FLASHES FROM THE FIRING LINE

Michigan and Border Cities G. Cse. Supts.

Most of the 'boys' here in Michigan are resting up—the aftermath of hard and long hours in preparing for the national greens convention in February. Herb Shave, the Oakland Hills veteran, passed up his usual Southern jaunt this winter, preferring duty before pleasure. Clarence Wolfrom, president, recently met with a very painful accident when struck by a crank while trying to start a club truck. Seven stitches had to be taken.

Many members have just returned from the Michigan State College two-day short course, where everything was conducted in fine style by Dr. James Tyson. While in East Lansing, a new green built by Ward Cornwell at Walnut Hills was inspected. Labor will be a problem in our section this year—most of the younger fellows being employed in factories. A good golf year certainly seems to be in the offing—everybody is working, and all munny courses hereabouts have raised rates by about 25c. David C. Kennedy, Secy.

Minnesota Greenkeepers

apolis was re-elected president. Joe's aggressive leadership is what the boys from the Golden Gopher state like. Cliff Anderson, who keeps the Elmwood Park Club, Sioux Falls, So. Dak., spic and span, was drafted for the vice-presidency.

Vic Larson, the sage of the Minneapolis GC, will again stand guard over the money bag as treasurer. The association reports said bag is the fullest ever. Some wag from out of town suggested the gang get a little more of that dough together and buy a bus so the Twin City bunch can come out and visit the out-of-towners more often. Stan Graves of Hillcrest, St. Paul, was re-elected secretary. He reported the membership on a steady increase.

Any greenkeeper desirous of joining the ass'n must apply for regular membership—that is, take the exam for the GSA. Six of these exams are now being given to new applicants by the Minn. district examining board. August Hillmer of the Interlaken CC of Fairmont, Minn., is making his first start at the greenkeeping profession, so was voted in temporarily as an associate member.

Honorary members elected for 1941 were Dr. C. O. Rost, Dr. A. A. Granovsky and Prof. A. H. Larson of the Uni-

A QUESTION COMMONLY ASKED US

"As Super Mineralite has a metallic mercury content of but 10.1%, to what do you attribute its remarkable effectiveness?"

HERE IS OUR ANSWER

The formula of

is a delicately-balanced blending of a great many rare, little-understood elements together with several well-known elements—plus a 10.1% metallic mercury content. The blending of this formula required approximately 10 years of research and experimentation, and the only secrecy regarding the Super Mineralite formula is the exactness of this blending. It was determined through extensive, nationwide experiments that the Mineralite formula required but a 10.1% mercury content to control brownpatch. Even in the most severe, active attacks, the maximum application required for control proved to be no more than 4 ounces per 1,000 square feet. (In most cases 2 or 3 ounces are sufficient).

And so we say, the remarkable effectiveness of Super Mineralite on brownpatch, as well as disturbed or unbalanced nutritional conditions that encourage brownpatch attack, is not due alone to either the Mineralite formula or the very low and economical mercury content—but to an exactingly-balanced combination of the two.

Anyone anywhere interested in the maintenance of fine turf may obtain complete information on any question regarding Super Mineralite by writing, DON YOUNG, 68th and INDIAN LANE, KANSAS CITY, MO.
