NTEP funding

less frustrated at how turfgrass research is viewed in Washington. Pointing to an increase of $200,000 in research funding for the USDA, he said: "So, the problem was not that there was no money to support our research.

"We've been able to state our case well. They know we're here now. But obviously we have some educational work to do. There needs to be follow-up, telling them our industry is important, too. Not that we need more funding overall, but we should get a proportionate share of it."
