

Maine. You're bringing golf back to an resort area that had it 90 years ago. What is your philosophy of golf course design — the traditional or modern?

Clive Clark: I wouldn't say I'm extreme at either end of the spectrum. My philosophy is simple. I like to design a course with different holes, for a

Colleagues hail Bunker Hill

By MARK LESLIE

PHOENIX, Ariz. — Bill Coore of Coore & Crenshaw calls Dan Proctor and Dave Axland "fantastic." Golf course architect Ron Forse says they are "great to work with, and care intensely about the quality and authenticity of their work."

Sand Hills Golf Club owner Dick Youngscap was so impressed by their work that he cited them in his brochure on the Mullen, Neb., track which was voted Golf Digest's Best New Private Golf Course in 1995.

Coore, Forse, Youngscap... Even with these endorsements, who in the world are Dan Proctor and Dave Axland? Is the Dave and Dan Show — officially called Bunker Hill Golf Course Design and Construction Co. — the best-kept secret in the golf industry?

"I'm probably shooting myself in the foot telling how great these guys are," said Coore, "because if they start getting their own [design and construction] work, we won't be able to get them."

Proctor and Axland's work should speak for itself, said Coore, the consummate "minimalist" designer. He cited Delaware Springs Golf Course, a municipal course they designed and built for the city of Burnet, Texas. "It is so good — low-key, strategic, an incredible
