PARKS EXPLAINS VALUE OF LEWIS BAG-RACK

Watertown, Wis.—Lewis Parks, sales manager of G. B. Lewis Co., advises why he believes the Lewis tee bag-rack should experience an increased sale this season, as the item becomes better known. He says:

"As golf is a very orderly game, why should golf courses tolerate the laying of bags of sticks on the ground for someone to trip over, or allow them to be leaned against the tee benches that have been provided for the rest and comfort of the players?"

"Did you ever get all set to drive and have a bag of sticks slip off the bench with a crash and rattle to the ground? And, is there anything more annoying than to soil one's clean shirt by coming in contact with muddy club heads? Is anything more annoying than having to stand up due to the thoughtlessness of players who lay their clubs against or on the benches?"

SO FAR AS we know, Willis W. Case, Jr., green-chairman of the Cherry Hills club, Denver, Colo., is the first man to tell of the problems and ambitions of the green-chairman in a radio broadcast. Ross Parsons of the Denver Post, interviewed Case in a radio program over KOA.

Parsons brought out Case's extensive experience as green-chairman of two clubs and his world-wide playing acquaintance with golf courses and referred to Cherry Hills being considered one of the country's 12 best clubs.

Case told of the land and construction requirements of a golf course, bringing out many interesting details of course building and seeding in a way to astonish many players who take course maintenance and construction as casual affairs.

The Cherry Hills official briefly spoke of the amount of equipment necessary to keep this course in perfect shape and by drawing a comparison between the care and expense required by small lawn and 180 acres of superbly groomed golf course got across to the radio listeners that golf course maintenance is a vast and serious business.
