Use Pencil Erasure to Block Knife Switch Contacts

WIRES ARE often quite difficult or unhandy to safely disconnect from small knife switches, and it is frequently necessary and expedient to block one or both circuits when out of use during the winter. To prevent an accidental or ignorant closing of the switch, a neat little method is shown above.

Force a common lead pencil eraser tip over one or both of the blade clips; the blade then cannot be readily dropped or even forced into contact. The tips fit the clips snugly and place a safe amount of insulating rubber over them.
