Walters strikes gold in St. Louis golf market

Management firm content to stay put — for now

By PETER BLAIS

Dennis Walters is bullish on the St. Louis marketplace. "Twelve years ago it was probably on the endangered species list, according to the National Golf Foundation," said Walters, president of St. Louis-based Walters Golf Management. "Since then we've opened a number of new facilities. It's become a very competitive market."

Walters entered the golf business in 1962 when his father bought Bogey Hills Golf & Country Club, a Wayne Clark-designed layout in St. Charles, Mo. The course had laid dormant for 25 years. Walters, who was in high school at the time, did some redesign work with his dad (an optometrist), and the course re-opened as a nine-hole layout later that year. Bogey Hills expanded to 18 holes a decade later and went private in 1980. Walters became the club pro.

In the early 1980s, Walters decided to follow in his father's entrepreneurial footsteps and developed Whitmoor Country Club, a private, 36-hole, Karl Litten design in St. Charles that opened in 1988. That was followed by:

- Missouri Bluffs Golf Club, an 18-hole Tom Fazio layout in St. Charles that opened in 1995 and Golf Digest later ranked the No. 1 public golf course in the state.
- The Links at Dardenne, an 18-hole public course in O'Fallon, and Gateway National Golf Links, an 18-hole Keith Foster design with bentgrass fairways in Madison, Ill., both came on line in 1998.

- The Golf Club of Wentzville (Mo.), an 18-hole public facility

Kemper signs on at former naval base

NORTHBROOK, Ill.—The Village of Glenview, Ill., selected Kemper Sports Management to build and operate a daily-fee facility at the former Glenview Naval Air Station, a 1,121-acre former military base being converted to a mixed-use development.

Glenview village trustees approved the sale of approximately 180 acres of land at the air base to Kemper Sports for use in building a course and clubhouse that will include a golf museum, restaurant and banquet facilities.

Kemper Sports' vision for the planned $20 million project is to create a world-class course and practice facility. As part of its bid, Kemper Sports formed an alliance with the Illinois Section of the PGA (IPGA) enabling the IPGA to move its headquarters to the Glenview site. Upon opening, the new facility will also house the Illinois Golf Hall of Fame, an interactive museum celebrating the history of golf in Illinois and those who have made contributions to the game.

Plans are to start construction this fall and open the course by spring 2001.

In other news, Kemper, in association with a group of local investors, has purchased Shady Lawn Golf Course in Beecher. Kemper will manage the property. Shady Lawn, located 40 minutes from downtown Chicago, is a 27-hole, public facility consisting of three, par-36, nine-hole courses.
