

This is the Presidential CC (formerly Sandy Burr CC) at Wayland, Mass. Here the annual New England Lefthanders' championship is held and Manager Dick Kane and Professional Jimmy Shephers, Jr., provide the southpaw hackers with a royal welcome and splendid golf facilities.

golf tournaments as well as otherwise planning entertainment and interesting matches, dances, etc., we have held the interest and everyone is highly pleased.

Financially, the club has benefited by payment of back dues, increase in membership dues by reason of more members, and transfer fees. This income has saved us from bankruptcy and embarrassment.

I went into the plan without knowing, of course, just how it would work out, but thought it best to take the chance than to let the sheriff take us over. It was, of course, carefully planned and thought out in advance, but there were so many unknown quantities that, after all, it was a "noble experiment." I have no patent on the plan and if anyone wants to use it "more power" and success to them.

JOHN ANDERSON DIES

Noted Amateur Player Was an Active Factor in Golf Business

JOHN G. ANDERSON, head of the wholesale golf dept. of John Wanamaker, died at the residence of his father-in-law, Dr. L. H. Mann at Columbus, O., June 15. He was 48 at the time of death which resulted from kidney disease. Shortly after the first of the year he suffered a nervous breakdown. Funeral services were held at Crestwood (N. Y.) M. E. Church.

Surviving Mr. Anderson are his widow, a daughter, Betty, and a son, John Mann Anderson.

Mr. Anderson, who was born at Clinton, Mass., graduated from Amherst in 1905 and received a Master of Arts degree from Columbia University in 1915. In 1915 he became associated with John Wanamaker as sports adviser and held that position until his death. He was one of the most widely known men in golf, in both the playing and business departments of the game.

During his golf playing career which began when he won the Massachusetts amateur championship in 1907, he won 53 titles in sectional and national play, won 600 prizes, made 7 aces and held 11 course amateur records. Twice he reached the final of the National Amateur, losing to Jerry Travers in 1913 and to Bob Gardner in 1915. In 1924 he won the French Amateur championship by defeating Cyril Tolley. He won this title again in 1926.

In 19 of the Lesley Cup matches Mr. Anderson played as a Metropolitan district representative against the Pennsylvania and Massachusetts teams. In 1919 he was made chairman of the Milrose A. A. and in 1927 became the president of that organization. In these capacities he had much to do with the promotion of track athletics in the east. He also was president of the Westchester County G. A. and was Westchester amateur champion four times.

Mr. Anderson was a frequent writer for American and foreign golf publications. He was a member of the Winged Foot G. C.

One of his unsatisfied ambitions was to win a father-and-son golf tournament with his 11-year-old son.
