GCSAA tourney

(course rating 72.1, slope 130)
The 6,634-yard, par-70 Ocean South course features tumbling fairways dotted with stands of pines and acres of California scrub. A few of the hole names suggest what you face here: "Sudden Drop," "Sidewinder," "Canyon," "On the Rocks."

— Oak Creek Golf Club (host superintendent, Ken Coffman/ course rating 71.9, slope 127). The third Tom Fazio design in this year's tourney, Oak Creek is a 6,834-yard, par-71 course with soft, smooth sloping and subtle elevation changes set amidst towering eucalyptus trees and mountain ranges. Flatter than the Pelican Hill courses — and about 10 miles inland — Oak Creek offers generous fairways, challenging bunkers and greens complexes that put a premium on good second (or maybe third) shots.

— Tustin Ranch Golf Club (host superintendent Steve Plummer/ course rating 72.4, slope 129). Recently named the best-maintained public course in Orange County by the Orange County Register, Tustin Ranch is par-72, 6,736-yard Ted Robinson design with plentiful wildlife including bluebirds, coyotes, mallard ducks and Egyptian geese. Not a lot of nerve-shattering shots required here, but there is an island-style par-3.

responded: "I got reaffirmation from the club members that yes they have concerns, but yes I have their blessing to do whatever it takes to get the job done. That's nice, but at the same time, the guys are paying your salary and you've got to serve them first... And then when you get home it's tough to balance between work and home.

"I wouldn't do it [be on the GCSAA board] unless I enjoyed it. It's fantastic. I like being there with a finger on the pulse."
